

THE RICHMOND PALLADIUM

AND SUN-TELEGRAM.

VOL. XXXV. NO. 251.

RICHMOND, IND., MONDAY EVENING, JULY 18, 1910.

SINGLE COPY, 2 CENTS.

AN AGED GERMAN
ROBBED AT DEPOT
BY DARING CROOK

Old Man Wrestles With Adversary and Calls for Help, But Spectators Could Not Understand Him.

THOUGHT THIEF WAS SUBDUING INSANE MAN

Crook Went Calmly About His Business and After Getting Roll Left Station and Then Vanished.

The night bell at Dr. Charles Marvel's office at midnight Saturday rang vigorously. "What is it?" inquired the division physician of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. "Old man, can't talk a word of English, down at the station and badly in need of medical attention," the doctor was informed.

When Dr. Marvel arrived at the station he was hurried into the men's waiting room and there he saw an aged German, wrestling about the room with a young man. The old man was, with his free hand, gesticulating wildly and shouting at the top of his lungs.

None of the group who witnessed the wrestling could tell what the aged man was saying, as none understood German.

Finally the young man subdued his aged antagonist and explained to the physician and the railroad men that the old German, whose name it was later learned was William Schultz, was intoxicated and had become so wild that he felt called upon to subdue him. "I understand a little German and I learn from what the old man has been saying that he has a son living here. If you will watch him I will go and telephone to his son."

The stranger then left the room and has never been seen since. After the young man's disappearance it was learned, through the aid of an interpreter, that the stranger had been robber of $234 by the stranger, who he had met at Cincinnati but whose name he did not know. Schultz came to Richmond via Dayton. It is presumed the crook came on the same train with him. Whether he robbed Schultz on the train or at the local station, during the wrestling bout, is not known.

The crook got every cent Schultz had on him but left a ticket for San Francisco. Schultz was cared for here until this morning, when he was sent to Chicago, from where he will be sent to San Francisco.

CATCH A FUGITIVE

(American News Service)
Camden, N. J., July 18.—J. Howard Lowery, the missing bank teller of Utica, New York, charged with embezzling $115,000, was captured here today by detectives employed by the American Bankers' Association. Lowery was betrayed by a woman who posed as his wife.

Vice-president Sherman is the first vice-president of the Utica National, which was robbed.

TRAIN IS WRECKED

(American News Service)
Hawesville, Ky., July 18.—Fireman John Reynolds was killed and passengers badly shaken up when a St. Louis flyer on the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis railroad was wrecked by a landslide near here at midnight.

HIBERNIANS ARE ANGRY AT SPEECH
MADE BY COLONEL

Think Roosevelt's Guild Hall Address Was an Insult to the Irish People and to Liberty Lovers.

PORTLAND CONVENTION IS NOW IN SESSION

President Cummings of the Ancient Hibernians Frankly States He Is Peeved Over T. R.'s Address.

(American News Service)
Portland, Oreg., July 18.—Unless all signs fail, delegates to the National convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will take pointed action on the speech made by Theodore Roosevelt in Guild Hall, London, in June. A conflict is in prospect as the more conservative delegates will oppose any official action at the convention, which opens tomorrow. The more radical delegates declare the speech an insult to the whole Irish race, and un-American as well.

Matthew Cummings of Boston, president of the Hibernians, is especially bitter in his denunciation of the ex-president. While President Cummings declares that Roosevelt's attitude is simply a personal matter with him and that he will take no steps to bring the subject before the convention, other delegates probably will do so. The Vatican incident is also the subject of no little comment among leaders of the Hibernians. Train loads of delegates are arriving today and it is understood tomorrow there will be 1,200 delegates here.

Repeats Criticism.
President Cummings' first criticism of the Roosevelt incident, was made recently at Lexington, Mass. In an interview given here Mr. Cummings said: "I have not changed my views a particle since I made that speech at the Lexington picnic. Ex-President Roosevelt misrepresented in his speech the American people, the lovers of liberty. This country has been the home of the oppressed of all lands and has always prided itself in being the champion and defender of weakened nations. It has always believed as President Lincoln, the American martyr of liberty believed, that no nation was good enough to govern another. The American people believed in government for the people, of the people and by the people. Roosevelt is for imperialism of the most brutal kind, because he has stated that ignorance and cruelty would be far better than the timid methods used by England for the government of the Egyptian people. His speech was offensive to the Irish people, as they have suffered for eight hundred years from the very cruelty and injustice he advocated. Ireland has been governed by fire and sword and the hangman's halter during all these years and in spite of England's tyranny and oppression the desire for freedom is still as great among the Irish people as it was when the English invader first landed on Irish soil. Roosevelt's speech put into practice would destroy the desire for freedom among all struggling nations."

