FIFTY-MILE MARKAviator Flies Distance in Hour and Fifteen Minutes at Atlantic City.

BEACH LINED WITH THOUSANDS OF ENTHUSIASTIC ADMIRERS—
MAY BE AWARDED A PRIZE OF $5,000.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 12.—Glen Curtiss set an American record for a fifty-mile flight in an aeroplane yesterday by covering a half hundred measured miles in five miles laps along the beach in elapsed time of 1 hour, 14 minutes, 58 seconds. Curtiss was in the air 1 hour and 30 minutes, and spent 1 hour and 21 minutes, and 5 seconds on the course, 6 minutes and 5 seconds being deducted for the turn at the two ends of the two-and-a-half mile course.

Walter Brookins, who made the world's altitude record and Frank Coffyn, his rival, flying the Wright machine, were among those who extended their congratulations over the splendid flight.

In the early evening Curtiss set a new mark for quick climbing by sweeping his machine 1,000 feet in the air in 5 minutes and 51 seconds.

After a wait of hours for a slowing down of the sharp southerly wind which swept in from the ocean Curtiss rose in the air at 3:22 p. m. After a short warming up spin he swung back over the upper mark made by the range flags on a board walk building at Massachusetts avenue and started on his long flight.

Hindered by Wind.
Owing to the cross winds, which still held strong in the upper air, Curtiss never reached a faster speed than 50 miles an hour, his average for the race being about forty miles. The time for each of the five mile laps was as follows:

First lap, 8:19 4-5; second lap, 8:21 2-5; third, 7:37 1-5; fourth, 7:33 4-5; fifth, 8:33 1-2; sixth, 7:39; seventh, 7:27 1-2; eighth, 7:29; ninth, 7:21 3-10; tenth, 7:21 1-5.

The course laid out by the officers brought Curtiss and his flying machine within view of people from the inlet down to Ventnor. Practically all of Atlantic City was on the board walk or on the beach watching the flight, and Curtiss was repeatedly cheered as he swept over the heads of the crowds especially in the vicinity of the big pier.

At the end of his flight Curtiss declared that his engine worked perfectly and added his belief that the added weight which he was forced to carry in the emergency apparatus in case of falling into the sea and the necessity of running partly into the wind to keep into the course held him back at least 15 miles an hour.

Brookins May Try.
Curtiss's contract ends tonight, leaving Brookins in possession of the $5,000 altitude prize won on Saturday evening, when he made a world's record of 5,175 feet and which will be given him today. The Wright aviator has not yet announced whether he will go after the fifty mile prize of $5,000 which otherwise will go to Curtiss.

Brookins started up immediately after Curtiss landed from his long flight and described sharp curves and turns ending with his first exhibition of a triple turn that almost stood his machine on end. Brookins and Coffyn then went up together with Brookins driving the biplane, getting off well after a false start, caused by a loose running rail.

Later in the day Coffyn went up alone giving an exhibition of turning and swooping. During his lone flight Brookins made a 1,000 foot sweep along the beach just over the heads of the crowd, ending by driving his machine over the breakers hardly a foot from the surf.

Use TIZ

A Marvel For Sore Feet. Acts Right Off.

Sore Feet? Never After Using TIZ—
Good-bye—sore feet, aching feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelly feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses and bunions and raw spots.

You've never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

It acts at once and makes the feet feel remarkably fresh and sore-proof.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

If you don't find all this true after trying a box of TIZ, you can get your money right back.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

feat was taken from the records of the same barograph used to measure the altitude reached by Brookins on Saturday. The aviator started close to the ocean pier and his turns were so sharp and quick that his entire flight was confined to the space between his starting point and the million dollar pier.

BUILT ELECTRIC LINE

Fred Lincoln, Killed in Philadelphia Yesterday, Constructed the Local System.

MARRIED A RICHMOND GIRL

Fred Lincoln, who built the electric street railway system in this city, was accidentally killed yesterday when he attempted to board a moving train at Philadelphia which has been his home for the past 17 years. He lived in this city until about twenty years ago when he went to Toledo for a few years and then to Philadelphia, where he became president of the street railway system, afterwards engaging in the manufacture of street cars.

Word received by local friends of the accident did not give any details. He was a cousin of Mrs. Will Campbell, East Main street. Miss Gertrude Moore, of Philadelphia, who has been a guest at the Campbells, is a niece. He was 44 years old and is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Addie Long of this city.

