CLUB NOTES

Mrs. E. H. Scott was hostess Thursday afternoon for a meeting of the Aid society of the Third Methodist church at her home, 319 Kinsey street.

Members of the G. A. R. were entertained last evening in the new post rooms by the W. B. C. A. An excellent program was given. Mrs. Kamp gave several numbers. Miss Ruth White sang and Mrs. Hasty gave a reading with piano accompaniment by Miss Ernie Warfel. Miss Glens Kamp gave a recitation. After the program a social time followed. Light refreshments were served. About seventy persons attended. This was one of the most delightful events socially ever attempted by the organization.

The Aid society of the Reid Memorial hospital met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Lamar at her home on South Seventeenth street. Matters of interest to members were discussed. Mrs. M. C. Price will be hostess for the September meeting at her home on the National road west.

The Helen Taft Sewing circle did not meet this week. In two weeks a picnic will be held at Glen Miller park.

A meeting of the Lutheran circle of the St. John's Lutheran church met Thursday afternoon at the church. The time was devoted to needlework.

The members of the Lutheran Home circle enjoyed an all day picnic yesterday at Hiser's Station.

A dance was given last evening in the pavilion at Jackson's park by members of the Gonzaga club.

The members of the Eureka Card club had an enjoyable meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. Anna Finch at her home on North Thirteenth street. Euchre was played at four tables. Mr. Walter Paulus, Mr. Adolph Stauber and Mrs. George Reid won the favors. Luncheon followed the game.

Members of the Happy Hour club were entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Rodenberg at her home north of the city. There was a good attendance of members. One of the best papers which the members have listened to was read by Mrs. Charles Brown, the subject being "Influence of Literature." The remainder of the afternoon was spent socially. A luncheon was served. In two weeks Mrs. Reuben Rich will entertain the club at her home, 30 Richmond avenue.

THE DANGER IN DUST.

A Medical Writer Who Says "Let Sleeping Germs Lie."

Did you ever realize what a dangerous thing it is to clean house in the spring? A writer in a London medical journal, the Lancet, insists that spring cleaning has many possibilities for evil if not properly conducted. Dirt and dust are full of disease breeding germs; but, however dangerous these creatures may be when lodged in the woodwork or comfortably settled under the hall carpet, they are much more ferocious, this writer insists, if stirred up and irritated and sent flying through the air. If we can't keep our houses clean as we go we had better let them stay dirty. This writer's rule is to "let sleeping germs lie."

What a house would look like after forty years of total abstinence from spring cleaning we leave to our women readers to judge. Yet we venture the assertion that there is one creature who would find the situation entirely satisfactory. It dislikes the annual cleaning ceremony. It hates to eat cold suppers off the kitchen table, and beating carpets is to it an abomination. It will doubtless make capital out of the Englishman's warning against the perils of housecleaning.

Book of the Dead.

The Book of the Dead is a most remarkable literary relic of ancient Egypt, of uncertain date and origin, but well known before the kings of the first dynasty. Probably the collected work of many minds in different ages, it was regarded as the work of the god Thoth and therefore of divine authority, dealing mainly with the dead and their future state. Some of its texts, prayers, hymns and ritual were used by the predynastic priests, and parts of the book are said to belong to a period fifty centuries before the Christian era. Copies of it were placed in the tombs, and texts from it were inscribed on coffins to preserve the dead from dangers and to direct them to the boat of Osiris, which was the goal desired. The oldest existing papyrus copy of the book was written for "Nu, the son of the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal Amenhetep and of the lady of the house Seneb" and probably belongs to the early part of the eighteenth dynasty.

A Fateful Breach of Etiquette. Under the third empire in France Sainte-Beuve brought disgrace upon himself because at breakfast at the Tuilleries he carelessly opened his napkin and placed it over his two knees. To this he added the crime of cutting his egg in two at the middle. Court etiquette prescribed that the half folded napkin should lie on the left knee and the top of the egg was to be merely broken with the edge of the spoon and drained with the tip of the spoon. For his failings in these respects Sainte-Beuve's name was stricken off the imperial visiting list. — London Chronicle.

PRIZE POSTER IS THING OF BEAUTY

Mrs. Eggemeyer's Painting Compares With the Best In the Country.

OTHER DESIGNS ARE GOOD

THOSE OF CHARLES SINEX AND AN INDIANAPOLIS ARTIST WERE APPROPRIATE AND WORTHY OF MENTION.

The Fall Festival poster offerings in the contest, which are on display in the office of the secretary of the Y. M. B. C. are attracting a great deal of comment. Honorable mention was given poster No. 3 by the executive committee of the Young Men's Business Club. The artist is unknown. It was sent from Indianapolis and no name was signed. It is a beautiful design and represents a girl in the foreground extending the hand of welcome to a busy prosperous city in the background, while underneath and to the left is printed "A Greater Richmond."

The prize winner by Mrs. Elmer Eggemeyer compares most favorably with the fall festival posters of larger cities it is said. The water coloring is magnificent. The picture is of a beautiful girl seated in a big arm chair. Her dress is of a rich yellow. On one side of the chair, but more in the background is the figure of a day laborer, evidently representing a foundryman, bared to the waist. On the other side is the figure of a farmer. The frieze is a row of ears of corn in the husks. On the frieze is inscribed "Richmond Fall Festival," and directly underneath "1938." The girl is holding an olive wreath in her right hand from which a ribbon is streaming bearing the inscription, "Panic Proof City." Underneath the poster is printed October 6, 7 and 8. The directors of the Young Men's Business club decided at their meeting last night to have Richmond, Ind., printed just above the date.

J. A. Spokenhiser will go to Cincinnati within the next few days to have lithographs made of the poster. It is said they will be about the size as those of last year. The price has not yet been decided upon.

The work of Charles Sinex, of No. 2 hose house, is also deserving of mention. His poster represented a girl stroking a horse's head, while all around the border were evidences of prosperity. It was very well and neatly done.

STUMP TEACHERS IN EXAMINATION

Unable to Answer Questions Asked by Board and Superintendent Protests.

IT SOUNDS LIKE SCHOOL

PEDAGOGUES HAVE THEIR TROUBLES AS WELL AS PUPILS, SO OF COURSE THEY MUST GET EVEN.

County Superintendent Charles Jordan is much exercised because of the questions in English literature that are being propounded to aspirants for positions as teachers who take the regular county examinations. Mr. Jordan believes that an injustice is being done in many of the questions and says that a much greater percent of the failures is caused by the questions in English than any other of the subjects listed for examination. As an example he cites the ques-
