

CORNELL GIVES TIGERS BEATING

Result of This Game Ties the Teams for Second in Y. M. C. A. Race.

PRINCETON QUITE EASY

HOWEVER THE NEW JERSEY FIVE TOOK THE FLOOR WITH CRIPPLED LINEUP—RACE IS VERY EXCITING.

LEAGUE STANDING.
	Won	Lost	Pct.
Yale	5	1	.833
Princeton	3	3	.500
Cornell	3	3	.500
Chicago	3	3	.500
Illinois	3	3	.500
Carleton	1	5	.167

Last Night's Score.
Cornell, 39; Princeton, 7.

Four teams were tied for second place in the Y. M. C. A. basketball league, as the result of last evening's game in which Princeton was forced to take the most humiliating drubbing that has been administered. The Tigers were not in the game at any stage and the outcome was a big surprise. But it was not the same Princeton team that has been playing in the other games and this, no doubt, accounts somewhat for the outcome. Princeton used a badly patched up team and it had no chance to beat the tithians.

Leaders Not Secure.
As the result of the tie, next week's games probably will be the most important of the season for four teams. The winners will have the best chance to break away for the finish with a winning streak. Yale leads the league but the position is insecure and the team will have to keep going, if it expects to finish first. The prospects are that this month will see the best playing of the entire season, which ends April 30. Carleton is to be strengthened and by winning all its remaining games the bunch can break even on the series. Chicago has made the most rapid advance recently with the exception of Yale, by winning three straight games after losing the first three.

BLACKMAIL WAS WHAT HE SOUGHT

witnesses—Bishop Burke and C. A. Kuchs, a postoffice clerk. Bishop Burke identified two letters offered in evidence and signed by Pembroke as having been received by him. They were dated, Cameron, Mo., September 6 and 8, 1908.

One demanded that the bishop forward to Pembroke immediately $40,000 under penalty of having published certain things which he said would be very derogatory to the bishop.

Charges Made.
In the other, $70,000 in all was demanded and a similar threat made. Among other things, the bishop was accused of having obtained a valuable farm in Nodaway county by fraud.

The bishop predicted the origin of his trouble with Pembroke, who for many years was in charge of St. Patrick's parish at Marysville, Mo.

He said that as a result of a quarrel between Pembroke and Frank W. Griffin, editor of the Marysville newspaper, who was shot and killed in 1899 by C. J. Jase, the usefulness of the church at Marysville had been greatly impaired, and that the parish had defaulted in payment of a bequest of $1,000 which had been made to the diocese at the death of a parishioner.

He went to Marysville and announced that Pembroke would be transferred and he sent the priest to Milan, Mo., where Pembroke refused to serve.

Later Pembroke went to Colorado City, Colo., and held a charge, but finally he returned to Cameron, Mo., where the bishop refused to recognize him.

During all this time the bishop said he had been hearing of reports circulated by the priest, and then came the demand for $70,000.

Many of the charges made against Bishop Burke in the letters offered in evidence are unprintable. Many offenses are mentioned.

Late tonight the jury pronounced Pembroke guilty, and he was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail.

HAD A HOT BOX.

Limited car No. 64, which arrives in this city from the east at 8:30 in the evening, caused no little excitement last evening. A hot box in one of the rear axles set the oil on fire which then was transmitted to the waste and other inflammable material. No great damage was done, however.

Earl Mann will erect a residence on East-haven avenue, west of the city this spring. He is one of the officers in the W. O. Hill Floral company, which company will enlarge its west side plant soon.

Father of Sunday Baseball Receives a Monster Pass

Indianapolis, Ind., April 3.—Representative Thomas W. Brolley, of North Vernon, who manages a strong amateur team there, has become a national figure in base balldom because of his efforts to obtain the passage of the Sunday base ball law which bears his name.

He came here to witness the game between the Indianapolis and Philadelphia American teams.

"Have you a pass?" he was asked. At that question Brolley hauled out a pass signed by over 100 professional baseball organizations throughout the country.

His name is to be the magic one that will open the gates of any baseball park to him this season. And it is all because he worked for the passage of the Sunday base ball law.

