

CHARLEY WHITE IS WARM FOR JOHNSON

Says the Black Man Will Be the Champion for Many Years to Come.

WANTS JEFF TO EXPLAIN

AUSTRALIAN PROMOTER HAS A DARK HORSE, A WHITE MAN, WHO HE WOULD PIT AGAINST THE YANKEE BLACK.

(American News Service)
New York, July 19.—Charley White who was the alternative referee in the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno, arrived in New York today with the prediction that Jack Johnson will be heavy-weight champion of the world for years to come.

"Jeffries should have fought half a dozen mills before tackling him," said White. "The white man ought to give the public an explanation of his failure."

"Johnson is one of the greatest fighters we've ever had and his defense is the best of them all. He has as good a smash in one hand as the other. He's a marvel, and if his skin were white, the public would accord him the title of the greatest heavy-weight that ever donned a glove."

White declared, when told of the dark horse Hugh D. McIntosh of Australia promises to bring out against Johnson: "I'd want to know who he is before commenting."

The general impression is that the unknown whom the Australian picks to redeem the white man's supremacy, and for whose training he has contracted with Jim Corbett, is Bill Lang, heavyweight champion of Australia.

Though the report that the Australian is the man selected is persistent, supporters point out that it took him 20 rounds last fall to get the Australian title from Bill Squires, who lost his first fight to Tommy Burns in the first round, in San Francisco, three years ago.

"I won't say who he is," answered McIntosh when questioned today, "but I've got a man who will be a world beater."

BRONSON WILL BOX

Indiana Champion Arranges to Meet Kid Dalton in Richmond Soon.

IS A RIVAL OF AD WOLGAST

Local boxing devotees as well as boxing followers from all over Indiana will have the opportunity of seeing in action Ray Bronson, Indiana's premier lightweight in this city, July 26, the date set for an 8 round contest between the Hoosier champion and Guy (Kid) Dalton, the Italian welterweight champion boxer of the middle west, who several days ago made such a good impression with local boxing fans when he boxed ten rounds to a draw with Howard Wiggam in this city. Dalton surprised Wiggam's most ardent admirers by his cleverness against his heavier opponent. The forthcoming bout between Bronson and Dalton will no doubt prove to be one of the best of the kind in this city and boxing followers will get a line on the Indianapolis lightweight who is touted by some of the best fight critics in the country as the next wearer of the lightweight crown. Bronson has practically been matched to meet Ad Wolgast for the lightweight championship of the world next month, and it is the general opinion of those who have witnessed the pair in real battles that Bronson is the champion's master and he will dethrone the conqueror of Battling Nelson. Bronson is kept at work all the time, always boxing, training and fighting, husbanding strength, hardening muscle, improving wind and speed and preparing himself for his matches with Wolgast, Dalton and Joe Hirst. Bronson will meet Hirst at Memphis on August 1.

NO FILMS IN "CHI"

Chicago, July 19.—That the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight pictures may not be shown in Chicago was evidenced by the refusal of the Chicago police to issue permits to several theaters for the exhibition of the films. Chief Steward, who has gone away on a vacation, issued orders before leaving to the effect that no permits should be issued during his absence. Imitation pictures are being exhibited with the brutality of the fight taken out, but every effort to produce the real films will be met with resistance from the police.

"Stories of the Diamond"

No. XV.
By TY COBB.
(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

To what do I owe my success as a ball player? There are two answers to this question. The first is that I am heart and soul in the game and, second, because I am always trying to improve on my playing. I am always practicing, and, you know, practice makes perfect. Take, for instance, when I have a batting slump. I don't worry about it. I just get out in the mornings at the ball park and practice hitting against all kinds of twirling. I like to stand up to the plate and whale away at every old kind of pitching. Some of the boys are easy to hit, while others are not. It all helps me to recover my batting eye.

Southpaw pitchers gave me considerable trouble at one time, but that was before I entered the big league. They never ever bother me nowadays. Just watch me at the plate and you'll learn the reason in a minute. Against a right handed twirler I crowd the rubber and step into a curve before it breaks. Against a southpaw I drop back as far as possible and wait for the curve to break. Getting down to figures, I should say that I stand four feet closer to a right handed pitcher than I do to a left hander.

