GIANTS TAKE FIRST

The Giants won the first of a series of games for the city championship yesterday afternoon at Athletic Park from the Athletics by the score of 3 to 0. The game was one of the best of the season. Smith, second base for the Giants, knocked a home run and several of the Athletics' hits were good for extra bases. Marine for the Athletics allowed 5 hits while Benson for the Giants allowed one more.

SAVING HOP CROP

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 13.—Five hundred men, women and children, including a number of Indiana pickers, are at work saving the hop crop in the Spokane valley, where it is estimated that 15,000 bales will be gathered this season. This will probably be the last season of hop growing in central Washington, as the vast tracts now devoted to this industry are becoming more valuable for apple orcharding.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

(American News Service)
Pittsburg, Sept. 13.—E. B. Saylor, ex-superintendent of the Pittsburg district of the Western Union Telegraph company and William H. Smith, a broker, jointly accused of conspiracy in the wire tapping case were declared not guilty today and the costs placed on the county. William Thompson, a partner of Smith who was also accused of conspiracy, was discharged at the direction of the judge before the jury retired.

DAGGOTT IS DYING

Thomas Daggott, of East German town, who went to sleep on the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern tracks, at the foot of Capitol Hill, east of Cambridge City, a week ago last Friday and was struck by an interurban car, will probably die. He is injured internally and one leg has been amputated and it is a surprise to the attending physician that he has survived as long as he has. He was intoxicated when the accident happened. The motorman did not stop the car because he thought the object lying on the track was a log.

ANTARCTIC EXPEDITIONS

(American News Service)

London, Sept. 13.—Two rival Antarctic expeditions, one American and the other British, will dash for the South pole, both straining every nerve for the honor of placing their respective flags upon the coveted goal at the southernmost spot on earth.

The first call for funds to make up a $200,000 subscription list was issued here today by Captain Robert F. Scott of the discovery expedition, and simultaneously with stirring editorials in the English press calling for patriotic compliance, came a cablegram from Sydney, Cape Breton, in which Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic club, confirmed the report that Commander Robert E. Peary will organize an expedition during the coming winter to make a dash next spring for the South Pole.

Great Britain, stimulated by the success of Peary at the north pole, is aroused today to a pitch of enthusiasm seldom seen out of war time.

"For the honor of the flag" is the caption of an editorial today in which The Daily Mail comments on the undertaking of Captain Peary, which reads:

"Through the energy and daring of Commander Peary, the hope that the Union Jack would fly first at the north pole has been taken from us forever. It is poor consolation to read in Commander Peary's account that he placed an Englishman in command of the last supporting party, because it seemed appropriate to have him next to an American."

The Mail declares that the English are unaccustomed to occupying second place in any field of human endeavor.

New York, Sept. 13.—Former Judge Robert S. Lovett, for years the right hand man of E. H. Harriman in all his great railroad enterprises, today had conferred upon him the leadership in the Union Pacific affairs when he was elected chairman of the board of directors to succeed the dead financier, William Rockefeller and Jacob Schiff were elected directors to succeed Harriman and H. H. Rogers.

BANKERS' CONVENTION.

(American News Service)

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Special trains from every direction today brought more than 1,000 additional delegates with their wives to the convention of the American Bankers' association. A total of six thousand is anticipated. An unusually brilliant social feature, Thursday evening at which time President Taft is to make his bow to the bankers and their wives, no doubt had an effect in bringing so many delegates to the city.

A FATAL CLOUDBURST.

(American News Service)

Raton, N. M., Sept. 13.—Mrs. J. W. Nickle, wife of a Raton business man, daughter Ethel, aged twenty-two, and Albert Kessler, aged twenty-five, Miss Nickle's fiancée, were drowned during a cloudburst near here last night. J. W. Nickle was also swept away but escaped death as if by miracle. Kessler met death in trying to save his sweetheart whom he heard calling his name. None of the bodies were recovered.

SUTTON'S BODY EXHUMED.

(American News Service)

Washington, Sept. 13.—The body of Lieutenant James N. Sutton of the marine corps, killed in a brawl with several other young officers on the naval academy grounds at Annapolis, and whose death has been subject to naval inquiry, was exhumed at the Arlington cemetery this afternoon. An autopsy to determine the exact cause of his death, if possible, is to be held. Guards at the cemetery prevented curious visitors, of whom there were quite a number, many with cameras, from entering the grounds, the entire cemetery being closed to visitors by the war department.

Aged Groom Smokes During the Marriage Ceremony

Do the conventions of even the most informal marriage permit the groom to smoke while the ceremony is being performed? Probably not in all cases, but Dan Cupid offered no objection to the groom smoking during the marriage ceremony of Joel L. Bales, aged 77, a retired farmer, living at Winchester and Mrs. Ruth Channess, aged 67, living in Dalton township, in the private office of county clerk, Harry E. Penny, this afternoon. Judge Henry C. Fox of the circuit court performed the ceremony.

