

Miss Ethel Was Real Incensed When Seminary Girls Rode By

Report of President's Action in Rebuking Naughty School Girls Said to Have Been Confirmed.

Chicago, Ill., December 19.—Confirmation of the incident in which President Roosevelt is said to have become incensed at four young women, who passed him while riding horseback near Washington, is given by several young women of the National Park Seminary, who arrived here on their way home to spend the holidays.

The girls, despite the fact they had been warned they would be disciplined for talking about the affair, not only said the president had scolded the four young girls who had galloped past him, slapping the horse of one in his anger, but they declared Miss Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of the President, took a part in the affair, severely rebuking the girls for riding the Roosevelt party too hard. Mrs.

Roosevelt, they said, finally caused her daughter to stop.

One of the girls, who kept her name secret, for fear of punishment, told how the four girls rode past the Roosevelt party. She added: "And then the man they had passed rode up beside them and struck Miss Rhodes's horse with his riding crop. 'You shouldn't have passed me,' the man cried, and then she saw it was President Roosevelt."

She did not know what to say or do, and the President kept scolding her and the girl who was with him, whom they recognized as Ethel Roosevelt, was more vociferous than her father. "You had no business to pass us," she said. "You should have kept back," and she would have said more if Mrs. Roosevelt had not silenced her."

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Rhodius Case Will Once More Claim Publicity.

WILL BE ON MONDAY

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 19.—The suit to annul the marriage of George Rhodius and Elma Dare Dodsworth Rhodius, will be tried in the Hancock circuit court, beginning Monday. The suit was brought in Marion county by the guardian of George Rhodius and was later venued to Hancock county. The case has many sensational features that have attracted state-wide attention. The fact that Rhodius has several hundred thousand dollars has considerable to do with the interest in the case, while the allegations in the complaint are of an unusually sensational nature. It is alleged that the defendant Elma Dare Rhodius, then an adventuress, kidnapped the plaintiff, carried him off to Louisville, Kentucky, and then went through with a sham marriage ceremony. Some prominent attorneys are retained in the case, which will be a hard fought one from start to finish. The trial will attract many of the curious as spectators.

REPORTS WERE NOT EXAGGERATED.

As Many People of Richmond Are Testifying.

The Root Juice instructors made many lasting friends while in Richmond. Their wonderful remedy has done worlds of good at this point, and reports of cures are being circulated from every direction. A. G. Luken's drug store is more busy than ever wrapping up Root Juice, and listening to the many flattering reports of the great good it is doing.

Mrs. Sarah Collins said: "I used to bloat so at times I could hardly get my breath, sour gases would form in my stomach and dull heavy headaches were at times so bad I felt I would go crazy; my tongue coated and I always had a bad taste in my mouth. My hands and feet were cold at times and at other times they would burn like fire, but, thank my good stars, after hearing so much about Root Juice, I went to the drug store and bought a bottle of it and after using the first bottle I went back and bought two more bottles. I have used it all and don't think I will need any more as I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

Root Juice seems to be good for any trouble of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or blood. It is sold for $1 a bottle, 3 for $2.50, at A. G. Luken & Co's drug store.

VOLCANOES.

They Are Not Burning Mountains as We Understand That Term.

"What are volcanoes?" Nine out of every ten persons would immediately have an answer of some sort to the question above, for have they not a lively remembrance of having learned in their schoolbooks that "a volcano is a burning mountain, from the summit of which are sent out smoke and flames?" This popular fancy has been exploded by scientists, whose work is to explode popular fancies.

In the first place, volcanoes are not necessarily mountains. In reality they are just as frequent at the sides or even at the base. The so-called "smoke" is nothing more or less than the clouds of condensing steam which are formed on every occasion when an eruption occurs.

Lastly, the "flames," so called, are merely the reflection of the mass of molten rock and material inside the crater on the clouds of steam above, thus appearing as a glowing light. The friction, too, set up by the motion of the materials causes electricity, and hence the lightning discharges which add to the illuminating effect.—Pearson's Magazine.

Foley's Orino Laxative cures chronic constipation and stimulates the liver. Orino regulates the bowels so they will act naturally and you do not have to take purgatives continuously. A. G. Luken & Co.

Not Amphibious.

After a scorching day's work old Ben Smith lighted his cornucopia pipe and sat down on the little wharf to rest. Near him lay an alligator, the visible result of his labors. A tourist from the north approached and loftily remarked, "Ah, I see you have an alligator."

"No answer."

"It is amphibious, is it not?"

The tone nettled the old man.

