Mrs. F. W. Krueger entertained with a charming child's party Saturday afternoon at her home on South Seventh street. The function was complimentary to her little son Master George Frederick Krueger who yesterday celebrated his second birthday anniversary. The house was attractively decorated for the occasion. Games and music were features of the afternoon. The mothers of the little people were also bidden to attend. This was one of the most delightful parties of the season. A dainty luncheon was served during the afternoon. The hours were from three until five o'clock. The guests were Miss Margaret Howard, Miss Marguerite Hatt, Miss Lucille Looftbourrow, Miss Anna Louie Burket, Master William Romey, Master David Hasemeler and Master Edward Nusbaum.

Despite the inclement weather of yesterday, the golfing season was opened at the Country club house. Those who took dinner at the club last evening after the match were Mr. Walter Hutton, Dr. C. E. Bond, Dr. Frank Harold, Prof. Torrence, Waltrip and Thompson, Mr. S. S. Stratton, Jr., Mr. Charles McGuire, Mr. William Dill, Mr. Frank Braffett, Mr. J. M. Powell and Mr. John Y. Poundstone.

Miss Katherine Schneider and Miss Kathryn Rettig attended the "Junior Prom" at Lafayette, Indiana, Friday evening given by the Juniors of Purdue university. This was the biggest affair of the year on the social calendar of the university and took place in the gymnasium of the new memorial building. The "gym" was appropriately and attractively decorated by experienced decorators from Chicago. The floor presented an animated and handsome appearance. A colored orchestra from Indianapolis furnished the dance music. The affair was a success in every detail.

The wedding of Miss Freda Turner and Mr. Martin Buckholz will be celebrated Wednesday evening, May 3 at the home of the bride's parents, South of the city. A large number of invitations have been issued for the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pollett have gone to Champaign, Ill., for a permanent residence. Mr. Pollett has accepted a position with the Champaign Gazette, an enterprising newspaper of that city.

Mr. C. W. Isenbarger has been spending the past two weeks in Indianapolis, having gone over in the interest of the Central Business college.

Among the card companies for this week is one to be given by Miss Ruth Gilchrist for her cousin Miss Mary Seaton of Indianapolis, who will be her house guest for a few days.

Mrs. Charles Williams and son, of Muncie, visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams at their home on South Tenth street.

Miss Blanch Compton is the guest of Miss Rhea Parks of Boston, over Sunday. She attended the commencement exercises Saturday evening.

Friday evening, May seventh, a reception will be given at Earlham College for a number of visiting students from Fairmount, Bloomington, Westfield and Vermillion Probe Academies. Earlham hall will be the scene of the festivity.

Miss Margaret Starr, Miss Reba Stinson and Miss Edith Tallant attended the luncheon yesterday given by Mrs. Meredith Nicholson at the Country Club house in Indianapolis. The affair was for members of the Indiana Vassar club, Mrs. Nicholson being president of the organization. Miss Tallant gave a short talk on "Founder's Day." The daisy which is the flower conspicuous at the college was the one used in the decorations. The tables were arranged in the form of a square and the center was filled with flowers to represent a daisy field. A daisy chain was also arranged on the table. Miss Ruth McCulloch made the place cards.

CLUB NOTES

A meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held Monday afternoon in the Westcott hotel. The meeting has been called in order to arrange for a card company to be given soon by the chapter.

All members are urged to attend the meeting.

Mr. Edward Taylor, of Indianapolis, is busily engaged arranging for the opera Priscilla which will be given June first and second at the Genet theatre under the auspices of the ladies auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Taylor is delighted both with the soloists and the large chorus. The opera is a version of the beautiful poem from Longfellow, entitled "The Courtship of Miles Standish." It is hoped that the affair will be well patronized by the Richmond public as the proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A.

The ladies of the Macabees gave a very successful supper last evening in the Odd Fellows' hall. There was a large attendance of members and friends. After supper a social time followed. In all probability the organization will give another supper in the near future.

A banquet will be given by the members of the Magazine club, the early part of this month. This function will conclude the season for the club. A committee in charge is composed of Mrs. C. D. Slifer, Mrs. Warren Gifford, Mrs. William Romey, Mrs. E. G. Hibberd, Mrs. J. H. Mills, Mrs. W. F. Hatt, Mrs. Walter Bates, and Mrs. E. S. Curtis.

Mrs. E. G. Hill will entertain the members of the East End Aid society Tuesday afternoon at her home on East Main street. Members are invited to be present.

MUSIC

A number of musical events were held in this city the past week. The most significant of these, however, was the appearance of Creator and his band, Thursday evening at the Coliseum. Tuesday evening a recital was given at the First English Lutheran church by Miss Rose Nusbaum, of Chicago, assisted by Miss Esther Besselman, accompanist. Miss Ruth Peltz, Miss Lucille Townsend and Miss Dorothy Kirkpatrick. Wednesday evening the choir of the First Christian church under the direction of Robert Wilson gave a delightful concert. The concert given Wednesday afternoon by Hibberd school under the leadership of Prof. Will Earhart was also a successful musical.

Arrangements have been concluded for Lounon Charlton for the appearance in this country next season of Moriz Rosenthal, the celebrated Roumanian pianist. Rosenthal, whose previous American tours have proven his right to a conspicuous place among the world's greatest pianists, will inaugurate his visit with a New York concert October 24th, after which he will appear throughout the country with the principal orchestra and in recital, his tour extending to the Pacific coast.

