FOR GUESTS.

In honor of Miss Emily Truesdale and Miss Cornelia Barlow, of Kokomo, Miss Ruth Marlett entertained in a most delightful manner this afternoon at her home in North Ninth street.

The function was in the nature of a thimble party. The house was beautifully decorated with snapdragons, nasturtiums, ferns and smilax. The dining room where a two course lunch was served late in the afternoon, was embellished in an especially attractive manner. The decorative motif being carried out in the menu. A bowl of the nasturtiums formed a center piece for the table. The afternoon was spent in a pleasant social manner and with needlework. The hostess was assisted in serving by little Miss Helen Eggenmeyer and Master William Eggenmeyer. Miss Eggenmeyer wore a pretty summer frock. The invited guests were Miss Mable Hasemeier, Miss Dorothy Bates, Miss Helen Jameson, Miss Louise Malsby, Miss Helen Nicholson, Miss Genevieve Newlin, Misses Mable and Mildred Kuhn, Miss Pearl Haner, Miss Grace Woodyard, Miss Vivian King, Miss Pearl Guernsey, Miss Ruth Peltz, Miss Elaine Jones, Miss Emerald Hasecoeter and Miss Blanch Griffin. This was one of the most enjoyable events of the day's social schedule.

IS OF INTEREST.

The following dispatch from Bay View, is of interest here:

With the Summer University opening Monday and the twenty-first annual Bay View Assembly less than a week off, Indians are pouring into Bay View by the hundreds. The Summer University will continue five weeks and the chautauqua, which opens next Thursday, will hold forth three. Many Indiana teachers are here for special work at the university and teachers and others will attend the chautauqua at which Mmes. Schumann-Heink, Edmund Vance Cooke, Ernest Thompson Seton, Senator Burrows and possibly former Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot will appear.

Dr. Charles Marvel of Richmond, has installed his family in their cottage and Mr. and Mrs. John Smyser with their children John and Lucy, have arrived from Richmond to pass the summer at their pretty cottage on Reed avenue.

A PRETTY HAT.

A pretty hat seen the other day was so simple the amateur milliner might safely attempt it. The hat itself was of black lace, covering a wire frame, the brim bound with black velvet. The only trimming was a large bow set on squarely in the front. It was formed of two large ends of the crossover. The foundation was of crinoline, wired and bound with the velvet, then completely covered with glorious yellow and purple velvet panneses sewed flat. The effect was beautiful and the idea original.

ENTERTAINED GUESTS.

Miss Nellie Morrow entertained several guests to dinner Sunday at her home, near Chester.

A RECENT GUEST HERE.

Miss Maud Henderson of Franklia, returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Tucker.

MEETS TUESDAY.

Mrs. J. N. Hodgins will be hostess for a meeting of the East End Aid society of the First Christian church Tuesday afternoon. A program of readings and musical selections will be a feature of the afternoon.

RECENT GUESTS HERE.

The following is of local interest, as members of the party were recent guests here:

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Ansted left for St. Joseph, Mich., in their auto Thursday, accompanied by Miss Dorsey of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. McFarlan—Connersville News.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

A portion of the Washington letter to the Indianapolis Sunday Star is as follows:

Mrs. William F. Dennis of Kentucky president of the Southern Relief society of Washington, famous for her costumes and her kindly cordiality, is before the Patent Office now with the model of an invention of her very own, a handy trunk to hold one's pretty things for a week-end visit, without musing one's husband's high hat and evening togs, in case one decides to take one's legs along as well. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis have bought a handsome residence adjoining the vice presidential mansion on Sixteenth street.

TO NEW YORK.

Mr. and Mrs. John Collins, with Miss Alice and Miss Anna Harrington have gone to New York for a ten days' outing.

The King Snake.

To the rattlesnake and to every other dangerous snake, large or small, the king snake is a terror. The poison of a rattler has no more effect on him than so much moonshine. Instinctively the rattler knows his match and 'at sight of a king snake tries to escape if possible. In fight the king snake relies wholly upon his incredible speed. If the movements of an ordinary snake seem quick to the human eye, the movements of a king snake would seem instantaneous. In a twinkling the long, lank fellow has wound himself about the throat of an antagonist and, his sinewy coils closing about the other's throat, chokes the wind out of him.
