

STEEL PLANT IS STILL SHUT DOWN

Officials of Company Making Strenuous Efforts to Get Workmen.

FAIL TO MEET SUCCESS

AUSTRIAN CONSUL IS MINGLING WITH THE EMPLOYEES OF CONCERN BUT REFUSES TO DISCUSS SITUATION.

(American News Service)
Pittsburg, July 23.—No attempt has yet been made to resume operations at the pressed Steel Car company plant at McKee's Rocks, although President Hofstetler of the company said the works would start today. Officials of the company are making strenuous efforts to obtain workmen, but seem unable to induce any considerable number of men to enter their employ. This is not due so much to sentiment as to the fact that even men who would not hesitate to break a strike are frightened away by the stories told of the terrible working conditions of the plant.

Finishers Have Left.

Fifty-three finishers who have worked since the strike started left the plant for their homes in Chicago. They are men who do the finest work. Whether or not the men win the strike a sensational shake up is promised as soon as things become normal. Bosses from the petty foremen of small gangs of foreign workmen up to men holding high positions will be thrown out as a result of the exposures of grafting and unjust treatment the strike has uncovered.

The Austro-Hungarian consul, Joseph Gorkar, is mingling freely with the men obtaining affidavits, documents, pay envelopes and all data bearing on working conditions. He talks very little and that in a conservative tone, but it is known he will have a startling tale for the newspapers about his investigation is complete. About the only excitement in town is the numerous false alarms that strike breakers have arrived. A signal has been agreed on and when three cracks of a pistol finally announce the arrival of new men there may be startling developments.

FEW REPUBLICAN CHIEFS ANXIOUS FOR PROHIBITION

inations will be asked to tell what they think of it, however, for they are nearly all hoping that the liquor question will be left entirely out of politics next year.

ELKS THE WINNER

Down at Columbus, Ind., the Elks and Commercial Club played a game of baseball for charity. Incidentally the Elks won by a score of 36 to 28. It was a great contest and the associated charities of Columbus profited to the extent of $300 from the proceeds. That wasn't poor and the ball game wasn't anything to be compared to the kind they play in Richmond.

TWO MYSTERIOUS WOMEN ON SCENE

Arrived in Annapolis Today, Probably at Witnesses In Trial.

CONSULTED MRS. SUTTON

WHEN TOLD THE COURT WOULD ADJOURN THE TWAIN DEPARTED FOR BALTIMORE—MRS. PARKER'S CHARGES.

(American News Service)
Annapolis, Md., July 23.—Two women of mystery, both young and pretty, appeared on the scene of the inquiry into the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton today. The young women consulted with Sutton's mother and sister, who have been conducting the fight to have the original verdict set aside. No one connected with the case would reveal the names of the two strangers. It is expected that they will be witnesses. When they were told the hearing would adjourn until next week, the two hurriedly left for Baltimore.

It is declared that by the testimony of these women, if they decided to put the witnesses on the stand, the Suttons intend to corroborate the declarations Adams is said to have made to Mrs. Parker.

The naval board of inquiry met again to hear testimony which attorneys for the mother and sister of the dead marine officer hoped to prove murder was committed.

DeHart On Stand.
Sergeant DeHart, the only non-commissioned officer at the scene of the tragedy, was called with searching questions to develop if possible the identity of the lieutenant who passed the revolver to him after Sutton had been shot.

"We will show that when DeHart reached the scene three men were standing around my brother, while one was holding up his head," Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker said today before the session began.

"I know that at that time someone was making an effort to remove evidence of murder. The man who turned and gave the revolver to DeHart, did it in order to have the blame for the crime placed on the non-commissioned officer."

Spoiled Their Plans.
DeHart spoiled their plans by throwing the pistol away. We will develop before we get through with DeHart the names of all the men on the scene and the part each one played.

"Col. Doyens's testimony was most satisfactory. There is one point I wish to emphasize—the various witnesses are consistent at least in the decided way each one contradicts the other."

"Now we expected to prove our case by the testimony of hostile witnesses. When our side is made known, there will be no doubt but that my brother was killed."

Dramatic Persons.

The stages and theaters of the ancient Greeks and Romans were so immensely large that the actors to be heard were obliged to have recourse to metallic masks contrived with tremendous mouths in order to augment the natural sound of the voice. This mask was called by the Latins "persona," from personare (to sound through), and delineations of such masks used in each piece were generally prefixed to it as we now prefix the names of the characters in our modern plays; hence "Dramatic personae" (masks of the drama), which words, after masks ceased to be used, were understood to mean persons of the drama.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE IS NOW DISMISSED

Charles Gaar and Wife Patch Up Trouble.

A reconciliation having ensued among the principals in the case of Fannie O. Gaar vs. Charles Gaar for divorce has been dismissed in the Wayne circuit court. Mrs. Gaar brought suit a few weeks ago following the alleged departure from the city of her husband with another woman.

At the time the suit was instituted it was claimed Gaar had left the city for the far northwest. Mrs. Gaar believed herself and children forsaken and the matter was taken to court. Since then Gaar has returned home and it is reported the breach between the couple has been healed.