BOY GETS LECTURE

Clayton Harris, a thirteen year old boy, was arrested for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk, but released by Mayor Zimmerman in city court. He was warned that if he appeared again a fine would be assessed.

A SETTLEMENT OF RAILWAY DISPUTE
IS NOW PROBABLE

Expect Compromises Will Be Reached at the Conference at Pittsburg and Philadelphia Today.

PREPARATIONS FOR A STRUGGLE CONTINUE

If Peace Efforts Fail, Both the Pennsylvania Company and Striking Employees Will Be Found Ready.

(American News Service)
Philadelphia, July 18.—The crucial conference of conductors and trainmen representatives and General Manager Meyers of the Pennsylvania railroad concluded at 1:30 o'clock today. It was stated that the situation had partially cleared, but another conference late this afternoon or tomorrow would be necessary. All indications now are that the crisis is past and there is little further danger of a strike on the Pennsylvania system.

Philadelphia, July 18.—The hope of a peaceable settlement of the dispute between the Pennsylvania railroad and its employees grew stronger hourly today, and the statement was made this morning that the opposing sides in the conference today would reach a compromise which would clear away the last difficulties. Similar action was predicted for the Pittsburg conference today. Nevertheless, the railroad went ahead with its preparations for a great struggle.

Company officials gave it out that the preparations for a fight had been so thorough that there would be no hitch in train service should the men walk out, non-union men having been recruited in several cities in the last few days.

The force of carpenters here and elsewhere that has been working night and main to house strike-breakers and guard property, continued their labors unabated.

Make No Concessions.
President W. G. Lee of the trainmen's organization declared this morning, however, when asked his plans, that the men would make no concessions.

Leading labor leaders today refused to comment on the report that locomotive engineers had determined to join in the strike movement.

This report has been gaining strength since the conference of G. M. Wilson, assistant president of the Brotherhood of Engineers, and Lee and President Garretson of the Conductors, last Friday.

Reports that Theodore Roosevelt had intervened to bring about peace between company and men received no confirmation here today and were not credited in view of the denial from Oyster Bay.

Reports that the employees would yield in their demands brought forth the following explanation of the men's demands from President Lee:

Explanation by Lee.
The freight conductors now working on runs for which a full day's pay is not given to be paid a minimum day's wages of at least $2.63, with overtime after 10 hours, or above 100 miles, of at least 3.6 cents a mile, or 36.3 cents an hour. Other employees to be paid in proportions, according to a so-called standard scale.

(b) Conductors now receiving $4.04 for 10 hours, or 100 miles, or less, to continue to receive this amount.

(c) Those now receiving $4.04 for a run of 11 hours, or 110 miles, to continue to receive $4.04, with overtime beginning at the end of such runs of 11 hours, or 110 miles.

(d) Conductors now receiving $4.40 and $4.80 for runs of 12 hours, or 120 miles, and 12 hours, or 130 miles, respectively, to continue to receive these amounts, with overtime after 13 and 12 hours respectively.

These figures directly contradict those given out by the company and especially those contained in the table issued over President McCreary's name in which the demands of the conductors running 12 hours are placed at $4.80 and those running 13 hours at $5.20.

Want no Reductions.
"We do not ask that these men's wages be increased, or that they be given the same amount of money for 10 hours work as they are now getting for 12 and 13 hours," said Mr. Lee, "but only that their wages shall not be reduced the few cents necessary to make them accord with those paid by other lines under the standard scale, when standard conditions are introduced. If the company is under any misunderstanding as to that, though I don't see how it can be, we are going to make ourselves clear. Our plan in all such adjustments as we are seeking here has been to make a list of expectations to the ten hour principle, to cover just such cases as these, where men were already getting."

(Continued on Page Six.)

Victim Of The London Murder Mystery

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

Mrs. H. H. Crippen (at top), known in America on the vaudeville stage as Belle Elmore, who was found murdered in her home in London. Her husband, Dr. H. H. Crippen is missing and it is believed that he murdered the woman. Below on the left is a picture of his first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Jane Bell Crippen, whose relatives are convinced that she did not die a natural death. The picture on the right is that of Mrs. R. H. Mills, half sister of the slain woman and Mrs. Fred Ginnett, watching the passengers of the Lusitania as they came down the gangway for the missing physician.

(Continued on Page Six.)

PROPER CARE OF COUNTY'S INSANE
DISCUSSED AGAIN

Members of the State Board of Charities Attend Meeting and Oppose the Proposed Jail Site.

ROBBINS IN ANSWER TO STATE SEC. BUTLER

Defends the Jail Site But Butler Insists that County Infirmary Is the Best Place—Gavisk Speaks.

