

Free Laxative Cured Legions

Realizing how difficult it is to convince the average person that one remedy is different from another, even though recommended for the same purpose, and that where one fails the other may still succeed, the dispensers of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound, have for several years sent free trial bottles of the remedy to any person who would send name and address.

Through this offer many hundred thousand samples have been distributed. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has never been recommended for anything but such conditions as constipation, liver trouble, biliousness, sour stomach, indigestion, flatulency, dyspepsia, sick headache, heartburn and similar symptoms of stomach, liver and bowel disease. That it will cure such troubles is attested by the experience of Mrs. Lydia Dixon, of Mingo, Ky.; Mrs. W. Cunningham, of Talent, Ore.; S. A. Tucker, of Hattiesburg, Miss.; and a host of others. They originally sent for the free trial bottle, and then, being convinced that the remedy was helping them, they bought the regular 50-cent or $1 size bottle of their druggist, and in a short while were cured.

While Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists with the guarantee that it will do as claimed or money will be refunded, yet any reader suffering from a stomach, liver or bowel complaint is invited to write to Dr. Caldwell at the address below for a free trial bottle, which will be cheerfully sent. We doubt if there is a laxative in America that has so many families using it in the home as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Owing to its special ingredients it has proven a great life-saver of children, women and old folk. It is pleasant to take and never trips.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service.

The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 804 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

A BATTLE SCENE ROUSED VETERANS

War Scarred Veterans Were Guests of Arcade Show Yesterday.

BROUGHT BACK MEMORIES

WHEN THE FILM SHOWED THE RAGGED LINE OF CHARGING TROOPS DIMMED EYES SHOWN BRIGHTLY AGAIN.

"Tell you boys, that's the best ever I saw."

"Say, John, I can just feel it in my bones again."

These and other remarks were made by veterans of the Civil war as they stood in front of the Arcade theater yesterday afternoon and commented upon the moving picture display they had just seen. And so vividly were their memories of the days of carnage recalled that they began to relate battle incidents in which they had had personal experience. It was a fitting climax to the day and today at their work or in their homes they recall the pictures and then the actuality.

Near Rattle of Guns.

The veterans and their wives were the guests of the theater after the exercises at the coliseum. They filled the auditorium from front to back. Each display of the national colors was applauded loudly. It was a big treat and one that was enjoyed. The theater management had "rehearsed" in advance and there was the rattle of guns and the boom of cannon as the pictures showed the discharges. The pictures took up the story of the young volunteer leaving home and hurrying to the front. It was the same kind of scenes as the veterans themselves had passed through and they appreciated every detail as if living them over again. The volunteer is shown later as he goes into action with his company. A battle scene aroused the enthusiasm of the veterans to cheers. The rebel fort on the hilltop was at last forced to surrender to Union attackers and then it was from the dozens of throats shouts of joy went up. As the stars and stripes were carried up the hill, there was stamping of feet and clapping of hands from the old soldiers. To be with them and witness their enthusiasm was a treat that aroused the patriotism of those too young to know how realistic were the pictures.

NORTH AND SOUTH UNITE

ANDERSONVILLE PRISON IS THE SCENE OF A FRIENDLY MEETING OF THE SURVIVORS OF THE GREAT WAR.

New York, June 1.—Greater New York City paid tribute to both living and departed heroes of the civil war. On Riverside drive the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic marched in their annual parade to the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, passing in review before Mayor McClellan, and at the monument holding their memorial exercises and listening to an address by Gen. George R. Loud. With the veterans marched several companies of United States troops, sailors and marines, national guard, and other organizations. It is estimated that 15,000 men were in line.

Farther up the river, at the tomb of General Ulysses S. Grant, services were held by United States Grant post, with an oration by Gov. Hughes. The governor had previously reviewed a parade of the Grand Army in Brooklyn.

One of the interesting events of the day was the visit of the members of John A. Dix post, G. A. R., to Trinity cemetery, where memorial services were held at the grave of Gen. Dix.

Dead at Arlington Honored.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—The principal Memorial day exercises were conducted at Arlington under the auspices of the G. A. R. Every grave was marked with an American flag, while flowers were strewn about everywhere. The ceremonies at the monument which marks the resting place of over 2,000 unknown soldiers, were particularly impressive.

Appropriate exercises also were conducted at the Soldiers' Home National cemetery and other burial places in the city. At the Soldiers' home Representative Hollingsworth of Ohio, who gained considerable notoriety by his resolution protesting against placing the head of Jefferson Davis on the silver service of the battleship Mississippi, was one of the speakers. He referred to the discussion in the house on the subject and declared that "it would be a dark day indeed for the republic when the name of Abraham Lincoln ceases to be revered above all other figures of the civil war period, or when it shall be replaced by that of Jefferson Davis."

FOR ANDERSONVILLE VICTIMS.

