

FRANCE TO HAVE ODD EXHIBITION

Aerial Craft Contest at Rheims To Be Absolutely
Unique.

ONE AMERICAN ENTERED

GLENN CURTIS, WHO WAS IN-JURED, HOBLES ABOUT BUT WILL BE READY TO MAKE TEST
NEXT SUNDAY.

(American News Service)
Rheims, France, Aug. 20.—The wonderful Farman biplane, the aerial craft in which M. Rogers Sommer made the longest flight ever essayed by an aviator, was set up today to be used by Sommer in the contests of aviation week which begin on Sunday.

Already all preparations are made for the unique exposition, the first and greatest of its kind ever to be held on earth. Yesterday and today both saw many arrivals of machines and men. Captain Ferber's Voisin biplane, Cockburns Farman biplane, M. Rougier's Voisin biplane and Senor Fernandez's biplane were all set up today.

Curtis's Condition.
Glenn H. Curtis, the aeronaut who will represent America in the contests, hobbled about with a cane today. He is much better and has the physicians word for it that his injured ankle will be well by Sunday.

The Antonette team is now complete, three of the four machines set up and construction going forward on the fourth today.

These aeroplanes will be piloted by Hubert Latham, M. Rene Demanest, Captain Burgea and M. Ruchonnet.
Latham is here and was the center of a great deal of interest today.

Latham's injuries received in his attempt to fly across the English channel are well, but he still wears a bandage around his time to hide an ugly scar.

Five Wright Machines.

The Wright team has undergone modifications. Five Wright machines will start. Two of them will be piloted by Comte de Lambert, two by M.
Paul Tissandier and one by M. Lefevre. All the machines are fitted up with an extra seat for passengers.

Two of the Blériot machines had not arrived this morning but word was given that they would be here before nightfall. M. Blériot is in Paris.

Henry Farman is at Mourmelon superintending the dismantling of his biplane.

Gabriel Voisin was at Mourmelon yesterday. The ground there is better for practice work than at Betheny Plain.

Mr. Cockburn, who represents the Aero club of Great Britain is here.
His biplane is now fitted up and ready for trials.

WASHINGTON'S PLAGUE SPOTS lie in the low, marshy bottoms of the Potomac, the low, breeding ground of malaria germs. These germs cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility and bring suffering or death to thousands yearly. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "They are the best all-around tonic and cure for malaria I ever used," writes R. M.
James, of Louisville, S. C. They cure Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Blood troubles and will prevent Typhoid.

Bishop Turner, of the African M. E. church, in a recent address at Chicago, said: "You men and women of the colored race do not realize your numerical power, and you are too lazy to figure it out. A popular estimate of negroes in United States is 10,000,000.
That is far from correct. There are not fewer than 18,000,000 today in this country, and there are 4,000 exposed babies born every day. We are here and we should be a great political factor or nothing. Present we are nothing, and as long as we submit we shall have our liberties gradually limited."

BATCH OF JUNGLE TROPHIES ARRIVE

Tramp Steamer Unloads a Roosevelt Collection at
New York.

NAMES PUZZLE THE CREW

ENOUGH WILD THINGS IN OUT-FIT TO DEplete POPULATION OF CITY IF THEY WERE ALIVE AND AT LARGE.

New York, Aug. 20.—When word was flashed to the Smithsonian institution that the tramp steamer Provincia had reached port all the government taxidermists figuratively rolled up their sleeves and steadied themselves to meet the first rush of Theodore Roosevelt's jungle trophies which represented enough wild animals to deplete a city if they ever went on a rampage together.

In twenty cases and nine large cases snugly packed in the Provincia's hold the old tramp steamer had so much concentrated wild animal power aboard that some of the members of the crew shuddered even at thought of what would happen if the bones and skins of the following animals suddenly took a notion to come to life: lion, digdig, giraffe, eland, cheetah, hyaena, zebra, wildebeeste, hartbeeste, impalla, warthog, leopard, waterbuck, rhinoceros, hippopotamus, buffalo and tiger.