At a joint meeting held today of the Wayne county commissioners, the Wayne county council, members of the state board of charities, the county board of charities and several well-known citizens, the question of the proper method of caring for the insane of Wayne county was under consideration and the debate that took place at times waxed warm, especially between Amos W. Butler of the state charity board and John F. Robbins, county attorney.

Secretary Butler of the state board maintained the position that experience in Indiana had shown conclusively to those men and women trained in the care of insane, that they should never be confined in jails or in institutions that are in any way connected with jails. The secretary declared that Wayne county would be taking a backward step as a recognized progressive county if it should proceed with the proposed plan to erect a detention hospital for the insane on the jail grounds.

Gavisk and Butler.
Father Gavisk of Indianapolis, a member of the state board of charities and considered one of the best informed men of the state on the question of the care of the insane, also spoke vigorously on the subject and like Secretary Butler held that the proposed detention hospital for Wayne county should be entirely distinct from the jail and divorced from the care of the sheriff.

Attorney Robbins, representing the county commissioners, made a talk that was as vigorous in defense of the Wayne county plan as the words of Secretary Butler and Father Gavisk were against it. Attorney Robbins declared that the real shame of the whole affair was that the general assembly of Indiana did not adequately provide for the care of the insane. In the meantime Attorney Robbins said Wayne county believed that by erecting a detention hospital on ground adjoining the jail, but to be made a separate and distinct institution, it would be fulfilling a duty that it owed to such unfortunate. The county attorney also maintained that only the dangerous insane should be cared for and that it would be a much better plan than to place the dangerous insane at the county poor farm, far away from the sheriff, who under the law was expected to protect those who might be in danger of harm from such unfortunate.

Trying to Solve Problem.
In conclusion Attorney Robbins said that Wayne county did not deserve to have its motives impugned; that it was trying to solve the problem the best that it could be solved under the circumstances and that it was an honest endeavor to keep the insane out of the jail.

Secretary Butler in reply said that it was admitted by all that it was the duty of the state to care for all the insane, but that when the state through any cause had failed to make the necessary appropriations for such, it was the duty of the counties to take up the matter and do the best that it could. The secretary said that he believed Wayne county's commissioners were trying to do what they deemed best in the situation, but he felt certain that they had misjudged the situation. He referred to the manner in which the insane in various other counties of the state are cared for at poor farms and he said the plan worked admirably and avoided altogether the possible stigma attached to being confined in a jail or an annex thereto. William Dudley Foulke and Timothy Nicholson spoke in favor of the state board's plan and Judge Fox in a short talk said he had always been and still was an advocate of maintaining an institution of the sort proposed on the jail ground, but keeping it a distinct and separate institution from the jail.

The council voted the additional appropriation of $3,000 for the proposed detention hospital, leaving it to the board to decide where it shall go or whether it shall be built at all. The council also voted $3,000 additional for the dining hall and boiler house construction at the poor farm and $1,000 for general repairs at the poor farm.

THE WEATHER.
STATE—Fair tonight and Tuesday.
LOCAL—Fair and continued cool to night and Tuesday.

HE WHIPPED A GIRL

Her Father Whipped Him and Mayor Says He Deserved More Blows.

THE CASE IS DISMISSED

After hearing the facts in the assault and battery case of Fremont Parker against E. Eadler, Mayor Zimmerman dismissed the case in city court this morning. The testimony showed Eadler had severely beaten Parker because Parker whipped Eadler's thirteen-year-old daughter, Ida May. She left the home of her father some time ago and went to live with Parker and his wife, who are relatives of Eadler. It was alleged Parker made indecent advances to her, insulted and finally whipped the child. Eadler pleaded guilty. Dr. Zimmerman in dismissing the case stated he would have steps taken to have the child placed in a home for her. He said had it been his daughter he would have whipped the man more severely than did Eadler.

Democracy's Handled A BROADSIDE BY MAYOR

Says If the Newspapers Had Enough Nerve They Would Tell How Last Administration Operated Affairs.

"Where is the money coming from to pay for the winter coal," is the question confronting the city administration. It was discussed at the board of works this morning and will be thrashed out by council tonight. $450 has been appropriated for coal and $369.50 worth of coal has already been contracted for, and this does not include the coal for Glen Miller park which is about 60 tons. $91.01 is now left in the appropriation for the coal of public buildings.

Mayor Zimmerman intimated at the meeting of the board this morning that something would be sprung at council meeting tonight, providing for the use of money which is in the city treasury and not appropriated. The mayor said he thought the administration could get through the year with this money without making temporary loans. Funds may be transferred from one department to another. Expenses are being cut in every department possible. The force of men employed at Glen Miller park will be cut down probably to three or four.