Mme. Semblich is now revisiting St. Petersburg for the first time in twelve years, and making several appearances with the Imperial Italian Opera Company before returning to her home in Berlin. The prima donna will, as usual, devote a large share of her summer to mountain climbing. Her farewell American concert tour, which Lounon Charlton is booking, is rapidly taking shape. Applications from all sections of the country reflect the lively interest aroused some weeks ago by the singer's retirement from the Metropolitan Opera House. The concert tour will begin early in October, and the entire season will be none too long.

JOAN OF ARC IS SEEN BY A CHILD

Weird Story of a Little French Girl in a Paris Paper.

APPEARS TO HER IN ARMOR

CHILD DESCRIBES EXPERIENCE IN WHICH THE MAID OF ORLEANS PREDICTS WAR AND AFFLICTION TO THE WORLD.

Paris, May 1.—Jeanne d'Arc is appearing to a little girl ten years of age, dwelling at Ornony. So at least the child says, as there has naturally been no witness of the fact. A correspondent of the Petite Parisien interviewed in this strange tale has been to the place to see the small maiden, and he describes her as a pretty, intelligent child, utterly free from any sort of training which might infuse weird fancies into her brain. This is her story: One day in July she was looking after a goat in a field near her grandparents' dwelling, when suddenly she beheld a flash in an old elm tree, on a branch of which a human form was perched, as she noticed when the light had died away, and off she ran in a panic to the house.

It was only when she had been pressed with questions that she related her adventure, to the great amusement of the old people, who laughed at her story. When about a week afterward she plucked up courage to return to the spot, she saw the strange figure again, an experience which has been repeated any number of times.

"When I first saw the 'dame,'" she told the writer, "I was in a terrible fright, and my heart beat violently whenever I see her again."

"Does the 'dame' speak to you?" he asked. "Yes. This is what she told me last year during her second apparition: 'Suzanne, a great war is coming, to be followed by cholera, yellow fever, black fever and infectious flies. Rome, Messina and all that neighborhood will be swallowed up. Suzanne, I order you to go and bless the French flag and the weapons of war.'"

Apparition Seen Fifteen Times.

"That is all she says to you?" "Yes, sir; she often repeats it. I have seen her fifteen times since the beginning of the year."

"Have you questioned the lady?" "Yes, I have asked her: 'Who are you?' and she has answered, 'I am Jeanne d'Arc, martyr.' She goes away after five minutes in a flash, as she has come. It is generally about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon that I see her."

"And how is Jeanne d'Arc dressed?" "She is in armor, resembling lead. Her hair is parted in the middle and falls on her shoulders. In her hand she holds a sword with the point in the air and a crown which looks as if it was made of the teeth of a saw and a branch of laurel."

"And she never speaks to you about anything else?"

"Yes; but I have not understood."

Voice Like a Child.

"What is her voice like?" was the final question.

"Like that of children, shrill," replied the girl. "One would say that she sings."

The writer visited the elm, but only saw perched on the famous branch a little bird, which seemed to look mockingly at him. He adds that little Suzanne is quite natural and like other children, and that she describes her experiences in the simplest and most unaffected style. But he reminds his readers that it was in that district that the Maid of Orleans was captured, and that the country people still retain all sorts of traditions about her, so the child must have heard many a thrilling tale about her, and be more or less familiar with old prints in which she is portrayed. From this to some freak of fancy the step would not be far. And this is the practical explanation accepted even in that rural region, and it is certainly indorsed here.

A STRANGE AIRSHIP

Craft Occupied by a Man and a Woman Passed Over Hampton Roads.

LOOKED LIKE AUTOMOBILE

Norfolk, Va., May 1.—A mysterious airship, occupied by a man and a woman, passed over Hampton Roads in the vicinity of Sewells Point, according to apparently well authenticated reports brought to Norfolk today. Those who saw the strange air craft stated that it resembled an automobile without wheels; that it was moved by a long propeller. The aeroplane did not ascend in this section.

JUST ANY OLD WAY

Mob Heard Militia Was Coming So Hanged Instead of Burned Negro.

ATTACKED A WHITE GIRL

Dallas, Tex., May 1.—A bulletin from Tyler, Texas, says that a mob broke into the jail there early today and took a negro named Jim Hargis, intending to burn him at the stake, but learning that the militia had been called out, hanged him to a tree in the court house yard. Hargis was accused of attacking a little white girl Friday evening. The mob is now trying to get other negroes out of the jail. The building, however, is now guarded, but the mob seems determined, refusing to disperse.

NO DIFFERENCE MADE BY STRIKE

President Livingstone Makes A Statement.

Detroit, Mich., May 1.—"It will make absolutely no difference in the attitude of the Lake Carriers association," said President William Livingstone after the marine strike had been decreed. "I have made my attitude plain a number of times."

Cleveland Affected.

Cleveland, O., May 1.—Five hundred local men were affected by the Lake Seamen's strike. Extra police were detailed to the docks, where pickets have been stationed more than a week.

Henry Coluby, president of the Pittsburg Steamship company, said his company had out forty-six vessels, fully manned and that he feared no trouble.