LIVES ARE SAVED BY HUMAN SWING

Men Hang by Arms on Trestle, Holding Small Boy Between Them.

TRAIN GOES OVER HEADS

ILLINOIS MEN WHEN THREATENED WITH A TERRIBLE DEATH TAKE THE ONLY MEANS TO PRESERVE LIVES.

St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—When A. C. Stalder and Harry Herren, incumbered with a basket and a 6 year old boy, were caught on a trestle over a flooded inlet at Chautauqua, Ill., they saved their lives and the life of the boy by hanging to the trestle, each by one arm, and holding the lad between them while a train rumbled past.

Herren and his sister, Mrs. Bertha Leonard, and her little boy, Raymond, were visiting at the Stalder home. Stalder, Herren and Raymond went down to Chautauqua to visit Stalder's mother-in-law. They tied up their launch at West Bluff and crossed the Bluff Line trestle to the Chautauqua grounds.

Caught in Middle of Trestle.
When they started to return home they knew no regular train was due and walked out on the trestle without hesitation. They were half way across the structure, which is sixty feet long and forty feet high, when a freight train rounded the sharp curve at West Bluff, within a few yards of the trestle.

Herren was walking ahead holding the boy's hand. Stalder was just behind them carrying an empty basket on his arm. They heard the rumble beyond the bluff. The next instant the engine came into view.

Stalder's first impulse was to catch up the boy and jump into the fifteen feet of water in the inlet, but he remembered that it was filled with logs and snags and he hesitated. Herren caught the boy up with his left arm and jumped to a stringer paralleling the rail at the end of the trestle and was lowering himself over the edge with his burden.

Stalder caught the boy about the knees with his right arm and also lowered himself, holding to a stringer with his left arm, on which the basket still hung.

Swing Over Water, Boy Between.
There was nothing for their feet to touch and they swung above the water, each holding on by one arm and holding the boy between them with their other arms.

The engine struck the basket and the wrench of the handle on Stalder's arm almost broke his hold and left a scar. The trembling of the trestle almost shook their grasp loose, but the train was not long and they were able to hold on until it passed.

MERCHANTS "STUNG"

PURDUE EXHIBIT FOR HAGERSTOWN

County Fair Will Have One of Greatest Educational Exhibits.

WILL INTEREST FARMERS

IT DEALS WITH EVERY POSSIBLE FEATURE OF RURAL LIFE, FROM AGRICULTURAL WORK TO HOME ECONOMICS.

Hagerstown, Ind., July 23.—The Hagerstown Fair will have one of the greatest educational exhibits in existence. Purdue Experiment Station has prepared a comprehensive collection of cereals, grasses, plants, fruits, seeds, weeds, utensils and photographs of mechanical appliances used by farmers and farmers' wives in modern methods of agriculture, horticulture, dairying, household economics and home sanitation and decoration. This exhibit was gotten together for exhibition at the state fairs and it was beyond expectation of the faculty at Purdue to be able to bring it right home to farmers, but this has been done and half a dozen county fairs will receive the exhibit this year.

Of Great Value.

A study of this exhibit will be of incalculable value to farmers and of deep interest to every visitor at the fair. Expert attendants will accompany the exhibit and explain every feature.

This exhibit is not sent free of charge and the cost is far greater than any race event on the program this year. But the fair is an educational institution where patrons will find many things to engage attention outside the speed ring, and the managers have wisely waived all thought of expense in securing this great exhibit. The fair will be held July 27 to the 30th.

GYPSY WOMAN HAD AN EASY VICTIM

Had Man Give Up His Purse on Pretense of Telling His Fortune.

SHE EXTRACTED $5 BILL

THREATS OF BODILY HARM AND ARREST WERE NECESSARY BEFORE THE FEMALE CROOK WOULD DISGORGE.

One of the women gypsies in the group that invaded the city yesterday came near getting away with a shrewd trick on a strange man yesterday afternoon. She met the stranger east of the city and asked him for a match. She wanted to tell his fortune after she had stopped him. She told him to put his hands in the pocket containing his purse and shake it. She did not hear the jingle of coin, so told him to remove the purse and let her blow in it for good luck.

Swallowed Bait.

The stranger took the bait and held his purse out to the gypsy and she opened it. While pretending to blow in the purse, with deft fingers she extracted a $5 bill and nimbly flicked it up her sleeve. The stranger was given back the purse. He counted his money immediately and missed the bill. He accused the woman of taking it, but it was not until after long argument and threats of arrest or bodily harm that he induced her to restore the money.

The gang was the boldest ever in the city. The women began a begging crusade in the business district, but the police put them to flight and hurried them out of the city.

An Appeal to Vanity.

A Mussulman general gained a victory over the Greeks and captured their leader. Having summoned the prisoner into his tent, he asked him what treatment he expected from his conqueror. "If you make war like a king," replied the Greek, "release me; if you make it like a trader, sell me; if you make it like a butcher, slaughter me." The Mussulman general set him free.
