

HARVEST ON IN "INLAND EMPIRE"

Ranches of North-western States Using Combined Reapers and Threshers.

CROP WORTH $100,000,000

WHEAT CROP OF THE DISTRICT ESTIMATED AT FROM 35 TO 60 MILLIONS OF BUSHELS—LARGE APPLE CROP.

Spokane, Wash., July 5.—Harvesting has begun in the valleys in the southern part of the Inland Empire and ranchers predict that work will be well under way in from 10 days to two weeks in harvesting the $100,000,000 crop of grain, grasses, vegetables and fruits, which bankers in Spokane and throughout the Northwest say can be financed without calling upon eastern institutions for funds.

The first combined machines started heading this season on the ridges near Eureka, Wash., and at Cullasac, Idaho. Others will follow between now and July 15, and thousands of men and horses and hundreds of machines will be drawn into service in various parts of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, and when the products of the fields are housed, many of the men will go into orchards to harvest what now gives promise of being the best crop of apples and other fruits in the history of the country.

The wheat crop in parts of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, comprising the Inland Empire, is estimated at from 35,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels, of which between 24,000,000 and 34,500,000 will be harvested in 14 counties in eastern Washington. Reports received by the Spokane chamber of commerce indicate that Whitman, Lincoln, Walla Walla, Adams and Douglas-Grant counties will lead in the order named. These five counties produced 27,250,000 bushels of wheat in 1909, Whitman county reporting 5,500,000 bushels.

Reports from many districts in Oregon, Idaho and Montana also show that prospects are bright for large yields of grain and hay, and it is predicted that the grain and hay crops of the four states will be greater than ever before. Much old grain is held in eastern Washington but growers believe prices will stiffen before the 1910 crop is ready for shipment and that the season will be active.

A Gun Club's Treasure.
Thirteen million cartridge shells, the result of eleven years of shooting by the members of a gun club, have been gathered into a huge pile by one of the leading sporting organizations of England. Eleven years ago one of the members conceived the idea of having the members save all their shells and deposit them on the pile. The shell bank is now the club's most prized possession. If a single man were to shoot one cartridge a second day and night it would take him about twenty-five years to discharge 13,000,000. The club maintains a vigilant guard over its precious shell pile.

Filial Repartee.
Richard Brinsley Sheridan, who was always distressed for money, was one day backing his face with a dull razor when he turned to his eldest son and said:

"Tom, if you open any more oysters with my razor I'll cut you off with a shilling."

"Very well, father," said Tom, "but where will you get the shilling?"

TIZ-For Sore Feet

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet? Corns, Calluses or Bunions? Use TIZ. It's Sure, Quick And Certain.

You Will Enjoy Using TIZ. The Most Pleasant Remedy You Ever Tried and Moreover It Works.

At last here is instant relief and a lasting permanent remedy for sore feet. No more tired feet. No more aching feet. No more swollen, hot, smelly, sweaty feet. No more corns. No more bunions. No more calluses, no matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use TIZ. TIZ is totally unlike anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them right out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box or direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Form Closer Relationship Among Republics

Prominent figures in the Pan-American Conference, and scenes in Buenos Ayres, where the conference will be held. On the left are Dr. Jose Alcorta, the president of the Argentine Republic, and below, Lewis Nixon, a member of the United States delegation to the conference. Ambassador White, the chairman of the United States representation is shown on the right. At the top is the famous Argentine pavilion of exhibitions, while Congress Hall in the Avenida de Mayo is shown below.

Washington, July 5.—The establishment of closer commercial relations and friendship between the republics of North and South America, will be the main purpose of the fourth Pan-American conference, which opens in Buenos Ayres on July 9, and continues for four weeks.

Delegates will be present from all the American republics, including this country, which will be represented by Professor Shepherd of Columbia university, secretary of the delegation; Henry White, formerly ambassador to France, chairman; John Bassett Moore, professor of international law at Columbia university; Col. Enoch Crowder, assistant to the judge advocate general of the army; Lewis Nixon, the ship builder; Bernard Moses, professor of political science in the university of California; Lamar C. Quintero of Louisiana; Paul S. Reinsch of the university of Wisconsin; and David Kinley of the university of Illinois.

