A beautifully appointed Christmas dinner was given at the Odessa last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Tuttle in honor of their daughter, Miss Margaret Frances Tuttle. The dance was attended by a number of the young people who are home for the holidays and their visitors. Miss Tuttle looked charming in a lovely pink empire messaline gown, trimmed with rose point lace. Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle were assisted in entertaining the young people by Mr. and Mrs. George Ross Van Voorhees, Miss Elizabeth Chapman and Clyde Matson. The dance hall was transformed into a Christmas bower of flowers and greenery. Bouquets of poinsettias were used for the wall pockets and flower urns and garlanded around the hall were ropes of green and red bells. Among the guests for the dance were Miss Dorothy Dill of Richmond, Ind., with Miss Dorothy Lewis; Miss Lydia

With the near approach of the New Year, ways and means must be provided whereby one may be able to keep track of the fast fleeting days. For this purpose calendars have been made.

In purchasing them one should use judgment and good taste, as they are to be one's companion for 365 successive days. Besides, the making of beautiful calendars has been a fine art, and many of them are worth preserving.

As it is becoming more customary to exchange small remembrances on New Year's, a happy suggestion is to offer a calendar. The assortment in the various shops is quite large and varied, and runs from the small brass desk calendars to the large, really decorative wall adornments.

A pretty sample of art is found in one oblong cardboard decorated with a landscape in water color, with a small calendar attached to one corner. The beauty of this one is that the art is really worth preserving, and can, after the expiration of the year, be framed.

The Penny club desires that all persons contributing donations, such as clothing, food and clothes for charitable purposes, to bring the same to the Pythian Temple, Tuesday afternoon, or not later than Wednesday morning. The members of the club are busy arranging for the Christmas dinner to be served to the poor children of the city, Wednesday, December 30.

An entertainment will be given this evening by the Sunday school of the St. Paul's Episcopal church. The members will make donations for the poor at this time.

The Sunday school of the East Main Street Friends church will give its Christmas entertainment this evening at the church. A cantata entitled the "Spirit of Christmas" will be presented at this time.

Mrs. R. E. Haughton is hostess for a meeting of the Mary F. Thomas W. C. T. U. this afternoon at her home on South Tenth street.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. J. M. Ridenour, at her home on Kinsey street. All members are urged to be present as the meeting will be a very important one.

Mr. Walter Steinkamp's dancing class will meet Thursday evening of this week instead of Friday as is the usual custom. The dance programs will be given out at nine o'clock. All are invited to attend.

NEW HOMICIDE RECORD IS ESTABLISHED IN KENTUCKY

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 28.—Up to Sunday afternoon, 14 persons have been killed in Kentucky since Christmas Day morning in fights or cold-blooded murders. The tabulation is as follows:

Fight between striking miners and United States Marshals at Stearns. Six men killed—two officers and four miners.

At Hopkinsville, Frederick Daugherty killed James Hearn during dispute. Lynching is feared in this instance.

At Sturgis, in Western Kentucky, Zack Price and Thomas Williams, brothers-in-law, quarreled over a trivial matter and fought a duel, killing each other. In the same section Emanuel Gavin killed William Boyd.

At Grayson in a three-cornered duel between Town Marshal Frank Prather and Grant and Stephen Stamper, Prather killed Grant and fatally wounded Stephen.

At Mt. Zion, James Leary went home intoxicated and his sister, Mrs. Leta Detton, upbraided him. He killed his sister and then committed suicide.

At Nicholasville Saturday in a fight between an insane man, whose name could not be learned, and officers, the insane man was killed and two of the officers shot.

At Hopkinsville five negroes were shot and fatally wounded during a general fight last night.

In Bath county, Henry Jackson fatally shot his father, Thomas Jackson, when the latter remonstrated with him for drunkenness.

In Fleming County, Lee Hinton fatally wounded Charles Gilmore.

Breathitt county has not yet been heard from.

er a discussion which will be continued as long as it is possible to postpone final action.

This measure accentuates the differences that exist in the senate between the conservatives and the radicals, although a number of senators who favor the bill ordinarily would be classed with the older group and not aligned with the radicals.

When the postal savings bank bill first came up for consideration Mr. Aldrich, who for years has been the recognized republican leader of the senate, believed it could be defeated. Recent events, however, suggest that the Rhode Island senator has seen a new light, and that he has been compelled to admit that the forces advocating the measure are superior to those which can be mustered against it.

Mr. Aldrich and his lieutenants will make a strong fight for continued senate leadership when the next congress convenes, and he is determined nothing shall be done at this session calculated to shear him of any of his prestige as the controlling factor in that body. It is believed he has canvassed the senate and knows the postal savings bank bill will pass. Therefore, he will not go to the extreme of antagonizing it, but will use his influence to have it amended in some material particulars. If he is successful in this maneuver, the credit for the final shape of the measure will be given him and the postal savings bank law will be, so far as any such law could be, in accordance with his desires.

Eastern senators generally are opposed to postal savings banks as inimical to the general banking system of the country. Western senators are urging it as a necessary aid to the masses of the people as giving them a safe depository for their funds, whence they can be drawn in times of stress. Two or three of the old-line senators from the west, who would not permit themselves to be classed as radicals, are favoring the measure because it is demanded by their people, and the loss of these men who ordinarily rally to his standard has convinced Mr. Aldrich apparently, that resistance to the bill is useless.

