CASSIUS T. PECK LOSES HIS LONG FIGHT FOR LIFE

Former City Official and Well Known Man Dies at Hospital After Struggle Lasting Six Weeks.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE WAS DIRECT CAUSE

However the Malady Was Superinduced by Injuries Received by Victim While Painting a House.

After making a splendid fight for life since June 15, when he was seriously injured by falling off a ladder and being struck on the head by a large painter's hook with sufficient force to dislodge the organization of the brain cells, Cassius Taylor Peck, painter and former city councilman, died yesterday afternoon at Reid Memorial hospital. Death was due to Bright's disease of which he had been a sufferer for several years, but which had never assumed serious proportions until after his injuries.

Mr. Peck was very well known over the city and his many friends were not surprised at his death, as the attending physician had given up all hopes several weeks ago. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella E. Peck, one son, Roy E.; his mother, Mrs. S. D. Peck of Franklin, Ind.; one brother, L. E. Peck, of Indianapolis; and two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Stacey of Indianapolis, and Mrs. L. C. Scherwin of Franklin. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at his home 314 North Nineteenth street at 2 o'clock and will be private. Burial will be at the cemetery at New Paris, O. Rev. James Jones of the Universalist church and Rev. R. H. Dunaway of the Second Presbyterian church will officiate.

While engaged in painting the residence of Miss Sarah Sanderson North Sixteenth street June 15, Mr. Peck went up on a ladder to arrange the painter's scaffold. The painter's hook became loosened from the roof and dropped, knocking Mr. Peck from his position on the ladder. He fell a distance of twenty feet alighting on his head. Besides the injury to the brain, he suffered a broken collar bone, four broken ribs, a dislocated shoulder blade and bodily bruises. He was taken to the hospital where he lingered between life and death for many days.

Was Delirious.
Much of the time he was delirious and could not speak above a whisper. It is probable that if he had recovered his mind would have been impaired. He served one term in the city council as representative from the Fifth ward, a few years ago, and this spring made the race as a candidate at large subject to the republican nomination, but lost by a few votes. He was always a staunch republican.

He was born in New Paris 55 years ago and when fifteen years of age moved to this city, where he has been a resident ever since. He always worked at his trade as a painter and for many years had been a contractor. He was a member of the Eldorado, O., lodge of Knights of Pythias.

ITALIAN KING TO SEND DELEGATES

Will Visit Colonists Now Settled in North and South America.

BOTH OF ROYAL FAMILY

WANT TO RECOGNIZE THE EXPATRIATES SO THAT THEIR LOVE FOR THE MOTHER COUNTRY WILL NOT DIE.

(American News Service)
Rome, July 30.—King Victor today intimated that he will accede to the expressed wishes of parliament and appoint the princes of the royal house to officially visit the Italian colonists of North and South America. The Prince of Udine who also numbers among his titles that of Duke of Genoa undoubtedly will be chosen to make the South American tour and another member of the royal family will leave later for North America.

The vast number of citizens that Italy has furnished to the Americas, almost equal perhaps to the home population, has long made it seem desirable to Italian statesmen that the state should recognize them in a manner to keep alive their loyalty to the mother land and dispose them to give her the necessary aid if the time shall come when she shall need it. It is to serve this purpose that the royal princes are to be sent.
The mission of the royal envoys will be to the Italians in the countries they will visit. Undoubtedly they will be permitted to recognize and respond to honors that will be showered upon them, but their first attention must be given to their expatriated countrymen. The itinerary of the prince who is assigned to North America will include all the principal cities and many of the lesser ones.

WILL CHANGE TIME

T. H., I. & E. Cars Will Arrive Seven Minutes Earlier Now.

GOES IN EFFECT SUNDAY

Commencing Sunday a change will be made in the time of the arrival of city cars on the Eighth street line at the Main and Eighth street crossing. The cars will arrive seven minutes earlier than at present. The change was ordered so as to avoid the blockades at the crossing, when the interurban cars are leaving or coming in. The passengers on the Eighth street line are often required to miss connections on transfers unless they leave the cars half a square away and run to the corner. The time of the cars on none of the other lines is affected by the change.

25 IMPROVEMENTS NOW BEING MADE

City Has Large Amount of Work On.

Twenty-five contracts for public improvements, which have been awarded by the city, are now in progress of fulfillment. The large number of contractors supply work for all classes of laborers and there are few idle men in the city, who actually want work. This city has more public improvement work now in progress or planned than any other city in the state.

MARSHALL ANGRY AT TERRE HAUTE

Thinks Police Were Negligent In Not Stopping a Prize Fight.

INSTRUCTIONS TO JUDGE

HE INFORMS HIM THAT FISTIC BATTLES ARE BEING PULLED OFF AND HAS ORDERED HIM TO STOP THEM.

Indianapolis, July 30.—Governor Marshall is sore because he says the Terre Haute police did not do their duty in suppressing the prize fight which was held there a few nights ago. He has called the attention of Judge Fortune of the Vigo circuit court to the fact that prize fights are being held in Terre Haute, and has instructed him to put a stop to them in the future. He has even offered the judge the services of a detachment of the Indiana National Guard to enforce his orders and to enforce the law if the police will not do their duty.

