KING CORN WILL HOLD COURT HERE

Premier Product of the Farms Exhibited During the Festival.

BIG VEGETABLE DISPLAY

PYTHIAN TEMPLE ON SOUTH
EIGHTH STREET WILL BE CEN-TER OF ATTRACTION TO HUN-DREDS OF PEOPLE.

The corn and produce show at the Knights of Pythias Temple, South Eighth street, will be in charge of Joseph Helms and Isaac Dougan, probably the two best known specialists in their line in this section of Indiana or Western Ohio. Mr. Helms has charge of the grains, while Mr. Dougan is chairman of the committee on fruits and vegetables.

The prizes offered for the exhibits of corn are the best of the association—$4.00 being offered for the best display of ten ears of white or yellow corn. Much interest is taken in the corn display by the farmers. Today it is the principal product of Eastern Indiana and Western Ohio farms, and a good crop of corn means to the farmer a fat bank account. The price of corn controls the price of hogs and cattle, it is said by the growers.

Farmers Are Interested.

Since the corn school at Centerville last year, the farmers have awakened to the importance of the crop, as being the staple of the farm. As a result of the instruction given there, many a farmer is an expert judge and will readily realize the strong and weak points of the corn display. The display, in fact, will furnish an interesting study for him.

Whether tobacco is a fruit or a vegetable or perhaps belongs to another "kingdom," is not known, but it is listed as a fruit by the festival association. Probably this is the right place for it. Apples, pears, peaches, plums, grapes, quinces and other fruits raised locally will be exhibited in profusion.

The exhibit of vegetables offers a world of opportunity to the truck gardener. There are so many different varieties and kinds, that the list is too long to give in these columns.

It is enough to say that the prizes offered are sufficient to attract the gardeners' attention and an excellent display in all varieties is promised.

OPEN TO THE WORLD

As in the Other Exhibits, Horse
Show Is Competition For All.

A FINE SHOWING PLACE

The horse show on North Tenth street, between Main and A street, is expected to be the hit of the festival. All styles, kinds and qualities of equines will be exhibited and it will be a hard matter for the judges to pick the prize winners. As the exhibit is open to the world, the display this year will surpass that of last year very greatly.

The officials of the association are banking on the horse show as being one of the principal attractions, and in order to accommodate the crowd, have arranged for the construction of three tiers of seats on either side of the street. Admittance charge to these seats will be small, a price having to be charged in order that the association meet the cost of construction.

The horsemen in the middle west are taking much interest in the show. Undoubtedly a number of buyers and others who come merely for the purpose of inspection will be present. A large number of these will bring horses for show purposes with them. That the horsemen are interested is shown by the number who have offered prizes separate from those offered by the association.

DICKINSON HONORED

(American News Service)

Washington, Sept. 28.—Secretary of War Dickinson in his office today was presented with a handsome gold life saving medal by assistant secretary of treasury Hillis, acting for secretary MacVeagh. Dickinson rescued a prominent Detroit citizen named James E. Joy when the latter fell into the river during the American Bar Association meeting at Detroit in 1895.

POLICE SUSPECT A JAIL DELIVERY

Member of Frank Townsend's Clan Climbs on Roof of The Jail.

WANTED TO SECURE TOOLS

OTTO PETERS IS ALLEGED BY THE POLICE TO HAVE BEEN IN THE PLOT TO RELEASE THE YOUTHFUL BURGLAR.

The police prevented what is believed to have been a desperate attempt to break jail on the part of Frank Townsend, the self confessed burglar of the Commons Dairy company, shortly after noon today.

Otto Peters, a close chum of Townsend, was seen to sneak around in back of the jail and get up on the roof where he leaned over and attempted to hold a conversation with Townsend. The person who witnessed this act heard Townsend hoarsely whisper, "get me some tools," then he immediately notified the police of what he had seen. Patrolman Vogel-song went back quietly and caught Peters in the act. He commanded the young man to come down and not to try to get away or he would shoot.

