RICHMOND, INDIANA "PANIC PROOF CITY"

Has a population of 23,000 and is growing. It is the county seat of Wayne County, and the trading center of a rich agricultural community. It is located due east from Indianapolis 52 miles and 4 miles from the state line.

Richmond is a city of homes and of industry. Primarily a manufacturing city, it is also the jobbing center of Eastern Indiana and enjoys the retail trade of the populous community for miles around.

Richmond is proud of its splendid streets, well kept yards, its cement sidewalks and beautiful shade trees. It has 3 national banks, 2 trust companies and 4 building associations with combined resources of over $5,000,000. Number of factories 125; capital invested $7,000,000, with an annual output of $27,000,000, and a pay roll of $3,700,000. The total pay roll for the city amounts to approximately $6,300,000 annually.

There are five railroad companies radiating in eight direct directions from the city.
Incoming freight handled daily, 1,750,000 lbs. outgoing freight handled daily, 750,000 lbs.

Yard facilities, per day 1,700 cars. Number of passenger trains daily, 89. Number of freight trains daily 77. The annual post office receipts amount to $36,000. Total assessed valuation of the city, $15,000,000.

Richmond has two interurban railways. Three newspapers with a combined circulation of 22,000. Richmond is the greatest hardware jobbing center in the state, and only second in general jobbing interests. It has a piano factory producing a high grade instrument in 15 minutes. It is the leader in the manufacture of traction engines, and produces more threshing machines, lawn mowers, roller skates, grain drills and burial caskets than any other city in the world.

The city's area is 2,440 acres; has a court house costing $500,- 000; 10 public schools and has the finest and most complete high school in the middle west under construction; 3 parochial schools; Fairham college and the Indiana Business College; five splendid fire companies in fine hose houses; Glen Miller park, the largest and most beautiful park in Indiana, the home of Richmond's annual chautauqua; seven hotels; municipal electric light plant, under successful operation, and a private electric light plant, insuring competition.

It is reported that several Rough Riders are out of jobs. It is up to the colonel to see that this is changed.

Items Gathered In From Far and Near

The Tollgate Doomed.
From the Philadelphia Press.

One of the strong planks in the republican platform adopted at Harrisburg this week is the one pronouncing for the abolition of the tollgate. The full declaration is: "The republicans of Pennsylvania, through their chosen representatives in convention assembled, pledge ourselves to endeavor to find ways and means to rid the state of the toll roads, now so great a tax and burden upon the traveling public." There is no quibbling about this. It means that the tollgate must go from Pennsylvania. The great party which controls the destinies and frames the policies of this state has so declared.
The Press has labored for this with zeal and persistence. It has regarded the tollgate as a blight on the state, a survival from medieval times and a heavy and unjustifiable tax upon the traveling public. The Press platform is, and has been, that the highways of the state should be free. This is now the platform of the republican party of Pennsylvania, and this means that in a very short time the tollgate must disappear from this commonwealth.

Conservation at Home

With a country talking about conservation it seems hard to bring the matter home. Things are always hard to see when they are right under eyes and noses. Charles Deam, secretary of the state board of forestry said recently in a letter to the editors of this state:

"No one acquainted with Forestry conditions in Indiana will deny that there is great need of practical forestry work in the State. Practical forestry will come when the people are educated to the necessity of it, and are convinced that it is a paying investment. The reason so little has been done, is because land owners are accustomed to annual returns from their land, and are not educated to expectant values, such as forestry necessitates. Neither does the public appreciate the value of the forest to agriculture, fish and game, birds, insects, water supply, stream flow, climate, etc."

It is true that with humanity built in the way it is now and likely to be—that it will have to be shown that forestry can be made profitable. That it is there is no doubt—locusts and black walnut for instance. For the man who does not live a hand to mouth existence there is no doubt that the planting of trees is a greater investment than crops if he will find out about it. Or as Deam says "land owners are accustomed to annual returns from their land and are not educated to expectant values." Some one who will write to the state board of forestry can make some money and do the whole neighborhood a service besides.

The Spanish War Veterans

The presence of the encampment of the Spanish War Veterans in Richmond is more than one of a series of conventions which have for some time come here. The work of the Spanish War was so quickly accomplished that it seems hard for many people to realize that it has had far reaching national results—and international, and more than that, that the men who were actually engaged in it were exposed to great danger and suffering.

There is no use denying that America owes a large amount of its regeneration—its fighting qualities to the Spanish War—the type of manhood that Theodore Roosevelt represents.

There is a heroism of a finer sort which is shown by those men of silken fiber who quietly braved the fever camps. There is in Richmond today a man who braved the yellow fever test and came off with permanent disability—a hero—yes. There is nothing particularly spectacular about allowing a yellow fever mosquito to inoculate you—that is the stuff of which the men who are in Richmond today are made.