Brolley says that he has had the law examined by some of the best lawyers in the state, and that they say it is constitutional.

However, the ministers here are arranging to have it tested as soon as Manager Carr and his tribe attempt to pull off a Sunday game.

EARLHAM TO HAVE VERY FAST TEAM

Baseball Candidates This Year the Best Material In History.

PITCHER WHITE IN FORM

QUAKERS HAVE A HEAVY SCHEDULE THIS YEAR AND LOOK FOR GOOD RECORD—COBLENTZ IS A FIND.

That Earlham will have the fastest base ball team in the field this year is practically assured. Coach Vail announced this morning that the largest number of candidates that have ever reported are turning out each evening for light practice work although the regular practice will not start until next week when all the students have arrived who expect to enter the ring for positions. At the present time there are about thirty men out and as far as the throwing department is concerned there is plenty of fine material. The batting department has not been given a test, but it is judged that this will be stronger than the team of last year. Coach Vail expects to have a hard hitting outfield who will come in as pinch hitters.

The schedule that has been arranged by Coach Vail and the managers, both student and faculty, is one of the hardest that any Earlham team has had to fight out. There will be about six home dates while four will be in other fields. Butler, Wabash, Purdue, DePauw, Wittenburg, are among those of the team that will meet the Quakers on Reid field.

White Is In Form.

White, the famous Quaker twirler of last season, is again with the Quakers and is showing up in better form than last year when he held the fast Purdue team to the low score of 2 to 1. The latest find of the Quakers is C. L. Coblentz, New Madison, who will officiate between second and third. He has had several years' experience and is expected to add great strength to the Quakers. His opponent for the position of short-stop is Frank Elliott who made quite a record with the high school team several years ago. In these two men Earlham should be able to have a strong man at this position. Other men who have donned the baseball togs are Harrell, Swain and Stanley for first base; Hill, second, and the outfield; Eaton, short stop; J. Furnas, pitch and outfield; Larrance, second base; Dowlar for second or third base; Mosbaugh, H. Furnas, Reese, Gilbert and Brunson are making a good showing for positions. Jones and Kenard are trying out for the twirling department; French and Lindley are trying for first; and yesterday, Behr, O. Wright and Butler were out with the crew.

HAVE BABY BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hornaday, 400 South Fifteenth street, are the parents of a baby boy. It has been named William Kemper Hornaday after a relative who is manager of the zoological gardens in New York City.

IMPORTANT MEETING

Y. M. B. C. Has Several Projects to Consider at Tuesday's Meeting.

REPORTS ON SATURNALIA

Matters of importance will be considered at the meeting of the Young Men's Business club members next Tuesday evening at the city building. It is probable that reports will be made by committees in charge of the Masked Saturnalia, the proposed sale of the Glen Miller park and the proposition of securing the state encampment of the Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias this summer. The question of having a base ball team here this summer will also be considered.

Reports on the Masked Saturnalia will no doubt be interesting and encourage the members to greater effort. Several merchants have disposed of their allotted number of tickets to their wholesale agencies and the event will be advertised from one end of the country to the other as a result. The features of the affair will be made public in all probability.

ASSOCIATION OF TENNIS PLAYERS

There Are at the Present Time About Fifty Prospective Members.

TO HAVE PRIVATE COURTS

LOTS AT THE CORNER OF SOUTH TWENTY-SECOND AND A STS. ARE TO BE LEASED—AN IDEAL LOCATION.

Prospects are that the city will have a tennis association this season that will be one of the largest and strongest in the state. At present there are about fifty prospective members and the indications are that fully this number will become identified with the organization. Lots at the corner of Twenty-second and South A streets are to be leased. They will be graded and courts of regulation size laid off. It is believed the place can be made ideal for the purpose and there is reason to believe there will be more interest shown in this sport locally this summer than ever before.

Number of Players.

The city has a large number of mediocre and several first class players. There is enough of the latter to coach the others and develop them, so that the first class aggregation will not be so limited in number. A meeting of those interested was held last evening, and it was decided to go ahead with the work. Membership is to be solicited. The expense of fitting up the courts will not be very great. The ground will have to be prepared and screens erected. The members expect to do a good part of this work themselves in order to economize.

