TAKING HARRIMAN'S PLACE.

The real measure of Harriman's greatness will continue to appear from time to time. The visible work of the "Colossus of Roads" has been discussed and will receive further attention when the magazines begin to publish their special articles on which men have been already working from the day when the demise of Harriman seemed imminent.

This morning's dispatches to the effect that half a dozen men will assume the duties which once the wily little railroad sovereign did himself, shows better than any historical resume the scope of Mr. Harriman's intellect and industry.

Lovett and Loree are mentioned to take the management of Union Pacific.
Lovett will attend to the financial side and Loree will take care of the practical railroad. Schiff, of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, it is said, will take a greater part in the active management of what were once known as the Harriman interests.

From time to time it will be noticeable that some other man is given a department of the Harriman work to care for. Harriman, himself, played the lone hand—even to declaring independence on his stocks without consultation with his boards of directors. In this sort of thing Wall street and the world of trade will look anxiously for the appearance of the leading spirit who will attend to the real work of E.
H. Harriman.

THE PRODUCER AND THE TARIFF.

Professor H. C. Emery of Yale, who is the chairman of the New Tariff Commission, expresses his views on the matter of the tariff at some length in the Indianapolis Star. The most interesting thing which he remarks is, what effect business has on the tariff.
He lays more stress on this than on the effect of the tariff on business.
"Wherever the free trade movement has been in any large degree successful, it has been, I think, due to the fact that the movement has appealed to the interest of producers."

He previously pointed out that the producer is more interested in selling large quantities of commodities than in making his profit off the decreased cost of the materials which he uses.
The working man also takes more interest in a propaganda which will give him higher wages without taking into consideration the higher cost of living, which such a general system is bound to bring about.

He then says that reduction in protection to be successful must come from the producer.

"When the interest of producers demands reduction in the amount of protection, then such reduction becomes a possibility. This is because in the first place, as already indicated, these interests seem more vital to men than their interests as consumers, and, secondly, because producers are commonly much better organized. A powerful group interest now appears in the arena, capable of making its influence felt; and, when this happens, concrete results may be expected. This interest of the producers in tariff reduction may appear in the form of a demand for free raw materials, although this is not likely to become of great importance. It may come, however, not from their desire to be able to buy more cheaply, but from their desire to sell a larger product—that is, their desire to secure foreign markets."

In this question Mr. Emery seems to be very close to the truth. Even the commission of which he is a member, is proof in itself of some degree of efficacy of the demands of the large manufacturers. We have frequently mentioned the Tariff Commission convention which took place in Indianapolis this spring, which was fathered by the American Manufacturers' association.

And while the demands of that convention were not answered except in the formal and emasculated form of the present commission, yet it at least points to the growing tendency of manufacturers to reduce the tariff.

This may not be encouraging to the average man, who likes to think that his vote helps to make the tariff, but he can scarcely feel very much agrieved at those manufacturers who are on his side in reducing the tariff.

The tariff in this country, undeniably, has been a producers' tariff. Mr.
Emery's view is that the tariff is always a producers' tariff. Are you a producer or a consumer? That is a hard question for any one to answer.

Items Gathered in From Far and Near Suppressing the Hoodlum.

From the New York World.
By radical methods, adopted toward the season's end, the police have put a decided crimp into the practice of rowdism on the subway Sunday arains.
The same measures in force last spring would have assured a summer of peace in effect several years ago they would have prevented a succession of seasons full of annoyance, insult and injury to the traveling public. Next spring should find the police promptly on the alert to suppress the first signs of hoodlums on the trains. And the city magistrates should be ready to back up by the imposition of real penalties the work of the officers.

Homes to Replace Tenements.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.
A great deal more good than the public knows of has already flowed from the establishment of the Sage foundation to improve social conditions. The Pittsburgh survey, the congestion exhibit, tuberculosis exhibit and the like are some of the ways in which this money has been used to increase public knowledge and quicken the public conscience in regard to social evils. But no work that the Sage foundation has done promises to be so far reaching in its beneficial effects as the home colonies in Queens borough.

Beverly and Good Roads.

