

HEART OF HERMIT WON BY A DANCE

Old Man Capitulated by the Willowy Motions of a
Hungarian Girl.

HE DIED SHORTLY AFTER

LEFT YOUNG WIFE ALL OF HIS ESTATE AND NOW HIS RELA-TIVES ARE ENDEAVORING TO BREAK THE WILL.

Chicago, Ill., March 31.—The wild and fascinating dance of Salome for the head of John the Baptist before King Herod, has been outdone by a little black-haired and blue-eyed Hungarian girl. Instead of dancing for a gawky head she danced for the heart of an eighty-four-year-old man of wealth, a practical hermit, and miser, and she won. She was sixty years the miser's junior.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fritz-Schram-Stern, who eight years ago came from a little town near Buda-Pesth, Austria-Hungary, a peasant girl, unsophisticated, in worldly ways and the new world customs, heard this accusation hurled at her from the lips of Attorney Quinn O'Brien, representing relatives of the late Frederick Schram, who married her after a courtship of five weeks, and who died five days after their marriage. The relatives are seeking in Circuit Judge Pettit's court to have the marriage annulled so that they may break the will of the aged man, who left all of his property to the young girl-wife.

Before the "beauty proof" jury, Attorney O'Brien charged the beautiful young wife with having married the aged man after she had stolen his senses away by appearing before him in a series of alluring "Salome" dances clad in a costume to which the term diaphanous scarcely could be applied.

Jury Gasp at Statement.

"Why, on one occasion," continued the attorney, dramatically, "she forgot to don her beads."

The jury gasped. From that moment the beautiful young woman was the magnet that drew all eyes in the courtroom as she sat at a table with her counsel.

She retained her composure despite the many embarrassing allegations concerning the manner in which she courted her aged employer. Two fluffy long black plumes fell from her big picture hat, partly shading her face from the inquiring gazes.

The Hungarian girl's rendition of the famous Strauss-Wilde terpsichorean conception was as wild and sensuous a movement, according to Attorney O'Brien, as any that ever stirred the lethargic blood of eastern potentates.

Girl Simply Shrugs Shoulders.

Mr. O'Brien himself didn't see any of the dances, but declared that he has witnesses who described it to him minutely. He admits that their view was limited to the small compass of a keyhole in the door of the Schram suite of rooms, but, nevertheless, he asserts, "they saw things."

All of these allegations merely brought forth a shrug of the shoulders from the defendant.

Hearing of actual testimony was begun when Morris Salmonson, county marriage license clerk, took the witness stand and identified the affidavit made by Mrs. Elizabeth Fritz-Schram-Stern when she procured the license for her marriage to the late Frederick Schram. In her affidavit she swore that she was twenty-four years old, that her name was "Elizabeth Fritz," and that both she and her prospective husband were unmarried.

A Lincoln Story.

A story from Colonel A. K. McClure's "Life of Lincoln." An officer of low volunteer rank persisted in telling and retelling his troubles to the president on a summer afternoon when Lincoln was tired and careworn. After listening patiently he finally turned on the man and, looking wearily out upon the broad Potomac in the distance, said in a peremptory tone that ended the interview: "Now, my man, go away, go away! I cannot meddle in your case. I could as easily bail out the Potomac river with a teaspoon as attend to all the details of the army."

Multitudinous Details.

"I suppose life in the suburbs requires attention to many details." "Yes," replied Mr. Crosslot. "I have often annoyed my wife terribly by forgetting to take down this 'For Sale' sign when we had invited company."—Washington Star.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

WATSON'S EFFORT WAS ALL IN VAIN

He Told Davies Republicans
How Nice Tariff Was,
But 'Twas Useless.

FAILED TO INDORSE IT

BUT THE CONVENTION DID IN-
DORSE SENATOR BEVERIDGE—
"OUR JIM" TELLS ADVANTAGES OF NEW TARIFF.

Washington, Ind., March 31.—Former Congressman James E. Watson, in a speech at the Davies County Republican convention yesterday, in defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, defied any newspaper to show that there is not a decrease of $20 in the measure for every dollar of increase.

In acknowledging his introduction to the convention, he said: "I am a dead statesman, but a rejuvenated republican."

"Our democratic friends are insisting in this campaign that we ought to be turned out of power because we have not kept our pledges," said he. "They say that the republicans in their platform of two years ago promised to reduce the tariff and have not done it. The democrats say that they propose to go to the people of the country this year and ask that we be dislodged from power. I want to talk to you about this, gentlemen. There has been so much misrepresentation in regard to this tariff that I want to tell you the God's truth about it today. The truth, as the Master said almost 2,000 years ago, 'the truth shall make you free.'"

Reads From Platform.

"The republican national platform two years ago contained this plank. I want to read it in your hearing." Here Mr. Watson read from a copy of the platform of two years ago, wherein the republican party pledged itself for a revision of the tariff. "This is the plank," said he, "upon which we went into the campaign two years ago throughout the nation, not one word wherein says that the tariff shall be revised downward, regardless of what our democratic friends say."

"President Taft did promise such revision throughout the country, and that is true. In his speeches throughout the United States and in the newspapers of the time, and in the editorials we read, it was promised that schedules would be reduced. I want to say to you that the republican party has redeemed that pledge, and that in the tariff bill that was passed schedules have been reduced."

The convention indorsed President Taft and Senator Beveridge, but said nothing regarding the tariff or the temperance questions.

Fifteen American consulates in France report $13,000,000 worth of shipments to the United States in 1909, against $91,000,000 worth in 1908. Paris leads with $48,000,000.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nerve, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.