On account of the importance of the conference the delegates were selected with considerable care and the representatives of the United States are not only authorities on questions pertaining to the countries interested, but are also in the front rank of experts on international law and diplomacy.

The United States delegates arrived in Buenos Ayres a few days ago on board the army transport Sumter, which has been specially fitted out for the trip. After the close of the conference they will visit Chile, Peru, Ecuador, and other Latin-American states before starting for home.

These conferences originated when James G. Blaine was secretary of state, the first one being held in Washington in 1889. Other conferences were held in the City of Mexico in 1901, and in Rio de Janeiro in 1906.

The program outlined for the present conference is as follows:

1. The organization of the conference.
2. Commemoration of the Argentine national centenary and of the independence of the American republics, as suggested by the fact that many of those nations celebrated their national centenaries in 1910 and neighboring years.
3. Submission and consideration of the reports of each delegation as to the action of their respective governments upon the resolutions and conventions of the third conference held at Rio de Janeiro in July, 1906, including a report upon the results accomplished by the Pan-American committees and the consideration of the extension of their functions.
4. Submission and consideration of the report of the director of the international bureau of American republics together with consideration of the present organization and of recommendations for the possible extension and improvement of its efficiency.
5. Resolution expressing appreciation to Mr. Andrew Carnegie of his generous gift for the construction of the new building of the American republics in Washington.
6. Report on the progress which has been made on the Pan-American railway since the Rio conference, and consideration of the possibility of cooperative action among the American republics to secure the completion of the system.
7. Consideration of the conditions under which the establishment of more rapid mail, passenger and express steamship service between the American republics can be secured.
8. Consideration of measures which will lead to uniformity among the American republics in consular documents and the technical requirements of customs regulations, and also in census and commercial statistics.
9. Consideration of the recommendations of the Pan-American sanitary congress in regard to sanitary police and quarantine and such additional recommendations as may tend to the elimination of preventable diseases.
10. Consideration of a practicable arrangement between the American republics covering patents, trade marks and copyrights.
11. Consideration of the continuance of the treaties on pecuniary claims after their expiration.
12. Consideration of a plan to provide the interchange of professors and students among the universities of the American republics.

13. Resolution in appreciation of the Pan-American scientific congress held at Santiago, Chile, in December, 1908.

14. Resolution instructing the governing board of the international bureau of American republics to consider and recommend the manner in which the American republics may see fit to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal.

15. Future conferences.
Buenos Ayres, the capital of Argentine Republic, and the most beautiful city in South America is doubly attractive this year owing to the fact that the Argentines are celebrating the centenary of their birth as a republic by holding an international exposition which opened last May, and will continue until December. All the leading countries are artistically and commercially represented, and the exhibitions, which are five in number stretch practically across the entire town. They include the agricultural and stock raising show to illustrate the staple industries of the country, an industrial exposition to show the progress the republic is making in manufacturing and engineering trades, an exhibition of hygiene and an exhibition of railways and communications.

Another function, which is to be held while the conference is in session, is the unveiling of several monuments, the most magnificent being the one to commemorate independence, which has been erected on the Plaza de Mayo, the principal square of Buenos Ayres, at a cost of $500,000.

THE SCRAP BOOK

A Business Brand of Booze.
In the old boudoir days a raw tenderfoot entered a dining room saloon and ordered whisky. Whisky in those days and in those parts was a very weird drink. Queer effects were sure to follow it. The tenderfoot knew he must expect something out of the common, but for all that he was taken back when the bartender handed him a small whisk broom along with the bottle and STOOD THERE AND GLASS. FIDGETED. Tenderfoot-like, he didn't care to expose his ignorance by asking what the whisk broom was for, so he just stood there and fidgeted. He didn't drink.

He waited in the hope that somebody would come in and show him what was what. Well, in a few minutes a big chap in a red shirt entered. He, too, ordered whisky, and he, too, got a broom.

The tenderfoot watched him closely. He poured himself a generous drink, tossed CAREFULLY CLEANED it off and, taking THE FLOOR.

Up his whisk broom, went over into a corner and carefully cleaned on the floor a space about seven feet by three. There he lay down and had a fit.

Star and Soul.
A star circled on the sphere. Unseen, for the sun was on high, And men looked up, and they said, "There is not a star in the sky." But darkness came, flinging its curtain afar.