From the New York Herald.
The fact that all roads now lead to Beverly makes the people of Massachusetts more solicitous than ever about having good roads.—Washington Star.
Those visiting Beverly find the roads as good as that section of Massachusetts is prosperous. As a man is known by the company he keeps, so is a district known by its highways. Good streets are seldom found in poor or unprogressive communities.
Massachusetts learned that lesson in the long ago bicycle days and took her post-graduate course with the advent of the automobile.

Wants "the Rest."

From New Orleans Times-Democrat.
Mr. Harriman has determined to acquire all the land for twenty miles on all sides of his already large estate at Arden, N. Y. When he returned to this country it was announced that Mr. Harriman came for "a rest." Perhaps this was a typographical error for "the rest."

Curbstone Explorers.

From the Kansas City Times.
Inasmuch as men of science the world over accept Dr. Cook's discovery of the north pole as authentic, there is no reason why the curbstone explorers should remain skeptical.

HEIR TO BIG PROPERTY.

People are smiling over the will of all his wealth to outsiders except one dollar which he left to his sister with the instructions to invest it wisely. If she follows his advice she will buy but get rub-a-lac and be through ear-

THINGS IN INDIA.

Strange Hindoo Beliefs Concerning the Man Eaters.
In India the traditions of folklore are numerous and strange. Among those pertaining to the tiger the following are the most peculiar: The uneducated Hindoo (and he is in the great majority) believes that the ghost of a man killed by a tiger rides on the head of the beast that slew him to warn him of danger and to guide him to new victims. It is declared that God provides for the tiger's daily wants to the amount of 1 rupee a day—that is to say, if the tiger kills a calf worth 6 rupees he will not be allowed another victim for five days.
Eating the flesh of a tiger is supposed to give one great courage and alertness, but the whiskers must first be singed off the beast or his spirit will haunt the man who fed off him, and he is likely to be turned into a tiger in the next world.
The following incident really occurred in a small Indian village in the interior: One of the villagers was unfortunately killed by a tiger. The police investigated the accidental death and rendered this verdict: "Pandu died of a tiger eating him. There was no other cause of death. Nothing was left of him save his bones and some fingers, which probably belonged to either the right or left hand."—Washing-

Tribute Paid by Commercial Club to Memory of C. H. Land

A special committee consisting of John L. Rupe, Henry Gennett and Samuel Dickinson, presented resolutions on the death of Charles H. Land, in the form of a memorial, to the Commercial club, at its meeting last evening, which were unanimously adopted.
Following is the resolution:

"Resolved, That the Commercial club of Richmond, of which Mr.
Land was a member, deplore the great loss sustained by his family, his kinsmen and the community in his death, when all things of which he was fond promised a great and abundant harvest; as well as good fellowship, the greatest attribute of the responsibility of living."

"The exasperation of life is its brevity.
Death is not a misfortune, but rather a stroke of good luck for the man who has never shirked the responsibility of living."

"Such was the character of Charles Land, ever ready with his utmost effort and ability to solve the problems of being, and he leaves behind him the memories of a useful and beneficial life to all. Be it further "Resolved, That a suitable prepared copy of this memorial be sent by the secretary, to the wife, as a tribute from the Commercial Club of Richmond."

Uncle Tom's Cabin, which showed at the New Phillips theater last week, stranded here and thus disappointed many a small town theater patron, where the company was booked to appear. The show had a large house here, but it was by common consent that the troop broke up and departed for parts unknown. So far as can be learned the company's finances were in good enough shape for all local bills contracted were paid.

Dr. Ralph D. Fox of Bloomington and Dr. Carl D. Camp of Ann Arbor, Michigan, came today for a few days' visit. They will attend the Edmunds-Kaminski wedding.

ALFRED BAVIS TO ENTER THE FIELD

Wants Democratic Nomination For Office as Councilman-at-large.

APPEALS TO ALL VOTERS

WELL KNOWN SHOPMAN STATES THAT HE WILL IGNORE PARTI-SAN AFFILIATIONS IN MUNICI-PAL AFFAIRS.