Sport Would Boom.

Within the last two years, a number of tennis players who give promise of developing beyond the mediocre have been in the game. The public playground has been the only place for contests and these courts could not be obtained for general use until after school was dismissed in June. Even under this handicap the players went ahead and learned the elementary principles of the game. With courts of their own, open to them whenever they want them, there is no reason why the game should not be boomed by the members of the new association the coming season.

CONTRACTORS ARE READY TO SETTLE

Anxious to Reach an Adjustment of the Y. M. C. A. Matter Soon.

INVOLVES ABOUT $5,000

ASSOCIATION OFFICIALS REFUSED TO PAY OVER THIS AMOUNT UNTIL LOCAL OBLIGATIONS HAD BEEN MET.

Satisfactory adjustment between the contractors for the Y. M. C. A. building and the trustees and directors of the association, will probably be made before next Wednesday, according to a statement made at the board of directors' meeting last evening. The Y. M. C. A. is holding out on the payment of about $5,000 to the contractors because they have not met their obligations with several local firms and laborers. Not until these debts are paid and receipts shown, the association officials, will the money be turned over to the contractors.

The settlement offer is the first word received from the contractors since the completion of the building last December. After the settlement, the building will be turned over to the association. Although the association has been occupying the building since its completion, it has never obtained formal control.

Other matters before the board last evening included routine business and reports of the officers. Secretary Goodwin of the association, reported nine new members for the month of March, making a total membership of 784.

FOUR CANDIDATES.

At the meeting of Triphibian Knights of Pythias last evening, four candidates were given the first rank and were eligible for this purpose.

VETERAN PLAYERS COACHING TEAMS

Quartet of Former Baseball Stars Helping to Train Young Players.

GLEASON HAS STEADY JOB

EX-CAPTAIN OF PHILLIES EMPLOYED FOR SEASON'S COACH—JIM MCGUIRE AND DUKE FARRELL AT IT.

Veteran baseball players who have retired from active work on the diamond and who have proved their ability to handle promising youngsters to the major league ranks are being signed each year by the enterprising managers of the big league teams as special coaches for the young players under trial.

Last year Manager Murray of the Phillies inaugurated the innovation by appointing ex-Captain Kid Gleason as assistant manager or special coach for the Phillies, and so successful did the plan prove that this season three other major league clubs signed veteran catchers to coach the young twirlers, and Manager McGraw went a step further by signing Arlie Latham to coach the team during the game. This is not Latham's first job of this kind, however, as he held the same kind of position with Cincinnati some years ago.

Kid Gleason, Charles ("Duke") Farrell, Jim McGuire and Wilbert Robinson are the four who hold positions as special coaches for the players.

In selecting the promising material and picking out the men who are worth carrying on the regular pay roll it is the wisdom of the veteran player that shows itself, and this is where veteran players like Gleason, Farrell, Robinson and McGuire come into play. When the team goes south for its spring practice the young players need to be watched. Ambition to show up in good shape before the manager with the hope of landing a permanent place on the team often causes the young player to injure himself, so that he is of little use to the club for several weeks, and this means heavy expense to the club and probably the loss of a job to the player.

With a trained man in each camp to watch over the overzealous players, the chance of having the hospital list full all the time is greatly lessened.

Gleason's work is not only in the spring, however, for the Kid holds it down all season, and the veteran proved a big factor in keeping the Phillies in the race for the pennant last year.

All four veterans are well qualified to fill the positions, as they have had many years' experience, are popular with players and know how to handle young players. Of the four players McGuire is the oldest in point of service, and Robinson is next, Gleason and Farrell having started their professional careers the same year.

Kid Gleason is the most active of the four and was the last of the four to give up playing in major league company. He played second base and was captain of the Phillies up to the middle part of the season of 1906, when he was injured, and Knabe took his place. Gleason played in several games, however, last season and is good enough to get in at any time and play almost any position on the field.

