senate," continued the aggrieved senator, "for whatever he said, I think, controlled what went into the bill and what was left out."

Then again, in regard to the suggestion that he was getting ready to join the insurgents:

"I could not get off the reservation during the consideration of the tariff. I was afraid to try. The distinguished senator from Rhode Island, knows why. The senate knows why."

Senator Elkins announces that with the tariff out of the way he has a little more sea room. He is chairman of the inter-state commerce committee of the upper house and has pending in his committee a matter of vital moment to the railroads and shippers of the country, a matter of deep concern to Senator Aldrich and the latter's special colleagues in the senate.

There is no danger, of course, that the West Virginia senator will go too far. He has due regard for the rights of the railroads and he thinks well of the rights of the people. At the same time, Senator Aldrich and others desire to have a hand in fashioning the legislation respecting the railroads which will pass at this session. But Uncle Steve's hand controls the throttle.

As chairman of the committee, especially a committee which must have democratic support to vote out a railroad bill, he can exercise a large influence in determining whether any amendments to the bill will be accepted.

A TUBERCULIN TEST

Of the Dairy Herd of J. L. Batchelor Will be Made by Ferling.

STATEMENT BY DR. DAVIS

Dr. T. Henry Davis, the city health officer, has authorized Dr. George Ferling to proceed with the tuberculin test at the dairy of J. L. Batchelor, the local dairyman. The test is to be started Monday and the sixty cows of the Batchelor herd will be given the test to determine whether or not any are affected with tuberculosis.

Dr. Davis said this afternoon that he had authorized Dr. Ferling to make the test so that the work would be recognized by the state. "The three veterinarians in the city are members of the state veterinary board and their work will be recognized over the state," said Dr. Davis. "If the city inspector should do the work it would not be accepted," he continued. "Any work done by these men will be recognized, and I have authorized Dr. Ferling to make the test."

OLD RIVALS CLASH

At Basketball and Depauw Trims Quakers in an Exciting Game.

POOR FINISH BY EARLHAM

(Special Correspondent.) Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—The De Pauw basketball team won from Earlham College yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. in the fastest and most exciting game of the season, 31 to 22. The game was terrifically fought from start to finish, although not a man was put out of the game on account of personal fouls.

Earlham opened the game with some brilliant work, getting six points before De Pauw got together. This was the only time Earlham was in the lead. De Pauw then forged ahead and stayed until the finish. The Quakers' "net tossers" were unable to hit the basket, many of the shots being wasted while many of the goals of the Methodists were made by accurate throws by their forwards, Capt. Crick and Dale. These two men were out of Earlham's class and were easily the stars for De Pauw. Dale made five clean field goals in the first half. Their guards played an excellent offensive game, and Hardin proved himself to be the dirtiest guard that the Earlham team has played against this season. Capt. Conrad and Mote played a star game for the Quakers.

MEETING OF PUPILS

The conference last evening of the faculty of Garfield school with the pupils of the 7B grade, who will probably be promoted to the Garfield school next Friday, was attended by the majority of the pupils. The invitation was extended to the parents, and 100 or more were present. During the evening the plan of the spring term's work was presented to the pupils and their parents by Prof. N. C. Hieronimus, principal of the school and Superintendent T. A. Mott. Afterward a social was held. The Garfield orchestra rendered several selections.

BLOW AT MONITOR

Uncle Sam Has Denied the Y. M. C. A. Publication Use of the Mails.

DON'T INTEREST PUBLIC

Because, it is claimed by the government postal officials, the "Monitor," the Y. M. C. A. publication, does not interest the public, it will be denied the use of the mail as second class matter. The association officials or membership do not understand this attitude of the government and believe that the real difficulty is that the government does not care to deliver the publication at the price which it receives. There are 775 papers sent out every week and, as the entire number only weigh 12 pounds, the association is having its publication delivered for 12 cents.

Richard Sedgwick has been appointed chairman of a committee to have charge of the purchase and installation of a laundry in the basement of the building. The probable cost is $1,000, but the officials believe that it will be an economical move, as the laundry bill last year was one of the heaviest items.

Prof. Elbert Russell of Earlham College, will again have charge of the short term bible class lectures. The first lecture will be given Tuesday evening.

