AGROUND IN PACIFIC

Pacific Mail Liner, Mongolia, Having Trouble Off the Japanese Coast.

PASSENGERS ARE ALL SAFE

London, July 15.—For the second time in four years, the Pacific Mail Steamship company's liner, Mongolia, is aground in the Pacific. According to a dispatch received today by Lloyds from Yokahama, the big liner, with a full list of passengers, ran ashore at Shimizu, Japan. She plies across the Pacific from San Francisco.

Though the first dispatch was lacking in details, Lloyds officials understand that the passengers are not in grave danger.

The Mongolia is one of the largest vessels in the Pacific passenger trade. She was built in 1894 at Camden, N. J. Constructed of steel, she is 800 feet long, with a 65 foot beam. Her tonnage is 8,750.

Four years ago the Mongolia ran aground on Midway Island when she went out of her usual course to land an agent of a cable company.