Wilbert Robinson, who is helping McGraw to train the Giants' pitchers during the spring practice, was also a member of the famous Baltimore champions along with McGraw and Gleason. "Duke" Farrell, who is handling the New York American youngsters, is one of the oldest men in the game, and he, McGuire and Robinson are rated as three of the brainiest catchers that ever donned a mask. Robinson was a major league backstop from 1894 to 1902 inclusive, while Farrell started in the big organization in 1896 and lasted until 1903.

Jim McGuire is one of the most noted catchers in the business. He was born in 1863 and has been playing professional ball since 1884, first starting with Cleveland. Since that time he has been connected with many teams in both the American and National leagues. In 1907 he left the New York Americans to become manager of the Boston Americans. McGuire went to Cleveland the latter part of last season.

TURF MEN ABROAD AWAKE INTEREST

Englishmen Aroused by American Invasion of Their Racing Courses.

COLIN IS IN LIMELIGHT

KEENE'S UNDEFEATED FOUR-YEAR-OLD COLT ENTERED IN MANY FAMOUS CLASSICS—OTHER OWNERS ENTER.

The friction which the Olympic sports in England produced is now almost entirely forgotten as far as Englishmen are concerned, and they are now discussing the prospects of the American invasion in horse racing. When a couple of years ago American sportsmen like W. C. Whitney, J. R. Keene and Richard Croker withdrew their support from the English turf on the grounds that they were not fairly treated and American jockeys supported them in their contention, English sportsmen commenced to feel that there was something that required consideration. The grievances that then existed are now removed, and the English sporting public welcomes the appearance of the American colors again on the racing tracks.

This year's racing will find America well represented, as Croker, Keene, Belmont and Vanderbilt are all "in the running." These names are already familiar to English race goers, but the name of Carroll is new to the most of them.

On the occasion of every big racing event now the question on every one's lips is, "What have the Americans up their sleeve?" There appears to be a desperate dread of the American contingent producing something of a sensational character. Last year it was feared that August Belmont was going to annex the Derby to follow on the success of Croker the previous year.

This year J. R. Keene is suspected of having designs on some of the classic races with Colin, an American bred horse. This animal is stable with Sam Darling at Beckhampton, one of the leading trainers in England. Speaking of the chances of this horse and the prospects of American owners generally, Mr. Darling on being interviewed said:

"In Collis I feel I have one of the finest thoroughbreds that the English turf has ever seen, and I shall not be surprised to find him placing many of the classic events to the credit of America. I regard the American racing invasion as a most useful and welcome stimulant to English sport, and as far as I know there has never been any desire on the part of Englishmen to place any obstacle in the way of the American owners who have from time to time come here to patronize us. I have at the moment all J. R. Keene's horses in England under my control, and I hope to show him and the American sporting world generally what an Anglo-American combination can do."

Another man who is immensely interested in and pleased with the American "invasion" is Richard Marsh, who, as the king's trainer, is one of the most important personalities in the English racing world. "How can it be regarded otherwise," he says, "than a happy omen of the entente cordiale that must always exist between England and the United States? It will stimulate a spirit of fraternity that is essential and desirable between two great English speaking nations. American sportsmen are in my view the most desirable acquaintances an Englishman can make. They are clean and upright in all their transactions, and if they are able to breed animals to win our classic races why should an English sportsman complain?"

This is the spirit that seems to pervade the entire sporting community here at the present moment. The restrictions placed on gambling, especially in regard to horse racing, here was practically accepted as a death-blow to racing, but the appearance of the American element on the scene has put new life into the sport, and now it looks more vigorous than it has for years. With Belmont and Vanderbilt horses at Newmarket, and Carroll and Keene at Beckhampton, and Croker watching from his well equipped stables in Ireland, American racing interests on the English turf have never been so wisely or industriously pursued. American colors will be seen in most of the leading events of the present season, which commences on March 26 at Lincoln.

The Newburg Spring cup, the City and Suburban, the Jubilee stakes, the Ascot Gold cup and the Derby are but a few of the important events in which the colors of the American owners will be seen at the starting post. Carroll has eight horses in Darling's stable, and every one of them is described in English racing vernacular as a "clinker."

Colin, Keene's champion, is talked about already as the winner of the Ascot Gold cup, which is one of the most coveted prizes of the year's racing.