The directors have practically determined to have a membership contest, by dividing the members of the association into two teams and seeing which team can get the largest number of new members.

NO JOKE ON ALBERT

Letters addressed in Spanish as follows, "Al Administrador De Correos En" have been received by Postmaster J. A. Spekenhiser, and likewise, postmasters all over the United States. But unlike many other postmasters, Mr. Spekenhiser was familiar with Spanish and did not forward the letters to the Dead Letter office at Washington, D. C.

The letters were addressed by Mexican postmasters and were for postmasters in this country. Generally, the postmasters were unfamiliar with the Spanish language, and did not know that the letters were their own. It was necessary for the postal department to issue an order, telling postmasters that all letters addressed as above mentioned were for them. Of course, as soon as this was done, the joke of the Mexican officers was exploded.

TWO FERRET CASES

Arrangements for the trial of two tax ferret cases have been made, with the exception of setting the dates. In the case of State of Indiana ex rel. Washington E. Lowe, against Demas Coe, county auditor, to compel the latter to issue a warrant for commission of paid in taxes, sequestered property, discovered by the ferret, Attorney Edward W. Felt of Indianapolis, has been appointed special judge. It is probable that the case will be tried in the circuit court within the next week or so. In the case of William F. Chambers, a tax ferret, who was employed in this county about four years ago, and who sued the city on contract, demand $1,000, Judge James B. Engle of the Randolph circuit court has been appointed special judge. It is probable that this case will be tried this month.

NO WORD RECEIVED

No word has been received by Coroner A. L. Bramkamp from the Indianapolis pathologists to whom sections of the stomach and other internal organs of Eddy K. White, who died at Whitewater December 23, was sent for chemical analysis. Mr. White's body was exhumed recently. The cause of death was given as ptomaine poisoning, but rumors of foul play were so rife that the county officials deemed an official investigation essential to either prove or disprove some of the assertions made.

MRS. KAUFMAN DEAD

Hagerstown, Ind., Feb. 5.—Miss Martha Kaufman aged 56 years died at her home, southwest of Hagerstown Thursday night. The deceased was a sufferer of tuberculosis for several years and passed away in a severe hemorrhage. The deceased and her sister Miss Anna Kaufman resided at the old homestead, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enos Kaufman having died seven and five years ago respectively. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home. Interment to be made in the German Baptist cemetery.

Beveridge to Work in His Shirt Sleeves

Popular Senior Senator Will be a Very Industrious Man During the Campaign and Will at All Times Keep in Touch With the State Central Committee, it is Stated by His Friends.

(Palladium Special)

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—When Senator Beveridge left Indianapolis for Washington yesterday afternoon it was generally understood among those who have been watching political developments that the republican campaign this year is to be fought out largely on a personal basis. This much has been gathered from the statements which have been made by Senator Beveridge in the last few days and the same word came directly today from a republican who is close to the senator.

It is true also that Senator Beveridge, while he has no desire to dictate to the state committee, will nevertheless keep in close touch with the committee will be one of the hardest working republicans during the campaign. The senator, so his friends say, expects to make it one of the liveliest campaigns in recent years.

It was not generally known until today that the matter of health and physical ability figured in the selection of a state chairman and it is said that more than one chairmanship possibility was rejected because it was not believed he could stand the strain of the kind of a campaign that is to be carried on.

Lee a Vigorous Man.

Senator Beveridge is an untiring worker and it is the plan that the state committee shall do some hard work. E. M. Lee, who was chosen chairman, is a vigorous fellow and is the picture of health. He will be able to put through many sleepless nights at the close of the campaign it is said.

Those who have been associated with Senator Beveridge are authority for the statement that the senator can go for nights at a time with only a few hours sleep and will come to his office each morning apparently as vigorous as though he had been having all of the repose he should have had.

Since the meeting of the state committee the feeling among the republicans is much more buoyant than it has been for some time. All of the members of the committee are vigorous, men of goodly presence and apparently, men of judgment. It is also true that the committee without a single exception is harmonious. It developed that Dr. J. H. Culbert from the eighth district is in full accord with the other members.

