

ANTIOCH LOST TO THE EARLHAM FIVE

Quaker Players Showed Up in Good Form and Clearly Outplayed Opponents.

HOTCHKISS WAS THE STAR

CLEVER FORWARD WAS ALL OVER THE FLOOR AND HELD HIS TEAM WELL TOGETHER—HIGH SCHOOL WAS DEFEATED.

Earlham, 36; Antioch, 17.

It certainly was a big juicy lemon handed the Antioch basket ball team at the Coliseum last evening by the "fighting five" representing Earlham college. It was in the shape of a score of 36 to 17. The Quaker representatives were at their best and their playing was almost without fault. Antioch was fast and their team work was such that it kept the whole Quaker five busy breaking up their passes. Hotchkiss and Tebbets, Earlham star forward and guard, played whirlwind game and had their opponents guessing throughout the contest. Both showed plainly that they are two of the best men that have represented the Quaker college for several years. Cornell another of Earlham's guards played a fair game. Lindley at center was good, but not aggressive enough and too slow in his passes. Conrad plainly showed last evening that he has the making of a fast player and it is expected that he will be one of the star men before the season closes.

Antioch Played Fast

All the men from Antioch showed they were clever players, but their team work and fast playing was easily broken up. The team was awarded three points during the game by Referee Babb.

The first half of the game opened at whirlwind pace. The visitors made the first score which was closely followed by a goal from field by Tebbets. Both teams slowed down to some extent and with Tebbets making several foul goals, and field goals by Lindley, Hotchkiss and Conrad, the first half closed with Earlham leading six Antioch's 12.

Second Half Speedy.

The second half opened with Earlham playing all around their opponents and in a short time had the score 26 to 13. Then the visitors were deliberately given three points by the referee to save them from becoming disheartened and quitting the game. It was during this half that the superior playing of Hotchkiss was plainly noticeable. On several occasions he tossed the ball from the center of the floor. He held his men together in excellent form and much of the success of the game is due to him. In the latter part of this half Conrad retired in favor of Reese. He is a good individual player, but takes too many hard shots for the basket.

The lineup for the game was: Earlham.....Antioch.....Lindley.....F.....F. Correy and Reese.....Conrad.....F.....McClellan Hotchkiss, Capt.....C.....H. Correy Cornell.....L. G.....Humphrey and Tebbets.....R. G. Thornton, Capt. Referee Babb, Xenia. Umpire, Guidel, I. M. C. Time of halves, twenty minutes. Attendance, 400.

High School Defeated.

As a curtain raiser for the Earlham-Antioch game, the Richmond high school team was defeated by the Earlham Reserves in a fast game. Score 23 to 12. The High School lads were weakened by the absence of Haas and Allison, who are two of the star men. Thorngrove was the star of the game. He made a number of pretty goals from the most difficult positions and was well applauded. Hiatte also of the city team played a good game.

"GIRLS" AMUSING BUT VERY LIGHT

Fair Crowd Witnessed Production Last Evening.

"Girls" proved a laugh producing farce when presented at the Gennett theater last night. Outside of furnishing plenty of mirth and ludicrous situations, however, there is not much in the play. There are just three girls, plus a creature, who probably was a girl at one time, in the cast. But these three have a great way in which to appear ridiculous, because of their hatred of the genus man. All three have taken a solemn oath that they will not tolerate a man, and led by Pamela Gordon, the others do their best. It is Pamela's spirit that keeps the compact in force. The others are willing to backslide, but she keeps them bound firm, as long as possible. The change comes with time, and one becomes engaged to a theatrical manager and the other to a law clerk. After an obstinate fight, Pamela capitulates and becomes the betrothed of a young attorney.

The play was put on but fairly. Eleanor Burrell, Dorothy Sadler, and Ethel Strickland as the girls made the life of the play. The male characters were quite commonplace.

Affairs of the Sporting World

Germany Schaefer has been appointed captain of the Detroit for the coming season.

Doc White and Frank Smith of the White Sox, who offended by playing with the Logan Squares of Chicago last fall, have put in their official plea for clemency.

John J. Lawler of Elmira, N. Y., has been signed to manage the Macon club of the South Atlantic League during the season of 1909.

Durham, one of the pitchers who was secured by the New York club from Indianapolis last year, has stated that he would prefer to return to Indianapolis this summer, owing to the fact that he is thinking of purchasing a billiard and pool room in that city. "We'll first see what he can do for New York," said John McGraw. "If he doesn't fit in with the Giants we will begin to talk about other arrangements."

What has become of the "investigation" of the alleged attempt to bribe Umpires Johnstone and Klem during the last New York-Chicago series in Chicago? Since President Pulham exploded the bomb at the league meeting in December nothing has been heard of the matter. Baseball men say that if there is anything in the charges there should be prompt action one way or another.—New York Sun.