Studied Their Names.

"It was a fine old menagerie we brought over," said one of the crew. "I never heard of a lot of the blamed things before. For instance, there's them digdigs. If their name means anything they must be good at excavating, but then one can't tell by that. Those dikars, elands and hartbeestes have got me plumb crazy."
"We've had a regular natural history class coming over. Most all the men can rattle the names right off the reed. Charley, the cook, who has traveled some, says he doesn't remember whether a digdig is a bird or a four-legged animal with a head like a spade and a tail like a pick."

"We think Charley is kiddin' us, but don't care one way or the other. I'm glad I ran afoul of that name digdig, because I like the sound of it."
"It makes no difference to me whether it swims, flies or walks, we've got the critter aboard all right, and I guess that's going some."

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,

Have made their local reputation.
Proof lies in the testimony of Rich-

Benjamin F. Lunsford, N. E. Cor.
Twentieth and South B Streets, Richmond, Ind., says: "The statement I gave for publication in 1906 endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills told of my experience with this remedy and at this time I am glad to confirm what I then said.
I had been bothered by kidney trouble off and on for at least fifteen years and whenever I caught cold my back became so lame and painful that I could hardly get around. At times the flow of the kidney secretions was profuse then again scant and distressing. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at A. G. Lukens & Co.'s drug store, relieved those annoyances and once or twice since, when I have taken the remedy, it has promptly relieved me."

PAUL JONES' PROMISE.

Our Great Naval Hero and the Duchess of Chartres.

The Duchess of Chartres was an enthusiast in the cause of American liberty and a warm friend of its great naval champion, Paul Jones, whom she nicknamed the "Untitled Knight of the Sea." The duchess was a royal princess and a very great lady, and Captain Jones was a sailor, self educated and the son of a Scotch gardener, but in the exchange of gifts and compliments which, according to the custom of the day in France attended their friendship, he was not to be out-shone.

At a luncheon which she gave just before he sailed from France in the Ranger on that famous cruise of his which carried the war to the very shore of Britain it was the good fortune of Paul Jones to share in a conversation touching a French naval engagement in which the grandfather of the duchess had borne a conspicuous part and to defend and explain his maneuvers on that occasion, showing a knowledge of every ship and every captain engaged and winning on the spot the ardent personal adherence of Mme. de Chartres.

At the close of the feast she presented him a valuable watch which had been her grandfather's. Taken by surprise, the American captain nevertheless accepted it with a grace that charmed the courtly company, promising that in return, if fortune favored him, he would some day "lay an English frigate at her feet."

It was a daring boast, but in A. C.
Buell's biography of Paul Jones it is related how he kept it. Within two years occurred the marvelous victory of the Bonhomme Richard over the Serapis, concerning which the victor wrote the duchess a letter, ending:
"The enemy surrendered at thirty-five minutes past 10 p. m. by your watch, which I consult only to fix the moment of victory."

That was a phrase to delight a society that reveled in pretty phrases, and the duchess was amply satisfied.
When Paul Jones reached Paris she gave a grand banquet in his honor.
Just before it ended he reminded her of her gift and his promise. A servant was sent to his room and returned with a long leather case, which the duchess took and the exclamations and eager curiosity of the company.

"Your royal highness perceives the impossibility of keeping my promise in kind," explained the knight of the sea, smiling. "The English frigate proved to be a forty-four on two decks, and she is now at Lorient with French colors flying. The best I can do toward keeping my word of two years ago is to place in your dainty hands the sword of the brave officer who commanded her. I have the honor to surrender to the lovelest of women the sword surrendered to me by one of the bravest of men—the sword of Captain the Hon. Richard Pearson of his Britannic majesty's late ship the Serapis."

Poiled.

He was a doctor and was patiently waiting for his first patient.
Thought he: "If the mountain will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain. And as patients will not seek me out I must needs seek them out."