Peters obeyed the summons and was taken into headquarters where he was closely questioned in regard to his actions. He is believed by the police to have been implicated in several robberies that have taken place in this city recently and is accused by Townsend of having been one of the party who robbed the C. C. & L. freight cars west of the city lately. Peters denies his guilt but it is thought ample evidence can be secured to convict him.

Townsend and Loftus were taken to the county jail this afternoon. Townsend declares that if he is sent to the reformatory he will send a number of others there, also. In rounding up this noted court house gang the police have accomplished what they have been trying to do for years.

CONTRACT WAS LET.

The county commissioners let the contract for the repairing of the jail windows to Harry Hodgkin. The contract price was $139. Mr. Hodgkin will begin work immediately in order that the work may be done before cold weather sets in.

Mr. Hodgkin was the only bidder. There were a number of other contractors who had examined the plans and specifications, but made no bid. The job is more a tedious one, than a hard one, as the bars of the windows have to be removed in order to put in the casings.

It is believed that the improvement will make the jail very suitable for the housing of criminals. It is certain that the institution can be run at less cost for heating as a result of the proposed improvement.

Arctic Sportsman Admits Cook
Told Him of Discovery
Of the Pole.

WAS BOUND TO SECRECY

HE STATES THAT COOK LEFT NO
WRITINGS WITH HIM UNLESS THEY WERE PLACED IN BOX—
HURRYING HOME.

(American News Service)

St. Johns, N. F. Sept. 28.—Harry Whitney arrived here today on the steamer Jeanie. Whitney confirmed the dispatch recently received and acknowledged to the newspaper men that Cook told him of discovering the North Pole and bound him to secrecy to keep the news from Commander Peary. Whitney says Cook told him of the discovery last spring and gave details of the arctic voyage. He says Cook left no reports of writings with him unless they were placed in a box and without his knowledge. Whitney throws no additional light on the controversy but accepts Cook's word as a man of honor.

Whitney is hurrying back to New York, where he will meet Dr. Cook. On board the Jeanie are innumerable trophies gathered by the young sportsman during his year's hunting in the far north. Whitney is in good health. He expressed regret that he had been compelled to cache the belongings of Dr. Cook at Etah because Commander Peary would not allow them on the Roosevelt.

MANY CIVIL SUITS

123 Appear on the Circuit
Court Docket for October Term.

A FEW CRIMINAL CASES

If the October term of court which opens next Monday progresses as smoothly as the April term of court, the docket will be cleared of the present cases at least. County Clerk Harry E. Penny and his assistant, Miss Addison Peel, have completed the docket for the October term of court and it includes 123 civil cases with a light criminal docket. The number of criminal cases is not known, the list not having been compiled as yet.

During the April term of court, there were 169 cases disposed of some being cases which were on the docket for a number of years. Several of the cases docketed for the October term are old cases, having been on the docket for years. An effort will be made to have some disposal made of these cases in the October term of court.

The docket contains very few interesting or sensational cases. There are a few divorce cases which if they ever come to trial will bring out sensational matter, it is believed.

IS GOING UP FAST

Work on the new high school building, which is being erected at the corner of North Ninth and B streets, is progressing very rapidly. The second story of the north wall has been built and the structure is now assuming discernable outlines. The carpenters are at work on the interior of the building and the floors will soon be laid.

Gigantic steel columns, weighing six tons each, are being erected at present by means of derricks and the work of raising the huge monsters of steel is attracting a great deal of attention and general interest. The building when completed will be one of the most modern and up to date schools in the state and strictly fireproof. It will be equipped with the new ventilating system and perfectly sanitary from every standpoint.

The Knight Rejoiced.
We believe that kissing is an English custom. We read in ancient history of a knight who visited the Field of the Cloth of Gold and who on being invited to a local castle was addressed by the "knyght lady" of the establishment, who remarked:

"Forasmuch as in England ye have such a custom as that a man may kysse a woman, therefore I will that ye shall kysse me, and ye shall also kysse these my maidens."

"Which thing," adds the old historian, "ye knyghts straightway did and rejoiced greatly thereat."