Mr. Bales and Mrs. Bales appeared at the clerk's office this afternoon and announced their intentions. Miss Addison Peel, who waited on them, was not altogether surprised at the application but not a little surprised when the groom in a whisper asked if the ceremony could be performed at once. Judge Luther Abbott is out of the city and Judge Fox was invited to perform the ceremony.

Mr. Bales was smoking when he entered the clerk's office and did not desist at any time during the ceremony. He has been married twice. His wife has been married once. The previous marital relations of each party were severed by death.

LOCAL MAN FIGURES BIG ORDER PLACED

The reconstruction of the tracks of the street car company from Thirteenth street east to Twentieth street, involves an amount of expense that is scarcely realized. The material will all be new, which means new ties, new rails and plates, new curves at Twentieth street, and new brick between tracks. One of the largest items of expense will be cost of excavating for the concrete, upon which the tracks are to be laid. This will take a great many car loads of crushed stone and sand. It can perhaps, best be understood by the order for cement, placed with the Mather Brothers company for about 2,000 barrels. It will take a large force of men for many weeks to complete the work, and involve an outlay for the company of approximately $20,000. The material is now being placed on the ground, and tomorrow the work of tearing up the tracks will begin.

NEWPORT HAS SENSATION

Newport, Ky., Sept. 13.—A running fight in which the fugitives and a policeman figured caused a sensation in the business section of the city today. The trouble began when Detective Morton tried to arrest Leroy and Isaac Brewer, the latter claiming his home as Richmond, Ind. The charge against them was the alleged attempt to detain fourteen year old Florence Gray. Both men are said to be forty years of age. As the fugitives and detectives raced down the streets, a gun fight ensued. Three bullets fired by Leroy Brewer grazed the officer but he finally captured his man. Two other shots grazed bystanders. David Brewer succeeded in making his escape.

Isaac Brewer is not known in this city so far as is known. His name is not contained in the city directory.

OFF UNTIL MONDAY

The grand jury, which has been in session off and on since last Tuesday, adjourned this afternoon, after the inspection of the county poor farm, until next Monday, when, unless Prosecuting Attorney Charles Ladd has other cases for investigation, its report will be made to Judge Fox of the circuit court. The jury was in session today and this afternoon visited the county infirmary west of Centerville.

There is no medicine so safe and at the same time so pleasant to take as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the positive cure for all diseases arising from stomach trouble. The price is very reasonable—25c and 50c.

FAREWELL PLANNED

Ministers Will Give Luncheon For the Departing Members.

A SESSION HELD TODAY

A luncheon, complimentary to the retiring members of the Ministerial association, including Rev. H. R. Keates, Rev. Robert Dunaway, Rev. G. E. Harsh and Rev. Morton Hobson, will be served at the Spa, Y. M. C. A., Thursday noon, under the auspices of the Ministerial association. These four ministers will leave the city about October 1, to take up work in other fields.

Rev. W. B. Crowell, of Canada, who is visiting relatives in this city, gave a short talk this morning in which he complimented Richmond as being a city of homes and Christian principles. In general, he found that there was more devotion of the Sabbath in this country than in Nova Scotia, Canada, his home. Canada does not even permit Sunday newspapers, he said.

He said that the W. C. T. U. were to be congratulated for their work, and attributed the cause for the temperance wave in the middle west and south.

The following committees were appointed: Temperance and Good Citizenship—Rev. T. J. Graham, chairman; Dr. C. Huber and Rev. A. H. Kenna; Associated Charities—Rev. H. R. Smith; Rev. S. R. Lyons, Rev. E. Minter; Evangelistic—Rev. W. M. Nelson, Rev. G. L. Goodwin and Rev. S. W. Trautman; Sunday Observances—Rev. Allen Jay, Rev. O. S. Harrison, and Rev. I. M. Hughes; Topics—Rev. A. Parker, Rev. J. E. Cathell and Rev. J. C. Graham.

The present alliance by the southern members of Governor Patterson's Nashville conference on child labor for not recommending the eight hour day for children in southern states was the twelve hour day in Pennsylvania and the ten hour day in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Transplanting an industry is, however, so serious a matter that many considerations more important than any labor law yet enacted, much less enforced, in this country would enter in.

THE COMPROMISE.

He Thought He Was Firm and Knew He Was Considerate.

The young man had entered that mysterious realm called matrimony, and as it was his first offense his father was handing him some paternal advice as to how he should treat the young wife.

"When you have any little differences of opinion, my son," he said to the boy, "if you can't persuade Margaret that you are right—and you probably can't, for they are all about alike—you must compromise. Be firm, yet be considerate and compromise."