And behold in the heavens a luminous star!
A beautiful soul upon earth Was dulled by the shine of its joys, Obscured by the radiance of mirth And hid by the world and its toys. But sorrow came, flinging its blackness afar.

And the beautiful soul shone out like a star.

An Urgent Call.
In a Scottish village a small boy once raised a hubbub in the parish church. His mother had bought a sheep's head and left it to cook, telling him to watch it while she went to church.

The minister had reached his "fifthly" when the boy thrust his head in at the door and whispered, "Mither!" The good woman recognized her son instantly and made signs to him to go away.

"Mither!" again came the whisper. The mother shook her finger at the boy and her head too. But the boy was in earnest. Raising his voice, he shouted, "Mither, ye needna wink an' blink at me, for ye'd better come awa' hame at once, for the sheep's head's buttin' at the dumplings out of the hall pan!"

Caught the Fever.
An Irish policeman who was also something of a sportsman had been posted on a road near Dublin to catch the scorching motorist. Presently one came along at twenty miles an hour, and the policeman saw it was without a sign. Next came a large motor traveling at forty miles an hour, and the eyes of the guardian of the public brightness. And then one passed at the rate of a mile a minute. "Begorra," said Pat, slapping his thigh, "that's the best of the lot!"

Didn't Inspire Him.
When Lafayette visited Virginia he was entertained with other eminent guests by President Monroe at Oak Hill. Leesburg, too, the historic town nine miles from Monroe's country seat, accorded him honors on that occasion, and at a dinner at that town John Quincy Adams delivered a famous toast to the surviving patriots of the Revolution, who, he said, were like the alibylle leaves—the fewer they became the more precious they were.

On the return to Oak Hill another of Monroe's guests said to Mr. Adams: "Excuse the impertinence, but would you not tell me what inspired the beautiful sentiment of your toast today?"

"Why," replied Mr. Adams, "it was suggested this morning by the picture of the sibyl that hangs in the hall of the Oak Hill mansion."

"How strange!" remarked the less brilliant guest. "I have looked at that picture many times during the past years, and that thought never occurred to me."

Quick Witted.
A number of years ago, when the then Chicago Record was placing its foreign correspondents, George Ade was sent abroad by Victor F. Lawson for the purpose of selecting the best men he could find. Ade did all right until he got into Serbia. There he found all the newspaper men in jail for political offenses. He was in a quandary, so he called to Mr. Lawson: "Newspaper men all in jail. Press censor very strict."

Lawson promptly cabled back: "Make press censor correspondent." And Ade did it.

HELPED THE DEFENDANT.

The Doctor Swore the Accused Was Afflicted With Phalaris.

As the result of hostile demonstrations one of the leading citizens of the burg had been taken before the village justice on a charge of assault and battery. He was fat, evidently good natured in ordinary circumstances and the proprietor of a conspicuously bald pate. One of his witnesses was the village physician, whom the prosecutor had not and sought to humiliate. "You are prejudiced in favor of the defendant, are you not, doctor?" "No, sir."

"You are his family physician, are you not, and you are afraid you will lose his patronage, consequently you have willfully distorted and doctored your evidence here to curry favor?" "No, I have not; but, since you mention my professional relations with him, I think the jury should be informed that he is suffering from phalaris."

"From what?" "Phalaris," repeated the doctor. "Whereupon everybody sat up and took notice; the attorneys put on a dignified studious air; the honorable court pricked up his ears; one and all centered their gaze upon the defendant, who acquired that reddish tint which proclaimed that at last he had been discovered."

"What is this phalaris?" asked the prosecutor.

"It is a sort of chronic disease of an inflammatory nature which affects certain cranial tissues."

"Does it affect the mind, cause insanity or anything like that?"

"Well, I shouldn't wish to answer that question as an expert because I am not posing as an expert, but I have known some persons who were suffering from the disease to become raving maniacs, others merely foolish, some showed destructive and pugilistic tendencies, while many others have suffered for years and never shown any mental abnormalities."

"Well, doctor, just tell the jury all about this sickness."

"I decline to do so. I am not an expert in such diseases and was not summoned here as an expert witness. You will have to call in an expert to answer your question."

