

GOVERNOR LOSES A CUTE LITTLE HAT

Brown County Resident Makes A Call and Profitable Exchange of Headgear.

MARSHALL BUYS TWO PRETTY
TIES FOR HIMSELF AND ONE
FOR SECRETARY—GETS BILL
FOR SAME OF $7.50.

Indianapolis, Sept. 9.—Governor Marshall lost his hat, yesterday, and no one seems to know where it went. It was a nice, cute little brown soft hat, too. And the loss of the hat came as a result of the governor's holding open house at his office this week to meet everybody who cares to come in to see him. This is state fair week, and the governor announced on Monday that he would lay aside official cares this week and devote his time to meeting and greeting his callers. As a result, his office has been crowded all week.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Marshall came down to the governor's office to go with him at 3 o'clock to the state fair. The office was full of people but they finally all left and the governor was ready to start for the fair. He reached for his hat, which he had left on the desk of his secretary, Col. Mark Thistlethwaite, and his hand fell on a big, black, broad brimmed slouch hat that probably came from Brown County. The governor looked at the hat and then wanted to know what had happened. It was evident that some caller had made the exchange and walked out with the governor's hat. Probably he will be an object of admiration in his neighborhood, now when he walks in wearing the governor's hat.

Three Dollars for Another.

The governor thought perhaps he might wear the big black one, and he tried it on, but the thing fell clear over his head, ears, eyes and face, and he found that it would not do at all. So he telephoned to a hat store and had a clerk bring over three hats from which to select a new one to take the place of the cute little brown one. The clerk came, the governor picked out a little light colored soft hat, paid the clerk three dollars, and then started for the fair with Mrs. Marshall.

Not long ago Governor Marshall and Col. Thistlethwaite were walking down the street when the governor happened to remember that he needed a new necktie. They stopped in a furnishing goods store and the governor selected two ties.

"Pick out one for yourself," he said to Col. Thistlethwaite, and the colonel picked out one. The three were charged to the governor. The first of the month a statement came from the store to the governor, and it read:

"To three neckties, $7.50." Governor Marshall gasped when he read the bill. Then he called up the store and asked about it. Some mistake, surely he said. No, said the man in the store. Those ties were $2.50 each.

Ever since that Governor Marshall has been inquiring the price of things before he buys them.

Good Form at Summer Hotel.

Women who go year after year to the same hotel in summer grow to feel a proprietorship, such as they would at home, and can add to the pleasure of others who go for the first time. It is the simplest matter and perfectly good form for one woman to speak to another on a big piazza if they have been meeting face to face for several days. In that case they already know each other by sight, and it remains only to give their names.

It is always good form for one woman to speak to another in the house of a friend, even though they may never have seen each other before and have not been introduced. In garden parties or big receptions it is kind for one who has many acquaintances present to notice for a moment the one who is obviously a stranger. There is no need of presenting the outsider, for she too has the same privilege of speaking, but the fact that she is an unknown many times renders her shy in drawing attention to herself.

AT THE THEATRES

M'Liss Tomorrow.

The old favorite, "M'Liss," with jolly Nellie McHenry in the leading role, will be seen at the Gennett tomorrow. For the revival of this famous play, Manager Wuertz has been more than lavished and has had an entire new stage production built and new electrical effects introduced. No pains have been spared to surround Miss McHenry with as strong a supporting company that money could procure. The story of "M'Liss" makes a play teeming with life, interest and comedy, and unlike the modern melodrama, it does not depend upon the cheap and absolute inconsistent plots that we see nowadays. Miss McHenry will be heard in several new songs that are strictly up-to-date.

"The Red Mill."

In seeking a novel setting for his play, "The Red Mill" Mr. Blossom happily hit upon the country of Holland, which has heretofore not been served up very much by dramatists. The characters in the piece, with one or two exceptions, are all Dutch, and their quaint and brightly colored costumes, exhibited in a framework made up of whirling windmills and Delft decorations, form, from all accounts, some very novel and pretty stage pictures.

The story revolves around the adventures of two smart, but financially embarrassed Americans, who are "doing" Europe, and who get stranded at Katwyk-aan-Zee. They try to beat their board bill, but are caught by a stern sheriff, prosecuted by an unrelenting tavern keeper and sentenced to a burly Burgomaster to work out their debt. This they do by acting as a waiter and interpreter. A dainty love story is introduced in the plot, which involves the two Americans, a dashing navy officer, a piquant barmaid and a Burgomaster's charming daughter and flirtatious sister. These various characters are impersonated by a group of exceptionally clever players, which includes a company of over sixty people, including the Dutch kiddies and the company's orchestra. Seats are now on sale for both the matinee and night.

Uncle Tom Tonight.

The only attraction in the city to-night will be Uncle Tom's Cabin at the Phillips. It will be given a splendid production, perfect in every detail by the Oelerich Bros. company of 25 players. The play needs no introduction, it is part of the history of America. It is always welcome and never fails to please. Miss Mazie Long will enact the character of Topsy. Uncle Tom will be played by W. H. Crowley who has played the part more than 4,000 times.

