

WILL SHOW QUAKER BRAWN AND BRAINS

On Friday and Saturday the Friends Will Participate Unique Event.

ORATORY AND ATHLETICS

FRIENDS' ACADEMIES WILL HOLD AT EARLHAM, A TRACK AND FIELD MEET AND AN ORATORICAL CONTEST.

"Quaker Day" at Earlham college, May 8, promises to be a red letter day in the history of athletics in this section of the state, and particularly at the Friends' college. On that date four Friends' academies clash in a quadrangular field and track meet. Fairmount, Vermillion Grove, Bloomington and Westfield will be the contestants. This meet will start promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning and in the afternoon at 2 o'clock the Earlham track team will meet the team representing De Pauw university of Greencastle. This meet promises to be one of the hottest that has ever been held on Reid Field and from present indications, one of the largest crowds that has ever attended any athletic event at Earlham college, will be present.

An Oratorical Contest.

In connection with the academic meet, which is to be held Saturday morning, an oratorical contest, in which the four schools are represented, will be held in Lindley hall on Friday evening. The names of the contestants are not given on the program that has been received by Prof. E. P. Trueblood, as it is hoped to keep this a secret from the judges so that no partiality can be shown. It is understood that the schools have some eloquent speakers and that the contest will be fought with much spirit and vim. The subjects are "World Federation," "Subdividing the Earth," "Democracy" and "America's Need." In the contest in declamation the subjects are "Edith's Burglar," "The Cook," "A Selection from Quo Vadis," and the "First Piano in Camp." The subjects are broad and give an opportunity for much thought. The judges on thought and composition are Prof. W. N. Trueblood, of Earlham college, Pres. W. A. Mills of Hanover, and Supt. R. A. Ogg of Kokomo. The judges on delivery are Prof. Elbert Russell, Earlham College; Prof. C. W. Knouff, principal of Richmond high school, and Prof. F. S. Lamar, of the Richmond high school. Prof. Trueblood has extended a cordial invitation to the public to attend and it is expected from the reports, that the hall will be filled to its utmost capacity.

"CHERRY PICKERS" LEADER IS KILLED

LIGHTNING BOLT STRIKES CHIMNEY

Bricks Hurlled All Over the Neighborhood.

Lightning struck a chimney on the residence of a family named Rhinehart on South B street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, yesterday afternoon and completely demolished it. The blow was of such force that bricks were hurled over the entire neighborhood. Besides destroying the chimney, no damage was reported. Many persons were badly frightened.

RICHMOND BUSINESS MEN CROWD ABOUT FESTIVE BANQUET BOARD

Indiana," stated the speaker. He then referred to the entertainment given the visiting members last November and the success of the affair. Three things offer a good field for the cooperation of the state club, energy, vitality and unification. He pointed out several things which the club could take an active part in, such as promoting inland waterways, conservation of forests and streams, and similar important matters throughout the state.

"Who's Who?" afforded a chance for Charles E. Shiveley to poke fun at different ones present and not present. He stated "Doc" seemed to be "who's who" at the present time. He declared that the programs were printed on green paper in honor of the toastmaster, and inquired of Mr. Kuth why the bottom of a strawberry box was so near the top. (Mr. Kuth promised to set 'em up.) Mr. Shiveley declared that it was not always the man whose name was most in the newspapers; most on the lips of the people, who does the most for his community. "There are men here this evening who diversified from their regular line of business; a merchant on poetry, others on good roads, statesmanship and the like," declared the speaker. According to the speaker, "who's who" is the man who is interested in the welfare of the city, county, state and nation. He concluded with the statement that such an organization as represented last evening could do anything which it put its shoulder to.

"Some Civic Ideals."

Hon. Charles F. Coffin of Indianapolis, a prominent attorney, spoke in a humorous and serious tone in response to the toast, "Some Civic Ideals." He proved to be one of the features of the evening. After poking fun at Secretary E. M. Haas for a few moments, he congratulated the club on having an ideal secretary. He stated that he, himself, was not an ideal speaker, failing in two essentials, humor, and ability to quote a quotation. He had only platitudes, the third essential. He said the public should receive 100 cents for every dollar spent by public officials. He stated that it was necessary that public affairs be taken out of partisan politics. He declared that politics should play no more part in public affairs than they do in a factory. He questioned whether it was good business for a factory manager to discharge the employees under him, because they differed in politics. The third platitude was that the time was coming when office holders would lay awake nights to see what they could put in their administration instead of spending their time seeing how much they could get out of it.

Rev. J. Everett Cathell stated that he was put on the program to act the part of the clown. "Brief Sense and Nonsense," the toast to which he responded, proved to be the best of the evening. Stories told in an inimitable style, illustrating points on the "wet" and "dry" question; the recent mayoralty race; good roads, and the Des Moines plan of government, kept the audience in a continual laugh.

Hon. L. Ert Slack of Franklin, one of the most prominent democrats of the state, closed the evening's program with a response to the toast "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." The keynote of his toast was that any community, independent of the surrounding community, should have a right to do as it pleased so long as it carried on its affairs under the constitution. Tribute was paid to our forefathers as founding the greatest political institution ever known. But the speaker declared that the details were left by them for us to work out. The duties of citizenship have retarded greatly, according to the speaker. "In order that we hand down to posterity the basic principle of government, as given us by the constitution, we must not shift the responsibility of the citizen or the municipality to the state. Preserve the individual rights and promote character," said Mr. Slack. "Do not cure an evil by too many reforms, which may conflict with the constitution, but delay them as they tend to destroy the basic idea of individual government," he concluded.
