

BRONSON'S DEBUT HERE A SUCCESS

Clever Lightweight Shows His Skill to a Large Coliseum Crowd.

HE PLAYED WITH DALTON

EIGHT ROUNDS THE TWO FOUGHT WERE INTERESTING AND EXCITING—TWO NEGROES PUT ON FARCE COMEDY.

Ray Bronson, an aspirant for the world's light weight title, made his debut in Richmond boxing circles last night at the Coliseum when he easily outpointed "Kid" Dalton in an eight round go. Dalton put a fair exhibition of guarding and fought gamely but was unable to touch his fast opponent. Several times he slipped to the floor after being hit by Bronson. The light weight chased him around the ring during the whole eight rounds for Dalton refused to stand up and fight. Bronson's lightning upper cuts and "horse shoe" blows after clinches seemed his strong play. He landed telling blows on Dalton's kidneys and wind while infighting.

In the scheduled eight round go between "Double-Barrel," of Richmond and "Muskie" Watkins, who claims to be from Chicago but who, it is said, is from North Fourteenth street, Watkins dropped to the floor and took the count after a round and a half of very tame fighting. Both were hissed continually during the match. "Billy" Smith and "Jerry" Dalton pasted each other freely for two rounds when Smith threw up the sponge. His nose was nicely flattened and streaming with blood and he got one in the solar plexus which took all the "pop" out of him. Dalton fought fast but received a terrific punch in the eye which closed that member.

GHOULS ROB GRAVE

Disinter Body of Ex-Mayor of Evansville and Take All the Jewels.

DOGS SOUNDED THE ALARM

(American News Service)
Evansville, July 27.—An investigation following the suspicious barking of dogs in the neighborhood of the Jewish cemetery led to a discovery today that ghouls had robbed the grave of Mayor Levy, taking all the jewels and jewelry buried with him. Other graves appeared to have been disturbed and further investigations are to be made.

END OF "TROUBLE"

"Trouble" was deliberately murdered this morning when an unknown motor struck him, breaking his back. The machine, declared to be traveling at a high rate of speed hit the dog at Tenth and Main street and shot through the city.
"Trouble" is the bull dog owned by A. C. Disher, son-in-law of Mr. Brown who owns the Westcott hotel property. The canine was valued at $100.

TWO GOLF MATCHES

On the afternoon of July 30th the two silver cups offered by Lee B. Nussbaum will be played for at the Country club, followed by a supper at which the cups will be presented, and to which all golfers are urged to remain.

The play will be match play against bogie—18 holes.

The player turning in the best score against bogie will receive the first cup and the second best score will receive the second.

On the afternoon of August 6th play will start for the prizes offered by W. J. Austin, of Pasadena, Cal.

These are two of the handsomest prizes ever offered to the club and consist of a fine brass smoking set and a copper tankard, which are now on exhibition in the window of Jenkins & Co. The play will be handicap match play.

The Greens committee is anxious that the players show their appreciation of these gifts by entering these tournaments and urge that all who can, do so.
The handicap has been arranged to give each player an equal chance.

A CHOLERA REPORT

Veterinary surgeons of Richmond say there is an unusual amount of cholera prevailing among horses of Wayne county now. The reason is said to be the present hot weather and change from old to fresh feed. It is more serious this year than in a number of past years. Not many deaths have been reported.

LOCAL WOMAN DEAD

A telegram was received here today telling of the death of Mrs. A. W. Hempleman at Woonsocket, Rhode Island, today at noon. Death occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edna Park, whom Mrs. Hempleman had been visiting. She was very prominent in the Eastern Star of Richmond. The funeral will take place Friday in Rhode Island. The deceased's home was at 1219 Main street.

ARRESTED AT GLEN

Drunks at Glen Miller park are increasing daily, according to Park Superintendent Ed Hollern. Yesterday afternoon a man and woman were arrested much the worse for drink. Both were strangers in town, John Beck and Catherine Tremont. Beck took his arrest without dispute but the Tremont woman sat in the Main street entrance to the park and refused to move until pried from her position by patrolmen. They were given $1 and costs each in police court this morning.

CASE IS REOPENED

Refreshed papers in the fraudulent marriage case of Jessie Shallenburg vs. John Shallenburg were filed this morning by Prosecutor Ladd. The case when called to trial once before was dismissed. The woman declares that when she had started proceeding for care of her child against John he married her to escape prosecution in Judge Abbott's court. She charges that Shallenburg since the marriage has refused to live or cohabit with her. The case, according to Ladd will come to trial before fall.