He strolled through the cheap market and presently saw a man buy six nice cucumbers.
"Here's a chance!" said he and followed him home.

Patiently he waited for four long and lonely hours, and about midnight the front door quickly opened, and the man dashed down the steps.

He seized him by the arm and cried earnestly:
"Do you want a doctor?"
"No!" replied the man roughly.
"Want more cucumbers?"—London An-

THAW IS UNHAPPY; IS KICKING HARD

Today the Famous Prisoner Resumed Routine at Matteawan Asylum.

AFRAID OF CONSUMPTION

HE IS CONFINED IN ROOM AD-JOINING THE TUBERCULOSIS
WARD—WANTS TO RETIRE ONE HOUR LATER.

(American News Service) Fishkill, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Denied the privileges recommended by Justice Mills in his decision declaring him insane, Harry K. Thaw has begun the monotonous asylum life at Matteawan.
He is compelled to get up at the regulation hour and is weighed. The papers of his recommitment were filed at the hospital desk.

Thaw received the same treatment accorded him before the hearing at White Plains.

He occupies the same room given to him before. He is forced to associate with insane persons of the worst type, and none of the privileges asked for by him have been granted.

Thaw's wish was for a room on the lower floor of the institution, which would enable him to keep away from the ward where the insane patients afflicted with tuberculosis are confined.
He also wanted the privilege of staying up till 9 o'clock and having a light in his room until that time, so that he could read and write.

In His Old Room.

Instead he has been placed in his old room, to reach which he has to pass through the tuberculosis ward.
It was in this ward that Thaw, according to his mother's testimony before Justice Mills saw a man lying in bed dead one day when he was on his way to breakfast.

Instead of being allowed to sit up until 9 o'clock he has to be in his room at 8 o'clock at night, when all lights are turned out. In no instance does Thaw's daily life differ from that of the other inmates, a majority of whom are criminals and hopelessly insane.

It was expressly stated in Justice Mills's decision that Thaw should not be treated or considered a criminal in the asylum, but rather as a man who was insane, but might recover if aided by pleasant surroundings.

BOYLE IS IN IRONS

CONVICTS FIGHT A DUEL

Pittsburg, Aug. 20.—James Boyle, doing a life sentence for the kidnaping of Willie Whitt, is one of the prisoners who have been placed in irons at Riverside Penitentiary until Warden Francis and the State Prison Board can get some line on those who were connected with the recently discovered plot to tunnel out of the prison.
There is no doubt left in the minds of the prison authorities that there was some very heavy financial backing connected with the tunnel scheme since it was found today that there was undoubtedly an intention by some persons outside the prison to begin tunneling into the prison at a point where the tunnel which had been begun by those on the inside would meet it.

It is known now that at least one life will have been sacrificed to the tunnel scheme. Two convicts fought a duel with knives inside the prison shortly after the plot was discovered.
One of them was so badly slashed that he is now in the prison hospital and cannot live.

The story came out today when the outside world was asked for additional medical assistance in the case. The other prisoner is also badly cut, but will live. The fight is said to have grown out of charges of "peaching."

The greatest secrecy is maintained by the prison authorities as to the identity of the two men. This has caused great excitement among those who have friends in the prison, especially among these friends of members of the bankers' colony, for the names of many persons formerly prominent in Pittsburg now doing time in Riverside have been connected with the tunnel plot.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

Keeping Up the Same Old "Gate"

It's the flavor that set the gait for the imitators—It's the same flavor that still bars them, and keeps Kellogg's in a field by itself. No one has been able to even approach it in either taste or tender crispness. There's a good reason for this.

Kellogg's—The Genuine

secret. So the imitators could not produce in a few months what took us years to perfect.

AUTO THIEF CHASE

Punxsutawney, Pa., Aug. 20.—In a race for $1,000 Burgess P. O. Freas' touring car made five miles on a country road inside of six minutes and won the money.