Andersonville, Ga., June 1.—The graves of the 13,722 Union soldiers who gave up their lives in Andersonville prison were strewn with flowers. Many Confederate veterans joined those whom they opposed in the sixties in honoring the memory of the soldiers of the northern army who are buried in the national cemetery here.

JOHNSON LEAGUE FORMED.

Greenville, Tenn., June 1.—In the National cemetery, which for the last forty years has served as the resting place for the body of Andrew Johnson, the seventeenth president of the United States, thousands of the descendants of his old time neighbors and friends organized the Andrew Johnson Memorial association.

DEAL WAS DELAYED

Ohio Laws Prevent Prompt Closing Up of Beallview Factory Scheme.

IT WILL BE CONSIDERED

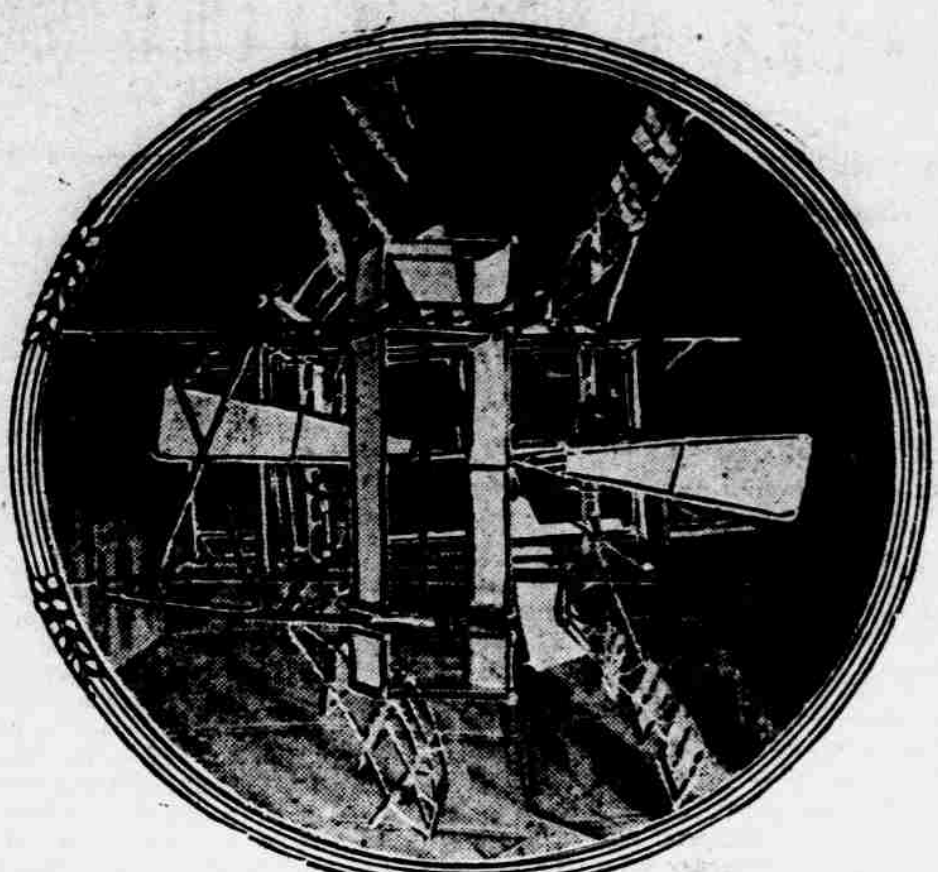

Because of the laws of Ohio, the South Side Improvement Association has not been able to close its deal with an Ohio machine factory, to locate in Beallview. At the meeting of the directors of the association this evening, this, among other business matters coming to their attention, will be discussed.

The directors of the manufacturing concern have had several consultations with the local promoters and see into favor the idea of locating here very much. At a meeting Sunday afternoon in this city, the directors of the concern, stated that it would be three weeks before the deal could be finally closed. Under the laws of Ohio each stock holder has to agree to the removal of the factory. The annual stock holders' meeting of the factory will be held the middle of June.

MAY BE STRICKEN.

The statement was made in circuit court today by an attorney interested that the case of Pilling vs. Campfield has been settled out of court and may be stricken from the docket. The suit was brought on account.

Monument Honors The Heroes On Bloody Gettysburg Field

Gettysburg, Pa., June 1.—The monument erected on the battle field of Gettysburg to commemorate the services of the regular army of the United States in the Gettysburg campaign in 1863 is one of the most interesting, dignified and conspicuous memorials on the famous battle field. It is situated on Hancock avenue, a little south of the Bloody Angle, where Pickett's fearless men struck the Union line with such disastrous results to the invading army. The memorial is a shaft eighty-five feet high from the ground and is made of light-colored granite from the quarries at Mt. Airy, N. C.