Wanted—3 men at Bullerick's coal yard.

NO NATURAL GAS HERE AFTER THE 1ST. SEPTEMBER

Statement Made by C. W. Hooven of Anderson, Ind., Who Today Purchased the Stock of Local Company.

HOOVEN REFUSES TO ANNOUNCE HIS PLANS

Disposition of Pipe Lines and Plant of Local Concern Not Disclosed—A Statement Is Expected Soon.

After September 1, Richmond will not be furnished with natural gas. This statement was made today by C. W. Hooven of Anderson, Ind., who purchased the property of the Richmond Natural Gas company at public sale this morning.

Mr. Hooven was president of the company which bought the stock of the company for a consideration of $210,000 in June. This company bought the stock for the purpose of piping West Virginia gas here and to a number of other Indiana cities. It was announced the West Virginia proposition had fallen through. In a statement made by Mr. Hooven this afternoon he said the Richmond Gas company had been a heavy loser during the past year and that many patrons had put artificial gas into their houses to take the place of natural gas.

What he intends to do with the pipe lines and other property of the company in Richmond Mr. Hooven refuses to say.

Refuses to Answer.
When asked if artificial gas would be put into the pipes Mr. Hooven only smiled, and said, "Oh, I can't say as to that." "Will you turn the property over to the Light, Heat and Power company?" was asked Mr. Hooven, but he refused to make a statement. He said he had large gas company holdings in southern Indiana and parts of Ohio, but he declared the Richmond equipment would be of no value to him in connection with the other lines. He, however, intimated that he had a definite purpose in taking over the holdings of the local company and that he would be ready to make a statement in a few days.

The meeting in which the sale of the company's holdings was effected was held at the local office of the Richmond company on North Eighth street at 11 o'clock this morning. The members of the company which bought the stock of the old company were present including Henry C. Starr, of Chicago, James P. and W. W. Goodrich and Calvin Diggs, of Winchester and C. W. Hooven of Anderson.

It was recently reported that Richmond, Anderson, Winchester, New Castle, Muncie, Elwood and Rushville were to be supplied with West Virginia gas. As members of the company purchasing the plant in June had considerable holdings in Indiana gas lines and equipment, a monopoly would have been effected if the West Virginia gas proposition had gone through.

No Reason Assigned.
Mr. Hooven would not state why the West Virginia gas could not be brought to Indiana. It is understood, however, that members of the company decided that it might fail at any time and therefore it would be too risky a proposition. It would have required an investment of a large sum of money.

In addition to property in Richmond the Richmond Natural Gas company had a number of pipe lines which extended near New Castle and New Lisbon, and also Chesterfield, near Anderson. These two fields re-connected with a number of Indiana cities and it was stated it would be an easy matter to force gas through these mains and supply all large cities of Eastern Indiana. When asked if consideration was given of forcing artificial gas to cities of the section of the state from a large central power house, Mr. Hooven again only smiled and shook his head.

The old company was capitalized at $600,000 and stock was sold to the new company at 35 cents on the dollar. The property also includes eighty acres of land near New Castle, and gas wells in Henry County besides a pumping station in West Richmond.

DEATHWATCH BEETLES.

Their Tapping Stands For Courtship and Not For Warning.

Much mental anguish could have been saved to past generations and some not so very far past if people had known that the mysterious tapping of the "deathwatch" stood for courtship and not death. A writer in the Scientific American explains that the various species of the beetle anobium and their larger relatives of the genus xestobium not only attack furniture, but so completely riddle the whole woodwork of old houses by their borings as to render the structures unsafe. Indeed, a beam that has been tenanted by these insects for a number of years is little better than an outer shell containing a mass of wood dust. The xestobium is the common deathwatch, while the anobium also is in the habit of making a tapping sound.

The nocturnal tapping of these insects distinctly audible in a room where there is an otherwise complete absence of noise, has for many centuries been regarded by the superstitious as a warning of the approach of death. This unmanly interpretation of a mysterious sound is scarcely surprising when it is remembered that only in recent years have naturalists discovered its true cause.

The little beetle has been found in some secluded spot, jerking its head at regular intervals upon the surface of the wood beneath it. So far as can be told, its rattlings constitute a kind of courtship ritual. Obviously they have no connection with the latter end of mankind.

A RAIN OF FIRE.

The Great Meteoric Shower That Scared Folks in 1833.

