A Protectorate of Babies Will Prevent Accident to Czar

Odessa, Russia, Oct. 23.—A body-guard of babies is to preserve Czar Nicholas from the vengeance of the nihilists when he passes through Odessa en route to Italy, where he is expected to go. From the time he enters Odessa until he leaves, the czar will be surrounded by little children who will accompany his carriage, forming a double line along the street through which the royal party will pass.

This plan was adopted by the secret service officials after various suggestions were discussed. They feel assured of the success of the plan, for they believe that not even the most violent nihilist would risk injury to the children in order to kill Nicholas.

An important and unexpected change of itinerary has been made on the eve of the emperor's departure for Italy. It is understood that the change was due in part to recent criticism of the emperor in Bavaria, but as well as other and deeper reasons, which, according to the best information obtainable here, resulted in the emperor's decision to avoid Bavaria and Switzerland altogether and make a long circuit through eastern France to reach his destination. The new route chosen is by way of Odessa,

Posen, Frankfurt and Besancon, France, and involves a railroad journey of nearly two thousand miles.

A meeting between the emperor and the president of France during the trip is possible, though nothing official on this point can be obtained.

Money Comes in Bunches

To A. A. Chisholm, of Treadwell, N. Y., now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness, and general debility," he writes. "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, nor ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used Electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old-time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Infalible for Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Blood and Nerves. 50c at A. G. Luken & Co.

ROLLER SKATE FAD IN "OLD ENGLAND"

American Firm of Rink Managers Is Making a Fortune There.

TO PENSION OLD CLERKS

MOVEMENT IS NOW ON FOOT AT NATIONAL CAPITAL—JAPAN ISSUES IMMIGRATION ORDER THAT PLEASES.

Washington, Oct. 23.—According to a report received at the State Department from Charles N. Daniels, United States consul at Sheffield, England, the English are as enthusiastic over the roller skating fad as the people were in this country some years ago, when nearly every town in the country had its skating rink, with an accompanying number of elopements during the season.

Consul Daniels reports that roller skating, which grew into great popularity in England last winter, promises to continue this season, as well. He says:

"An American firm of rink managers last winter fitted up the drill hall in Sheffield as a rink, and appear to have caught the popular fancy. A local company formed to construct and operate a rink opened it to the public on July 31. The patronage is reported to be all the promoters expected."

"While this rink is furnished with skates to rent, there seems to be an inclination on the part of the patrons to own their own skates. Roller skates, principally of American manufacture, are offered for sale by many stores in the city. As Sheffield is no exception to other industrial cities of the midlands, England, it seems, ought to furnish a market for roller skates worth the attention of American manufacturers, at least, while the desire for this sport lasts."

The government clerks who constitute the Clerks' Retirement Association are hopeful that congress will, next winter, respond to their appeal for legislation to provide a retirement fund for superannuated employees in the classified service. An experimental bill, making provision for federal employees, employed in Washington, was authorized to be favorable reported to the house in the closing days of the last congress.

It was known as the Gillett retirement bill. Its provisions did not apply to government employees outside of Washington. This was considered a fatal defect, and no doubt had an influence in holding up its consideration. There is no question but what there is much sentiment in Congress in favor of some such legislation. It is believed by the advocates of a civil pension that the civil service has reached a point where it is necessary to do something for superannuated clerks in the executive departments.

Secretary of the Treasury Mac Veagh, who has been conducting an investigation of the business methods of the department and the records of the employees, is said to be friendly to the proposed scheme for retirement of superannuated clerks, as recommended by the Clerks' Retirement association. There is good reason to believe he will have something interesting to say on this subject in his annual report to congress.

It is said he has data to prove that if the work of his department is to be kept up to date it will be necessary to increase the clerical force. The secretary does not want, however, to unnecessarily increase the expense for help, and this could only be avoided by dropping the superannuated employees and calling on the civil service for young blood.

It is not known that the Clerks' Retirement association is spending large sums of money to bring about the legislation they have been vigorously pushing for several years. Probably their cause is one that does not require the use of money.

Japan has recently issued an order regarding emigrants that cannot help but please the people of the Pacific Coast. It provides that a record be kept of every Japanese who comes to this country. This information, but recently received by the state department, and was forwarded by George H. Seidmore, United States consul at Kobe, Japan.

Mr. Seidmore says the Japanese authorities have recently enforced regulations for the better identification of emigrants destined for the United States. Under these regulations, he says, an intending emigrant is photographed by the police officials at his place of domicile and a duplicate print forwarded to the police officials at the port of departure for the United States.

After being examined by an American medical officer, those advised that they are free from disease, are bathed, disinfected and put aboard a ship. One hour before sailing, during inspection, passports together with duplicate photographs are handed to the emigrants. These photographs are taken up by the police officers aboard ship. The impress of thumb marks is also required upon passports.

It is believed these regulations will prove effective in preventing substitution among emigrants.

Island of Manhattan.

In other days there were the Island of Manhattan and Manhattan Island. They were different bodies. Island of Manhattan was applied to the land occupied by the old city of New York, now the borough of Manhattan. Manhattan Island was a little knoll of land in the limits of what is now Third, Houston and Lewis streets and East river. At high tide the knoll was an island.

Garments Which Appeal to the Woman Who Appreciates Beauty of Line, Individuality, Quality, Quiet Refinement

The simplest Wooltex garment embodies the best lines of the latest Paris models.

It represents the best work of a $50,000 a year style organization in charge of the famous Mme. Savarie of Paris.

Four times each year Mme. Savarie comes to Cleveland with trunk after trunk of costly models.

Together with the eight master designers here, the Wooltex styles are determined.

These Designers do not copy—they create.

Wooltex styles are not Paris styles. They are distinctive American styles.

In cut, in color, in finish, Wooltex garments bespeak not only the latest and best that is known in style, but quiet refinement; not mere fashion, but elegance, grace, individuality, charm.

In design, in material, in workmanship, every Wooltex garment—coat, suit, skirt or dress—is of extra quality without costing an extra price.

Coats - Suits - Skirts - Dresses
For Well Dressed Women

The makers of Wooltex make only garments good enough to guarantee for two full seasons of actual wear.

And they guarantee every garment they make.

That is why only eight out of every 1000 women can get Wooltex garments.

That is why the supply of Wooltex garments dwindles long before the season is over.

That is why only those who are prompt—only those who come early—can be sure of getting Wooltex.

The reason why the extra quality in Wooltex costs you nothing extra in price is this:

Where other makers find outlet for only a small number of garments because their garments are common in style and common in quality, Wooltex, because of its individual style and extra quality, finds a ready market for 250,000.

In buying materials for 250,000 garments, the makers of Wooltex not only save money, but are able to dictate the quality of the materials.

They are able to get from the manufacturer the finest, softest, silkiest of wool, without paying any more for it than is commonly paid for cloths of inferior quality.

The $50,000 which is spent each year for style is divided among 250,000 garments, which amounts, as you see, to only a small sum on each garment. That is why the extra style in Wooltex costs you nothing extra.

That is the true economy of Wooltex.
