PROPER CARE OF EGGS.

Mistake to Hold Them For Higher Prices, Says Philadelphia Writer.
Where can the blame be properly placed for the presence of bad eggs in the markets? What are the causes? The Kansas State Agricultural college places the blame, at least in part, with the farmer for the following two reasons: First, some few farmers deliberately take eggs to market which they know are not fresh, because they reason that the merchant is compelled to take them or lose their trade; second, and by far the greatest reason, is because of ignorance on the part of the farmer as to how to sell eggs, says a writer in the Philadelphia Record.
It is indeed a bad practice to trade off the eggs at the village store. Some merchants even offer 2 cents a dozen more for eggs sold for trade than they do those sold for cash. The price of goods is raised to meet the deficiency in the profit from the eggs. The farmer makes almost nothing by the competition.
As these merchants take the eggs as they come, it is an incentive for some farmers to make an extra effort to supply the merchants with all the eggs they can get, and all the weeds, orchards, barn lots, etc., are forced to give up their sometimes rather ancient supply of eggs.

When the clean, fresh eggs are gathered they must be kept in a clean, dry, cool place until marketed. Good egg cases in such a place, kept up off the floor, make excellent receptacles for keeping eggs.
Holding eggs for better prices might look like a shrewd business move, but it is not. There is nothing that counts so strongly in a man's success as reputation, and the farmer upon whom great confidence is placed for marketing nothing but prime stock is the man that is sure to win out.
During hot weather eggs stale very quickly. Therefore it is advisable to collect several times a day. In fact, that rule is enforced the entire year on the farm of the writer—in winter to prevent their being chilled or cracked, in summer to avoid their being staled by heat.
The life of a fresh egg is generally computed at three days. Therefore to guarantee freshness they should be marketed two or three times a week.
Grading eggs according to size and color, endeavoring to have uniformity in each shipment, is a good business move, especially when a retail trade is being supplied.
If before marketing the farmer will candle his eggs he will not only feel doubly sure of their condition, but he can safely guarantee them. An egg tester can be purchased at any poultry

A TRAGIC WEDDING RING.

A tragic story of a forgotten wedding ring is told in the "Lives of the Lindseys." He should have been at church when Colin Lindsay, the young Earl of Balcarras, was quietly eating his breakfast in nightgown and slippers. Reminded that Mauritius of Nassau was waiting for him at the altar, he hurried to church, but forgot the ring. A friend present gave him one, which he, without looking at, placed on the bride's finger. After the ceremony was over the countess glanced at her hand and beheld a grinning death's head on her ring. She fainted away, and the omen made such an impression on her that on recovering she declared she was destined to die within a year, a prediction that probably brought about its own fulfillment, for in a few months the careless Colin was a widower.

The Old Way of Passing Bills.
A document found among the Duke of Rutland's papers at Belvoir castle throws a curious light upon the mode of getting private bills through the English house of commons in the days of King Charles II. The case in hand was the divorce bill of John Lord de Roos, an affair that caused a great deal of gossip in its day. One of his lordship's agents wrote in January, 1667: "On Wednesday last I got six and forty of the house of commons to the Dog Tavern, in the palace yard at Westminster, when were present Mr. Attorney General and Mr. George Montagu. As soon as they had dined we carried them all to the house of commons, and they passed the bill as the committee, without any amendments, and ordered it to be reported the next day."

News in Olden Times.
Not many minutes after a statesman has finished a speech nowadays the news is selling in the streets and has been flashed to every capital in Europe.
It was different in the elections in the time of Pitt. He made a memorable speech one March, and the eager public only learned exactly what he said from the Gentleman's Magazine of the following November—London Saturday Review.
On the Wrong Bank.
Charitable Lady—I gave your father the money to buy you a chat last week. I see you're not wearing it. Boy—No, mum; 'e put it on a 'orse. Charitable Lady—On a horse? But he should have thought of your comfort before that of an animal.—Thorne and Country.

CASE IS APPEALED

George T. Kepler, who was charged with using profane language by Maud Dolan in an affidavit filed before Martin Bowman, justice of the peace at Cambridge City on February 12, appealed the case today to the circuit court. The case was first filed in Bowman's court and went from there to Squire Swain's court and then a second change of venue was taken to Squire Harvey's court at Centerville. There the case was tried and Kepler was fined $1 and costs.

EXIT CHICKEN COOP

At the meeting of the board of works this morning the police department was ordered to have John Clinehens remove his chicken coop from off of Front street in West Richmond recently. Clinehens decided to appropriate the property for the raising of chickens, but the board objected to the scheme and the police were called upon to settle the matter.

Children Of A Pittsburg Gaffer

Marion and John F. Klein, twin children of Captain Klein of Pittsburg, whose revelations involving the bribery of councilmen and prominent citizens have shattered many reputations. Klein says after he was sentenced for bribery and he thought of the twins and his wife penniless and none of the other culprits coming forward to help them, he determined to "square" Pittsburgers by saying the twins should be pensioned for the revelations they incited.

FOUND A NEW HIPPO

Discovery of Unique Species Is Credited to Hunter Roosevelt.

(American News Service)

Washington, March 31.—Theodore Roosevelt, on his African hunting trip, discovered a species of hippopotamus previously unknown to science. Comparison of eight skulls sent by the Roosevelt expedition to the Smithsonian institution has revealed material differences between them and other specimens. The new species has been christened Constrictus, because of the narrowed formation of the skull.

Curator Garret Miller of the mammal division of the museum today declared that there was no doubt of the Roosevelt trophies being proof of the existence of the hitherto unknown species. One skull of the latter was already in the museum, but its peculiar form was ascribed to individual differences until
