BABE "ADAMS" TALKS

Says He Bested Tigers by Judicious Use of Slow Drop Ball.

HE GIVES GIBSON CREDIT

Pittsburg, Oct. 19.—Charles (Babe) Adams in a statement issued yesterday explains how he defeated Detroit three times in the world's series.

"My success in pitching can be attributed to the slow drop ball. I discovered in the first game that Detroit could not hit this kind of ball to any extent. When they would connect it would be a short hit to the infield and Pittsburg has an infield which can take care of such hits.

"The slow drop I alternated, first out, then in. It went to the outside of the plate beyond the reach of the batter, but, if the batsman was within hitting distance the ball was low and its slowness caused a false estimate of the strength required from the batter. In such a quick feat as batting a false estimate is a dangerous thing for the batting side. The ball which went inside the plate and dropped at the same time was the most effective I used. Detroit could do nothing with that at all.

"But I did not overwork the drop ball. To do so would have been to Jack control. Gibson sized up the batters and we knew when it was safe to put them straight over the plate. Detroit has a good batting aggregation, and it was necessary to take every precaution with them. The Tigers' rallies in several games demonstrated this. To lose control during one of these rallies would have meant the loss of the game. The most trying times while I was pitching was when Detroit showed one of those famous spurts of strength at bat. I worked harder than ever and was fortunate enough to hold control. The balls that went straight over the plate were generally hit by Detroit. Occasionally one was walloped to good effect, but in the main we knew when there was to be a hit and the infield and outfield acted accordingly."

CENSUS QUESTIONS
ASKED FARMERS

Government Enumerators Will Be Very Inquisitive in Their Work.

FARMERS BEGIN FIGURING

THE WORK SO INTRICATE THAT COUNTY NEWSPAPERS WILL BE ASKED TO ASSIST—SAMPLE OF QUESTIONS TO BE ASKED.

Washington, October 19.—The census bureau wants the farmers of the country to do some bookkeeping between now and the 15th of next April. The experience in previous censuses has demonstrated that statistical information relating to agriculture is not as reliable as it should be because farmers as a rule do not do any bookkeeping. The enumerators who will start on their rounds the 15th of April will be under instructions to gather from the farmers accurate accounts of their operations during the year ending December 31. Every farmer will also be required to make an inventory on the date of April 15 of all his farm possessions. The new director of the census believes that if he can persuade the farmers of the country to begin at once making notes of their business for this year, he will be able to get together farm statistics that will be of real value.

Schedule to Follow.

The schedule which farmers will be asked to study will soon be distributed through the farm organizations and other agencies. The country newspapers have been asked to help in apprising the farmers of as to what will be expected of them. The schedule is to be divided into five parts as follows:

1. Personal information regarding the farmer.
2. General information regarding farm acreage, values and expenses.
3. A statement of the acreage, yield and value of all farm crops harvested in 1909 and of all the animal products—that is dairy products, eggs, live stock sold, etc.
4. An inventory of all live stock, including poultry and bees, on hand April 15, 1910.

PORTOLA FESTIVAL OF SAN FRANCISCO

In Commemoration of Discovery of the Bay of the Golden Gate City.

EVENT MARKS A NEW ERA

IN THE WONDERFUL PROGRESS THE CITY HAS MADE SINCE THE AWFUL EARTHQUAKE OF THE YEAR 1906.

(American News Service)

San Francisco, Oct. 19.—All the enchantment of the illuminations, the wind-blown flags, the carnival crowds and the rattle of reality about the streets of San Francisco last night were forecasts of the demonstrative welcome that awaited Don Caspar de Portola when he sailed through the Golden Gate today.

More than 500,000 persons took part in this welcome and the festival has already established a new precedent for public celebrations around the Golden Gate.

Don Caspar Portola entered the harbor at 9:30 o'clock this morning on the revenue cutter Golden Gate—the same that brought President Taft to San Francisco but little more than a week ago. In splendor, the arrival of the intrepid explorer far exceeded the entry of the chief executive. As the Golden Gate entered the harbor there was a booming of cannon from the international fleet in man-of-war's row. Each of the ships of the American and foreign fleets fired a salute of 17 guns as the cutter passed Don Caspar before them in review.

At 10:30 Don Caspar was landed on San Francisco soil and with the dragons under Col. Henry Ritter as guard of honor, the parade through the streets of the city was begun. There were 10,000 marchers in line and it took more than three hours to pass a given point.

At noon Don Caspar arrived at Union Square, where he was met by Mayor Taylor and presented with the keys to the city. Following this the president's toast to San Francisco was proposed and drunk.

The rain of yesterday did little or no damage. Today the skies are still overcast, but the carnival spirit has not been lessened. The city has set aside five days for frolic and the program will be carried out regardless of the weather.

The Portola festival is to San Francisco today what the Hudson-Fulton celebration was to New York. The celebration is international in character. It commemorates the discovery of the bay of San Francisco by Don Caspar de Portola, in the service of King Charles III of Spain in 1769, and also the rebuilding of the city which was laid in ruins by an earthquake.