"The Man of the Hour."

It is impossible to analyze the elements of success in George Broadhurst's great play, "The Man of the Hour" which comes to the Gennett Wednesday, September 15, matinee and night and it is difficult to describe the pleasure it affords. The principal element of success is the heartiness with which it is presented by the excellent company, laughter is never forced and it is never courted by an approach to vulgarity. The company seem to enter completely into the fun of the thing and to enjoy it as much as the audience. Their spirit is unflinching and their perception of the possibilities of every position complete. If it be true that a good hearty laugh saves a man a doctor's bill, "The Man of the Hour" will enable every playgoer to add a long list of credits to his medicine account. The prolonged success of the piece on the eastern circuit last season is due to the fact that it is so happily constructed that it can be seen again and again without a moment of weariness. The company which Managers W. A. Brady and Jos. R. Grismer are sending here is a special one and is made up of Arthur Maitland, T. S. Guise, M. J. MacQuarrie, John Moore, Felix Haney, Paul Byron, Wm. Lloyd, H. J. Hewitt, Edward Dewey, F. E. Warner, Madeline Winthrop, Anna Roeder and Florence Mack.

For a Baby.

In these days when the baby is out of doors practically all the time his mother wants to be assured of his safety and comfort. One of the big shops is showing a canvas pen made with a strong framework of wood, with sides high enough to prevent the baby from climbing out unless he is particularly acrobatic.

The pen is so arranged with ropes at each corner that it may be raised off the floor of the porch or room to keep the baby entirely out of a draft. The canvas floor has enough spring to it to be entirely comfortable to sleep on and is big enough to allow the baby plenty of room to creep about in. Equipped with such an arrangement a mother would be spared many hours of fretting with a small child, not to speak of the unnecessary handling the baby would be spared.

His Clever Scheme.

It was just a lesson in table manners. The best piece of toast was about half way down the pile, and he started to take it.

"Willie," said his mother, "you shouldn't do that. Take the top piece always."

He made a hasty mental calculation. "All right," he returned. "Pass it to the others first."—Chicago Post.

Distinctive Shoes

For women who seek that same distinctive elegance and refinement in their foot-wear that they require in their clothes. For women who desire that self-satisfaction which comes from shoes which have individuality, we offer

Foster Shoes

The lasts on which they are made are the products of years of experience and careful study. The styles in which they are made are the results of months of trials and experiments. The leathers from which they are made are the softest, smoothest, finest which can be procured. The soles are made from flexible, durable leather, firm enough to retain the form of the shoe, flexible and soft enough to insure comfort. Trim, gracefully and exquisitely dainty, with style and beauty in every line and curve, they are in every sense a superior shoe.

We carry them in all their exclusive styles and shapes:—

- The Gun Metal Shoe with Cloth Top.
- The Patent Leather Button Shoe with the Mat Kid Top.
- The Patent Tip Kid Shoe in either Button or Lace.
- The Patent Leather Shoe with Cloth Top.

These Foster Shoes are strictly Quality Shoes. They sell in competition with custom made shoes everywhere. But they only cost $5.

A superior value in the fashionable Suede Shoe sells for $6. They cost but a little more and they look a great deal better for a much longer time.

FUNERAL AT MILTON

Body of George Carr Was Laid to Rest.

Milton, Ind., Sept. 9.—The body of the late George Carr was brought here from Sheridan, Ills. for burial in the Westside cemetery, at this place yesterday morning. The deceased was about seventeen years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carr, and grandson of the late John Carr, Sr., of Milton. The body was accompanied by the parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Carr and daughter, also by Mrs. Eli Morris and Oliver Canby, of Richmond. The funeral cortege was met at Cambridge City and moved directly to Westside cemetery where the burial took place in the family lot. Mrs. Eli Morris, of Richmond, offered a prayer at the grave. The relatives then returned to Richmond and were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Canby.

KICKED BY A HORSE

Leg of Lewis Harmier Badly Splintered.

Milton, Ind., Sept. 9.—Lewis Harmier had a bad accident yesterday. Mr. Harmier lives about two miles west of here and owns the Alex Low-ery farm. He was using the road scraper and got off the machine to fix it when his horse kicked him on the leg. The bones are broken and so badly splintered that it is feared amputation will be necessary.

Mrs. Gabbey—My! I was at the dentist's this afternoon, and he made me keep my mouth open a whole hour. It nearly killed me. Mrs. Stillwater—Yes, but it might have been worse. If he had made you keep your mouth shut for half that time it would have killed you without a doubt.

One Cough

A cough, just a little cough. It may not amount to much. Or, it may amount to everything! Some keep coughing until the lung tissues are seriously injured. Others stop their cough with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says "Take it," then take it. Sold for seventy years. How long have you known it?