My greatest delight is to tickle the pill with runners on the bases. You may not believe me, but nevertheless it's true, I find it easier to hit the ball with the sacks occupied. The pitcher is worried, the infielders are guessing, and when you do hit the ball the flying base runners rattle and disconcert the men who are trying to handle the ball.

When men are on bases I generally lay for the first ball the twirler hands over. It's dollars to doughnuts that if he can lay that first one straight over the pan he'll do it, and I soak quite a few of them. The majority of batters will pass up the first ball, no matter if it cuts the plate in half. But you'll never get Ty Cobb overlooking any of that kind. Nine times out of ten I go to the plate prepared to hit the first ball if the pitcher lays it over.

I never take a long swing at the sphere any more. I like to do it, but you can't get anything in the major leagues swinging the willow. If you do the spittin' pitchers would make a dunce of you in short order, to say nothing of the slabbists who have mastered a good change of pace. They'll shoot one over that looks like a per, then feed you a slow one that comes floating up as big as a balloon. But you are set for the fast one and nearly break your back reaching for the slow ball.

In the old days the great batters were Pete Browning, Ed Delahanty, Dan Brouthers and Pop Anson, who swung on to a ball with the force of a hammer. Were any of them in the big leagues today the modern twirlers would make 'em look like jokes.

You cannot grab a wagon tongue down at the handle, reach back and swing halfway around for a curve pitcher. He'd make you look foolish, and you wouldn't have enough batting average at the end of the month to get your name in the percentage column. The star batters of today grab their batting sticks a foot or more from the handle and, instead of swinging, aim to meet the ball first. Nothing suits me better than to take a good crack at the leather, but I can't afford to get out of my stride, so I stick to the sure system of just meeting the ball with a halfway grip on my warhorse.

Charlie Hasty, the little man, who portrays the "Hoosier Boy" has a characterization that clearly represents the good natured country boy (not a Silly Billy), the embodiment of good nature and infectious humor. He is certainly a hit. Wagner and Gray are presenting a sketch "Domestic Trouble." Lola Milton as "The Girl" is good. This act closes with a clever musical turn. Tom Linton and his Cannibal Maids present the tropical oddity, a condensed comedy, "The Up-to-date Missionary." Special scenery, changes of costume help to make this an entertaining novelty. The motion pictures, "The Eternal Triangle" is full of life, a brand new film, clear and distinct.

CONSTERNATION ON TAP IN THE COURT

When Prosecuting Witness in An Assault Case Was Among Missing.

PROSECUTOR IS NERVOUS

AND HIS ASSISTANT, R. K. SHIVELEY ACCUSED ATTY. RELLER OF HAVING SPIRITED THE YOUNG NEGRESS AWAY.

Consternation bubbled in the breast of Prosecuting Attorney Ladd this morning and during his nervous highland fling in the arena before Judge Fox it became known that the prosecuting witness in the Drudy assault and battery with intent to commit a criminal assault, was missing. The eleven-year-old colored girl who charged a white man could not be located.

Attorney Ray Shiveley, Ladd's legal attache, in a lurid combination of words accused Attorney Will Reller, for the defense, of having spirited the sun-burned little witness to parts to be later discovered by Sheriff Meredith.

Because of pressing legal business in Dublin, Judge Fox refused to wait until noon for the appearance of the tardy witness and postponed the case to Thursday morning. State's Attorney Ladd immediately began re-issuing subpoenas for his witnesses.

Thomas Drudy, the father of a married daughter and one son, who has been employed by August Turner, contractor, is alleged to have lured Edith V. Burden, 11, colored, to his home with an ice cream cone sometime during Sunday, June 26. While in the home it is charged, the man insolently touched the person of the negress.

JUNKET TO DAYTON

Mayor W. W. Zimmerman, City Controller E. G. McMahan and City Attorney A. M. Gardner went to Dayton this afternoon to examine the system used there in applying the vehicle tax. The Richmond ordinance, which will go into effect September 1, was constructed after that of Dayton. City Controller McMahan has been writing to several cities regarding the application of the tax and has a number of excellent ideas at hand. Cincinnati and Indianapolis have sent license tags and blanks which are approved by Mr. McMahan. The board of works will soon decide the system to be used for the Richmond ordinance.