Senator Beveridge will not return to Indianapolis until Feb. 11, when he will deliver an address at the meeting of the Republican Editorial association.

On Feb. 12, he will speak at the annual meeting of the Indiana Lincoln League at Columbus.

Why They Dodged It.

The failure of the Indiana democratic editorial association, which met here yesterday, to include in its resolutions any reference to the liquor question was the result of a little preliminary conference among some of the democratic leaders. The democratic editors feared to stir up the question among the members as to what disposition should be made of the liquor problem.

Indianapolis newspaper men found out before the business session of the editorial association was begun that there would be no resolutions on the liquor question. J. Fred France of Huntington, candidate for nomination for clerk of the supreme court, was on the ground at the Denison hotel early and made the following statement in reply to a question:

"There will be no mention of the liquor question in the resolutions. It would not be wise to bring this subject up at this time."

That the feeling on the liquor question is divided was shown when Clay W. Metsker, at the banquet of the editors, declared that the doors should be bolted against any particular interests that might try to make of the democratic party an asset for themselves. It was evident that Metsker was hinting at the probability of an attempt by the brewers to write a township and ward option law into the democratic state platform.

Will be a Candidate.

Governor Marshall is going to be a candidate for the presidential nomination no matter how little the democrats in the northern part of the state like it. He is going to be brought out by those democrats who are with him on the liquor question and who believe that the party should not declare for the repeal of the county option law. In the same speech in which Mr. Metsker talked about the probable efforts of the special interests to control the democratic party he boomed the governor for president. It was noticeable that Jim McDonald, editor of the Lionier Banner, and some of the other democratic editors were not very enthusiastic of their applause of the governor's boom. McDonald and others, it is said, do not feel kindly disposed toward the governor.

Have Struck a Snag.

Governor Marshall and Burt New, his legal clerk, seem to have struck a snag in their efforts to rout the pool rooms from the state. It was said yesterday afternoon that the governor was considering some new plan for routing the poolroom, and that he would abandon the suits which had been filed in the Clark county court. This report, however, was not verified.

It seems that the pool room men are getting ready to contest the suit in the Clark county court and that they will base their contest on the definition of a nuisance. In the complaint filed by the state against the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Co., and others, it was affirmed that the pool room was a nuisance and an injunction and a receiver was asked for.

The attorneys for the pool room men it is said will contend that the pool room is not a nuisance as they will hold that it does not come within the definition given in the statutes which is to the effect that a nuisance is whatever is injurious to the health, indecent or offensive to the senses or an obstruction to the free use of property so as essentially to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property.

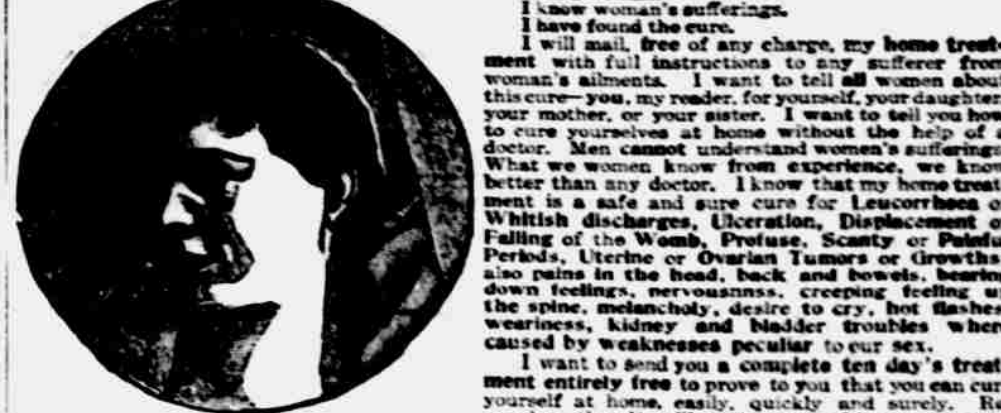

The state may be able to show that the pool room is such as to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property as there has been a loud protest from those who live near the place as they declare that it brings great crowds of law violators into the state from Kentucky. The governor, it is said, will fight the case to a finish and will have a personal representative on the ground most of the time. The pool room is situated near Jeffersonville.

Care of the Insane.

