

RICHMOND STILL ON TROTTER MAP

Local Horsemen Are Active
And Have Some Very Fast Stock.

HOLDER HAS BIG MARKET

ALL THE SPEED HORSES AT THE COMMONS STOCK FARM HAVE BEEN MOVED TO THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS.

In the last issue of the Western Horseman, published at Indianapolis, the local correspondent has a long article in regard to the horsemen of Wayne county. It is as follows:

Richmond, Ind., is still on the trotting horse map, according to a correspondent from that city, who is afraid that some of the horsemen are hiding the light under the old, proverbial bushel.

Dr. Zimmerman, he says, is working a two-year-old colt by Dare Devil, 2:09, that can show better than a two-minute clip at the trot. Ed Holder, well known show and trotting horseman, is keeping the railroads busy unloading horses that he is finding a market for among his many satisfied patrons. All horses are alike to Ed—saddlers, drivers, trotters and pacers. He finds buyers for them all as fast as they arrive, and has time to turn out a well-appointed rig from his livery when called for.

To the State Fair.

All of the speed horses at Commons Stock Farm, Centerville, Ind., have been moved to the state fair grounds, Indianapolis, Ind., leaving only the youngsters and breeding stock. Anderson Wilkes, heading the Commons Stock Farm stud, is receiving a liberal patronage, and his colts look good.

The Reidston Stock Farm is working its colts on the farm track, and all seem to be doing fine under the management of Superintendent John Dagler, who has engaged Charley Osborn, the well known driver and trainer of Centerville, to assist him in working the young prospects this summer. Mr. Dagler states that the Reidston Stock Farm has sent a few of their grandly bred mares to some of the famous sires of the Blue Grass region—two of them, one by Walnut Hall, the other by Ashford, to Peter the Great; The Gay Girl (dam of Gait, 2:09 1/4); Expedite, 2:24 1/4; and Ash Row, (2:29 1/4), by Andy Wilkes, to The Bondsman; Roxana to Vice Commodore and Laura Prodigious, by Prodigal, out of Laurel B., by Sable Wilkes, to Walnut Hall. They have also sent the mare Miss Elizabeth to Ed Winter, at Indianapolis, Ind. Reidston Stock Farm has two foals by John A. McKerron, 2:04 1/4, one colt and one filly, that are out of Stamboulette, 2:10 1/4, and Reidston Girl, by Alarius, out of Onward's Daughter, by Onward.

G. B. Dougan Happy, proprietor of Reidston Stock Farm, is loud in his praises of P. O. Shank, in charge of John A. McKerron and the brood mares sent to be bred to him. He sent two mares to be bred to this horse, and they were returned to him within sixty days in the best of condition at a moderate cost, and both mares foaled on the day due, as per Mr. Shank's certificate of stallion service.

H. G. Iredell, pioneer horseman, one of the happiest of men, is driving a three-year-old Directly that is a sure trotter. He gives the Richmond dust to those who tackle him on the road.

Otto Krone is showing a new one every day, and his supply of standard bred mares is still on the increase. He thinks he has the best Anderson Wilkes colt on earth, several Oratorios and a few Prince Directs.

Tom Butler, Leslie Cook, Jake Haines, Charley Hodge, Otto Porter, Dr. Kinzie, Frank Wheelan and Tom McCarthy are all fanciers and have a few of the right kind.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS

ENJOYED A HIKE

Now Planning to Go Into Camp Near Economy, Ind.

The teachers' training class of the Y. M. C. A., including twelve boys, accompanied by Orville Brunson, acting secretary of the association, took the first hike of the season Thursday evening to Reid Springs. Supper, including eggs, bacon and the like, were cooked and afterwards an enjoyable time had while seated around the camp fire. Mr. Brunson, with several of the older members of the association, is making arrangements for opening a camp at Osborn's Lake, near Economy after the public schools close.

COUNTY OFFICES WILL BE CLOSED

Holiday Monday Will Seal Up
Big Building.

All county offices will be closed Monday. The court house will be very much like an immense sepulchre so far as business is concerned. There will be no circuit court and not even the janitors will be found about it. His not been determined whether the spirit of patriotism is so prevalent at the temple of justice or that just the chance to have a holiday is what leads the county officials in the matter.

PENNSYLVANIA CHANGES TIME.

ELECTION HELD BY WHITEWATER

Lodge Shows an Unusual Good Growth Past Year.

Last night the semi-annual election of officers of Whitewater lodge of Odd Fellows was held. George Reeder was elected Noble Grand; Walter Helms, vice grand; L. A. Handley, secretary; E. D. Neff, treasurer. The past six months, during which time R. E. Bryson was Noble Grand, the lodge had an unusual growth in membership, nearly 40 initiations taking place.

WAKING IS INJURED

While riding a motorcycle last evening, William Waking, collided with a pedestrian on West Main street. Waking's knee was wrenched and the man he struck was bruised somewhat. Waking was not injured too severely to prevent him going to Dayton to compete in the motorcycle races, however.

and conquest. The Republic has leaped forward by great bounds until our colors now lead all colors of the world in commercial, financial and industrial progress. All these facts give assurance that wars will cease.

"The master question of this age is that of the industrial. Six million men and women work for wages in this country. John Mitchell says two millions of them never at any one time have more than two weeks' wages ahead. The question therefore is not of the conquest of country nor one of armies or navies, but of the conquests of peace. There will be a peaceful revolution along modern industrial lines—there will be disarmament in Europe or there must be and will be a revolution by the side of which the famous French revolution would be but a zephyr.

"Our country should not and must not follow in the wake of the military spirit of Central Europe. I hope the time will come when the building of ships of destruction will cease and we will pursue the paths of peace instead of trailing the bloody pathway of war. The men who toll in this republic will help to bring this about, for it is they, who in the last analysis bear the burdens of war."

TRYING INVOLVE UNCLE SAM WITH GEORGE STRIKE

notified General Manager Scott of the railroad that he would not permit engineers to jeopardize their lives by taking out trains. He modified this, however, today amending his order to accept mail trains.

Unusual Situation.

The situation presented today was an unusual one. The union engineer who guided the first mail train today sat opposite a strike breaker.

The train, in addition to carrying the United States employees to distribute the mails, carried some railroad detectives to assist in protecting the life of the strike breaker if bodily harm were offered to him.

At various points along the line the train was hooted and jeered by throngs of strikers and their friends.

The railroad has instructed its engineers to act with extreme caution for fear some fanatics among the strike sympathizers plan to wreck a train.

THE THEATER

THEATRICAL CALENDAR.

NEW PHILLIPS.

All Week—High Class Vaudeville.

GENNETT THEATRE.

Week of May 24—"Billy Link."

June 2 and 3—Opera, "Priscilla."

The New Phillips.

Carmelo's living pictures and art poses won the unstinted praise of the large audiences at the New Phillips. The pictures and poses are themselves a very worthy offering but this attractiveness is greatly enhanced by the beautiful lighting effect. One of the most popular pictures was Mil's well known masterpiece, the "Angelus," which is shown with a soft twilight coloring and accompaniment of music which gives it a particularly impressive atmosphere. Carmelo's poses are something new in the living picture line, they are in no way offensive, but interesting and instructive and few will miss the opportunity of seeing them.

The comedy of the bill is divided into two parts, both of which are successful. The Cessars, in a sketch and the Three Mice, in a singing and talking act, are the successful ones and the illustrated song gives fervor to the theme.
