

KAUFMAN IN RING FOR TEN ROUNDS

Johnson Unable to Put Out Californian Before the End Set for Fight.

CROWD WITH WHITE MAN

KAUFMAN GAINED TOWARD THE FINISH ALTHOUGH GIVEN A TERRIBLE BEATING—JOHNSON HOOED BY CROWD.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10.—In a contest unique in local prize fight annals, Jack Johnson was accredited with a "newspaper" decision over Al Kaufman at the end of ten rounds of fighting at Cofiroth's arena.

According to the articles of agreement, if both men were on their feet when ten rounds had been fought, no decision was to be given. Referee Eddie Smith, however, stated that Johnson was entitled to the verdict.

Johnson employed tantalizing lefts and forceful right uppercuts with such frequency that Kaufman was fairly bewildered. Early in the contest his face began to show signs of Johnson's stinging punches and in the third round a well directed wallop started the blood flowing from Kaufman's face.

Johnson appeared to be holding himself in reserve and it took constant jilbing by the spectators and an occasional punch from the blacksmith to start him going. When he did let go he played with Kaufman as if the latter were a child.

Kaufman Finds Champ.

In the ninth round Kaufman found Johnson's stomach with a vicious right swing. It was Kaufman's best blow and it convinced the colored man that he had better be careful.

The contest proved, fight experts say, that Kaufman should shun short round affairs. He appeared to gain strength as the battle progressed, while Johnson, who apparently had trained none too well, began to show signs of weakening. The fight closed in ineffective slugging.

When Johnson entered the ring the crowd hooted as he sauntered down the aisle and stepped over the ropes. Kaufman was given a great demonstration.

Johnson looked a bit fat as he posed for a photograph, while Kaufman appeared to be in fine shape.

WILL LEAVE PHILLIES IN STATE LEAGUE

Settlement Made With Manager to Step Out.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10.—That the Philadelphia National league club owners realize that they committed a grave mistake recently when they refused to ratify the Donlin-Magee-Murray deal is evidenced by their strenuous efforts to arrange another deal. It is known that a settlement was made with Manager Murray this week by which he gives up his three year contract and steps out at the close of the season. His successor has been chosen, but his name is kept a secret. Offers of substantial deals have been made for Magee by three National league clubs, and within a week or two he will go.

OLD SWISS LAWS.

Queer Statutes That Governed Weddings and Weddings Apparels.

"Switzerland had a law that no wedding party should have more than twenty guests—ten men friends of the bridegroom and ten women friends of the bride. No wedding procession was permitted to have more than two singers, two fiddlers and two trumpeters. Married women were forbidden to wear silk or decorated hoods, though maidens might. No woman, whether married or unmarried, was allowed to wear any dress in which the opening for the neck was so large that it did not lie at least two inches wide upon the shoulders, and the gown must not be buttoned or laced up in front or at the side. To restrain the fashion of long pointed shoes it was enacted that no person of either sex should wear a shoe with a point extending beyond the foot enough to allow anything to be inserted in it, nor was any woman or girl permitted to wear laced shoes. No man or boy should wear a coat that did not reach to the knee. Garments were forbidden to be slashed so as to show different colors or kinds of material, and trousers were required to be made without stripes and both legs of the same color. In 1470 one Swiss canton in council assembled enacted that hereafter no one shall make points of shoes or boots longer than one joint of the finger, and if any shoemaker shall make them longer he shall be fined £1, as also the persons wearing them.—London Express.

Vast crowds followed his automobile to the pier and cheered tumultuously as he walked up the gang plank. The explorer was very much delighted and waved his hand and raised his hat in a parting salute as the boat left the dock. It is due to arrive in New York September 20.

GENERAL LEE.

His Personal Influence and His Military Prowess.