"Yes, father," replied the son. "I will remember a little experience," and a reminiscent expression came over the old man's face. "On the very threshold of the married life of your mother and myself, and it was the basis of all future disputes. It was this way: I wanted to spend the summer, our first vacation together, in Maine, and your mother wanted to go to Saratoga. That was thirty years ago. But I shall never forget how firm and yet how considerate I was with your mother and how we compromised, avoiding all dispute. We stayed from Saturday noon to Tuesday morning at Bar Harbor, and then we spent the rest of the summer at Saratoga. Yes, indeed," the old man added, with a sigh, "that's the only way to deal with a woman. You must be firm, but be willing to compromise a little once in a while, as I have done with your mother."—New York Tribune.

For the past two or three years a considerable increase in the consumption of oranges has been effected through advertising certain weeks as "orange" week, during which fruit of especial quality would be put on the market and very reasonable prices would prevail. Much has been done to popularize this fine fruit through just such well managed publicity campaigns. Following along lines somewhat similar, the raisin growers of California adopted a scheme last spring, advertising April 29 extensively as "raisin" day. The idea being to cultivate a taste for and increase the consumption of raisins as a table fruit. While not all of the thirty-five tons of raisins produced in the San Joaquin valley in 1908 were disposed of as a result of the campaign, a much greater quantity was consumed than would have been under normal conditions.

LABOR NOTES.

There is a union of hatmakers at La Mesa, France, in which the office of president, vice president, secretary and treasurer are held by one man.

The street railway employees of St. Paul and Minneapolis have started to organize with a view to securing better pay and different running hours.

The Lawrence (Mass.) Weavers' Protective association has decided upon a series of open air meetings to interest the textile operatives in the union movement.

President H. B. Perham of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers has been elected fourth vice president of the American Federation of Labor, vice Max Morris, deceased.

The Journeymen Barbers' International union will hold the first national convention of the craft in five years at Milwaukee beginning Oct. 5. From 600 to 650 delegates will be in attendance.

"No," said Stormington Barnes, "I shall never play Hamlet again."

"Why not?" queried his dear friend, Walker Ties.

"My professional pride will not permit it," replied the self acknowledged tragedian. "Why, even the lights went out last night."—Chicago News.

STUFFING LEGISLATORS.

Withdrawal of Industry an Empty Threat of Employers.

Nothing is more difficult to estimate accurately than the effect of labor legislation upon employers, writes Florence Kelley in the Survey. I have known of many threats of employers to move away from a state by reason of a proposed labor law. Never have I known one really to go. For instance, in the glass industry in Illinois none has gone, and the industry has increased very considerably since night work of children was stopped and the eight hours a day introduced for them. There is always the threat of the New Jersey glass manufacturers that if the night work of boys is stopped they will go to Maryland or West Virginia. Because every year the number of boys employed diminishes as the industry is more efficiently organized I believe this to be an empty threat.

When cotton mills have gone south from New England there have entered into their calculation free or cheap water power, freedom from taxes, cheap coal and cheap adult labor. The statement that they went to escape labor legislation must be considered in the light of these things. One Massachusetts cotton mill is commonly said to have been moved to Rhode Island by reason of the ten hour law. But the considerations as to taxes, rent, water power, etc., are unknown.

The only industry I have seen move into Pennsylvania, where labor legislation has always been a dead letter, is that of silk and knitting mills which went from New York to employ women and children, the male members of whose families, working in mines and breakers, cannot sustain them. I think the laws had little to do with it. They are nowhere sufficiently rigorous to make much difference to employers.

The present alliance by the southern members of Governor Patterson's Nashville conference on child labor for not recommending the eight hour day for children in southern states was the twelve hour day in Pennsylvania and the ten hour day in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Transplanting an industry is, however, so serious a matter that many considerations more important than any labor law yet enacted, much less enforced, in this country would enter in.

Legislation which protects the life, limb, health and intelligence of working people is not a burden upon industry. On the contrary, it is in many cases a direct benefit, increasing the general efficiency of the community.

The present alliance by the southern members of Governor Patterson's Nashville conference on child labor for not recommending the eight hour day for children in southern states was the twelve hour day in Pennsylvania and the ten hour day in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

The Right to Strike Upheld.

Federal Judge Baker, sitting in Indianapolis, refused the American Tin Plate company's plan for an injunction against its striking employees at Elwood, Ind. The decision is a radical departure from the custom of these courts.

Judge Baker held that unions had the right to strike, to prevent wage scales and induce others to join them. In answer to the company's claim that Elwood officials were not enforcing the law, the court called attention to the company's failure to connect strikers, either directly or indirectly, with this condition. The workers' attorneys acknowledged sympathizers had joined and in some cases had used insulting language, but Judge Baker agreed that the police authorities of Elwood must handle this phase of the question.

The decision is squarely for the workers and is probably the first time a federal judge has thrown an injunction application out of court.

Machinists Would Change Law.

At the international convention of machinists, soon to be held at Denver, an effort will be made to change the present method of selecting the vice presidents. The proposed amendment provides that there shall be a board of vice presidents, each selected from a geographical district and to be placed in charge of it during his term. The claim is made in behalf of the proposed change that a man from every district knows the needs there better than one who does not know anything about the territory and the lodges of machinists in it.