Alfred Bavis has announced that he will be a candidate for the nomination of councilman-at-large at the democratic convention, September 22. Mr.
Bavis states that he is basing his hopes of election on the disposition of the electors generally, to ignore partisan affiliation in municipal affairs and to judge the candidates from a standpoint of merit only. His communication in full, is as follows:

"I have fully decided to ask for the nomination as councilman-at-large at the coming democratic convention, Sept. 22nd.
"In doing so, I am basing my hopes of election, if nominated, on the disposition of the electors, generally, to ignore partisan affiliation in municipal affairs and to judge the candidates from the standpoint of merit only.

"My aim shall always be to aid consistently with the strictest economy, all measures conducive to the advancement and beautifying of our city.
"I promise to use vigilance in guarding against leakage of public funds, and give my very best service on the committees to which I may be assigned."

"My protestation by voice and vote will be given to the indiscriminate giving of franchises to private corporations, unless such franchises contain provisions giving the city the prerogative to acquire said property at a fair valuation, for the purpose of converting into municipal ownership, or either the payment by said corporation of a stipulated percentage of its net earnings to the city for the privilege of said franchise."

"Also to avoid possible perpetuating of franchises, it be specifically stated in the contract that the franchise expires simultaneously with the contract.
"If the problem of the water works is not solved previous to the assembling of the new council, I wish to state that I am not in favor of renewing the contract of the City Water Works Co., as now framed, or any other contract which may be offered containing either meter charges or a minimum of 75c per month for water used."

"I stand or fall on this declaration.
"Yours truly,
"ALFRED BAVIS."

HER CASTLES IN SPAIN.

Kitty Weeks, eighteen and pretty, wanted to be an actress.
Kitty lived in Oklahoma and had acted in high school plays, and when "The Power of Love" company came to her town she was engaged as leading lady at $25 a week, of which she never drew over $8—"on account of the rain."

At Joplin, Mo., the company was stranded. The manager and the comedian scraped up $10 and sent Kitty to Chicago.

Arrived there, she could find nothing better to do than to scrub floors at the Pacific mission, which was quite a fall from leading lady.

At last reports she was awaiting a remittance from her fiancé in Oklahoma.

These were the materials of which she built her castles in Spain:

First, to be an actress like Mrs.
Flake.

Second, to have $1,000,000 in diamonds.

Third, to win the admiration of the artistic world by her own efforts.

Fourth, to show her parents that they were wrong.

Poor little lassie!
Her castles fell a-stumbling about her pretty ears. Weeping on the shoulder of the matron, she changed her ideals this way:

She wanted to go back to mother and the little white bedroom with the gabled window; to beg father's pardon for disregarding his advice; to get a good home dinner like mother used to make; to marry her fiancé instead of being "wedded to art."

"Oh, I've had my lesson!" said the girl. "I thought life in Oklahoma was humdrum." It was heaven. "When I get back home, if I ever do, I shall be the homeliest home body you ever heard of. I don't want to play in 'East Lynne' or in any other play that used to appeal to me."

All of us who have come to years of discretion have known the experience of Kitty Weeks.

Life to the young looks like a glittering pagentry of beauty as seen through the ever shifting kaleidoscope of early dreams and aspirations.

Alas, that dreams are only dreams—That fancy cannot give a lasting beauty To those forms that scarce a moment live!

As the years come and go the pagentry fades; the beautiful mirage rises; the swift flowing rivers of fancy lose their runnels in the sands of life's desert places. Our castles in Spain have fallen to the ground. Disillusion comes. We are up against reality!

Shoes For Work

For men who work in factory or in field. For men who find it hard to get shoes that will wear and are comfortable. Men who are seeking some means of cutting down their heavy expense for work shoes we offer a much better line of

Long Wearing Shoes

Wearing qualities and comfort have been combined in the largest degree to make the "Menz Ease" Elkskin Shoe. Greater care is used in the tanning of the leathers than is ordinarily used in tanning work shoe leather. The result is a better and softer leather.

More attention is given to the making of the shoe. The result is a stronger, more comfortable shoe.

Every piece of leather, every detail of workmanship must come up to a certain high standard. The result is a uniform shoe, all are good.

The sole leather and the upper leathers are heavy enough to wear, yet light enough not to be burdensome.

They represent a high value for your money. Some sell at $2.00. Some sell at $2.50 and some sell at $3.00.
