PRESIDENT KELLY GIVES A REPORT

Tells Western Yearly Meeting Of Condition of Earlham College.

IT RECEIVES APPROVAL

INSTITUTION SHOWN TO BE IN FLOURISHING CONDITION AND EXPENSE COST TO STUDENTS VERY REASONABLE.

(American News Service)
Plainfield, Ind., Sept. 17.—The seventh annual report of President R. Kelly, of Earlham college, was made at Western Yearly Meeting of Friends today and contained many interesting facts. It was heartily endorsed and ordered placed on file. One of the most interesting sections of the report was that pertaining to the expenses to the students. It was shown that the charges to the students had increased but $25 in the past twenty-five years, in spite of the fact that living and boarding expenses had increased more than double. The fact that a student can attend the institution for one year for $240 was considered remarkable by those present today.

Attention was called to the death of two of Earlham's greatest benefactors, Robert D. Andrews of Greenfield and Zenas Bundy, also of Greenfield. Both died within the past year. Mr. Andrews left his entire estate to be divided between Earlham college and the vided between Earlham college and Indiana Yearly Meeting, and Mr. Bundy contributed $25,000 for the Bundy dormitory.

The total debt of the institution is but $90,000. It would be easily possible to raise this amount immediately if the occasion ever demanded.

Other interesting points of his report were in part as follows:

Summary of Report.

Increase in enrollment over previous year 95; total enrollment past year, 620; attendance more than doubled in the seven years; number graduated in June, 1909, fifty; twelve Yearly Meetings of Friends represented in the student body; nineteen different religious denominations; twenty different states represented; the Edwin S. Bundy dormitory for boys overflowing; entrance requirements for next year advanced further; the work in Domestic science will be extended by the equipment of a fully equipped kitchen; Miss Elsie Marshall, of Drexel Institute, continues at head of this work; summer term twelve weeks in length making a college year of 48 weeks; unprecedented growth in summer term for past two years; very successful "observation school" carried on during summer term at Baxter public school building, city of Richmond, under the supervision of Supt. W. A. Jessup and Miss Louise Delta, supervisor of primary work, Madison, Ind.; Indiana Public Library commission conducted its library school again at Earlham during the summer term.

Joseph Moore Museum one of the most remarkable college museums in the country, now under the supervision of Prof. Allen D. Hole, as curator; 2,500 specimens added past four years; during past four years 14,400 visitors; museum open every day in year except Sunday; the religious life of the college was very satisfactory during the year; the ideals of the Earlham dormitories—the unique features of the college portrayed at considerable length.

Where the Fault Lay.

"Tommy, that is the last helping of plum pudding I shall give you!" So spoke Tommy's mother. Tommy grunted. Why? Because he was a little hog.
