

T-AT THE THEATRES

"The Time, the Place and the Girl." "The Time, the Place and the Girl." It is understood is not a musical comedy, but a "comedy with music." That is to say, that its dramatic values would be sufficient to provide an evening's entertainment for a mental adult, even if there were no songs to enliven the proceedings. It is legitimate comedy with a sane plot and situations and legitimately enhanced by two or three delightful reproductions of unusual and amusing character types.

The most interesting characters in the piece are those of "Happy Johnny Hicks" and "Molly Kelly," played by Geo. Ebner and Miss Amanda Hendricks, the latter a recent recruit from the legitimate stage. Hicks is a bright, good-hearted young gambler, full of sentiment. Molly Kelly is a trained nurse, sophisticated, but not unpleasantly so, with a perfect mastery of the gentle art of repartee. These two meet in a Virginia mountain "rest cure" whither Hicks has fled with his chum, Tom Cunningham, who is in trouble, and they fall in love. It happens that Cunningham in a controversy with a card shark in Boston, smashed his opponent with a wine bottle. When the officers of the law follow them to their hiding place at the sanitarium, Hicks shoulders the blame, only to find that the injured man is the black sheep brother of Mol-lyne's curse. "I'll go on sale tomorrow" for the performance at the Gennett on Wednesday.

At the Murray.

There lived near Nashua, N. H., several years ago a farmer who drove to town every Saturday to buy provisions for the following week, and whose funny face and keen wit so impressed themselves upon the young mind of Mr. Wm. J. Woods that afterwards when entering the theatrical profession he decided to make rural characters a special study and you will find the humorous New Hampshire farmer portrayed true to life by Mr. Woods in the character of Zachariah Obediah Watkins in "Country Cousins."

Miss Edith Earl and Company, with Eva Prout, "the posset edition of Elsie Janis" is also featured this week in the singing novelty, "The Last Rehearsal." In presenting this singing novelty, something new in the conception of a singing act has been evolved and taken its place above the average singing number on a vaudeville program. Four people comprise the act, all beautiful girls, with splendid voices and richly costumed. Among the musical numbers introduced are: "The Garden of Roses," "You've Got Me Going Kid," "My Southern Rose," "A Simple Maid-en," "Rosebud," "I've Lost My Gal," etc.

The two Blue Jays are the musical comedians. They appear as genuine "hobos" and their make up is so extremely funny that they make a hit on their first entrance on the stage.

Kessely's Marionettes is an act introducing a complete miniature theater with miniature actors and all the necessary equipments. Upwards of twenty-five characters are introduced and their lifelike performance is truly marvelous.

Vaudeville at the Gennett. A vaudeville show that is superior in every way to anything ever brought to Richmond will be the offering at the Gennett theater next week, opening Monday evening. The booking has been done by the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association of the Majestic Theater, Chicago, and some of the high priced acts have been induced to come here solely because it breaks their jump from Chicago into Cincinnati, where they are to appear the following week.

The bill includes among others, Happy Jack Gardner, one of the funniest comedians on the vaudeville stage, who tells some of the latest and best stories; The Four Muellers, in a great hoop rolling act, Gardner and Revere in comedy sketch that can't be excelled; Girdlers Dogs, one of the finest animal acts seen in Richmond; Mary Ann Brown the English Comedienne; The Great Moore, in the trunk Mystery and some of the latest subjects in picture display.

"The Prince of Tonight."

Henry Woodruff, the latest of legitimate stars to go into musical comedy is appearing in "The Prince of Tonight," a musical fantasy by Adams, Hough and Howard. Like all the Singer productions, everything that money can buy has been used in making this the most attractive play sent out by this well-known firm, but the scenic artist, costumer and electrician have tried to outdo all previous efforts. Over sixty people are carried, including the famous beauty chorus.

"The Girl From U. S. A."

The new musical comedy drama "The Girl from U. S. A." which is due at the Gennett next Saturday, matinee and night, Nov. 27, carries the auditor nearly 'round the world, as its scenes are laid in France, Turkey and China. It has an intense love story, a caty type of comedy, and delightful musical numbers that leave no place for ennui all through the three acts. A capable company of singers and players, and a bevy of pretty chorus girls in ravishing costumes, who have been receiving flattering press comments in other places visited, will give the piece the first performance here. The musical numbers are especially mentioned as affording keen pleasure.

"California Girls."

The California Girls Burlesques, which will appear at the Phillips next Tuesday night, are sure to bring a full house.

The company is composed of thirty people, a score of pretty and shapely girls, four principals and a chorus of sixteen, and ten comedians. The first act, "Girls of the U. S. A.," with special scenery, handsome costumes, bright, catchy music and good, clean, wholesome comedy by the comedians always scores a hit. The second act, "The King of Kokomo," goes with a scream. Individual hits are made by the Bell Sisters, who are petite and pretty and extremely clever dancers. Baldwin and Wallace, comedy sketch artists and Trueheart, Dillon and Burke, knock-about comedy trio, keeps the audience laughing all the time.

The following from one of our exchanges is of much interest to all T. P. A. members:

It has been known for some time by the active members of the Travelers' Protective association that irregularities existed in the affairs of the organization. With a view of knowing the exact conditions before making the facts public to the membership, an examination of the accounts of the association has been in progress and the publication in the St. Louis papers of a demand on the bonding company for a shortage in the accounts, supposed to be the result of the stealing of the private bookkeeper of the association, gives publicity to the matter from national headquarters, which relieves any doubt as to the outcome of the investigation.