And there the matter rested. The prosecutor told the justice and jury the case was not of sufficient importance to warrant the calling of expensive experts and that they would have to ignore the doctor's testimony as unsupported and unworthy of credence. But the jury promptly acquitted the leading citizen, "because," as the foreman explained, "doc said there was something the matter with his head—'phalaris' he called it."

When the prosecutor got back to his office he sought enlightenment and in his dictionary found the following: "Phalaris—blind headedness."

The doctor also explained out of court, and the relations between the medical and legal professions in that village are still strained.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Cheese Was Tame.
A prominent man who was inspecting a cooking school partook freely of the dishes that were prepared by the pupils. "I have no dread of these experimental dishes," he said. "Any one who has eaten in France learns to eat boldly. Think of the French cheeses alone! Why, one afternoon in a restaurant in the Boulevard des Italiens I heard a guest shout angrily: 'Waiter, look here! This cheese is walking all over the table!'"

"Ah, have no fear, monsieur. It won't escape," the waiter replied. "If it goes too far just call 'Jules, Jules!' It always answers to its name."

The Only One to Rise.
There was an old gravedigger in the Scotch burg of Kirkintilloch who was exceedingly pious in his own way and also exceedingly fond of his dram of "whisky."

One beautiful summer evening he commenced to dig a grave, and by the time he had finished he had "toomed" (emptied) his whisky bottle. Then he sat on the last rung of the ladder and slept the sleep of the just till long after dawn. Soon the stagecoach came lumbering along, and the guard lustily roused his horn as the coach passed the church. The blast awoke the gravedigger, and he climbed up his ladder and out of the grave. On looking round the churchyard and finding himself alone he exclaimed, with a doleful shake of his head, "This is a pair, pair show for Kirkintilloch!"

Impassable.
"Do you think it a wise thing to send a boy away to college, Binks?" asked Rippleton.

"Oh, yes," replied Binks. "Teaches him independence."

"But doesn't he get out of touch with home influences?" persisted Rippleton.

"Not altogether," said Binks. "He gets away from the home influences, but the 'touch' goes on forever."—Lippincott's.

YOUR HAT

May Me a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff, it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

SOME BEAR STORY

Pioneer Western Hunter Says He Has Killed More Than 2,000 of Them.

HE BAGS IDAHO'S LARGEST

Spokane, Wash., July 5.—Tom Hopper, who has killed more than 2,000 bears in California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and the province of British Columbia in the last 35 years, has returned to his home in Spokane from Kingston, Idaho, with the pelts of four bears, including the largest cinnamon bear ever killed in Idaho, and two cougars, the result of three days' work with a pack of hounds. The big bear was killed on Pine creek, south of Kingston, after a lively battle, in which several of the dogs were severely pawed. The hounds were game, however, and stood their ground till Hopper reached the scene and dispatched the big fellow with a head shot. The other three bears and the cougars were bagged without much difficulty, though Hopper admits that one of the black bears showed a lot of fight. The veteran has killed several thousand cougars in the Pacific and Northwestern states since 1890, his largest bag in one year being 739, killed in eastern Washington and Oregon and northern Idaho and southeastern British Columbia. Hopper confines his work to predatory animals, upon which the various states have placed a head bounty.

Hydrofluoric Acid.
Hydrofluoric acid is the best agent to use for removing sand from castings, particularly those of iron and steel, as it attacks the sand and dissolves it, while other acids attack the metal and only loosen the sand so that it falls off.

Stomach Dead Man Still Lives

People who suffer from sour stomach, fermentation of food, distress after eating and indigestion, and seek relief in large chunks of artificial digestors, are killing their stomachs by inaction just as surely as the victim of morphine is deadening and injuring beyond repair every nerve in his body.

What the stomach of every sufferer from indigestion needs is a good prescription that will build up his stomach, put strength, energy and elasticity into it, and make it sturdy enough to digest a hearty meal without artificial aid.

The best prescription for indigestion ever written is sold by druggists everywhere and by L. H. Fife, and is rigidly guaranteed to build up the stomach and cure indigestion, or money back.

This prescription is named Mi-on-a, and is sold in small tablet form in large boxes, for only 50 cents. Remember the name, Mi-on-a stomach tablets. They never fail. They contain ingredients that give quick relief (other than strong digesters), but they are compounded for the purpose of making the stomach strong and energetic enough to do its work without the aid of harmful drugs.
