

EXPECT AN EASY WIN FOR JOHNSON

Kaufman Regarded as Having Little Chance in Fight With Negro Tonight.

WHITE MAN WELL COACHED

TO HIS OPPONENT'S STYLE OF BATTLE, BUT BACKERS FEAR THAT HE WILL FORGET HIS TRAINING IN THE RING.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—Although fight fans fear that the ten round bout tonight between Champion Jack Johnson and big Al Kaufman will be a tame affair, they will all be on hand as the unexpected may happen.

Johnson, in his three fights here, has never shown any aggressiveness, and wise experts say there is no reason for him to break through his rule of taking no unnecessary risks. They expect to see him win easily on points and to make a monkey out of Kaufman. If he can do this, they say, why should he wade in and indulge in slugging with the California ex-blacksmith who can hit a right blow that is as powerful as the kick of a mule.

On the other hand, Kaufman, although he has been carefully coached to use left hand jabs to the colored man's face and stomach, will probably forget all this instruction when he enters the ring and will indulge in his usual swings with right and left.

Johnson is Clever.

Johnson is too clever to be caught by a slower man and no expert here expects to see a knockout or even a serious dismemberment of the negro. If Kaufman were quicker he would be dangerous, but the champion, by superior skill and speed, should cut up Kaufman's face and win on points without the least danger to himself.

It is not expected that Johnson can fence Kaufman by his hardest blows as the young Californian is as strong as a bull and is dead game. So the result of the bout will be to demonstrate merely that Kaufman has much work before him to get into the champion-ship class.

GET ESQUIMAUX TO PROVE HIS STORY

Dr. Cook Will Send for the Two Companions of His Arctic Exploration.

IS COMING HOME SEPT. 21.

SAILS TOMORROW FOR SKAW AND WILL THERE EMBARK ON THE ATLANTIC LINER OSCAR II FOR AMERICA.

(American News Service)

Copenhagen, Sept. 9.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook is on trial today with the world as judge, but he is calm under the harsh criticism and attack by Commander Peary. He knows that he must prove his claims and his friends declare that he will do so. He was up at 6 o'clock feverishly working upon an exhaustive report which he says will come as a reply to all his critics the world over.

Steps are being taken, it is understood to bring his two Esquimaux companions into the scientific world, take them to America and put them before the cross-examining board of scientists and geographers.

There has been an almost imperceptible change of sentiment here in some quarters which is worrying Dr. Cook. He says that a great mass of his data is not at hand. But he will compile a reply containing facts and figures by which he hopes to establish his claims beyond all shadow of doubt. The dogs used by Cook may be placed as exhibits before the scientific tribunal, said one report here today in the friendly quarters.

"Right Must Prevail."

While Dr. Cook said: "I know I am right and right must prevail."

It is unlikely now that Dr. Cook will lecture before the Belgian Geographical society although an invitation has been extended to him to meet Dr. Le Conte of the Brussels observatory in private audience. The reason given for the tentative cancellation of the lecture was that the Belgian scientists wish to wait for more developments before carrying out the engagement.

Dr. Cook was besieged by correspondents today and made further reply to the international criticism of his story.

"In justice to others I must refute the statement made by Commander Peary that I took his Esquimaux and stores. I credit Peary's statement that he found the North Pole, but I must decline to engage in a controversy with him, which would lessen the belief in my own statements. The Esquimaux are wanderers and I paid them liberally for their services. The Esquimaux are owned neither by Commander Peary nor by Dr. Cook; they are their own masters.

embarking there upon the Atlantic liner Oscar II, which is due to arrive in New York on September 21. He will leave Copenhagen by train, traveling thus to Skaw. Dr. Cook announced this afternoon that he has made an offer to Knud Rasmussen, the polar explorer, who is familiar with the Esquimaux tongue to go to New York and act as interpreter for the two Esquimaux who accompanied Cook to the pole, and who are to be brought back to civilization by Captain Sverdrup.

"The charge that I did not leave the mainland is foolish. In reply to that I will say that I am organizing, at my own expense, an expedition, even now to get north under command of Captain Otto Sverdrup and find the two Esquimaux who accompanied Cook to the pole, and bring them back to civilization and let them tell their story to the world in their own way.

"Their story will corroborate mine in every detail and, while their knowledge of science is small, sufficient weight would be given by their simple and truthful statements to bear out my own claims.

"I ask the world to believe in me. I ask the world to wait a little while before passing final judgment. I shall soon furnish evidence—scientific evidence—and I am confident that when this is placed before the world this great jury will find for their verdict that I really did plant the flag at the earth's apex, and that I really did discover the North Pole."

According to Dr. Cook's present plans he will leave tomorrow for Skaw.
