COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Editor's Note: The Palladium, in a series of news and editorial articles, will deal with Commission Government as applied to municipalities.
The articles will treat of the "Des Moines Plan" mainly. This is because it is acknowledged to be the most satisfactory and advanced form of Commission government.

It was for this reason that the Palladium sent Carl Bernhardt, of its editorial department, to Des Moines, where he enjoyed unusual opportunities in studying at first hand, the actual conditions in that city. While in Des Moines, Mr. Bernhardt was in close touch with the men who conceived and drafted the plan; those who accomplished the actual work of putting the plan into effect. Moreover, the newspaper men, (those who have most come into actual contact with the workings of the Des Moines Plan in their daily work,) workmen, large taxpayers, small taxpayers, the commercial organizations, heads of public service corporations, shopmen, liquor dealers and attorneys were all consulted with a view to finding the real condition of affairs and the general feeling, together with any defects or dissatisfaction which might exist.

The Palladium, in offering this series of articles on the Commission Plan, does so with the idea of letting the people know exactly what the system of government is, as it has found it, from its own investigations and not from a mere scanning of charters and the reading of more or less prejudiced articles.

THE AVERAGE MAN AND THE DAYLIGHT PLAN

Despite all that has been written of the Commission form of government, a very serious misunderstanding of it prevails. Even those who write of it at length and with apparent authority, speak of it as a thing which is too complicated for the average man to understand.

Nothing is more untrue.

The commission form of government is the simplest form of government in the world.

It is the government of the average man for the average man.

It is simplicity itself.

"Daylight government" is the best name for it.

Again, people speak of "initiative," of "referendum," of "recall" in such clumsy and awe producing words that if they were trying to scare the average man they could use no better tactics.

Let it be said once for all that this "Daylight Plan," is the only form of city government today of which an ordinary citizen can really get a thorough understanding. And you will realize this when you compare it with any other city government.

Nobody knows better than the average man, that when anything goes wrong with the city government, say the granting of franchises, that the average man has nothing to say about it.

The Des Moines Plan, as we will explain later, gives him all the say about it.

And nobody knows better than the average man that when any official in the city government does something which the average man does not like, that the average man is the last one in the world who has anything to do with it. Haven't you seen a city official promise all sorts of things, to be elected, and then turn "yellow" and walk over to the camp of the public service corporations and tell the average man that he has nothing to say about it? Well, this Daylight Plan gives the average man a show.

He can kick that official out, whenever he wants to, and he can do it effectively and quickly, without red tape.

And don't you think that the average man will get more of a show in running things than the man who sits behind the counter in a corner bank, if the city official knows the very same man who put him in power can kick him out? This is the only way that the average man gets a show. The man behind the mahogany has the upper hand under the present plan.

But, you say, "How am I going to know just which official it is who has turned me down and 'gone bad'?"

There is the Daylight Plan again.

It makes five men responsible for the whole thing. You can't miss them. You elect them yourself and you can get rid of them yourself.

More than that.

Each one of those five men is responsible for one part of the city work. And no man can blame anything on any one else. If you want satisfaction you can get it. He can't tell you "to go see some one else."

That is simple enough, isn't it? Well, that is about all there is to the "Daylight Plan of government" that they have in Des Moines. That is it boiled down to simple terms that you and I can understand without a corporation lawyer. As to how these things are accomplished is simple too.

But the point that we want you to get is this:

Under this government every man gets a square deal. It is built simply, so that the people can take hold of things whenever they want to. When things are going smoothly, the city officials have all the power so they may do things quickly. But when they go over to the "men behind," (the men who want to "get something" which belongs to the people, and not to them)—then the people take the power into their own hands.

Is that complicated?

That gives the average man a chance.

As to how this is done we will explain from time to time. But we think you already know why the average man gets a show under the Daylight plan.

The interesting thing of all this is, that the plan is really working in many cities all over the United States.

Of the Faithful.

LOSS OF SOME TOWNS OF SMALL DIFFERENCE

Is Perceived by Party Leaders That Local Option Question Must Be Kept Out of The Next Campaign.

(Palladium Special)

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—The more the publicans here analyze the results of the city elections held this week, the more they feel that there is nothing in them that needs to cause them much worry. Of course, there was a selling of disappointment among them because they lost some of the cities in the state, but this was a matter of local concern in most of the places, and the leaders who look to large things than mere city government are of the pinion, since reading the results, that the party has not lost anything to speak of, when the result is taken as a whole.

There is one view of the situation, however, that is just now appealing to the party leaders, and that is that the results show more plainly than ever before that the local option question will have to be kept out of the next campaign, if it is possible to do so. The liquor people of course, are making great claims of victory since they managed to carry some of the republican cities of the state, and they are saying now that they will be able to elect a sufficient number of members of the next legislature to control the action of that body on the liquor question.