In Schaff's "Chronicles of Baltimore" there is a vivid description of the starry halcyon, the fiery meteoric shower of 1833, and old files of newspapers are made luminous at that date with the impressions of editors and contributors. One writer said it was the grandest and most charming sight ever presented to the vision of man. Awakened from sleep, he sprang to the window, thinking the house was on fire but when he looked out he beheld stars, or fiery bodies, descending like "torrents." The shed "in the adjoining yard to my own," he wrote, "was covered with stars, as I supposed, during the whole time." Professor Olmstead of Yale college thought that the exhibition was the finest display of celestial fireworks that had been witnessed since the creation of the world although he, too, while knowing its character, was sufficiently imbued with the theological spirit of the time to believe that it was a solemn portent that carried a divine warning.

One editor whose comment upon this phenomenon was probably more quoted than any other he ever made said: "We pronounce the raining fire which we saw on Wednesday morning an awful type, a forerunner, a merciful sign, of that great and dreadful day which the inhabitants of the earth will witness when the sixth seal will be opened. Many things occurring in the earth tend to convince us that we are now in the latter days."

WE'RE PEGGING AWAY

at our big task of remodeling, moving stocks, improving appearances and making over and we hope within a short time to announce the completion and entire readiness of the new Hoosier Store.

We'll have four times as much floor space and even now goods of every description are pouring in for every department.

Several surprises are in store for our customers and that they will be agreeable is certain. The one big feature of the Hoosier will still be the predominating factor in the business—that of selling for spot cash—that's the way we buy and we know we can buy cheaper and we're going to continue to sell FOR CASH AND FOR LESS.

All summer goods are going at reduced prices to make room for the loads of new lines arriving daily.

ALASKAN WINTER HAD NO TERRORS

Its Rigors Braved by the Nervy Enumerators of the Census Dept.

BLIZZARDS WERE FIERCE

AND THE SNOW FELL TO THE DEPTH OF TWENTY FEET WHILE THE SEVENTY BELOW ZERO MARK WAS HIT.

Washington, July 27.—Temperature from 30 to 70 degrees below zero. Snow from three to twenty feet deep. Wind blowing a blizzard most of the time. No human habitation in sight; no covering at night except a tent, and no "grub" that was not many times frozen. These are some of the conditions under which the recent census was taken in the interior of Alaska. The report of Chief Special Agent McKenzie covering the work in the fourth or inland district of the territory has just been received by Director Durand, and while the story is simply told it is a wonderful thrilling narrative of adventure, showing that when Uncle Sam starts out to round up his children he spares no expense to locate them and satisfy himself as to their status.

Mr. McKenzie's narrative, made public tonight, comes in advance of his figures, so that it is impossible to give the population of the country covered by him and his 20 assistants. For reasons of its own the census bureau determined to number the Alaskans during midwinter. Mr. McKenzie made his headquarters at the mining town of Fairbanks. His first special agent was appointed on the 10th of last November and the work was completed by the 11th of last April, when McKenzie left for "the states." His experience in getting out of the country was by no means as thrilling as some of his experiences while engaged in the work, but it was stirring enough to arouse interest in a warm spell. Of it he says:

"I came out on the mail coach, arriving at Valdez on the 20th, after a varied experience, consisting of being delayed two days by a blizzard, crossing rushing streams even when the horses had to swim and the sleds afloat, and traveling day and night with the thermometer often as low as 40 below zero."

Getting About Is Easier.
The bureau's principal reason for a winter census is found in the fact that getting about the country is much easier then than any other season. There are no bridges in the country, and as crossing the streams when not frozen over is a perilous problem, Mr. McKenzie says that to take the enumeration in the summer would have required the services of four times as many assistants, while the cost would have been six times as great. He also expressed doubt as to whether the result would have been as satisfactory. As it is, he is of the opinion that it is "accurate and complete."

Much hardship was necessarily involved in the work. Only men insured to the rigor of the Arctic climate were employed, and, while they suffered severely, none of them lost their lives. Summing up the conditions, Mr. McKenzie says:

"The work was performed during the severest winter known in this part of Alaska by the oldest settlers, and the men kept constantly and conscientiously at it until completed. There did not appear to be a man who did not have a pride in the work, an anxiety to create a record for traveling time, a desire to enumerate all the people in his district and to have to his credit less loss of time because of extreme weather than any of the other agents. That the service lost none of the men from freezing to death, and that every man returned safe, is a matter of congratulation and good fortune. There were more deaths from the weather in this section during the past winter than in all of the other years in total—cases, too, in which those who met such deaths did not begin to go through the sacrifice and privation that those agents of the service did. All of the men covered hundreds of miles over the ice and snow in weather ranging from 30 to 70 degrees below zero, the average being about 40 below."
