KING EDWARD BACK IN LONDON

Social Engagements Resumed
By Him.

Brighton, England, Dec. 14.—King Edward returned to London today to resume his social engagements. The King seems to have recovered entirely.

Schools For English.
We hear that the "Amurrican" accent is mostly an imaginary product, but what about the English patois? A charming acquaintance threw light on a much discussed question when she said of a man who is not numbered among the native born, "He speaks much better English than his wife, but, of course, he has been in Australia longer."—Melbourne Australasian.

MARY ELLIOT:
Gold Medal Flour is the best for making everything.

The English Salesman's Woe.
The English salesman at the glove counter of the department store was a model of industry, politeness, skill. "You see," he said to a floorwalker, "it is such a pleasure, after the life of the London shops, to work in a republic, to work where you are treated like a man."
"In my London shop I was treated like a thief. The doorman, every time I went in or out, felt me all over with their hands. If they struck a big lump, such as two handkerchiefs, on me, their faces would lighten, and I'd have to bring the lump out for inspection. These doormen even had the right to make you strip. They used the right often if they disliked you, and in embarrassment you revealed to their cruel eyes your torn, cheap underwear, and so forth."
"If you bought a new suit, you were an object of suspicion, and the house detective shadowed you. If you took a girl to the theater or a music hall, you'd find a house detective at your elbow, and for a month afterward you'd be stripped and searched every day or so."
"All this, mind you, for about $6 a week!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PETTIS REID GETS PLACE

Vice-President of Indiana
Democratic Club.

Pettis Reid, of this city, president of the Jefferson club of the Sixth district has been notified he has been selected as a vice president of the Indiana Federation of Democratic clubs.
Wide Awake.
"But, look here," said the indignant antiquary. "In my article on early Grecian sculpture I distinctly mentioned Phidias. Why has his name been deleted?"
The editor smiled quietly. "When," he said, "you find old man Phidias getting his work advertised in this paper under 5 shillings a line you come right around and let me know."—Bangkok Times.

Kodol For Indigestion.

CARRYING RIFLES

Friends of Men Arrested in Reelfoot Rider Cases
Await Trials.

ORDER VS. LAWLESSNESS

Union City, Tenn., Dec. 14.—Clad in rough homespun, with ragged trousers tucked deep into cowskin boots, with straggling beards and huge slouch hats but always with the inevitable long-barreled rifle or big pistol, in plain view, denizens of the Reelfoot district assembled here for the opening scene of the night rider trials.

They are the friends and relatives of the men who are held under military guard over at the barracks. They ignore the townspeople, or glance at them with scowls. Silently and singly they wander through the streets or stand for hours outside the barracks, gazing curiously up at the windows of the room above in which their friends are held.

They feel keenly this trouble, do these rough, but simply grown-up children of the Tennessee backwoods. They believe that they are being persecuted. The issue is clearly drawn. There is no misunderstanding. Both sides are face to face ready for the struggle, neither asking or granting quarter. It is a finished fight between organized lawlessness and the forces of order.

SPIRITED FROM BROWN COUNTY LOG JAIL

Mob Violence Against Assaulter Feared.

Columbus, Ind., Dec. 14.—Because of threats of mob violence and the unsafe conditions of the log jail of Nashville, County Sheriff Roberts has spirited Redie Shepherd to the Johnson county jail.

Shepherd was arrested at Newman, Ill., Friday, on a charge of committing criminal assault on his sister-in-law, the fourteen-year-old daughter of James Mallott, of Brown county. Shepherd is married and has one child.

EARLHAM TRULY A "MATCH FACTORY"

Thirty-four Student Marriages
Past Summer.

During the past summer there were thirty-four marriages between former Earlham students. Among the students in the colleges throughout the state, Earlham is commonly spoken of as "The Match Factory" or "The Matrimonial Bureau." Matchmaking is a favorite pastime at the Quaker institution.

M'GAHAN AND SCOBELLEFF.

The Newspaper Man's Picture of the Great Russian General.

McGahan was the correspondent who first described to Europe the Bulgarian atrocities. What a brilliant creature he was, with his steel blue eyes, his face as delicately chiseled as though it were of marble! His lithe light frame and that suggestion of absolute courage, iron resolve, underneath the almost feminine thinness of the features. He was one of the intimates of Scobeleff—indeed, the mer were so attached to each other that Scobeleff nearly always insisted that McGahan should share his tent with him, and McGahan was in the tent of Scobeleff the night after the disastrous assault on Plevna. Scobeleff was, said McGahan, a wonderful picture of the horrors and terrors of war. His face was black with powder, his uniform was in rags, and his sword was twisted like a corkscrew. It is evident from this description that Scobeleff took part with his own hand in some of the work of the day. There was a sequel, by the way, to this picture. I am not quite sure whether McGahan published it, but he told it to me. Scobeleff was always a dandy. Even in leading a charge he was dressed with dandified precision. In the middle of the night McGahan was woken up, and he saw Scobeleff dressing himself with great care, putting on a new uniform and even perfuming his hair and clothes. And then came another transformation. Scobeleff, his elaborate toilet finished, sat down on his bed and burst into a shower of tears and a tempest of sobs, thinking over all his poor men who had been so vainly sacrificed in the attempt to gain the fortress.—London M. A. P.

XMAS FEAST DAY NOT A FAST DAY

Christmas, although it comes on Friday, is to be a feast and not a fast day.

A special dispensation has for centuries been in force in the Roman Catholic Church, whereby Catholics are allowed to eat meat on Christmas when it falls on Friday. But New Year's Day will be a fast day.

The day before Christmas is always a fast day, unless it falls on Monday. In such cases the fast is observed the preceding Saturday.

FOUND WIFE IN ANOTHER'S EMBRACE

Illinois Man Murdered Both
According to Plan.

Roodhouse, Ill., Dec. 14.—Roodhouse and Greene county are in a frenzy of excitement over a double murder here Saturday night. William Barnhart, employee of the Chicago and Alton railroad, shot and killed his wife in Mrs. Emma Tracy's boarding house.

Half an hour later he went to the Hotel Roodhouse, and, after cautioning a group of men there to get out of range, sent one bullet through the heart and another just below the heart of Carl Clapp, manager of a grain elevator here.

Barnhart charged that Clapp and his wife had been too friendly.

Barnhart admitted his crime, and said he had carefully planned it. "I went to my home at 8 o'clock Saturday night and found it locked," he said. "I broke the outer door and then found the bedroom locked, broke it open and found my wife in Clapp's embrace."