Sent Burt New.
The governor sent Burt New, his legal clerk, to Terre Haute the other day to investigate the report that Judge Fortune has issued an injunction restraining the Terre Haute police from interfering with the fight. New found that such an order had been made so as to give the police the right to attend the fight and to stop it if it became a prize fight such as is prohibited by the law. And the police went to the fight but did nothing, although it became a very pronounced prize fight.

The governor says he will stop prize fighting anywhere in the state and he proposes to follow the plan of operating through the judge of the circuit court of the county in which a fight is advertised. The case at Terre Haute is entirely different from the one at Hammond recently, where some one sent him a clipping from a Chicago paper, and a letter containing information that a fight was to be pulled off at Hammond. In that case there was no injunction. In fact the fight, it was afterward learned was scheduled to take place across the state line in Illinois, and therefore was not in the jurisdiction of the Indiana authorities. But these two cases show the energy with which Governor Marshall is going after the prize fight game in Indiana. If he keeps up his present gait the fighting game will soon be a dead one in this state.

It Told the Truth.
A countryman on a visit to Glasgow while walking along Argyle street reading the signboards and the tickets in the shop windows said to his companion: "How can a' these bam shops be the best and cheapest? Every yin o' them says that, and the same wi' the clothes shops too. They are jist a lot o' leasers."

They continued along the street until, coming opposite a plumber's shop with a big bill in the window with the words "Cast Iron Sinks" printed in large letters on it, he exclaimed: "Well, Jock, here's yin that tells the truth at ony rate. But say danged fool kens that cast iron wad sink."

Lightning Change.
The three-year-old boy on the sidewalk in the street car turned suddenly to look out of the window, thereby wiping his muddy shoes on the light colored trousers of the middle aged man sitting next to him.
"Madam," exploded the man, "is this your nasty little?"
Here the boy's pretty mother turned her head and looked at him.
—"angel boy?" he flashed with a gasp.—Chicago Tribune.

Needless Trouble.
"Did you wash the fish?" a Springfield woman asked her new servant. "Shure, an' pwast's th' use of washin' anything that's always lived in th' water?" asked the girl.—Kansas City Star.

NIMROD AND CUPID IN AN EVEN BREAK

Twenty Hunters and Twenty Marriage Licenses.

The county clerk has issued twenty hunters' licenses and twenty marriage licenses during this month. This is quite a drop from the number of marriage licenses issued in June. July seems to have been so busy Cupid did not care for work, although he is pictured usually as clad solely in summer raiment. The number of licenses issued this year up to the present date has been less than a year ago.

A Business Head.
"My boy," says the thoughtful father, "I notice that when you get a penny or a nickel you do not place it in the little savings bank Santa Claus brought for you last Christmas."
"Not always, papa," answers the bonny child.
"Ah! I believe, if I am not mistaken, that you spend your pennies and nickels at the little store around the corner."
"Yes, papa."
"Well, my boy, if you do not save your money now, what do you expect to do when you grow up?"
"I am going to run a little store around the corner, papa. Then I'll get all the pennies and nickels."—Chicago Post.

WRIGHT BROTHERS WERE COURTEOUS

Planned Early Trial But the Army Officers Were Asleep.

WOULDN'T DISTURB THEM

WILBUR INTIMATED TODAY THAT HE IS WILLING TO ENTER RACE WITH BLERIOT AT THE SEATTLE FAIR.

(American News Service)
Washington, July 30.—The courteous desire of the Wright brothers not to disturb the slumbers of the United States army officers and others interested in their aeroplane flights before sunrise, prevented a continuation of their aerial experiments at Fort Myer early today.

The Wrights have only one more test to make to satisfy the government of the practicability of their flying machine—the five mile speed dash to Alexandria, Va., and return—and it was planned to give it shortly after dawn today. Orville and Wilbur Wright, after a conference decided that it would not be courtesy to get the army men up so early and decided to postpone the flight until later in the day.

The Wrights have only two more days for their trials, the time mentioned in the government contracts having been lengthened until the present week's end.

Wilbur Wright intimated today that he and his brother would be willing to take part in a speed contest with Louis Bleriot at the Alaskan-Yukon exposition for a $25,000 prize, should a formal invitation be extended by the management of the fair.

A QUEER PARROT.

The Old Lady Had Reason For Surprise When the Bird Spoke.

A young ventriloquist, being out of an engagement, decided to pay his widowed mother a visit for a few weeks. On arriving he found she was not at home. A few days after his arrival she appeared, bringing with her a parrot and cage which had been given her by a relative. The bird not being able to talk, mother and son spent many tedious hours trying to instruct the parrot. After several futile efforts they gave the job up in despair.

Then a happy idea occurred to the son. Bringing his ventriloquist powers into requisition, gently at first, he made it appear to his mother that the bird had actually begun to talk. The mother not knowing the nature of his avocation, was successful in deceiving her. He had an engagement to fulfill which necessitated his departure.

Coming back after the termination of his contract, he was heartily received by his mother and made very welcome. Soon after his arrival home he commenced and carried on a conversation, as before, with the parrot. Noticing the look of consternation on the countenance of his mother, he inquired what was the matter. Imagine his surprise when she replied:
"Why, the parrot died while you were away, and I had it stuffed and put back in the cage."—Pearson's Weekly.