Postal Bank Controversy.

The struggle now on in the senate over the postal savings bank bill promises to be long and strenuous. Although this measure was approved in the republican platform and endorsed by Mr. Taft, and other republican speakers in the late campaign, it is being bitterly opposed by some of the influential members of both houses.

Despite this opposition, it probably will get through the house with comparative ease. It seems pretty certain also, that it will receive a majority vote in the senate, but only after

HONAN LEADS IN THE RACE

Almost Sure to Be Chosen Pre-siding Officer of the Indiana House.

HE HAS MANY PLEDGES

MADE PREDICTION FOUR YEARS AGO THAT THE REPUBLICANS WOULD SOON OCCUPY THE "CHEROKEE STRIP."

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 28.—Representative Thomas Honan, of Seymour, is sure of his election as Speaker of the House in the next legislature. He is not boasting, but he says that he has more than enough votes pledged to win.

"I will not have any trouble unless the members who are pledged to me change their minds," he said.

Honan declares that he wrote letters to the Democratic members some time ago announcing his candidacy and asking their support. Twenty replied at once, assuring him positively that they will vote for him. He needed but 31 to win, and since then he has been successful in getting the required number.

Many party leaders believe that Honan will not have further opposition. All of the candidates are friendly to him, and it is not thought that they will go ahead with their contest under the existing circumstances.

Honan is Neutral.

There have been rumors that Honan was the candidate of the Taggart machine, but he denies them. He asserts that he has refused to declare himself for any candidate for the Senate because he doesn't want to give any one a chance to charge him with having a combination.

It is said that the same forces that are backing Kern for Senator are for Honan, but the latter has no alliance with Kern. It is said that he could not have one handily because Judge Joe Shea, of Seymour, one of his closest friends, is managing Shively's race.

Honan is getting some satisfaction out of a prediction he made in the House four years ago. As the result of the Roosevelt landslide, the Democrats elected but 19 members of the House. It was the smallest representation they ever had there.

Honan was floor leader then and made the most of a bad situation. He was chosen to present the name of Shively for Senator against Senator Albert J. Beveridge.

He made a short but clever speech. In the midst of it he deviated from the newspaper copies long enough to become a prophet.

Turning to the little bunch of Democrats, he declared that they were few, but mighty.

"But we, of the Cherokee strip will grow and multiply," said Honan. "Some time in the not far distant future you Republicans will have to become occupants of our Cherokee strip."

Honan's prediction came true sooner than he expected. Some of the Republicans who were members during the session four years ago are now recalling what Honan said.

His designation of the minority side as the Cherokee strip has clung to it.

The Republicans, who are to occupy it for the first time in many years, are now referring to it by that title.

The Democrats are getting no end of satisfaction out of their ability to move over to the better lighted and more comfortable quarters that the Republicans had come to regard as their very own.

ORIENTAL RUGS.

Made to Resemble the Antiques by Chemical Washings.

The United States buys annually many thousands dollars' worth of what are known to the profession as washed rugs. Brightly colored oriental rugs sometimes are washed with a solution of chloride of lime, a treatment which partly bleaches the colors and imparts a soft appearance to the rug.

This chemical treatment is a process of washing which produces the effect of age and a peculiar sheen to the surface, which is pointed out by the unscrupulous dealer as a proof of superior quality. The fact is that the process of washing as described invariably weakens and in some instances destroys the materials of the rug.

The progressive effect of the chemicals on the materials in the rug is this: The chlorine gas contained in the chloride of lime attracts oxygen and moisture from the air, by which muriatic acid is formed. This eats away the wool and cotton in the rug become brittle and thus weaken the warp and deteriorate the wool.

When this deterioration is complete the pile of the rug may be swept away by the ordinary process of sweeping, and the warp, which is the foundation of the rug, becomes so weak that holes appear here and there, and soon the rug is worthless.

It is not seldom happens that a Persian rug is so starling in some bright hue, perhaps red, and is not salable. The unscrupulous dealer will subject the rug to a series of washings in chemically prepared water. In this way he turns out a rug possessing a soft antique sheen that is truly captivating and finds a ready purchaser at an advanced price.—Chicago Tribune.

Partners in Debt.

"My tooth is just killing me," she complained.

"Why don't you go to the dentist about it?" asked he.

"Because," said she, "I owe him money."

"You and I seem to be in hard luck," said he. "Now, look at me. Every time I go out in my automobile it breaks down right in front of some store where I owe a lot of money."—New York Press.

Honeyed Words.

"How are you getting along at home? The last time I called your wife was giving you the dickens."

"Quite true. I had been a bad boy. But she relaxed. Last night she came very near calling me honey."

"You don't mean it? How was that?"

"She called me old beeswax."—New York Press.

No Hurry.

"Of course, Tommy," said the Sunday school teacher, "you'd like to be an angel, wouldn't you?"

"Well—er—yes'm," replied Tommy, "but I'd like to wait till I can be a full grown angel with gray whiskers."
