Mark Twain's Choice of Authors. When asked to choose a library made up of twelve authors only Mark Twain replied: "In my list I know I should put Shakespeare and Browning and Carlyle ('French Revolution' only), Sir Thomas Malory ('King Arthur'), 'Parksman's Histories' (a hundred of them, if there were so many), 'The Arabian Nights', Johnson ('Boswell'), because I like to see that complacent old gasometer listen to himself talk; Jowett's 'Plato' and 'Peppys' 'Diary' (the condensed edition). I should be sure of these, and I could add the other three, but I should want to hold the opportunity open a few years so as to make no mistake." Parksman is the only American author included.