In looking for the source of Lee's personal influence we have to go back, I think, to the habit of inherited respect which the people of the south paid to social position. It was not born of a feeling of subservience, however, for the poorest "cracker" had an unmistakable and unselfish dignity about him. He always walked up to and faced the highest with an air of equality. No, this latent respect was a natural response on the part of men of low estate to good manners and oft displayed sympathy. Lee by his connection through birth and marriage with the aristocratic traditions of the gentleman transmitted and ingrafted at an early age through the cavaliers into Virginia life. But for his military prowess he had something vastly more efficacious than ancestry or filling the mold of well bred traditions. He had the generative quality of simple, effective greatness—in other words, an unspotted, serenely lofty character whose qualities were reactive, reaching every private soldier and making him unconsciously braver and better as a man.—Morris Schaff in Atlantic.

THE MISSING TURK.

An Incident in the Stage Career of Sarah Bernhardt.

Sarah Bernhardt was once playing at Marseilles in a spectacular play in which she made her entire accompaniment by six Turkish slaves. A line on the program announced that these six Turks would accompany Mme. Bernhardt, but when the time came for them to go on one of the youngsters had disappeared. Sarah mustered the five in order and made her entrance with a grand flourish. The house was crowded, but not a handclap greeted her as she appeared. Then a still, small voice in the gallery murmured something in an indignant tone. Fifty voices immediately took up the strain, and in ten seconds more the whole house was shouting the same phrase.

Bernhardt strained every nerve to catch what they were complaining about. She knew the phrase began with "Manque," but the rest of it was lost in the general hubbub. For a full minute the tumult continued. Then Sarah, muttering things below her breath, rushed like a fury down to the footlights. In the front row the actress had spotted one man who was not taking part in the hullabaloo. Pointing at him, the actress exclaimed sternly: "You seem to be the only sensible person in the house. Tell me what on earth they are kicking up this row for."

The man rose, bowed to the actress and remarked in very bad American French, "Madam, you are shy one Turk."

Paris Actresses. It is a very usual thing for the Paris hostess to engage actresses to perform for her guests, and they, of course, mingle with these guests on fairly equal terms during the rest of the evening. But I know of very few Parisian society hostesses who would invite actresses to dinner. I am not sure, either, that the actresses would accept such an invitation if they got it, and I may add that it is an amusing lesson in "equality and fraternity" to hear Mme. la Marquise address an actress as "mademoiselle." The tone is exquisitely polite, but it would freeze you on the hottest day in summer. And yet numbers of Paris actresses are married women and, if unmarried, essentially respectable, but the word "actress" is a label, and Paris is a town of labels.—M. Raphael in London Strand Magazine.

Curran's Grim Joke. "I cannot sing; I really cannot," protested the famous Lord Norbury of "hanging fame" to a pretty and pressing hostess. "I have neither words nor voice."

"You are too modest, chief justice," said Curran, who was standing by. "For I know hundreds that have hung on your words and thousands that have been transported by your voice."

Grand Jury Drags Along With Minor Matters, Hopes to Finish Tuesday.

CRUELTY CHARGE IS MADE

JURY SAID TO BE INVESTIGATING ALLEGATIONS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AGAINST GREEN, THE LIVELY STABLE OWNER.

The grand jury which started its annual investigation, last Tuesday, will not complete the work before it until some time next week in the opinion of Judge Fox, and Prosecuting Attorney Charles Ladd. Nothing of much consequence is expected to develop as a result of the investigation, which so far seems to be on minor affairs.

Today the jury investigated the killing of a horse owned by Green, the liveryman, it is said. Frank Tuttwaller, drayman for the W. S. Clendenin Fertilizer concern and Mr. Clendenin were before the jury today. Mr. Tuttwaller said that he had been instructed to get the horse from Green's livery barn about two weeks ago Saturday night. He said Green had ordered that it be killed. It is understood by Tuttwaller that Green's reason for having the horse killed was that it had fits and was very mean. Tuttwaller said that he took the horse home and on Sunday morning it was dead. He does not know what caused its death and he does not know whether it was injured in any way. Tuttwaller said that the horse was a rather fair animal, from the standpoint of quality.

Yesterday James Moore, a colored employe of Green's was before the jury. Mr. Moore said that he knew nothing about the alleged cruel treatment of the animal.
