LOCAL POST OFFICE BUSY PLACE

LIKE TO BE MAILMAN?

Carriers Carried Two Mail Sacks in Today's Delivery.

EACH WEIGHED 80 POUNDS

That the Christmas mail has come as a deluge on the city, was apparent to those who saw the carriers leave the postoffice this morning, each with two sacks of mail, one on each shoulder. In some instances the sacks weighed 80 to 90 pounds each. This fact was determined by some of the carriers who weighed their loads. The saying, "How would you like to be the mail man," is appropriate. Like the ice man's job, that of Uncle Sam's mail distributor, is not the object of envy to the average citizen. In every department of the postoffice the same haste and over work is in evidence from the postmaster down to the janitor.

Postmaster J. A. Spekenhier, who has general supervision of the work, stated today that the result of the business this year in comparison with that of last year for the corresponding time would show a large increase, estimated at twenty-five per cent.

O. K. Karns who is located at the Pennsylvania depot, stated to Postmaster J. A. Spekenhier yesterday that he "simply could not keep up with the work and that it was the largest day he ever had in his experience in the postal service." He had more than 700 registered letters and packages.

TO SANTA CLAUS?

Probable That Most of His Local Mail Will Not Reach Its Destination.

TO DEAD LETTER OFFICE.

Postmaster J. A. Spekenhier has not received word from Postmaster-General Von L. Meyer, as to whether he will be permitted to give the Santa Claus letters to charitable associations or whether they will be turned over to the dead letter department.

The quantity of such mail continues to increase and at present it is believed that there is a couple of bushels of Santa Claus letters, representing in the neighborhood of four or five thousand and appeals to "Old Chris-Kingle."

It is believed by the postmaster that he will receive a letter from the postmaster general in a few days. Notices have been received by other postmasters that all Santa Claus mail which has a fictitious address on it shall be forwarded to the "Dead Letter Office," and it is probable that such will be the disposal of the local mail for Santa Claus.

Last year this mail was given some of the charitable organizations and many little hearts were made glad upon receipt of the present asked for. The expense to which these societies had gone to was immaterial in comparison with the pleasure derived. The Palladium was instrumental in starting this fund.

MANY XMAS CARDS

Estimated That Yesterday, Fifteen Thousand Were Distributed.

500 DROPPED PER HOUR.

The registry business at the postoffice is very large, probably the largest in the history of the office. Postmaster Spekenhier stated that the puzzle was beginning to realize that more efficient service could be had by registering the letters for it inspired prompt delivery to the addressee.

Postal cards containing Christmas greetings make up the bulk of the mail. This morning 15,000 such cards were distributed by the carriers. Yesterday afternoon the clerical department estimated the number of cards thrown in the mail slot at the office and the number collected from the boxes, to be an average of 500 an hour. This shows that the Richmond public has learned the use of the postal card as a means of sending Christmas greetings.

The clerical force is working overtime, in fact all routine schedules have been discontinued for the time being. Among the carriers, however, a strict watch is being kept to see that they do not work more than eight hours, because of a postal ruling to this effect.