It will be remembered by our readers that Henschew, the chief accountant in the National office committed suicide during the month of August. An investigation of the accounts was in progress at that time.

This investigation has been completed, covering a period of several years and a shortage of several thousand dollars has been discovered.

While it is true that the association is supposed to be protected against loss by indemnity bonds passed upon by the association attorney, the developments bring to light the lamentable fact of utter incompetency on the part of the national secretary, under whose very nose these peculations have been going on. The facts more thoroughly and conclusively prove the contention of the members of the Indiana division that another secretary is an absolute necessity for our organization.

In view of the fact that Mr. LaBeaume as the secretary-treasurer of our organization, and whose duties as laid down by the constitution make him the responsible head of the association, has allowed these conditions to exist, and has failed to discover anything wrong; in view of the fact that he has either not discovered or has, through incompetency or negligence, failed to see what lay members, without the privilege of thorough access to the books of the association, can ferret out; in view of the fact that his last annual report contained such glaring discrepancies that lay members with only a condensed financial trust no member will overeat himself next Thursday. From the reputation already established members of Post C are extremely long on the eating habit.

It is reported, but not authoritatively, that Mr. Louis T. LaBeaume, National secretary, has tendered his resignation to the national board, and the same has been accepted to be effective Jan. 1, 1910. Frank Rainbow, of the Iowa division, has been selected to fill the vacancy.

James Hill's recent sermon on economy and how to practice it, might be seriously studied by the board of directors of Post C. Or the board might refer to the Order of Tight-Wads which we have in our midst, as to their method of making a dime do service for a greater denomination of money.

a large number of the members of Post C. A committee of the Post, consisting of J. B. Hegger, M. E. Shreeves and T. C. Harrington, represented the Post and conveyed to the family the sympathy of the entire membership.

It is to be hoped that our beloved and honored friends Lebo and Shreeves will be in no way implicated in the sugar scandal now before the public.

We have at last heard from our own dear little Harry Thomas and have located him somewhere between heaven and Louisville, Ky. Married life seems to have put him so much to the bad that he has forgotten all the old friends that helped to make him the wonder that he really is. We have received a complete report from the detective force, which was started after him, and the same can be seen on the bulletin board in the Post rooms.

Ed Thatcher never gets enough chicken. He is now preparing for his Thanksgiving day meal and the same promises to be one grand, large feast. Yesterday Ed purchased a four pound rooster, feathers and all, and now has the bird securely chained to the floor of his basement. He has taken this precaution because of the fact that "Daddy" Kramer is awaiting a "bid" to dinner any time. Ed would like every member of the Post to bring in all the bones, scraps and old tin cans they have, as he desires to make this four pounds rooster grow to turkey proportions by next Thursday.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS.

New York Labor Unions Commanded For Their Work.

A most important feature of the convention of the New York State Workingmen's federation, held recently at Troy, was the labor union health conference in connection with the convention.

To the observer of social conditions the conference was significant, says the Survey. The audience was composed of delegates of labor unions from all parts of the state, each representing a more or less influential group, with power to make recommendations to their separate bodies and effect definite action. If the interest displayed throughout the entire conference may be taken as indicative of anything it is that labor is awakening to a realization of the very close relation which the health problem bears to its own work.

The opening remarks of the evening session were made by John A. Kingsbury, assistant secretary of the State Charities Aid association. He referred to the work of the association and dwelt upon the part which the labor unions are taking in the campaign for the prevention of tuberculosis. In the course of the past three years, he said, as a result of spending about $30,000 the association has been able to bring about the expenditure of approximately $1,500,000 for hospitals, dispensaries, visiting nurses, day camps and other enterprises whose objects are to prevent the spread of tuberculosis. Assuming that these organizations already established will be continued for a period of ten years, one can readily see that that expenditure will run up into millions.

Referring to the work of the labor unions in this direction, he said that of all the organizations in the state none has done so much.

Street Railway Men Gaining.

At the eleventh annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway Employees of America, held at Toronto, International President Mabon in his report showed that the association is in excellent shape. Since the last convention forty-five new charters have been issued, and six divisions that had disbanded were reorganized and given their old numbers. Fifty-eight divisions secured substantial increases in wages and as many decreases in hours. Death and disability benefits to the amount of $35,000 were paid out. The official organ, the Motorman and Conductor, shows a substantial profit, having in the last two years paid off a large deficit, and is now on a marine basis.

LaBeaume delegates were always called by the Missouri crowd.

The indications point very strongly to the fact that Mr. LaBeaume has allowed Henschew full sway in the national office--allowed him to handle the cash and thus be able to "lift" out such accounts as the "necessities" from time to time demanded. He (LaBeaume) has not guarded his interests of the association as a secretary-treasurer should naturally be expected to do. He has had his eyes closed to things he should have seen and discovered. Henschew has taken himself from the crowded throng. Will Mr. LaBeaume remove himself as a block in the way of progress of our association?

Indiana gained twenty-eight in membership during the last month.

A total of 376 new members were received into the national organization during the month of October.

Claims paid during the month of November amounted to $20,780.40.

Nebraska carried off the honors during the month of November in landing new members, securing 71.

men should be excluded from employment in their trade, "are you meaning to handicap us in our fight for legislative protection? Are you going to handicap us by asserting prohibition, which may relieve economic pressure in brass works, but accentuate it in other trades?"

The brass workers withdrew their resolution on condition that the parliamentary committee should ask the government to hold an inquiry into the conditions of employment in that trade, and Miss MacArthur's resolution was adopted by a large majority.
