SHE NEEDS HER PENSION NOW

Widow Asks Restoration of Income.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—Having voluntarily relinquished a pension of eight dollars a month nearly ten years ago for no other reason than because she did not feel she could conscientiously say that she needed government aid, Mrs. Elizabeth Whitney, of Romeo, Michigan, more than seventy years old is now asking to be restored to the pension rolls. Charles M. Yates, a special pension examiner is investigating the case.

Mrs. Whitney's husband, a civil war veteran, died in 1882, leaving his widow with several small children to support. Friends and neighbors contributed funds to pay a mortgage on her cottage home and in the early nineties the widow was granted a pension of $8 a month. In December, 1900, she stopped cashing the pension vouchers despite the advice and explanations of friends and her name was dropped from the rolls. Her sons had grown up and were then in a position to contribute liberally to the maintenance of their mother's home, while now they have families of their own.

In the Conservatory.

"How are things going tonight?" whispered the inquisitive rubber plant. "Oh, very lively," said the palm. "By actual count I have heard over seventy-five proposals."

"But how many men are here?" cried the rubber plant.

"About twenty-five."

"Poor little debutantes!" said the rose, blushing hotly. — Cincinnati Enquirer

In some parts of China if a man fails to pay his debts his creditors carry away one of his doors, thus permitting evil spirits to enter.

Find Fortune While Punching a Rabbit Out of Its Hole

Oil City, Pa., Dec. 19.—Edward Woods and Thomas Dickinson, lumbermen, employed at Reed's sawmill, at Oleopolis, twelve miles east of here, took a day off to hunt rabbits, and as a result are nearly $4,000 wealthier. Incidentally, scores of men are searching the hillsides near Oleopolis, hoping to duplicate the golden treasure discovered by Woods and Dickinson, about two miles from Oleopolis.

Old time residents believe the money was buried by John Cardwell, an eccentric farmer who died in an insane asylum nearly thirty years ago.

Cardwell, who was a widower, sold his farm for $10,000 during the early oil development. He withdrew the money from a bank at Plummer, then a flourishing oil town. Aged residents recall being shown the money by Cardwell, but never knew how he disposed of it before becoming insane.

The men carried the kettle with its gold coins to the camp and exhibited it to their fellow workmen. Work was instantly suspended, the lumbermen together with drillers and pumpers from nearby oil leases rushing to the spot indicated by Woods and Dickinson, about two miles from Oleopolis.

The two men were on the track of a rabbit which entered a hole. While they were digging with the ends of their guns they discovered an iron kettle filled with bright gold coins. Woods and Dickinson hastily lifted the kettle and found it contained $3,600 in gold and $22 in silver.

The men carried the kettle with its

CHICAGO SCHOOL FOR CONSUMPTIVE PUPILS

To Develop Children Physically and Mentally.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Two schools, one for consumptive and the other for abnormai school children of Chicago, are being planned by President Schneider of the board of education.

It is the idea of President Schneider that the old Gage farm near Riverdale, which is the property of the city, can be utilized as a site for the buildings. It is a 240 acre tract and will give plenty of opportunity to the consumptive children to obtain fresh air and exercise.

The pupils at these two institutions, of course, would not be allowed to mingle, he declared. "If we have a school for consumptive children, we can take that class of pupils out of our other public schools and afford them surroundings that will tend to restore them to health. If they are kept out of school because of their physical condition we can give them a chance at the institution I have in mind to develop both physically and mentally. If the state and county will finance this undertaking and the city furnish the site, the board of education will furnish the teachers. We will need some state legislation, however, before the plan can be carried out."

PRIVATE POLICEMEN TO RID CITY OF CRIME

Three Thousand "Vigilants"
Proposed in Paris.

Paris, Dec. 19.—M. Clemenceau is considering a proposal to establish a new body of semi-private police, to be called the "Vigiles Parisiennes."

By this project the men would take the same oath as the rest of the force and would be under the control of the prefecture, but would be paid by an annual subscription from the inhabitants of the quarters they patrolled.

They would be given a special uniform and thoroughly well armed by the prefecture, and their duty would be to watch over the security of the houses on their beat, as well as to give their aid when required by the public.

The craft project suggests the enrollment of 3,000 of these "vigilants," one-third of whom would be on bicycles. The principal difficulty the scheme may have to encounter will be as to whether the subscription is to be voluntary or in the nature of a small tax.