"Amphibious h—!" he growled. "He'd bite yer arm off before yer could say Jake Robinson!"—Everybody's Magazine.

MRS. McRANEY'S EXPERIENCE

Mrs. M. McRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes: "I was confined to my bed for three months with kidney and bladder trouble, and was treated by two physicians but failed to get relief. No human tongue can tell how I suffered, and I had given up hope of ever getting well until I began taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. After taking two bottles I felt like a new person, and feel it my duty to tell suffering women what Foley's Kidney Remedy did for me." A. G. Luken & Co.

Farm and Garden

FOR FARMERS' WIVES.

What They Need is an Occasional Change of Scene.

A bright woman correspondent of Country Gentleman writes as follows: "Once in awhile most farmers' wives, I think, get tired of their everyday duties and occupations—out of tune with their work and surroundings. The best medicine for such a complaint is change. They should go to the home of some city cousin, of which most of us have a few, and compare conditions. The first thing we notice is lack of room, which is a painful want to those of us who have been brought up in the big country. What comprises a home in a large city can often be contained almost on one floor of a country house and the tiny doorway covered with a good sized tablecloth. Everything, too, costs so much—even the air, we get so little, and we sigh in vain for the cooling breezes that are nearly always to be found somewhere on our farm home.

AT A BARGAIN SALE.

City women, however, have a good many advantages that their country friends miss. They have more time for rest, recreation and reading. Their homes, being small, are more easily cared for. The men of the household are usually away through the day. Fruit, vegetables and groceries are brought to the door, and it is always possible to find some one to do the work. The chances to shop and attend bargain sales are right at hand. There are also theaters, lectures, concerts and in the summer numberless little excursions that are not expensive and make a delightful change. When we visit the city we enjoy these privileges very much. If we go in the summer, however, we hardly get home before our visit is returned. Our city friends think it costs country people scarcely anything to have company—they raise so much of their food, and they have plenty of room anyway. So if we go for one week they return us two or three, if not more. They always get the best of us, we can be certain of that, and how they enjoy the drives, fruit, milk and outdoor life—even better than we do the city pleasures, which tire us even while they entertain, so that we are glad to go home, glad to return to the simple life and take up our old work. We all have, I believe, some city friends whom we visit seldom and whose coming we look forward to with dread. Their children are unruly, and they don't wish them to be corrected. They keep our houses and lawns untidy with their hats, wraps and papers, while in their own homes they are extremely particular and don't want to have a thing out of place.

There are others who feel superior to us. They view the farmer and his family with pity, almost with contempt. They think farm life is so solitary, farm earnings so small! Yet they like to partake of the farmers' hospitality even while they try to excite envy and discontent, and I think they really like to have us visit them, mostly, though, for the purpose of showing us their luxuries and advantages which we do not possess. Such acquaintances should never be invited to repeat the first visit. We should speed the parting guest and discourage them from coming again.

Partello Stock Company.

In the repertoire of the Partello Stock company, which plays at the Gennett theater an entire week beginning Monday, are many new plays which have never been witnessed by a Richmond audience. The Partello Stock company made a hit with theater goers of the city when it appeared here a few weeks ago and it is expected that, even this success will be eclipsed by the popular favor gained during the next week. The opening bill of the company will be "A Daughter of the People." Matinees will be given daily, beginning Tuesday afternoon.

"The Devil."

Mr. Henry W. Savage's production of "The Devil," the sensational successful comedy by Franz Molnar, undoubtedly has been the most widely discussed play of the season. Also it has been the most widely copied. Managerial pirates everywhere have been stealing parts of it and presenting versions which compare with Mr. Savage's production of "The Devil" as the Whang? twang? bang? of a ragtime pianist compares with a Paderewski concert. Julius Herzka, the friend and collaborator of Herr Molnar, who staged "The Devil" in Vienna, came to this country for the express purpose of directing Mr. Savage's production and we have Herzka's word for it that "The Devil" to be presented here is an exact replica of the original.

WILL USE SNAKE

Elwood Man Hits Upon a Unique Plan.

Elwood, Ind., December 19.—Charles, the eleven-year-old son of Weldon Luse, while on his way to school, found a blacksnake that had crawled into the roadway. The boy's father was called and he took the snake home wrapped it in rags and straw and placed it in a barrel which was sunk in the ground inside the barn. The snake is four feet three inches long. Mr. Luse will attempt to domesticate it in order to rid his barn of rats, as blacksnakes are known as enemies of rats and mice. Blacksnakes are not poisonous.