Charley Lecardi, the San Francisco fight promoter, who has been granted the fight permit for January to hold a boxing show there, is having his own troubles in getting a good pair of men to fight at his club. He is anxious to have two men meet Sam Langford each for ten rounds, but all of the pugilists in California seem to want no part of Sam's game. Lecardi has offered Battling Johnson $50 a round to fight Langford.

There is no longer any doubt now that Willus Britt, manager of Battling Nelson, has also taken Stanley Ketchel under his management. Jimmie Coffroth wired Ketchel an offer of a $20,000 purse to meet Jock Johnson in a forty-five round battle on the afternoon of July 4, and Willus Britt, to whom Ketchel turned the telegram over, immediately wired Coffroth accepting the offer for Ketchel.

DURHAM SMOKELESS

Former Local Baseball Star Could Not Win for Lynn In Centerville Game.

SWEEPING DEFY ISSUED.

Centerville, Ind., Jan. 16.—Lynn was completely outclassed last evening in the basket ball game with the locals and the final score was 38 to 8. Lynn was over-confident of victory. The line-up of the visitors included "Bull" Durham formerly center fielder for the Richmond, Portland and Van Wert teams of the I. O. league, but "Bull" had no mighty stick with which to wallop the basket ball and was easily taken care of by the locals. The locals excelled in every department of the game and especially the defensive.

In the preliminary contest the second team defeated the Webster aggregation 13 to 11. The first team has games booked with the Indianapolis Y. M. C. A. team, also the Battery A team of the Tenth Regiment, located at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. The following challenge has been issued by the local manager: "Centerville challenges any team in the country on its own floor or on any regulation floor, but don't wish to play in a hen coop, or a hay loft."

Lineup last night:

Medical Fee in Ancient Greece. The remuneration of physicians originally consisted in presents, but at the time of Hippocrates payment in money was already customary. Physicians received also public praise, the "crown of honor," the freedom of the city, the privilege of eating at the king's table. Physicians employed by the state received a yearly salary, as high as $2,000 in some instances. Rich people would pay enormous sums for a successful treatment, and a case is recorded in which $200,000 was paid—New York Medical Journal.

MERIT ONLY WILL COUNT FOR JOBS, SAYS W. H. TAFT

Young Men Seeking Appointments in the Diplomatic Corps Must Qualify for Their Positions, He Says.

SECRETARY KNOX ALSO APPROVES OF THIS PLAN

Few Years Ago American Foreign Service Was a Joke, But It Is Now Splendid, Efficient Organization.

By Guy W. Finney.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Young men throughout the country looking forward to a career in the diplomatic service may take cheer in the thought that during the coming Taft administration merit alone will open the door to appointment. This announcement may strike with particular force that class of young men who have achieved university honors. Aside from Mr. Taft himself, the best friend of this merit system will be his secretary of state, Philander Knox. In taking these consulships, which mark the road to higher diplomatic preferment, out of the political "grab-bag," Mr. Knox will follow the course of the present Secretary of State, Elihu Root, who can rightfully lay claim to being "the father of consular reform."

Formerly Smiled At.

A few years ago it could be said, and was said with truth, that the average American consul was "a joke"; that he had no right to represent this or any other country in an important diplomatic capacity, and that his presence as such was entirely due to a bad political system. Except in exceptional cases, the assertions would be without foundation now, and when Mr. Taft and when his Secretary of State get through with their pruning these exceptions, too, will be of the past.

Changed commercial conditions, as well as the embarrassments brought about by incompetent representatives abroad, have made this consular reform imperative. It was either a question of divorcing the consular berths from politics or discredited in the eyes of foreign governments. Though the change wrought has not been without opposition, and Mr. Taft, when he becomes Chief Executive, probably will be urged to return to the old "spoils" system, the results attained have proven the wisdom of the reform.

Field Attractive.

To the average American this field offers varied attractions. It may not have been so in former years, when most of these jobs were properly labelled "sinecure," because the consul's chief duties consisted of killing time and drawing his pay. The service is now riding itself of the few incumbents who follow this exciting routine. While it is true that some consular offices offer a wider field of opportunity than others, none of them are without their offerings to the ambitious man. Many of those stationed in the various countries of South America, which countries are now marching to the tune of a quick-step to capture some of this country's trade, have found ample opportunity to develop lines of trade for home merchants, and thus benefit indirectly.

Others have been offered alluring inducements to enter the service of corporations having a large shipping headquarters at the port where they were stationed, and still others have left the consular service to develop opportunities they learned of while acting as their country's representative. Taken all in all, this field would seem a vastly more inviting one than formerly, and more so because, instead of being closed to all except a class of hungry politicians, it is now within the reach of all—if they only show their fitness.