The King's Daughters are organizing again for the purpose of assisting in the tent work of the evangelistic committee of New York. For the last ten years they had neighborhood circles connected with every ten centers. They supply ice water, mend the tent, visit from house to house and invite other women to attend the meetings. They clothe the scantily clad boys and girls who come to the meetings, pay rent for distressed mothers and find employment for those out of work.

Leaders of House Usually "Country Jakes"

It Is a Curious Fact That Most of Those in the "Front Rank"
Class Come from the Rural Districts.

BY RODERICK CLIFFORD.

Washington, July 12.—"Did you ever observe," remarked a veteran employee of the house, "that the members who are ranked as leaders on both sides of the chamber hail as a rule from what are termed country districts? Of course not; for the reason that when a member looms up in the public eye the people speak of him as a leader of his state, not of his district. But the fact is, the member who is spoken of as a leader, and so looked upon by his colleagues, represents a constituency largely composed of farmers. And this explains, in a measure, why the agricultural class generally get the legislation they demand."

"Now, there is Speaker Cannon. He is the republican leader and for years has held a front rank position in the house. He comes from a country district. Then there is Mr. Payne of New York. His district is largely agricultural. He is the republican floor leader, and has held that responsible position ever since the death of Mr. Dingley of Maine. Next to Mr. Payne in point of influence, comes Mr. Tawney of Minnesota, and Mr. Smith of Iowa. Farmers constitute the majority of their constituents, and it is the farmers votes that keep them in the house. Even Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, while he comes from the great busy city of Pittsburgh, part of his district is agricultural, and it is in this part of his district where the opposition to him is strongest."

"On the democratic side of the house you will find by glancing over the congressional directory, that minority leader, Clark, of Missouri represents for the most part farmers. They keep him in the house because he knows what they want and knows just how to get it. Then there is Mr. Underwood of Alabama. He represents the Birmingham district which contains many craftsmen, but it's the men who till the soil who keep him there. Mr. Burleson of Texas, and Mr. Clayton of Alabama, who take prominent parts in the proceedings, belong to country districts and they have made good as the record shows."

Now and then a member from a city district will be kept in the house until he quits of his own accord. And it is but fair to say that in such instances the member from the city makes good in his leadership. The late Speaker Randall of Pennsylvania and Representative Bingham of Pennsylvania, is another of this class. He is the father of the house by reason of his long continued service, and up to within the last few years he took a most prominent part in the house proceedings. If the cities kept their representatives as do the farmers the city folks would fare better in the matter of legislation."

An official of the United States supreme court, talking to a party of his friends on the subject of the recent railroad legislation, made this observation.

"It is a mistaken idea to suppose that congress does not respond to the desires of the people for laws to correct abuses which exist in the minds of the voters. A close study of the statutes will show anyone that congress has never hesitated to pass laws so far as the laws being constitutional were concerned, the law makers never lost any sleep on that account. They wanted to make a record that would meet the approval of their constituents; the court could pass on the constitutionality of the law."

That is what you will witness with the railroad law before many moons. Questions as intricate as railroad control by the government should not be rushed through congress, but should be considered in all its phases. But the desire to hurry up and get through the public business precludes the consideration that such an important measure should receive, and hence it follows that the courts will soon be called upon to pass judgment on the work of congress. You will find this true of nearly every important law enacted by congress during the past 20 years. The most notable case, you will admit is the Sherman anti-trust law and its application to labor unions."

Congress proved to be rather liberal in the matter of public buildings for various sections of the country and authorized an expenditure of something like $25,000,000, but if the members who were successful in having their little bills included in the omnibus public building understood the facts, they would soon get busy explaining to their constituents the conditions in the treasury department. It may be interesting to know that out of the many public building bills that passed the house and senate during the 56th and 60th congresses some 200 have as yet remained untouched in the office of the supervising architect in the treasury department.

In the last annual report of the supervising architect issued last fall, the statement was made that at that time there were 263 public buildings appropriated for, waiting their turn. The delay in many cases in beginning the work on plans and specifications is due to the local fights in agreeing on a site for the building. The question of a site for a federal building often causes more work for the secretary of the treasury than does a bond issue. Members who understand the slow action of the supervising architect in the matter of public buildings avail themselves of it by telling the people of their towns that next year they will get an increase in the appropriation with authority for a larger building. There is truth in this, as the bill which President Taft signed the day before adjournment, contained many authorizations for increases in the appropriations made for buildings in the last congress.

