An Armed Crab.
"This crab," said the keeper of the aquarium, "goes armed in his native state. In his claws, which are too weak to fight with, he always carries sea anemones."
"The crab is of the genus Melia. He lives among beds of coral in tropical seas. The anemones he carries—one in each claw, like a nosegay—are stinging, poisonous ones."
"They are his defense against enemies, and when I see a soldier carrying a gun I think to myself that there is a little pink crab in the sea that is quite as wise as any soldier."

REHLING WILL BE BURIED IN CITY

William Rehling of Dayton, formerly of this city, who died from injuries received in a fall through a trap door in his barn, Monday, will be buried from the home of his sister, Mrs. Catherine Holtreiter, 223 South Sixth street, Friday afternoon. Mr. Rehling was one of the leading contractors of Dayton and before his removal from this city, he did a large percentage of the large contracts for the city. Two sons and one daughter and his wife survive him. The body arrives Friday.

CAN YOU SPELL?

Test Your Ability by Writing This Jumble From Dictation.

It is some time ago since spelling bees were popular forms of entertainment in this country, but still one occasionally comes across the very superior person who tells you he can easily spell any word ever printed in a dictionary. If ever you meet this type of man, just ask somebody to dictate the following jumble to him and see how many mistakes he will make:

"Antinous, a disappointed, dedicated physicist, was peeling potatoes in an embarrassing and harassing way. His idiosyncrasy and privilege was to eat mayonnaise and mussels while staring at the Pleiades and seizing people's tricycles and velocipedes. He was an erring teetotaler and had been on a picaresque jamboree. He rode a palfrey stallion and carried a salable papier mache bouquet of asters, phlox, mullin, chrysanthemums, rhododendrons, fuchsias and nasturtiums."

"He wore a shifty's resplendent turquoise paraphernalia, an ornolu yashmak and astrakhan chaparejos. He drank crystallizable and disagreeable curacao juleps through a sieve. He stole some moneys and hid them under a peddler's mahogany bedstead and mattress."

"Like a fiend in an ecstasy of gaiety I rushed after him into the maelstrom, or melee, and held him as in a vise. I could not fease him, however, and he addressed me, with autocracy, in the following imbecile words, which sounded like a soliloquy of a supererogarian on an oboe: 'You are a ratable lunamoth, a salaaming visag, an equinoctial coryphee and an isosceles daguerreotype.'"—New York Mail.

A Curious Story.
The queen of Hanover, wife of King Ernest Augustus of Hanover (better known as the Duke of Cumberland, son of George III.), died at Hanover about 1842 of an illness which baffled the skill of her doctors as to its real cause. During her illness a clairvoyant was consulted, who wrote certain curious signs and words on the door of her bedroom; but, although these mystic words were repeated over and over again, the queen died. The king of Hanover after his wife's death gave orders that her bedroom should always be kept as though the queen would sleep there at night. The bed was turned down, the pillows reshaken, hot water brought and the daintiest slippers laid in readiness for her.—Home Notes.

Yet They Needed Exercise.
Two men whose offices were on the second floor were on the first floor waiting for an elevator. Long and impatiently they waited.
"You're not looking extra well, London," remarked the lawyer.
"No, Rangle," replied the real estate man. "Think I'll join an athletic club. I need the exercise."
"Me too."
"Still they waited for the elevator."—Kansas City Times.

BEVERIDGE DAY AT CONVENTION

Tariff Delegates Give Hearty
Welcome to Indiana
Senator.

DELIVERS FINE ADDRESS

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON JUDGE
BARNARD SPOKE TO DELE-
GATES AND MADE A SPLENDID IMPRESSION ON ALL.

(Staff Correspondent.)
Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—This was "Beveridge day" at the tariff commission convention, the senator being warmly received as the author of the senate tariff commission bill. Beveridge delivered the principal address to the delegates today. He said that within less than four months a new tariff will have been passed and it would be the last one built without the aid of the proposed permanent tariff commission expert, which would probably be ready with scientific classifications after two years of investigation.

Distinguished Himself.
Judge Barnard, the congressman-elect from the Sixth district, distinguished himself yesterday afternoon in a speech which he made before the tariff convention. He spoke in part as follows: "I do not pretend to know all about the tariff, nor about a tariff bureau; I am simply here to learn. And from what I learn I shall consider it my duty while in congress to act for the benefit of first the citizens of the Sixth district; second for the citizens of Indiana, and lastly for all the people of the United States."

Favors Commission.
"I believe firmly that a commission of experts selected by the president of the United States to collect data on the subject of the tariff would be a good thing. I believe this because often while sitting on the bench I have thought that I should like to see a practical man about points which came up in a case. On the subject as large as the tariff, how much more necessary it would be to have accurate information on which to act."

Gets Loud Applause.
This speech called forth unusually loud applause and it was generally stated among the delegates that his attitude was what they liked to see in newly elected congressmen. What the delegates desire is that in this question the rights of the people, rather than those of privileged corporations, shall be respected. And this Judge Barnard unmistakably stood for.

PANAMA REPORT IN

Roosevelt Submits It to Congress Today and Sends A Message.

SHOWS WORK PROGRESSING

Washington, Feb. 17.—President Roosevelt sent a message to congress today incorporating the report of the engineers who accompanied Judge Taft to investigate the Panama canal progress. The engineers report favorably on the stability of the Gatun dam; approves of the lock type of canal; advises all work thus far done and praises the public not to expect an earlier completion than heretofore predicted which was January, 1915. The engineers estimate the complete cost of the lock canal at $360,000,000.

Brazil grows several kinds of English potatoes as well as the sweet potato. Our English potatoes are of various colors, red white violet and yellow. The violet colored potato is the most nutritious, but the white potato, which contains a large quantity of starchy matter, is the best for the manufacture of starch and for the fattening of pigs. When the raising of pigs is more developed the cultivation of the sweet-potato will also be greatly increased.