Won't Change Laws.

It is pointed out that if a legislature is elected that can be controlled by the liquor people it will necessarily have to be a democratic legislature, for the republican party, if placed in control of the legislature again next year, will not do a thing to the existing liquor laws. The republicans will not repeal the local option law and the liquor people know it. Therefore, he only hope the liquor people have is in the election of a democratic legislature.

There is no question but that the local option law is not popular in the cities of the state. This was shown by the results in Muncie and Anderson, two of the strongest republican cities, normally, in the state. A few months ago local option elections were held in Delaware and Madison counties and both counties voted themselves dry. But the result was brought about by the country vote and not by the vote of the cities of Anderson and Muncie. In fact, the verdict of the people at the polls was so unpopular in those cities that they showed their resentment by turning around this time and electing democratic city officials at both places—something practically unheard of in either place before this year.

Confident of Legislature.

But the republicans are confident that this resentment will not be shown at the next election, when members of the state legislature are to be elected. The republicans who voted the democratic ticket at the city election, the leaders say, will not vote the democratic ticket next year because to elect a democratic legislature would mean the election of a democratic successor to Senator Beveridge. This the republicans will prevent if it is possible to do so.

They know too that if the republicans control the next legislature the democrats will not be able to call to their aid a sufficient number of republican votes to repeal the county

MONEY BACK.

L. H. Fihe Sells a Remedy for Cattarrh on that Liberal Basis.

Breathe Hyomei over the germ-ridden membrane, and it will kill the germ and cure cattarrh.

There is no other way—you must get where the germs are before you can destroy them.

And when cattarrh germs have disappeared, other things will happen; there will be no more hawking, not even in the morning; that offensive breath will disappear; there will be no more obnoxious mucus, or coughing, or sneezing, or huskiness of voice, or difficulty in breathing. All these disagreeable accessories of the demon cattarrh will disappear, and as they go the glow of health will return, and all the strength and energy that was formerly used in combating the inroads of cattarrh, will bring back your vitality and ambition. Will make a new, healthy, happy being of you in a few weeks.

L. H. Fihe will sell you a complete Hyomei outfit for $1.00. This includes a fine inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei pronounced High-o-me, and instructions for use. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. Extra bottles 50 cents. And bear in mind, money back if Hyomei doesn't cure.

LAND A "BAD" MAN

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 5.—Accused of having killed forty men, Eniz Ruiz, a notorious Mexican bandit, is under ar-where he was captured by a posse. He was sentenced to death in Mexico six years ago, but escaped. Since then he has been terrorizing the border.

END OF A RED NOSE.

New Flesh-Colored Skin That Heals and Hides Skin Imperfections.

A peculiar feature of psoriasis, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmaceutical who sells pure drugs. W. H.
Sudham make a specialty of it. Fifty cents' worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

The Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York, are the sole dispensing agents for psoriasis in the United States and will send an experimental quantity free by mail in plain wrapper to all who write for it. This will show results after an over-night application.

option law or to pass any other kind of liquor legislation. The republicans throughout the state, it is believed, have concluded that the local option law shall remain on the books. To take any other course, they declare, would be to drive away from their party the very large temperance element which has always stood by the party, and this they are not willing to do.

Pleased About Taggart.

The republicans feel that the defeat of Tom Taggart and the brewery element in Indianapolis is a victory that more than compensates for whatever they have lost out in the state, for here the big fight was made, not only on wet and dry lines, but on party lines as well. While party lines did not cut much figure in many places in the state they did rule in this city to a very large degree. It was an open secret that the brewers were backing the democratic candidate for mayor. There was no successful denial of it. The brewers did not support or aid in any manner the republican ticket. And yet the vote cast at the election showed nearly the normal republican vote and nearly the normal democratic vote in the city.

If a local option election were held in Marion county it would probably vote wet, provided no party issue were involved. This is the general opinion of the people, and this also is the reason why the Anti-Saloon league has not called an election in this county.
It does not wish to take the chance of losing the election, which it feels it would do in case an election was called.
But when it came to a test where the republicans felt that the security of their hope for next year in Marion county was at stake they came out and voted at the city election and carried the city for their ticket.

Of Much Importance.

Indianapolis being the state capital and the largest city of the state, as well as the political headquarters of all of the parties, it was naturally of more importance at the city election than any other city, and the fact that the republicans were able to carry it by nearly 3,000 for every office except mayor, where the plurality was only 1,600, has given the republicans great hopes for next year. The big fight of the democrats was made here.
They wanted to win here because they knew that to control Indianapolis would be worth much to them in the fight for the legislature.