"The member who will draw up a bill covering every pension case will prove himself a benefactor, not alone to the old soldier, but to congress."

said Representative Martin of Colorado in discussing pension legislation. There are quite a few old soldiers in my district and not a week goes by but I receive letters asking for pension legislation. Some of the members are so busy looking up pension matters that they have little time for anything else. Of the 27,000 bills and resolutions introduced in the house in the session just closed at least 90 per cent of them dealt with pension cases.

I have not examined the statute books lately, but I am told by the older members that there are more laws relating to pensions than any other subject and yet it seems that of all the laws cases arise that require special acts of congress to mete out just treatment to some old soldier ready to "beat out his last tattoo." The singular part of it is the number of private pension bills introduced in congress at this late date except by many thousands the bills introduced a few years after the civil war. The member who will frame a general law covering all the cases we are now asked to consider will certainly make a name that will endure.

Musical Treat at the Murray.
The man who arranged the great musical act, "Ye Colonial Septette" this week at the Murray, must have taken his time to find seven such people who combine dramatic abilities with finished musical inclinations. The whole production is novel and eminently artistic in conception and staged in a manner worthy of the best scenic productions on the legitimate stage.

The action takes place in America before the revolution and the scenes are laid in a colonial mansion of the olden days. In the first scene is shown a baronial hallway. Two heralds enter who sound the fanfare on trumpets, upon which the butler steps out and announces that Mistress Priscilla will speak the prologue, in which she asks the spectators to imagine themselves at a Halloween party in the old mansion. Scene two shows the exterior of the mansion, the guests arriving singing snatches of old time songs. The cavalier who arrives last, on reaching the postern sounds a call on the horn and the lights at the mansion are at once extinguished. In the third scene is seen the interior of the mansion, the guests arriving, the minut followed by a medley played by a string quintet formed by the guests. An old time love ballad is sung by one of the men, the ladies joining in the harmonic effects on French horns. This is followed by a splendid cornet solo. The butler causes a diversion with the deep, "drinking" on an enormous deep bass horn. Immediately following comes a big ensemble musical number by the full septette on brass instruments, a rousing march on the triumphal trumpet is both novel and beautiful.

The other feature acts on the big bill this week are fine and together a wonderful excellent bill is presented for the patrons of Richmond's most beautiful playhouse.

Siam has forty-seven rice mills, exporting 1,000,000 tons of milled rice a year. Only $2,538 worth of American rice milling machinery was sold there last year, though American engineers built the first of the mills. Rice production is the chief resource of Siam.

PLAN SPECIAL MEETINGS.

Special business will be considered at called meetings of the directors and membership of the Young Men's Business Club, to be held soon. The regular meetings of the directors and club in July and August are postponed by constitutional provision until September.

"Is it intelligence or is it an inherited habit, as John Burroughs says, that induces the bears in the soo to carry their bread to the pool of water?" said an observing woman. "No matter by what name you describe bruin's mental state it is interesting to watch him with a loaf of bread. He knows that it is dry eating, so he carries it in his mouth to the pool and drops it in to soak. The grizzly will take two or three loaves and put them in the water and then jump in himself and eat them. The big Kodiak bear throws in several loaves and then goes fishing for them. The bears often fight for a piece of meat, but rarely for bread."—New York Sun.

HOT-WEATHER DIARRHEA

In the summer people of all ages are very subject to "running of the bowels." Germs get into the food or water, find their way into the intestines and keep irritating them so that there is a constant desire to have movement. It is very weakening, destroys appetite, disturbs sleep and produces an itchy feeling what many suppose to be piles. There are many "quick cures" for this aggravated form of dysentery, but they usually contain a narcotic, and that is dangerous. Others try salts and laxative waters, but they have no permanent effects. It takes a remedy with ingredients such as are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to drive out the trouble-causing germs, to clean out the intestines, to strengthen the stomach and enliven the liver. Ordinary remedies cannot do this, but it is a well known fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does do it. Thousands use it every summer for this very purpose. Go to your druggist today and buy a 50 cent or $1.00 bottle and see what it will do for you. It is guaranteed to do what we claim or money refunded. It has enabled thousands of families to cure themselves of simple ailments. If you have never tried it send your address for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE to DR. W. E.