"We need the money," has been the motto of the present administration since taking office and will be until affairs become brighter financially.

Mayor Hands a Few.

The much abused democratic administration came in for its share of knocks this morning. "Web" Parry and the rest of them figured just to get out even," exclaimed the mayor.

CONGRESSMAN DEAD

(American News Service)
New Orleans, July 18.—Congressman Samuel L. Gilmore, who represented the Second Louisiana district, died suddenly this morning. Mr. Gilmore, who was born in New Orleans 51 years ago, was elected to congress in 1909 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of R. C. Davey. He was a brilliant lawyer.

WENT TO CUPBOARD

TO GET THE COIN BUT IT WAS BARE

CITY FINDS IT IS BADLY IN NEED of Coal for Next Winter, but Is Shy on the Necessary Wherewithal.

DEMOCRATS HANDED A BROADSIDE BY MAYOR

Says If the Newspapers Had Enough Nerve They Would Tell How Last Administration Operated Affairs.

"Where is the money coming from to pay for the winter coal," is the question confronting the city administration. It was discussed at the board of works this morning and will be thrashed out by council tonight. $450 has been appropriated for coal and $369.50 worth of coal has already been contracted for, and this does not include the coal for Glen Miller park which is about 60 tons. $91.01 is now left in the appropriation for the coal of public buildings.

Mayor Zimmerman intimated at the meeting of the board this morning that something would be sprung at council meeting tonight, providing for the use of money which is in the city treasury and not appropriated. The mayor said he thought the administration could get through the year with this money without making temporary loans. Funds may be transferred from one department to another. Expenses are being cut in every department possible. The force of men employed at Glen Miller park will be cut down probably to three or four.

"We need the money," has been the motto of the present administration since taking office and will be until affairs become brighter financially.

Mayor Hands a Few.

The much abused democratic administration came in for its share of knocks this morning. "Web" Parry and the rest of them figured just to get out even," exclaimed the mayor.

CONGRESSMAN DEAD

(American News Service)
New Orleans, July 18.—Congressman Samuel L. Gilmore, who represented the Second Louisiana district, died suddenly this morning. Mr. Gilmore, who was born in New Orleans 51 years ago, was elected to congress in 1909 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of R. C. Davey. He was a brilliant lawyer.

MAJ. FINNEY DEAD

Veteran of Civil War and Former Local Man Dies in California.

HE WILL BE BURIED HERE

Maj. J. J. Finney, a veteran of the Civil war and for many years one of the best known residents of Richmond, died on Friday at the home of a daughter in Fresno, California, where he has been making his home for the past two years. Previous to that time he held a government position in Washington.

Maj. Finney was over eighty years old. At the start of the war, he enlisted in the 69th Indiana regiment, and for meritorious service later received the commission of major. He served throughout the war and received one serious wound. Returning to Richmond, he engaged in business here until going to Washington.

Mrs. William H. Campbell, of East Main street, one of his daughters, went to California recently to visit her father. The other members of the family are Mrs. J. Everett Jones, of Denver, Colorado, formerly of this city and Mrs. McWill, of Fresno. The body will be brought here for burial early next week.

Palladium's Daily
Average Circulation

For Week Ending July 16, 1910.
(Except Saturday)

This includes all our Regular Complimentary Lists

AVERAGE CITY CIRCULATION

3,373

TOTAL DAILY AVERAGE

For the Same Week Except Saturday—Six Days

5,852

Our books are always open for inspection. We have the most complete and accurate circulation accounting system in this part of the country.

We invite investigation.

★
WHAT DO YOU WEAR?

Just run over your wardrobe from head to foot. Unless you belong to that lucky state of society which is found in the remote parts of the world where clothes are for the most part tattooing you will need something to put on.

Also just run over this paper tonight and notice the prices of the clearance sales of at least eight merchants.

What do you wear anyway?

Well these merchants have every conceivable thing at every conceivable price.

There are sales and sales. The Fire Sale is so Shopworn that never again will it do service even for a joke.

But a Clearance Sale is an honest one on the face of it. The merchant frankly says: "I have to get rid of my goods. Sound business judgment compels me to clear out my stuff so that I can buy more. For the profit of merchandising is to keep the goods moving."

By that token know the man who knows his business and the sort of a merchant who is worth dealing with. He has good stuff. When the season closes he has broken lots of first class things.

Naturally he must have a sale—a housecleaning—and his customers profit.

Clearance Sales have come early this year. That is another reason why with the summer not yet half over you can with reason look over the advertising and ask yourself, "What do I wear?"

5,852