And it is only now that people are beginning to get the full meaning of the Spanish War and the men who served in it.

Outing a message for those who try to play athletic games when they are unfit. A boy, for instance, is a little weak after a mild attack of an infectious fever, pneumonia, influenza or tonsillitis, and his heart is beating faster and more violently than it should on exertion. But the team wants him or he wants a record, or both, and away he goes into training. "Suddenly one day the heart can no longer drive on its overload of blood and down goes the runner or oarsman in an attack of heart failure"—and athletics gets all the discredit. The same danger lies when there is no training, the sport being purely informal; it lies also where the girl just convalescent persists in taking part in a late-anticipated dance. Only that phase of common sense which is manifested in common prudence is necessary to avoid such perils.

Women Who Don't Smoke Defend Sisters Who Have Formed Habit

New York, June 28.—"More women today smoke cigarettes than ever before," says Miss Elionora Sears, the girl athlete of Boston. She goes on to add:

"There is less objection to it in our social code. Personally, I don't believe that moderate cigarette smoking could have any harmful effect upon the morals of the smoker."

New York women seem to be agreed that Miss Sears' first contention as to the increase in the number of women smokers is perfectly true. As to the righteousness and good taste of the process opinions divide.

Mrs. Lillian Devereux Blake said: "I was brought up to believe that no lady ever smoked. I personally have never smoked, and I do not believe in the practice for women. I know many 'nice' women are said to indulge in it, but it seems to me that the practice is essentially unwomanly."

Mrs. Clarence Burns, president of the Little Mother's Aid association, said: "Physicians admit that the action of tobacco smoke on the throat and other organs is distinctly harmful."

GIVES OUT RESOLUTIONS

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—Victor Berger has made public a set of resolutions criticising the authorities of the Postoffice Department of the United States which were unanimously adopted by the national executive board of the Social Democratic party of America at a meeting held in Chicago Saturday.

The resolutions are the outgrowth of alleged dismissal of efficient employees of various postoffices, including Chicago and Indianapolis.

The preamble and resolutions read as follows:

"Whereas, the absolutely unhampered right to organize for the attainment of better conditions is a prime necessity for the welfare of every wage worker, no matter whether he be the employee of a private concern, of a corporation or of the government, and

"Whereas, the authorities of the Postoffice Department of the United States interfere with every effort of organization on the part of the employees of that department and lately have discharged some of the most efficient postal clerks because of their union activity, and

"Whereas, this despotic attitude of the Postoffice Department is most oppressive to about 300,000 citizens of the United States who are employees of that department, and deprives them of their rights as citizens and workingmen; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we most emphatically protest against this undemocratic and unconstitutional policy of the authorities of the Postoffice Department of the United States. We demand that Congress investigate that department and remedy its defects, both as to the treatment of its employees and of the public. Also be it

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the President of the United States and to the members of both houses of Congress, and also be transmitted to the daily press of the country."

Patronizing.
"Yes," said the somewhat severe lady, "my ancestors came over in the Mayflower."

"From what I have heard," replied Mrs. Camrox, "accommodations on the Mayflower didn't compare with those of a modern liner; but of course the rates were lower."

"JESSUP GOT SORE"

"Jessup got sore and made accusations against me; so I dismissed the case," was the explanation Prosecuting Atty. Charles Ladd made yesterday afternoon in dismissing the case of the state against George Lamphere, a deputy game warden, from the justice of the peace court of L. C. Abbott this morning. Lamphere was charged with drawing deadly and dangerous weapons on Charles Jennings, whom he arrested on a charge of violating the state game laws.

Wilfred Jessup, counsel for Jennings and also James Morgan, who was arrested on a similar charge, gave the state information against Lamphere. The cases against Morgan were appealed to the justice of peace court of Squire Harvey of Center township and those against Jennings to the circuit court.

People cannot arrest the flight of time, yet they are often asked to stop a minute.

You Should See This Economy Jar

You've been reading about the Economy Jar and you've probably made up your mind that the next time you need fruit jars you will probably buy this kind. But the thing you need to understand is that the Economy is not a "next time" jar, but is a jar that you should use in place of the ones you now have.

But you can not fully realize this until you come to our store and see this jar in actual operation, until you see how much fresher and better fruits and vegetables canned in this jar look.

But after you have seen these things and have had it fully explained why nothing can ever spoil in the Economy, then you will know that the Economy Jar is the only one you should ever use and that it would be real economy to use it in place of the old fashioned, unreliable jars that you are intending to "use up" before you buy the Economy.

And remember that in this year of short fruit crops that it's more than ever essential that you save all your fruit. You will do this with the Economy. You can do it with no other.