It is probable that as the result of the activity of the governor several changes will be brought about in the methods of caring for the insane in Indiana. The governor is deeply interested in all charity questions and he is greatly discouraged by the congested conditions of the insane hospitals and jails of the state. There are now 5,476 insane patients in jails and hospitals of the state and when the new southeastern hospital at Madison is completed the state will have room for only 5,313 which will leave a great number who will have no protection save that afforded by poor farms and jails. The governor has been told also that there are inmates of the boys' school and the girls' school, which are insane and should be cared for. The governor believes that it would be a good plan to care for the able-bodied and mildly insane on farms and he is going to give this plan some careful study and attention. In line with his views the prison committee of the board of state charities will make to visits in the state of Wisconsin to study the methods of caring for the insane there.

Inspectors Given Their Orders

Republican County Central Committee Sends Circular to Officials—Want no More Factional Trouble.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Wayne County Republican County Central committee last evening, a form of letter was drawn up to be sent to all inspectors who serve at the primary Monday, advising the unification of the party.

The spirit of the letter is to restore harmony in the party. The letter of the committee to the inspectors is as follows:

"You are advised and requested to give general publicity to the attitude of the Republican Central committee in this county relative to the voting in the coming primary."

"It is the desire of the committee that hereafter the party shall not be tormented by the such dissensions as have obtained heretofore, and the committee has fixed the qualifications for voting to be that whoever is a republican or who considers himself a republican shall be and is invited to join with us.

"Therefore, the committee holds that, the fact that a person may have heretofore refused to support certain candidates of the party, does not disqualify him from participating in the primary."

"Trusting that we may all get together, with best wishes we are,

"Yours very truly,
"Cornelius E. Wiley, Chairman.
"John E. Peltz, Secretary."

Corporation Puzzle a Deep One

How to Save the Good and Eradicate the Evil is Dealt With in Report of the Federal Official.

Washington, Feb. 5.—A federal tax on the transactions carried on by the exchanges of the country is regarded by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, as offering in some measure, a "constitutional and available means of regulation" of these bodies. But in a report submitted by him to President Taft yesterday, Mr. Smith acknowledged that he is somewhat at a loss to determine exactly how "to eliminate the evil and retain the good" of the future transactions of the exchanges.

"Whether this can be done, and how, I do not presume to say," he reports.

"If a tax law should be so framed," he declared, "as to distinguish between future transactions which are beneficial, which give the fullest play to the natural laws of supply and demand, and those transactions on the other hand, which are carried on under a false and uneconomic system, much good probably would result."

Information requested by the president as to transactions on produce exchanges and as to certain future contracts in farm products, led to Mr. Smith's report on the subject. Taking up the various classes of transactions in farm commodities, the commissioner holds that "spot" and "intended delivery" in future transactions are proper; that "bucket shop" transactions are "unquestionably evil and indefensible," and that "hedging" transactions are necessary and proper, being really not speculation, but an "avoidance of speculation."

But as to speculation, "where neither party intends to deliver or receive, but where the contract is made on a regular exchange, the rules of which make delivery and receipt obligatory if demanded," Mr. Smith asserts that this class of future transactions "presents a difficult problem. Its existence probably involves the existence of the future exchanges themselves."

The trouble with exchange speculation, says Mr. Smith, is not with the theory, but with the actual practice. He believes that the exchanges themselves can work out their own salvation. Where an exchange by its own regulations or by its own action or neglect, he says, abandons wholly or in part the beneficial functions which are the sole justification for its existence, it places itself in a very dubious position. So long as it does not voluntarily eliminate the evils that are easily remediable, he declares, it is properly a subject of public regulation.

The commissioner bases his comments in regard to speculation chiefly on the bureau's recent investigation of the cotton exchanges. The theoretic benefits of exchange transactions, he says, are often nullified by improper conditions on the exchanges themselves, and cites the New York Cotton Exchange, the basic defect of which, he says, is its so-called "fixed difference" system. The false quotations produced under this system, he says, frequently decrease the prices of cotton received by the farmer.

When the price of future contracts is disturbed, as it frequently is, by this artificial regulation, he says that hedging, which in itself he commends, "becomes not a protection, but a source of danger."