Another feature of the city elections this week is the smallness of the independent and prohibition vote in every city. This is taken to mean that the party organizations of the two great parties will be stronger next year than they were last year, and that fewer voters will start away into independent camps.

Independents Show Poorly.

In Indianapolis, for instance, where the republican candidate for mayor was not a bit more satisfactory to his party than the democratic candidate was to his party, and where, as a result of this situation Fremont Alford, former judge of the criminal court, came out as an independent candidate, the independent vote was extremely light—so light, in fact, as to be insignificant. Out of a total vote of 54,000 Alford received only 711 votes. The prohibition vote, too, was practically nothing, numbering only a little over 500. Thus, the republicans say, is also a good sign from their standpoint, because the independent vote usually comes from the republicans.

The talk here now is that the results of the city election contain a lesson for the republicans. It has shown that the democratic party in this state is absolutely in the control of the liquor interests and that the fact is disguised. The election of such men as Mayor Miller at Michigan City and Mayor at Hammond, they say proves this. Miller runs a saloon and when he was elected to his first term he appointed his bartender as his city controller. The democrats took him up again and re-elected him this time to a second term.

Hammond, under Mayor Becker's administration, has been an open town in every sense of the word. The democrats re-elected Becker.

Then there was a liberal elected at Muncie and a liberal elected at Anderson, a liberal elected at Bloomington, a liberal elected at Terre Haute and liberals elected elsewhere, all of whom are democrats and all of whom received the support of the brewers.
Therefore, the republicans feel that the people are able to see and be fully convinced that the democratic party in this state is in the control of the liquor people, and that the thing for the republicans to do is to say nothing at all on the subject of liquor legislation. If the issue is drawn into the campaign let the democrats do it, say the republicans. If the democrats bring in the issue, they say, then they will get a good licking. And it is believed that the liquor people will inject the saloon issue into the campaign unless Governor Marshall's influence is great enough to head it off.

Fred A. Sims, acting head of the republican state organization, says he cannot see anything in the city election results that should worry the republicans. He says the victory in Indianapolis more than makes up for whatever they lost elsewhere. And Stokes Jackson, the democratic state chairman, says that while he feels good over the results in a good many places he would rather had Indianapolis than anything else for the effect it would have on the next campaign.

FAVORABLE TO UNIONS.

Workmen Fared Well in Recent Labor Disputes in New York.

The New York state labor bureau bulletin for the quarter ended in September says, in part, with reference to labor disputes:

The balance of success appears in favor of the workmen. Of the sixty-two disputes eighteen resulted in complete victory for the employees and fifteen others in partial success. It will be noted that those disputes in which the workmen were successful were those involving large numbers of workmen, whereas the employers were successful in those disputes in which a comparatively small number of workmen demanded changes. Thus in the eighteen disputes won by the workmen 13,419 employees were directly concerned, while in the twenty-two disputes won by the employers only 1,531 employees participated.

Strikes and lockouts begun during April, May and June of this year much exceeded both in number and size those of the same period in 1908, but were still much below the figures for 1906 or 1907. Sixty-two new disputes, in which 18,611 employees were directly concerned, were recorded for the second quarter of this year as compared with forty-eight disputes and 3,934 direct participants last year. More than one-half of this year's controversies arose over wage increases as the principal issue. In twenty-four of the disputes the employees were wholly (fourteen) or partially (ten) successful.
During the months of June, July and August representatives of the bureau of mediation and arbitration intervened in twenty-one disputes as compared with sixteen in the same months of last year, and immediate settlements were effected in nine cases as against four such settlements in 1908.

Buy Union Label Goods.

While we shall not lose sight of those who are opposing the orderly progress of labor, it is our duty to give our assistance to those who are friendly to us, and we can do this by refusing to purchase any article that has not attached to it the emblem of fair wages, short hours and clean and sanitary workshops—the union label.

Let us resolve that in the future that neither ourselves, our wives nor children will patronize any product unless it bears the union label of the trade engaged in its manufacture and we will have done something of benefit to ourselves and our fellow workers as well.—Thomas F. Tracy in American Federationist.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses is said to be the largest of the kind in the world. In the last year nearly 11,000 patients were supplied with nurses. Fully four-fifths of this service is said to have been gratuitous. At present a large number of two year scholarships are available to young women throughout the country, the preference being given to applicants from small towns and rural districts.
These scholarships include room, board laundry work, uniforms, all necessary instruction and railroad fare paid to the student's home town on the completion of the course.

There is a tendency to give individuality to pets. If you merely go in for dogs and cats which may be described as commonplace pets, these creatures must be made different in some way from those of your friends.
Either they must wear costly collars or bangles, or rich ribbons of one particular color, or their baskets must be luxuriously upholstered; but, if possible, a bird, beast or reptile of uncomfortable character is now affected by