FIGHTS WIFE'S FATHER; RESIGNS PULPIT

Charges Made Result in En- counter.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 19.—The Rev. Wythe Leigh Kinsolving, rector of Epiphany Episcopal church, Barton Heights, a suburb of Richmond, and brother of Bishop George H. Kinsolving, of the Episcopal diocese of Texas, resigned his charge following a fist fight with his father-in-law, the Rev. Dr. R. H. Pitt, editor-in-chief of the Religious Herald, a Baptist publication.

The encounter occurred in the home of Dr. Pitt, and Kinsolving was charged to the effect that Kinsolving was suffering from a nervous disorder.

Kinsolving married Miss Annie Laurie Pitt two years ago. He will leave with his wife, for the far South, presumably to some charge in the diocese of his brother in Texas.

appeal to the well-informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. Vaudeville all week.

"The Devil."

In order to be absolutely accurate in every detail of the production of Franz Molnar's comedy, "The Devil," Henry W. Savage, who holds the sole authorized version of the piece, engaged the services of a general stage director of Herr Julius Herzka, director-general of the Volks theater, Vienna. Herr Herzka is a personal friend of many years standing of the author, and also made the translation of the play from the original Hungarian into the German. It was at Herr Herzka's theater in Vienna that the first presentation of "The Devil" was made, outside of the author's own Hungary. The play deals with an evil that is known to society generally, the main character being personified by a figure that suggests rather than actually resembles what we are led by tradition to believe to be that sordid person, "The Devil." This symbolic character is the predominating and predominant figure throughout a brilliant comedy that holds its audiences breathless until the final curtain. The play will be presented here at the Gennett theater soon. Henry E. Dixey will be seen in the leading role, with all the elaborate detail that marked the production of the Molnar comedy at the Garden theater, New York.

"Montana."

For four continuous seasons of over forty weeks each is the proud record of "Montana" which comes to the Gennett on December 30, matinee and night. This season we are told the company is composed of most of the original New York cast where the play had run for over two hundred nights. The scenery is said to be all new and up-to-date, while the electrical effects are promised to be of an extraordinary scale. What was one of the most realistic scenes of the play last season was the flying leap made by Mr. Adams on the back of a maddened horse. The wonderful and exciting knife duel in the last act will be most vividly recalled. As a play of dramatic worth "Montana" has been classed as one of the really great dramatic treats of the past few years. Fred S. Adams is seen in the leading role of Jim Graham, while the charming and beautiful emotional actress Miss Frances Hooper is seen in the role of Flo Harper.

Beware False Devils!

TO THE PUBLIC:

Following the enormous success of Mr. Henry W. Savage's New York production of the sensationally successful comedy, "THE DEVIL," a number of piratical theatrical managers appropriated the title of the piece and rushed on tour cheap imitations of this splendid play. Their effrontery is so great that occasionally they have used Mr. Savage's name in luring the public to their counterfeit performances. This is to notify playgoers that Mr. Savage's company will appear here at the Gennett Theatre for one matinee and one night performance, New Year's Day, and also to inform the public that upon this occasion "THE DEVIL" will be shown exactly as it was originally presented by Mr. Savage in New York, where it proved the dramatic sensation of the season.

Mail orders for "The Devil's" engagement will be accepted now and filed in the order of their receipt.

Mr. Savage's authorized version of "THE DEVIL" adapted by Mr. Oliver Herford from the Hungarian of Herr Franz Molnar, is not a racey play, as it has been misrepresented by the men who are presenting imitations; but a highly moral production—especially interesting in these days of divorces—teaching with effective illustration the ancient commandment:

THOU SHALT NOT COVET THY NEIGHBOR'S WIFE.

maddened horse. The wonderful and exciting knife duel in the last act will be most vividly recalled. As a play of dramatic worth "Montana" has been classed as one of the really great dramatic treats of the past few years. Fred S. Adams is seen in the leading role of Jim Graham, while the charming and beautiful emotional actress Miss Frances Hooper is seen in the role of Flo Harper.

Partello Stock Company.

Probably the largest crowd that has assembled at the Gennett theater this season is expected to be present when the Partello Stock company, a Richmond favorite, opens a week's engagement here Monday night, the initial bill being "A Daughter of the People." The Partello Stock company during its former engagement in this city presented "The Devil" scoring one of the biggest successes ever scored by a repertory company playing in this city. Strong bills have been arranged for the entire week. Daily matinees will be given beginning Tuesday.

popular prices prevailing except Friday, when the usual night prices will be charged.

The New Phillips.

Manager Murray announces that there will be no vaudeville at the New Phillips until Thursday of this week, when an excellent bill will be put on.
