

United States Church Census Is of the Greatest Interest

The aggregate number of 32,935,445 communicants or members of all religious denominations in continental United States was reported for 1906, according to the United States census of religious bodies for the same year as detailed in Part I, of the United States census bureau's special report on the subject, now in press. Of this grand total the various Protestant bodies reported 20,287,742 and the Catholic church 12,679,142.

For purpose of comparison the census authorities divided the principal cities into four classes, those having in 1900 a population of 300,000 and over, constituting the first class, those of from 100,000 to 300,000 forming the second, those of from 50,000 to 100,000 making the third and those from 25,000 to 50,000 forming the fourth class.

Of the Protestant aggregate there were 1,487,145, of 7.3 per cent in the first class cities, 4.7 per cent in the second class and 7.4 per cent in the third and fourth classes combined, while 80.6 per cent were outside the principal cities.

Of the Catholic churches total membership there were 3,375,453 or 27.9 per cent in the first class cities, 1,361,132, or 11.3 per cent; in the second 1,570,944, or 13 per cent; in the third and fourth classes combined, with 5,771,613, or 47.8 per cent outside the principal cities.

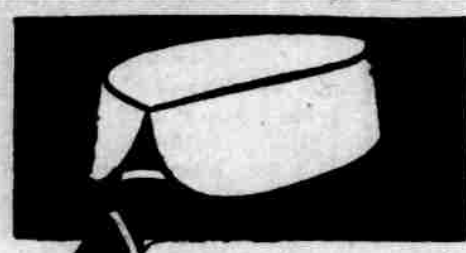

Only two of the Protestant bodies reported a majority of their membership in the principal cities—i. e., the Church of Christ Scientist, 82.6 per cent, and the Protestant Episcopal church 61.2 per cent, while of the membership of the Jewish congregations 88.7 per cent are in the principal cities and of the Eastern orthodox churches 70.7 per cent.

Of the total number of communicants or members reported for the principal cities by all denominations 6,307,529 or 60 per cent belonged to the Catholic church, and 3,935,341 or 37.4 per cent to Protestant bodies.

Comparison with the report for 1890 shows that in general there has been an increase in the proportion of communicants or members in the principal cities as compared with those outside of these cities. 1906 the percentage of the total number of communicants in these cities for all denominations was 31.9, as compared with 25.7 in 1890.

In 13 of the cities more than one half of the communicants or members reported belonged to Protestant bodies while in 23 the majority belonged to the Catholic church.

The cities showing the largest proportion of Protestant communicants are: Memphis, 84.4 per cent; Toledo, 70 per cent; Washington 68.9 per cent; Kansas City, Mo., 66.2 per cent, and Indianapolis 62.1 per cent.

The cities showing the largest percentages of Catholic communicants are: Fall River, 86.5 per cent; San Francisco, 81.1 per cent; New Orleans, 79.7 per cent; Providence, 76.5 per cent; St. Louis, 69 per cent; Boston 68.7 per cent; Chicago, 68.2 per cent, and Philadelphia 61.8 per cent.

In the five leading cities the proportion of communicants to population was New York, 44.7 per cent; Chicago, 40.7 per cent; Philadelphia, 38.8 per cent; Boston 32.9, and St. Louis 46.6 per cent. It is stated that in general, cities which have a relatively large Catholic population show a higher percentage of church members than cities in which this body has a comparatively small representation. In Fall River 86.5 per cent of the total number of members reported were Catholics, and the church membership represented 67.8 per cent of the population, while in Memphis, where 84.4 per cent of the communicants reported belonged to Protestant bodies, the church membership was only 30 per cent of the population.

There were 4,082,039 or 32 per cent, more female than male members in the continental United States in 1906, while in the principal cities the excess of female members was proportionately less, being 980,536, or 23.5 per cent. Comparing the different classes of cities it appears that in those of the first class the excess of female over male members was only 18 per cent; in the second class, 28.9 per cent; in the third class 31.1 per cent, and outside of these cities, 35.9 per cent. It is stated that the greater proportion of males in the principal cities is largely due to the greater proportionate strength of the Catholic church in these cities.

At Local Theaters

At the Murray.
This week is proving a popular one at the Murray as the bill promises plenty of comedy, the kind of a bill which helps everyone to forget his troubles, get real rest while attending. Be sure to witness this big bill. Charlie Hasty in his characterization of the Hoosier Boy portrays one of those clean, bright, good natured country boys not a Silly Billy the embodiment of good nature and infectious humor. Tom Linton's Cannibal Maids present a tropical oddity, "An Up-to-date Missionary" which because of its uniqueness is a hit. Wagner and Gray in a comedy sketch. The Lola Milton Co. introduce "That Girl," in a charming manner. The motion pictures "The Eternal Triangle" make up another strong feature of the bill.

Dainty Mae La Porte.
Dainty Mae La Porte, who is this season at the head of her own company will be the attraction at the Gennett for one week starting Monday July 25, when she will appear as Doris Caruthers, in one of her most successful plays "One Girl in a Thousand." Miss La Porte is well known in this city and well liked by the theatergoers as one of the sweetest and daintiest little soubrettes that ever appears on the local stage and her return will be welcomed by her many admirers. In her company this season are such well known people as Nell Hickey, Edgar McVeigh, Dell Sherrod, Sam La Porte, Billy Craig, Joe McEnroe, Geo. Brown, Jesse Gildermester, Addie Caldwell and several others. In "One Girl in a Thousand"

Hay Fever time is coming; be prepared and do not suffer this year. Use VAPOROL No. 7 Special and get relief. Positive results and is absolutely harmless. Serial No. 2626. Write for circular. Sold and guaranteed by Leo H. Fihe, Richmond, Ind.

Mr. Nell Hickey, will be seen at his best as Warren Thorpe, and Edgar McVeigh will have the best part he has ever played as Wash Caruthers.
