

THAW TESTIFIES SUSTAINING WELL HIS BOMBARDMENT

Slayer of Stanford White Took
The Stand Today for First Time Since He Killed the Architect.

JEROME NETTLED BY THE MAN'S ANSWERS

After the Trying Ordeal, Prisoner Is Congratulated by Family—Evelyn Will Sue for A Divorce.

(American News Service)
White Plains, N. Y., July 28.—Harry Thaw took the witness stand for the first time today since he shot Stanford White. He retained his self control remarkably well under a scorching bombardment of questions by District Attorney Jerome. Thaw refused to waive the confidential relationship point to allow Evelyn to take the witness stand against him, but Jerome declared that another method would be employed to bring in her testimony. Thaw several times appealed to Justice Mills as to admissibility of certain questions, but when overruled answered with comparative grace and intelligence. At the recess hour Thaw was congratulated by his family and attorneys. His aged mother was overjoyed at the manner in which he stood the ordeal.

Jerome Was Nettled.
Thaw declared in answer to Jerome's question as to whether he had ever been declared insane that he had never been declared insane medically. Later, however, he declared he had been insane for a half minute when he killed Stanford White. The district attorney showed that the composure and keen reckoning of Stanford White's slayer, with every attempt on his part to make him prove himself insane by his own words and acts, nettled him considerably. Thaw was a victor at practically all points during the morning. He declared he killed White because he feared the architect had a gun and would kill him.

A Frenzied Crowd.
A frenzied crowd of curiosity seekers fought to gain entrance to the court room of Justice Mills two hours before court opened. Women were in the majority. Before court opened it was known that Harry K. Thaw would have to take the stand and submit to a grueling cross examination by District Attorney Jerome. Justice Mills having practically taken the case out of the lawyers' hands and ordered Mr. Merschauer to put Thaw on the stand at the beginning of today's court session. Justice Mills, it appears, cares little whether the testimony concerning Thaw's alleged whipping of young girls be true or false. He indicated plainly that he desired to see and hear Thaw under cross-examination.

Evelyn Is Happy.
Evelyn Thaw will sue for a divorce. She is jubilant over the testimony of the Merrill woman.
"Doesn't it make the grandest divorce case for me you ever heard of?" she said. "I know it is all true. I found it out myself. But I found it out only lately and that is why I quarreled with my husband and why I will no longer give him my aid."
This Merrill woman swore that Thaw, under the name of Reid—some times known as Professor Reid, a theatrical man—rented rooms from her at various addresses where she had lived. She identified a small pearl-handled whip as having been found by her in Thaw's room after he MESMERIZED A Poisonous Drug Still Freely Used.

Many people are brought up to believe that coffee is a necessity of life and the strong hold that the drug has on the system makes it hard to loosen its grip even when it realizes its injurious effects.
A lady in Baboo writes "I had used coffee for years; it seemed one of the necessities of life. A few months ago, my health, which had been slowly failing, became more impaired, and I knew that unless relief came from some source, I would soon be a physical wreck."

"I was weak and nervous, had sick headaches, no ambition, and felt tired of life. My husband was also losing his health. He was troubled so much with indigestion that at times he could eat only a few mouthfuls of dry bread."
"We concluded that coffee was slowly poisoning us, and stopped it, and used hot water. We felt somewhat better, but it wasn't satisfactory."

"Finally, we saw Postum advertised, and bought a package. I followed directions for making carefully, allowing it to boil twenty minutes after it came to the boiling point, and added cream, which turned it to the loveliest rich looking and tasting drink I ever saw served at any table, and we have used Postum ever since."

"I gained five pounds in weight in as many weeks, and now feel well and strong in every respect. My headaches have gone, and I am a new woman. My husband's indigestion has left him; he can now eat anything." "There's a reason."

had been arrested for the murder of Stanford White.

She swore that she had been given money to pay a woman known as Mrs. Reid, together with some two hundred other girls whom she said had come in answer to Thaw's advertisements for chorus girls. That she had given the Reid woman $7,000, had taken receipts in none of the cases and had warned the girl never to go near Thaw's mother or wife.

During the woman's testimony, Mrs. Evelyn Thaw sat on the opposite side of the room and when the name of Mrs. Reid was mentioned, she arose from her chair, and with all the dramatic ability she possessed, leaned far over with eyes and mouth wide open, and arms folded across her breast, and there posed for fully a minute, with every indication of wonderment she could muster.

But one who studied her closely could see that what she displayed was not wonderment, but a combination of triumph and derision.

WHEELS OF FAIR ARE NOW TURNING

Real Opening of Hagerstown
Affair Drew an Immense Crowd Today.

