THANKFUL IT IS OVER.
Time was when our grandmothers and mothers got up some time between midnight and five o'clock and then in a hot kitchen would break their backs for several hours over the steaming cloths. But we are now thankful that time has past for we now have the use of rub-a-lac. Rub-a-lac shortens hours and lengthens life. Try it and do your washing in half the time.

Small Boys' Aeroplane Which They Will Test

Here is a photo of a unique aeroplane manufactured by two Montclair, N. J. lads, Alfred Morgan and Harold Dodd. The motive power for the machine is furnished by a small steam engine. The youths will make an attempt to fly from Montclair to Jersey City, a distance of about twenty miles.

The Sunday School Commentary

SERMON, AUG. 8, BY REV. D. M. STEARNS.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

The topic of our lesson is Paul's instructions to the Thessalonians and yet we are assigned a very small portion of this most helpful epistle. Let those who would profit most by our study today note how much Paul has to say about the word of God, the gospel of God and the faith of these people. See in chapter I, 1, where this great salvation placed them and places every true believer "in God the Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ" that we might walk worthy of God, who hath called us unto His kingdom and glory while we wait for His Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus who delivered us from the wrath to come (II, 12; I, 10). The word "comfort" in I, 18; v, 11, reminds us that, being in God the Father, we are in Him who is "the Father of mercies and the God of all comfort," that we who enjoy Him might bear His comfort to others, the comfort of His great salvation, of His continual care of His redeemed and of the glory of His kingdom. In the opening verses of the portion given us as a lesson we are exhorted to esteem those who bring us this comfort in His name, which we must certainly mean that, while we esteem them, we give Him always the pre-eminence in all things, that the Lord alone may be exalted (Col. 1, 18; Isa. 11, 17). Having obtained peace with God through Him who made peace for us and who is our peace and who will give us peace always by all means if we will let Him (Eph. 1, 13, 14; Col. 1, 20; II Thess. 1, 10), we are exhorted to be at peace among ourselves, for all envying and strife are from beneath, not from above (Jas. 3, 15-16). In chapter IV, 11, we hear of an ambition to be quiet and to attend to one's own business, for the word "study" in that verse is a word used elsewhere only in Rom. xv, 20; II Cor. v, 9, and really signifies a holy ambition in these matters.

There will always be some disorderly ones who need warning, some feeble minded who specially need comfort and some weak ones needing support, and with all classes we are to manifest the love of God and the patience of Christ (II Thess. 3, 5). Col. 1, 11, is a most wonderful word on patience and the need of it and the kind the Lord loves. To return good for evil is Christ-like and to bless those who curse us and pray for those who persecute us (Matt. v, 44). A Christian should be a happy person, rejoicing evermore, rejoicing in the Lord and before the Lord and in spite of all manner of circumstances (Phil. 4, 4; Deut. 10, 12, 18; Hab. 1, 17, 18), because He is worthy to be praised, always loving us, always caring for us and fulfilling Rom. viii, 28, 32. It is our privilege to be in constant touch and communion with God through Jesus Christ, to talk with Him about everything and thus to pray without ceasing, be free from all anxiety and enjoy the peace which passeth all understanding (Phil. iv, 6, 7). If we only knew the blessings which we might bring from God to people in the name of Jesus Christ and the strength and encouragement we might bring to many a lonely, weary missionary, it does seem as if we would be most gladly talking with God about some one all the day long. To say, "Father, I thank thee," thus accepting all that comes or that does not come as the will of God for us is the only proper attitude of a child of God, knowing that He has loved us as to give His only begotten Son to die for our sins, cannot withhold any real good, but will with Him freely give us all things (Ps. lxxiv; Rom. viii, 32). Compare Eph. v, 20.

Unbelievers resist the Spirit by refusing to receive Jesus Christ. Believers grieve Him by sin or quench Him by disobedience or by despising His message through the prophets. God has told us by the prophets all that He intends to do, and if we would walk with Him as He would like us to, we must be perfectly agreed with Him by believing all that the prophets have spoken; otherwise our Lord will count us foolish people (Amos 3, 7; Luke xxiv, 25). We cannot believe all that men teach, but must try the spirits, for there are many false teachers. All who do not accept Jesus as God manifest in the flesh, truly a man, a sinless man, but truly God, the Creator of all things, are not sent of God. Those who deny the supernatural birth of Jesus or His literal resurrection from the dead and His ascension to the right hand of the Father are not in accord with the Scriptures. Those who deny that Christ died for our sins, the just for the unjust, made sin for us, and that, apart from His sacrifice, any one can be saved, are not of God. We must stand with Christ in all that He said and did; otherwise we are against Him. By His word we must prove all things and reject all that is not according to Scripture, holding fast the faithful word (Tit. 1, 9).

As we are here in Christ's stead to manifest His life in these mortal bodies, we cannot be His faithful witnesses if anything unholy is seen in us. There is a filthiness of the spirit as well as of the flesh from which we must cleanse ourselves if we would be such sons and daughters as the Almighty desires (II Cor. vi, 16-18; vii, 1).

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 8, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Why war should be abolished.

Isa. 1, 2-4; Matt. v, 23-24.

Living in the twentieth century with all the history of the past behind us, it should scarcely be necessary to discuss the subject of why war should be abolished. Once the glory of victory in war was the ideal of the nations of the world, Persia, Greece and Rome were constantly at war, each in their order becoming the supreme nation of the time. And that which was gained through the glory of war was, after all, very little, and one nation soon overcame the other. At such a time, however, such a question might have been raised without any seeming lack of necessity, but that today it should still be necessary to discuss it is one of the dark spots on modern civilization.

Isaiah speaks of a time when nations "shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift sword against nation; neither shall they learn war any more." The time seems to be approaching when this prophecy shall be fulfilled.

The curse of war should lead to its abolition. General Sherman's definition of war is well known, and it is well known to be true. There has never been anything on earth so typical of the place of perdition as war. If we had the statistics of all who have died in or because of war, if we knew the number of widows and orphans made by war and what they have suffered, if we had certain knowledge of all who have escaped death and wounds, but who have been morally and spiritually ruined while engaged in war, we might be enabled to slightly estimate what a curse war has been to the human race. It arouses the basest passions of men, and, like wild beasts, they are made more inhuman by the sight of blood in time of battle and burn with but one desire—namely, to destroy their fellow men. Nations have been ruined in a day, and even the curse of war has led to awful slaughter and bloodshed in the church of Christ.

The expense of war should lead to its abolition. What the wars of the world have cost in money cannot be estimated, but if it could the figures would be enormous. The money spent today on armies and navies, even in time of peace, is beyond human conception. And the people bear the burden. If there were no war, departments to support, no war vessels to build, no standing armies to support, Railroad Officials Confer With Town Board.

Cambridge City, Ind., Aug. 7.—Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, S. B. Robertson and G. R. Barry of the ways and means committee, held a conference with the members of the city council yesterday, in which matters pertaining to elevating and double tracking the lines through this place were thoroughly discussed. Already a force of men are at work on the proposed change.

"A martyr in the cause of Italian liberty," says the Rome Gazette, "recently died in that city. Annibale Lucatelli was eighty-five years old. In the fifties he was active in many revolutions against the church, having been one of the ten hotheads who incited the revolt of 1851, which failed. His brother of Cesare was executed, and he was sentenced to the bagno for life. Together with a number of colleagues he was pardoned in 1870, and received a professorship at the industrial museum, where he was known as King Humbert's personal friend."
