MILTON, IND.

Milton, Ind., Nov. 2.—Harry B. Williams of 2205 East Main street, Richmond, was the guest of Clark Fauncett, of 418 East Main street, Milton, over Sunday.

Willits Leverton and the Rev. F. A. Scott, who were on a deal several days for the Rev. Mr. Scott's property, concluded the deal at four p. m., Saturday. Consideration, $700. The Rev. Mr. Scott has made some improvements in the property since he owned it, and Mr. and Mrs. Leverton have secured a pretty home. It is on North Street. The Rev. Mr. Scott will soon leave for Indianapolis, where he will enter Butler University and take a ministerial course. He will conduct a two weeks' revival meeting at Marengo. His family will accompany him there.

One of the prettiest costumes at the masquerade social given by the ladies of the M. E. church, at the Odd Fellows' hall, Saturday night was that of Mrs. J. W. Brumfield. She wore a short dress flounced to the waist. The waist was daintily made and the hat was very tastefully made. The suit was in honor of the Richmond Palladium, of which papers the entire suit was made.

Clarence Wolford was home from New Castle to spend Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown entertained Mr. and Mrs. Rob Beeson of south of town Sunday.

The social given by the ladies of the M. E. church at Odd Fellows' hall Saturday evening, was attended by a large crowd. The costumes were some of them, very unique, and some pretty, while others were grotesque and weird. There were different races of people and different nationalities represented while even the ghost and the witch and wizard found a place in the throng. Everybody was merry. After the grand march the order came to unmask, whereby there were some amusing mistakes as to identity discovered. The following program was observed. Song by Miss Carrie Walker's Sunday school class of girls; quartet, Raymond Lowery, Orvel Dailey; instrumental solo, Miss Inez Hodge; vocal solo, Miss Kate Hoshour; girls' quartet, Misses Jessie Lantz, Eunice McClung, Ruby Kellam, and Edna Lowery; recitations, Miss Hazel Murley, Eunice McClung, Master John Brown. Two very fine readings were given by Mrs. G. W. Brunfield, of the Christian church, and G. A. Borders. Both were highly applauded and came back to the enthusiastic encore.

Miss Kate Hoshour had a very unique costume, at the masquerade Saturday evening. She wore her mask over the back of her head and had on a sunbonnet. It was impossible to tell which was her face and which her back. She walked equally well backwards or forwards. The Merry Widow was also there with a hat that would certainly have pleased the widow herself.

The party given at Miss Irene Crooks, Saturday evening was another pretty Hallowe'en affair. The reception was given by Mrs. Harry Manlove's class in the Christian Sunday school. The guests were made up from the classes of Miss Rae Wagner and Mrs. R. Warren's classes. A large company was present and the party was that of the sheet and pillow case. Fortune telling and games furnished amusement. The house was decorated in the colors of autumn, red and yellow. Pumpkin faces formed lanterns and nice decorations. Refreshments of tiny pumpkin pies, apples, gingerbread, sandwiches, grapes, pickles and grape juice. An amusing feature was the bobbing for apples and securing them from the big tub full in the center of the floor. Mrs. Harry Manlove left the house, but returned to dress in witch costume and after returning told fortunes. Misses Hattie Sills and Blanche Moore also dressed in masquerade costume and called at Mr. Crook's causing much merriment.

The G. E. R. girls, composed of Misses Jessie Lantz, Lula Fauncett, Marie Snyder, Marie Elwell, Eunice McClung, Alma Wagner, Maude Hussey and Edna Lowery, entertained at a Hallowe'en party with Miss Wagner, last evening. A pleasant affair, among the younger people of the town, was the Progressive party, given by a number of girls, Friday evening. The merriment began at the home of Miss Helen Fibly. The attic had been decorated with Jack o'lanterns, and boughs, and here, in the weird light, the fortunes of the party were told by a veritable sibyl. Refreshments of fruit, doughnuts, cider and nuts were served. The party then progressed to the home of Miss Lucile Pedro where a regular course dinner was a feature, and a social hour spent. The last point visited was the home of Miss Ruth Bertsch, and the company were treated to a marshmallow bake, and masks were laid aside, after which the gentlemen returned to their homes and the young ladies remained for a stunner party. In the company were Frank Wissler, Fred Huddleston, Eugene Green, Harry Diffenderfer, of Cambridge City, Clarence Fry, of Richmond and Carl Tingle, of Connerville. Lived There All Right.

An anxious father got wind of the rumor that his son was leading rather a convivial life at college. But the son strenuously denied the charge in letters to his father. Still unsatisfied, the father made an unexpected visit to his son's lodging place and, giving the bell a manly pull, was met by a grim faced landlady, who seemed to know what was coming.

"Does Mr. James Smith live here?" asked the father.

"He does," replied the landlady. "Bring him right in."

YOU HAVE NOTICED IT.

There are two days in the week that are the most important. One is dreaded and the other looked forward to. These are, the Wash day and pay day. Paydays seem a long time coming, but there is no use worrying about wash day. Do not dread it, just buy some rub-a-lac. It will solve the problem. Ask your grocer.