EDWARD EDSALL GETS $25 FINE

Found Lying in Gutter Full of Water.

Edward Edsall was fined $25 and costs in the city court this afternoon for public intoxication. Edsall was found beastly drunk yesterday afternoon. He was lying in a gutter, which contained water, in front of the Mathew Bros. & Co. lumber yard. Edsall was singing contentedly, when Officer Bundy awoke him from his reverie. Besides his fine, the court sent Edsall to jail for thirty days, making a total of 65 days with the sheriff.

MANAGER OF THE SPA Y. M. C. A. Enters Agreement With Celebrated Local Cook, Mrs. Fitzgibbons.

WILL BE OPEN WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Fitzgibbons, the noted cook of this city, has consented to take charge of the Spa, the Dutch lunch room at the Y. M. C. A. This agreement was reached last evening with the board of directors, and it was announced that Wednesday noon would mark the opening of the Spa to the public.

Prof. D. R. Ellbarger of Piqua, O., formerly principal of the local high school and one of those instrumental in obtaining the Y. M. C. A. sent his written resignation as a member of the board and of several committees. It was reluctantly accepted by the board.

Reports on different subjects were made by the committees. That on the membership showed there were 615 members. Of this number 310 are senior members and the remainder, members ranging in age from 10 to 18 years. The rate of $9 to senior members and $6 to junior members was reluctantly accepted by the board.

Mrs. Fitzgibbons' agreement is to keep the Spa open from 11 a. m. until 10 p. m. The Spa is open to the men of the city but special rates will be given the Y. M. C. A. members, approximating about a 20 per cent decrease of the general rate. The meals will be served à la carte. Mrs. Fitzgibbons stated to the board that everything she served would be "home made."

ATTAR OF ROSES.

How This Delicous and Expensive Perfume Is Made.

The word "attar" is from the Arab "itr" and means perfume. So attar of roses is simply perfume of roses. It is brought from Turkey and the East Indies in small vials and is very costly. Even on the spot where it is manufactured it is extremely dear, because it requires 100,000 well grown roses to yield but 180 grains of attar.

Its high price causes it to be often adulterated with some essential or fixed oil or with spermaceti. However, the adulteration may be detected by testing it in a watch glass with a drop of sulphuric acid. If the attar be pure it will remain colorless, for pure attar of roses is colorless, but if it is adulterated it will become darkened.

In rose fields, where the roses are grown for the purpose of making the attar, the bushes are planted in rows. In the early morning they are laden with beautiful roses, but ere noon comes, they are all gathered and their petals distilled in clay stills, with twice their weight of water.

The water that "comes over" is put into perfectly clean vessels and is then carefully covered with damp muslin clothes to keep out dust and insects. It is afterward exposed to the night air or to artificial cold. By morning a film is swept off with a feather and very carefully transferred to a small vial. Night after night this process is repeated until all of the precious oil is separated from the water.

BUSINESS SENSE.

A Well Ordered Desk Means a Well Ordered Mind.

"There's one piece of advice," said the senior partner, "that I'd like to give every young man taking a business position with a desk attached to it. It's this: Keep your desk clean. What I mean by having a desk clean is keeping everything possible off it except that which is related to the matter in hand. I've observed in my time a good many men in their offices, and I can say that with very few exceptions the real men of affairs are those who are free from clutter.

"With a lot of papers in front of you it's almost a certainty that some hour in the day you're going to be flustered, and very likely it will be just when you want a clear head. The old idea that a mass of material every which way on the desk is a sign that a person is full of business is pretty well worn out. Such a collection not only indicates a lack of order, but also is a sign that nervousness may be expected from the man in the chair. What with filing cabinets and other devices no excuse can be offered nowadays for confusion.

"A well ordered desk means a well ordered mind, a mind taking up one thing at a time and giving it the proper attention. It denotes regularity and concentrated, effective effort."—New York Press.

Easy Going Dutch Spelling. In the good old days when the Dutch were supreme in the administration of the affairs of New Amsterdam everybody knew everybody else, and it mattered little how proper names were spelled. Modern lawyers and civil service reformers would be shocked at the orthographical freedom of the clerks of the burgomaster's court of those times. Here is a sample case taken from the old Dutch records in which the name of a plaintiff is spelled five different ways:

In a case before the court in 1655 Jan "Hackins" is a complainant against the inspector of tobacco, who has certified to Jan "Hackins" that the tobacco was good. The inspector says to his defense that he inspected the tobacco at the request of Jan "Hackins" on June 26, and aforesaid "Hackins" kept the barrel of tobacco until the 30th without finding out that it was bad. Then Jan "Hackins" has something else to say in the case.