RACES ARE DRAWING CARD

ALL OF THE EXHIBITS THIS YEAR ARE LARGE WITH THE EXCEPTION OF CHICKENS—
JUDGES ARE WORKING.

Hagerstown, Ind., July 28.—The wheels of the Hagerstown fair are now in motion and everything moving smoothly. Although Wednesday has always been rated as the day for the poorest attendance the people are overcoming that idea.

The races will be the most important feature this afternoon. Although the display of exhibits this year are exceedingly interesting. The association is a member of the American Trotting association, under whose rules the races will be governed.

Judges Are Busy.
This morning the judges were busy at work in the different departments passing on the worth of the exhibits. They will not be through until Thursday.

A shortage of chickens is an unusual feature of the fair this year, but the quality of those which are on exhibit somewhat makes up for the small number. There are more cattle to be shown than last year, also sheep.

The Purdue display is full of interest and many are gaining much helpful information from those in charge.

ELMER M'CONAHA IN GLIDDEN TOUR

Local Man Traveling With Premier Touring Car
Number Two.

REPORTS VERY BAD ROADS

MACHINE IN WHICH HE IS A PASSENGER ONE OF VERY FEW
WHICH MADE PERFECT SCORE UP TO THIS TIME.

Elmer McConaha of this city is a passenger in Premier touring car No. 2, entered in the Glidden tour endurance contest from Detroit to Denver and back to Kansas City. In writing to friends in this city from Denver, Mr. McConaha stated that the car was one of the few entering Denver with a perfect score and that he and others in the party, making the journey in this car, including Harry Hammond of Indianapolis and H. O. Smith, president of the automobile works, were hopeful of continuing the journey from Denver to Kansas City without mishap.

Scoring Is Close.
Owing to the mud holes and sand roads, the run this year probably is the severest test ever made on the automobiles entering this contest. A trip of 100 miles on roads such as the party has just passed over, according to Mr. McConaha, is equal to a 250 mile trip in this state. During the run, the machine has been dependent on its own power and that it has made such an excellent showing on such bad roads is regarded as a good showing for its stability. The scoring is very close and a fraction of one per cent is taken off the score even if a bolt is tightened during the trip. In fact about the only repairs permissible, without detracting from the total score, is the mending of the tires.

Mr. McConaha started on the journey in the press car, a position in which he obtained through the influence of an Indianapolis newspaper man. Afterwards, however, he was invited by Mr. Hammond who is a close friend and also Mr. Smith to complete the trip in the Premier car.

A Medal of Blood.

Garibaldi was once presented with a medal made of his own blood. The giver was Dr. Manini of Naples, who was well known as a petrifactor and preserver of the human body. Dr. Manini in offering his gift to Garibaldi said that whenever the general looked at it it would brace him up for the last fight, and across the medal were engraved the words, "The Blood of Garibaldi is Forever Red." The strange medal is preserved by the general's descendants.

LOCAL FAVORITES GOING HIGHER UP

ers Are Slated for Good

TWO GO TO THE PIRATES

GENE MOORE AND CLYDE PARK-ER, FORMER MEMBERS OF THE RICHMOND TEAM, GO TO PITTS-BURG—OTHER PROMOTIONS.

With the graduation of "Owgie" Bush, formerly a mainstay on short for the Richmond club, to the Detroit Tigers last year, others of his I.-O. league mates are to follow to the big leagues. Clyde Parker, the second baseman; Brown, a cousin of the three-fingered Mordecai of the Chicago Cubs, and Gene Moore, both of whom were favorite box artists; "Bull" Durham, outfielder; Paul Gardner and Pearl Larue, all going to better and faster company than they are now playing with.

Parker, who has been playing with the Fairmount, West Virginia, team, and Gene Moore, who has been pitching classy ball for the Dallas team hooked by the scouts for the Pirates. "Bull" Durham graduates from the Ohio state league to the Indianapolis team of the American Association. Pearl Larue who, although never on a local team was a local favorite as manager and third baseman of the Bluffton team, and Brown will be recalled from Grand Rapids of the Central league by Columbus of the American Association.

Remember Gardiner?
Paul Gardiner who beat the time of the president of the old I.-O. league by resigning as umpire instead of giving the president a chance to fire him, as the result of his victory in a fist encounter with the Bluffton team, and particularly Larue, is now umpiring in the Central league and is slated for a position higher up. Gardiner continues to step into the limelight as a pugilistic as well as a wrestling champ. But a short time ago Gardiner cleaned up on the manager of the Grand Rapids team at Evansville. Among the excited spectators was Pearl Larue who afterward congratulated the manager on not being killed, and in a consoling tone of voice told the manager of his own vivid, vivid and only too real experience with his umpire on local lots two years previous. The best advice he had for his manager was to make peace with Gardiner.
