BUTLER WAS EASY

Collegians Put Up Weak Ball Game Against the Earham Nine.

GAME WAS UNINTERESTING

There was little to the game of baseball on Reid Field yesterday afternoon between Earham and Butler colleges but the score. That was pretty big, 10 to 3 and the Quakers had the larger section. It was a game of the "so-so" order. At no time was there any semblance of a high class contest. The Earhamites had gone through a grueling battle last Saturday and did not seem to have awakened yesterday. Butler played with lead in her shoes. She was a perfect lady, however, and did not refuse to permit the Quakers to win. Errors were too frequent to make the game diabolical and there was a spirit of listlessness that did not help matters.

GOOD BOWLING GAME

A crimp was put in the championship aspirations of Graham and Roberts in the two-man bowling tournament at the City Bowling alleys, last evening, by Waldrup and Kenney, which team is pressing the leaders for first position. Waldrup and Kenney took two of the three games, the team scores for the match being as follows: Waldrup and Kenney, 329, 351 and 344; Roberts and Graham, 362, 348 and 334.

ROYALS TO MEET THE LOCAL TEAM

Good Baseball Game Is Expected Next Sunday.

The Cincinnati Royals will be the opponents of the local baseball team next Sunday. The team comes here with a good reputation and it is hoped that it will put up a better exhibition than the Norwood Blues, which team played here last Sunday. The Royals were scheduled to play here earlier in the season but rain interfered with the game. This team was defeated by the Hamilton Browns last Sunday.

WILL BUILD SOON

The construction of a new brick business block on Main street, just east of the Westcott hotel, will proceed immediately. Judge D. W. Comstock, the owner of the property, took out a building permit yesterday. It calls for the expenditure of $18,000. The building will be two stories high, business rooms being arranged for on the ground floor and office rooms above.

TAFT REVOKED IT

Washington, May 25.—President Taft today issued executive orders, revoking the order issued by Roosevelt, creating a fine arts commission, which would be illegal unless authorized by congress.

A HOMER PIGEON TAKES THE MEDAL

Bird Last Evening While Speeding Along, Smashes Into Headlight.

IS CARRIED BY THE ENGINE

WHILE A WIPER WAS AT WORK THIS MORNING IN THE LOCAL YARDS HE DISCOVERED THE STUNNED BIRD.

Another story of bird lore has been produced by the local branch of the Panhandle lines. This bids well to outrank the robin episode of a recent date and as a matter of fact, seems really more remarkable. How does the story of a robin sitting on her nest on the journal box of a freight car and riding from New York to Richmond to become the mother of three little birds, be murdered and have her young ones stolen, compare to the tale of the homing pigeon that flew through the glass on the front of a locomotive engine's headlight?

Bird is Captive.

But did a bird ever fly through the front of a headlight? Yes, and lived "to tell the tale." And the bird now is in the custody of Pietro Tarrara, a hostler at the P. C. C. & St. L. railway company's roundhouse on North Twelfth street. It is a pretty blue homer with a green stripe across its head and neck. On the left leg of the bird is a silver band bearing the marking "E 40,009" and on the right leg is a copper band marked "R. B. 06." It is evident the pigeon is valued by its owner and probably was on a mission last night. And this leads to the story.

As Panhandle passenger train No. 40 was bowing along on its way to Richmond last evening with Lon Smyser at the throttle, there was a brief impact as from a stone against the glass on the headlight. The light was not in use at the time, so no attention was paid to the matter except the trainmen reported the glass as broken.

Heard a Noise.

When Pietro, the hostler, was climbing around wiping off the engine some hours later he heard a peculiar noise. He could not locate it, although it seemed in the vicinity of the smokestack. He kept on with his work, interrupting his labors occasionally to listen to the scratching noise. But all kinds of noises are heard about a roundhouse, so Pietro thought little of the matter.

Finally his labors brought him to the headlight and he began removing the pieces of shattered glass. The chimney of the lamp had been broken and he reached into the opening to gather up the fragments. He heard the same peculiar noise and looking carefully he saw something behind the reflector. He reached his hand in and pulled out a beautifully marked homing pigeon.

Mystery is Solved.

The mystery of the broken glass was solved. Trainmen say the bird must have been flying straight ahead at high speed and struck the glass when the train was going rapidly also. The compact of the two was sufficient to break the glass and the bird fell inside. It had suffered a severe cut on the left shoulder and had been stunned by the blow. It was aroused after Pietro pulled it from the darkness and fluttered about, but unable to escape.

Tarrara called the attention of other employees at the roundhouse to his captive bird and told where he found it. This morning the pigeon was turned over to Gus Pfafflin, the foreman. He took it to a veterinarian and had the injury dressed. A box has been converted into a cage and the trainmen will care for their pet until publicity of the numbers on its bands brings word from its owner or it regains strength enough to fly again.

The experience of the bird is believed to be one of the strangest on record. The mother robin brought notice to the employees at the Panhandle freight depot but the roundhouse boys expect their feathered friend to prove a greater freak in the life of the winged creatures.

AN OCCUPATION BEING PLANNED

Semi-official Service Organ Today Outlines the Cuban Program.

PEACEFUL INTERVENTION

IT IS STATED THAT IT IS PROPOSED TO SEND DIPLOMATIC AGENT WITH HIGH POWERS TO ISLAND REPUBLIC.

Washington, May 25.—The Army and Navy Register, the semi-official publication, usually inspired by the high officials of the government, contains an editorial today, which indicates that the suddenly terminated visit of the secretary of war to Cuba has something to do with the prospective changes there, which may be in shape of an American diplomatic representative being appointed with practically the powers of a governor. It is believed such intervention would avoid the sending of troops, as here tofore outlined in these dispatches.

Finally his labors brought him to the headlight and he began removing the pieces of shattered glass. The chimney of the lamp had been broken and he reached into the opening to gather up the fragments. He heard the same peculiar noise and looking carefully he saw something behind the reflector. He reached his hand in and pulled out a beautifully marked homing pigeon.

FINED FOR VAGRANCY.

Borneo's Querulous Animals.

There is no country in the world more inviting to the naturalist than Borneo, where are found the flying squirrels, flying foxes, flying lizards, flying frogs, and the natives report flying snakes. Among the most noted birds is the little swift, Collocalia nidiifica. Their nests are eaten by the Chinese and are regarded as a great luxury. These birds build their nests in limestone caves of a glutinous saliva which they produce from their glands. No sticks or any foreign substances are used. The collection of these nests is an important industry with the natives, though they pay a tax on all they take to market. They are served at the great feasts of the Chinese, especially at weddings.

What happened to me?" asked the chronic optimist when he woke up in the morning.

"A shark bit your leg off," said the nurse.

"Oh, well," he mused. "I had rheumatism in that leg anyhow."—Cleveland Leader.

SHE FINALLY GETS RELIEF

Chicago, May 25.—Through the efforts of the Traveller's Aid of the Y. W. C. A., relief came for the tearful wife of a New York drummer whose husband had started on a commercial tour from New York to Yellowstone Park, and had invited her to accompany him as far as Chicago on his journey.

Inadvertently her husband got on the train bound for she knew not where, without telling her goodbye, or giving her the return ticket to New York. Her cash on hand at that time was just $2.00. The Traveller's Aid is designed