Miss Williams, bookkeeper for Tax Collector James S. Lockhard, was taking the money to the bank and dropped it just before boarding a car. She missed a moment later and learning that a man in a buggy had stopped and picked up a package she notified the Burgess who commandeered the first auto he espied and gave successful chase.

A DREAM STORY.

The Startling Vision That Saved the Life of Lady Vernon.

The following dream story is told in "The Story of My Life," by Augustus I. C. Hare. The story was told to Mr.
Hare in Rome in 1870:

Lady Vernon dreamed that she saw the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other, crossing the entrance hall, and she awoke with a great start. After awhile she composed herself to sleep again, and she dreamed—she dreamed that she saw
and a candle in the other, on the middle of the staircase, and she awoke with a great shock. She got up. She thought she could not be quite well, and she took a little salt volatiles. At last she fell asleep again, and she dreamed—she dreamed that she saw
and a candle in the other, standing at her bedroom door, and she awoke in a great terror, and she jumped out of bed, and she said, "I'll have an end of this; I'll have an end of these foolish imaginations." And she rushed to the door, and she threw the door wide open. And there at the door stood the butler. With a knife in one hand and a candle in the other. And when he suddenly saw Lady Vernon in her white nightdress, with her hair streaming down her back, he was so dreadfully frightened that he dropped the candle on the floor and rushed off down the staircase and off to the stairs, where there was a horse ready saddled and bridled, on which he meant to have ridden away when he had murdered Lady Vernon. And he rode away without having murdered her at all, and he was never heard of again.

The Bride's Linen Room.
If a groom elect has not provided an extra room to his house for storing his bride's linen he should build it in time, for in these days whenever a girl marries her mother closes her lips grimly, goes after pa's pocketbook and does the right thing with nine dozen towels, fifteen dozen napkins, eighty-four pairs of sheets, etc. She doesn't expect her daughter to open a boarding house, but she has proper pride and intends to do the right thing by the girl even if it breaks pa.—Atchison Globe.

Couldn't Forget It.
"Saturday night some miscreant lugged off a whole cord of my wood, and somehow I can't forget about it!" declared Silas.

"Have you tried to forget it?" inquired his friend.
"Yes. Sunday morning I went to church hoping I could get it off my mind, and before I had been there five minutes the choir started in singing "The Lost Chord," so I got out!"— Judge.

Lunch and Luncheon.
"We don't have dinner in the middle of the day at our boarding house any more."
"You have lunch, I suppose?"
"No, luncheon."
"Well, that's the same thing."
"Oh, no, it isn't! Lunch is a light dinner, and luncheon is a light lunch."

"Mosses From an Old Manse"

Several souvenirs of more than usual interest were placed on display in connection with the Methodist meeting at the Chautauqua. Chief in interest, probably were the small slabs that were sawed from a log removed from the old George Smith home north west of the city. It was at Smith's home that the first Methodist meeting was held in the county. The log was sawed into small blocks suitable for paper weights. They were sold for a small sum and sales were rapid.

A piece of brick taken from ruins of the first Methodist church in the county was in the collection. It is the property of L. O. Bunyan.
A journal kept by Bishop Asbury from 1771 to 1773 was on display.
Bishop Asbury was the first dignitary of that station in the Methodist church of America. The volume belongs to M.
C. Price.

The circuit rider wending his way through the grounds was not a relic of antiquity. He was the Rev. Kenna, pastor of the Third M. E. church of this city.

A volume which contains the minutes of the first Methodist conference held in America was in the case. It is the property of M. C. Price. The conference was held in 1785.
Another of Mr. Price's prizes is a license permitting John Langdon to perform marriage ceremonies and other rites of the church. It is dated July 2, 1805, and signed by Bishop Whatcoat. Langdon was a grandfather of Mr. Price.

A chair that was made use of in the first Methodist church in the county was on the platform.

A picture of the first Methodist church in Richmond was given prominence. This same building now is used as a dwelling at 14 South Tenth street. It is supposed to have been built about 1830.