The base of the monument is 14 1/2 feet square and 17 feet high and is surrounded by a beautiful granite terrace 43 1/2 feet square, with a two-foot high fence or wall. Four entrances, each 14 feet wide, with three granite steps, lead to the base of the monument. On each side of the second plinth, which is 12 1/2 feet high, is an eagle cut solidly on the face of the plinth. Each eagle is 4 feet high, and all are said to be the finest modeled eagles ever cut in granite or cast in bronze in America. Upon the second plinth rests the plain shaft, which is 53 feet tall.

On each side of the plinth is a large bronze panel, said to be the largest and finest memorial tablets ever cast in the United States or any other country. The tablet facing the east contains the following inscription:

"Erected by the Congress to commemorate the services of that portion of the Army of the Potomac composed of cavalry, artillery, infantry and engineers of the regular army of the United States in the Gettysburg campaign, June-July, 1863."

The tablet on the west side is inscribed as follows:

The artillery, consisting of twenty-six batteries, was distributed over the field among the several army corps and placed in position where their services were most needed.

Brig. Gen. Henry J. Hunt, chief of artillery.

GIVEN A HEARING IN COURT TODAY

Louck & Hill Company Seek To Foreclose a Lien.

The suit of Louck and Hill Company vs. Frank and Winifred Posther was heard in circuit court today. The suit was brought to foreclose a mechanic's lien. It is the outgrowth of the Caldwell & Mobley failure. The contractors had contracted to build the defendants a house and failed before it was completed. Louck & Hill, as a supply firm for the contractors, is seeking to collect from Posther or foreclose on a lien.

Milkweed and Ivy Poison.

A writer in "The Emergency Service" says: "Ragged milkweed will cure oak or ivy poison. This fact should be generally known by all who love to roam the woods. Being in the woods nearly all the time, I used to be bothered every summer, getting poisoned two or three times every season. I learned of the milkweed cure accidentally, as I would rub the itching places with all kinds of shrub and weeds until one day I let the juice of a milkweed run on some of the rashes on my hands and noticed that it dried up the blisters and stopped all itching. Since then I have tried this remedy in many different cases and at all stages, and it has invariably cured every case. I have had to cure some people two or more times before they would believe in the milkweed, as they were using other things at the time the milkweed was applied."

Turned Down.

"May I ask how you earned your first salary?" inquired a reporter who was interviewing a celebrated statesman.

"I earned it, sir," said the great man, "by doing just what you are doing now. I was deputed to interview a man, and it may interest you to know that I got a good deal more information out of him than you're likely to get out of me!"

The New Phillips.

The Creation of Pupa did not get here but a good lively attraction did, so the stage scenery at the New Phillips is no worse for the wear. Stuart and Keely, song and dance artists came and came with much force. Stuart gives clever imitations of different styles of present day walking while he is dancing and this alone is worth the admission. Miss Keeler is a requisite to the success of the bill, she being a fine dancer and takes up where Stuart leaves off cleverly.

The Semon Duo, in 18 minutes of musical comedy, are as good as you will find anywhere and Gus and Marion Kohl have a line of hat juggling that bespeaks long training and natural ability.

Monuments to Potatoes.

"When I was in Germany," said a man who travels, "I saw some people who like potatoes even better than I do. At any rate, they erect statues to them. Offenber was the first city to erect a monument of this kind. The upper part consists of a statue of Sir Francis Drake, who introduced the plant into Europe. This as well as the pedestal is draped with garlands of the potato vine with full grown tubers. On the pedestal on one side is a lion. On the other side, the second Sir Francis Drake's name, the second side explains what a blessing the potato has been to mankind, the third records that the statue is the gift of a certain Andrew Frederick of Stramburg, and the fourth contains the names of the erectors. A statue similar to this is in the town of Mura, and I have been told that there are other copies in many small towns."—New York Sun.

Still Believe in Witchcraft.

A belief in witchcraft still prevails in parts of Lancashire, England; also in the Isle of Man and still more strongly in the Hebrides. A writer in Chambers' Journal gives some interesting anecdotes of the superstitions which persist among the Hebrideans. Belief in witchcraft is said to have a "strong and living hold" on some of the people of those outer isles. An instance is given of a case heard before the Stornoway sheriff's court not many years ago, in which witnesses deposed to there being several witches in the township, one of whom was charged with so bewitching cows that the substance of their milk passed into the milk of the witch's cow. The husband of the alleged witch stated in court that when he heard the rumors about his wife he got three of the constables of the township to come and examine his cow's milk to see if it were any richer than usual, as would be the case if the substance of Mrs. A's cow's milk were present in it. Other evidence of this remarkable transubstantiation was given. The sheriff ridiculed the notion of witchcraft, but the Stornowegians stuck to it with absolute faith.

Mexican Politicians.

Mexicans have a nice, delicate way of saying even unpleasant things. A young Mexican lady, talking with a prisoner in the penitentiary, politely asked, "How long do you expect to be away from home?"

A lawyer in Mexico writes politely of a certain senator: "I have written to Senator — about the documents, and I am awaiting his reply. He has not answered, although there has been plenty of time. I hear he is in jail, and that, of course, handicaps him to some extent."