Croker is looked upon as one of the men who talk little about their prospects; but, according to reports from Ireland, he will produce one or two animals during the season that are likely to make racing history.

The king in paying one of his quiet visits to Newmarket recently went over the stables containing the American horses and remarked that he had never seen a more beautiful collection of thoroughbreds. It is not generally known that his majesty was responsible for removing the edict of the jockey club which prohibited the training of Croker's horses at Newmarket.

CHARGED LAZINESS FLOORED WITH A CUE

Postal Employees Are Greatly Interested in South Bend Case.

POSTMASTER IS CLEARED

Local postal employees are much interested in the charges preferred by one of the postal inspectors against certain employees of the South Bend office, alleging laziness. The postmaster of that city is not held responsible by the inspector, a fact which is regarded as somewhat remarkable as I was always supposed by local employees that the postmaster should be thoroughly acquainted with the records of his men.

W. C. T. U. TO MEET APRIL 13 AND 1

State President Will Deliver An Address.

The Wayne County Women's Christian Temperance Union institute will be held in this city at the South Eighth Street Friends church April 13 and 14. The institute will be presided over by Mrs. Cullis J. Vaynager of Upland, wife of President Vaynager of Taylor university. Mrs. Vaynager is president of the state W. C. T. U. organization. The program for the institute is being arranged by Mrs. S. W. Trautman and will be announced next week.

There will be a mass meeting of the members of the local organization at one of the churches on Easter Sunday. Mrs. Vaynager will probably address this meeting.

The Mary W. Hill W. C. T. U. met yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Hill 1118 Hunt street. An interesting paper was read entitled "A Mother's Duty to Her Children." A lively discussion followed.

ARE NOW LAYING THE FOUNDATION

NEWSPAPERS MAKE BULK OF THE MAIL

Local Papers Do Big Business With Uncle Sam.

During the past three months 48,987 pounds of second class mail matter has been received at the post office from local establishments. The record is an unusually good one and helps in explaining why the receipts for the post office this year were larger than usual. Postmaster J. A. Spekenhiser states that the majority of this mail were newspapers sent to out of town subscribers by the Palladium and the Item.

FLOORED WITH A CUE

This Terminated Battle Between Two Negroes in Pool Room.

DISPUTE OVER THE GAME

Following a dispute over a pool game, Garrison Roe and Ford Curry, both negroes, engaged in a fight at the Fort Wayne avenue colored pool room last night. The fracas ended only when Roe sent Curry to the floor with a blow to the jaw administered with a cue. Curry was put completely out and the city ambulance was summoned to remove him to the hospital. His jaw sustained a severe fracture and was otherwise beaten and bruised about the head.

Was Arrested Today.

Roe was arrested this morning and argued with assault and battery. He will be called for trial in city court Tuesday afternoon. Curry is seriously injured. He was knocked unconscious and it was feared the injury might prove more serious than it has. Roe eluded the police last night by hurrying away from the pool room. He was taken into custody by Patrol Driver Roberts this morning at the Midway club pool room, north of the court house. He was about to engage in a game of pool when the officer nabbed him.

ATHLETIC PARK IS THE FAVORED SIGHT

Driving Club Would Like to Secure Property.

The committee of the Wayne County Driving club, visited the different sites on which the club holds options yesterday afternoon, but were unable to arrive at a definite conclusion. However the committee seems to favor the Athletic park and adjoining ground as the best place for locating a track and erecting buildings. A meeting of the club will be held early next week at which time the committee will make its report.

LIKES OUR FLOWERS

Los Angeles Man Writes to City Clerk for Floral Information.

HE DESIRES TO GET PLANTS

The fame of Richmond flowers is such that twelve years after he first bought a number of plants, L. E. Duckie, of Los Angeles has written to city clerk Merrill for information concerning local florists. Duckie says he bought plants here ten years ago, when a resident. He now is connected with a railroad running into Los Angeles and is trying to secure more plants of the same kind to be used for decorative purposes. He will be furnished the names of all local florists.

"Well," asked a dramatist after the first performance of his play, "did you like it?" "Very much," answered his wife. "But there is one incongruity in it. The second act takes place two years after the first, and the young couple have the same cook."
