

Romance Starts in Factory; Young Westinghouse to Wed

Fashionable London is deeply interested in the romance of Evelyn Violet Brocklebank and young George Westinghouse, which will terminate in their marriage December 19. Miss Brocklebank, who is a daughter of a wealthy English Baronet, met young Westinghouse in a Pittsburgh factory, which she was inspecting. The young man was learning the business and was assigned to escort the party through the mill. She thought him an ordinary workman.

"Girls Get Married," Is the Advice of Well Known Novelist

New York, Dec. 12.—Amelia Barr, who wrote several novels that brought her fame, declares that no woman has a right to a career until she has had children. She should know, for she had fifteen children before she turned her attention to literature.

She is nearing her eightieth year and has just published her fifty-ninth novel. Here are some of her views on women and other things.

"The matinee girl has no future unless some good man makes her fall in love with him and makes her marry him. The home girl is the only one that is worth while, and the girl who doesn't marry if she gets the right chance is a fool.

"And by the right chance I don't mean money and automobiles and the chance to be idle. A salary of $1,500, $1,200 or even $1,000 a year is enough and more than enough for any young pair to live happily on.

CLUB NOTES

An interesting meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Paul Comstock, at her home on South Fourteenth street. Mrs. Jennie Yaryan read the principal paper for the afternoon. She told in part of the women of the South and also of the part they took in the Revolutionary war. An account of the work done by the various chapters over the state was also an interesting feature.

"A girl has no business to go traipsing off to an office or a store unless it is a matter of sheer bread and butter. She has no business trying to carve out a so-called career for herself. A woman has no right to a 'career' until she has married and has had children and gone through suffering and sorrow.

"I never wrote a line until after I was 55 years of age and had married and reared fifteen children. I am prouder of them than I am of my books.

"Therefore I say to the girl who dreams of a career, 'Marry; learn your lesson before you try to teach it.' And let no girl set herself up as too precious a jewel of genius to marry what it may please her to consider a commonplace man. It is not that he is brilliant and ambitious, that his whole thought is of achievement and success and fame that fits a man to bring happiness into a girl's life."

Mrs. George Dougan also read a paper. The remaining time was spent in the telling of anecdotes of the Revolutionary times, by the members. Mrs. Joseph Weller will entertain the club the second Saturday in January.

The program for the meeting of the Trifolium Literary society, Monday evening, December fourteenth is: Scotland Universities and Schools. . . . Miss Clara Basse Edinburg Miss Sarah Swain Glasgow Mr. Henry Bentlage

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Johnson were host and hostess for a meeting of the Saturday evening card club at their home on East Main street. An elegant dinner was served preceding the game. Whist was played at five tables. The club meets every two weeks.

The Esther Fay card club will not meet again until after the holidays.

Society folk of this city are looking forward with keen anticipation to the ball which will be given by the Flower Mission of this city, December thirtieth.

The Home Economic Study club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Augustus Scott, of North Tenth street.

CRANBERRY HINTS.

The Least Understood and Oftenest Abused Domestic Fruit.

The cranberry is the least understood and the most abused of any of our domestic fruits. Comparatively few know how to prepare it in palatable form. The expression is common, "You need a barrel of sugar for a barrel of cranberries." This is not true. It is not a sugar consumer compared with most fruits.

If users will make the test they will discover that more sauce with less sugar proportionately can be made from a quart of cranberries than from a quart of any other kind of berry and if properly made will be tempting and toothsome. A barrel of sugar will sweeten more than three barrels of cranberries. A cranberry shortcake will compare favorably with a strawberry shortcake. Eaten raw, they are a laxative and liver tonic, and, like the olive, one can cultivate a fondness for them.

Cranberries are keepers, like the apple, and, like apples, require a cool, dry place. It is economy to buy good berries. Never cook in tin or iron ware. Use porcelain, earthenware or granite. Do not cover with cold water and allow to simmer, steep and stew over slow fire. This makes tough skins, pale, sickly pink or dark, dull red color and gives acid flavor. Use boiling water, cook rapidly and not long.

For a good sauce, to one quart of clean cranberries add one pint granulated sugar, one pint of boiling water. Place immediately over brisk fire, stirring enough to mix sugar with water and coat berries. Cover as soon as berries begin to swell and pop. Stand by and mash until every berry is broken. Keep them boiling during this operation. By the time berries are all mashed or have boiled fifteen minutes remove from stove and turn into china or earthen ware dish. When cold the result should be a beautiful pink red, jelly-like sauce.

Protests Against the Removal

Horticultural Society Says it Has Rights to Room in Court House Recently Given to G. A. R. Veterans.

Very courteously, but nevertheless equally as emphatically, the Wayne County Horticultural society, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, informed the county commissioners it does not care to remove from its present location. The society has had rooms in the court house for some time and the commissioners had decided to place the room at the disposal of Sol Meredith Post, G. A. R. It had been intended to provide accommodations for the society on another floor of the building. To support their contention that they had a right to the room, the members of the society referred the commissioners to the records of one of their meetings fifteen years ago. The secretary's minutes showed the room now occupied had been specified at the one set apart for the society.

The horticulturalists do not object to permitting the post to meet in the room, however. The Post meets weekly and at night. The society meets but once a month and then in the day time. There would be no conflict from this source. However, the historical society, which has a small room set apart for its use, that is adjacent to the one occupied by the horticultural society, objected to moving. The conflict that has arisen is altogether friendly, but has placed the county commissioners in a quandary.

The Post would prefer a room that would be exclusively for its own use and that of the affiliated organizations. The commissioners met with the horticultural society yesterday afternoon to discuss the matter. A formal request that the room be vacated was presented. The society seems to have a prior claim on the room and this fact may permit it to remain there. The Post is anxious to have the room and prefers it to any other in the building. The veterans claim the other organization could afford to use another room without any inconvenience, but the society holds a different view of the matter.

Glass Toys.

Glass toys are the latest for babies. They are intended to replace the dear old painted articles that baby would put into his mouth and consequently run serious danger of lead poisoning. But to the onlooker it would seem as though death by glass were little preferable to death from paint and that baby is quite as likely to endanger his life through breakage of his toy as he is by sucking it.

Broadly this is true, but the babies of the rich are likely to be protected in this doubtful fashion, for the toys made of glass are by no means inexpensive. The healthy youngsters of ordinary families will have to thrive upon wood and paint, as did their forbears.

Chocolate Creams.

Boil for five minutes half a cupful of cream and two cupfuls of granulated sugar. Set dish in another dish of cold water and stir until the cream is hard enough to make into balls. Flavor first with vanilla. Melt chocolate and dip balls into it.

She—If a man loves his wife as much as she loves him, he will stop wasting his money on dainties if she asks him. He—Yes, but if his wife loves him as much as she ought to love a man who loves her enough to stop it if she asks him, she won't ask him.—London Opinion.

The Dorcas society derived its name from Dorcas (Acts ix, 36), a woman who was full of good deeds and made coats and garments for the poor.
