Criminals Have Very Unique Language, Local Officer Says

That the ways of the police of the various cities are mysterious and beyond the ability of the average citizen to fathom is a recognized fact. That many terms are used by the various officers which probably have no meaning to any but themselves is another fact. The average person can realize but vaguely of the catalogue of words used and their meaning.

For instance when an officer says to his superior: "He started as a heeler, the tool or wire in a gun mob then worked a dodge for several months. He was next heard of as a stick-up man, but soon was a notorious peckerman." His next job was as a pennyweighter, after which he turned on expert yegman and prowled a number of jugs.

And again a crook is heard to say: "The fly mugs with the stools chased him practically into the arms of the Dicks and he was forced to work a flop to get the dough. He then did the guy until he caught a big rattler. A flatter with a reader finally got his hooks on him and it was all up."

To those familiar with the terms used in police life and among criminals the above gives an idea of the various things the criminal did and what finally happened to him. Out side of the inner police and detective circles some of the phrases are seldom heard, and only the older men have a large vocabulary of such expressions, as they change rapidly. Many used a few years ago are heard less frequently now.

In ordinary English the man in question started his criminal career as a sneak thief and the man who took money from a person's pocket while his confederates jostled the victim. He then worked the old scheme of borrowing a sum of money and putting up a check for several times the amount, saying he wished the cash for a few minutes only leaving his victim by going up one stairway and then down another into another street. The check, of course was worthless. He became a holdup artist and later engaged in safe blowing.

His next venture was going into a jewelry store and substituting an imitation diamond while the clerk watched him. He then returned to safe-blowing, but now as an expert, and succeeded in making successful hauls in several banks. A patrolman chased him after one robbery practically into the arms of the detectives, but he escaped. In need of funds he went into store and worked the old game of asking for a bill to put into a letter, tendering several pieces of money for it. When counted the money was found to amount to less than the bill and the man handed the envelope in which he was supposed to have placed the money to the clerk, taking his own money in return. The envelope was found to contain blank paper. The criminal walked out of the city and finally caught a train. An officer with a warrant succeeded in arresting him and he was sentenced to a long prison term.

A local officer gives some of the expressions which are common in Richmond and known to nearly every officer on the force. They are the following:

Bulls—Policemen.
Green Bulls—New officers on the police force.

A job—A robbery or other crime.
A full guy—The victim of the criminal.

Making a holler—Telling the police.
Handed up—Betrayed to the police.
Making a plant—Arranging for a man's betrayal by his companions.
A stool or stool pigeon—The person who betrays the police.
A stool pigeon—The person who betrays the police.

At Local Theaters

"Molly Bawn" Tonight.

It is not often that the actual quality of repertoire performances rouses a theater patron to the point of real enthusiasm, but the Cutter Stock presentations being given at the Murray this week are an exception to the general rule. Last night this excellent organization called "Molly Bawn" and as the first night the various members of the company from those having the important roles down to those cast for small parts gave perfect satisfaction. Chief among the many ways in which the Cutter organization differs from the general run of stock companies is that Mr. Cutter has spent a large sum of money in providing scenery and costumes. Watching a Cutter performance one is immediately impressed with the lavish stage settings. They remind one constantly of high priced attractions. Under the circumstances it is not at all surprising that the Cutter company is drawing large audiences nightly.

Seats may be secured in advance at the box office. Tomorrow and Saturday.

day, "At the Risk of His Life." Only one show Saturday night. Next Monday and Tuesday, "St. Elmo."

Maxwell-Hall Company.

Manager Parke of the Gennett theater, has arranged with the Maxwell-Hall stock company for a week's engagement commencing next Monday night.

This company is heralded as an exceptionally good company and is headed by the talented actress Miss Gertrude Maitland whose clever work has created a sensation wherever she has appeared. Besides being a very clever actress Miss Maitland is possessed of one of nature's choicest gifts, a handsome appearance.

During the week Miss Maitland will hold a reception on the stage and present those attending with a photograph of herself. These receptions are said always to be very pleasing features of the companies' engagement. The play for the opening night will be a four act comedy, "A Jealous Wife," and ladies will be admitted free under the usual conditions on Monday night.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Harry Kelly has a new play, called "Deacon Flood."

William H. Crane is to have a new play called "Grumpy."

Elsa Ryan is to have a prominent role in "High Life in Jail."

Marie Tempest is to appear in a play called "A Thief in the Night."

Klaw and Erlanger are to produce a musical comedy called "Sweet Pansy."

Henry B. Irving is to appear in a dramatization of a novel called "Clemencia."

Nat C. Goodwin is to appear in "The Captain," a farce by George Broadhurst.

Henry B. Harris is to produce George Middleton's play, "The Girl from Home" soon.

Henrietta Crossman has a play by Miriam Nicholson called "The Duchess of Suda." The scenes of the play are laid in Spain.

Mr. Charles Frohman is to make Boston a producing center, beginning with Sir Conan Doyle's drama, "The Speckled Band."

Jeanette Louvie has been engaged for the cast of "The Wife Tamers," of which Henry W. Savage will make an early production.

Winchell Smith has made arrangements to have produced in England his latest play "Bobby Burnit" in which Wallace Edginger is to star.

Mme. Emmy Destinn will sing the title role of Puccini's latest opera, "The Girl of the Golden West," and William Castleman will sing the tenor part.

"The Cave Men," by Gelett Burgess, and a dramatization by Cleveland Moffett of his novel, "Through the Wall," will be produced by Daniel Arthur in October.

George Barr McCutcheon's play "Truxton King," will be presented by DeMott and Norris in New York next spring, with a well known romantic star in the title role.

The Shuberts are to produce a play by a new author the coming season. It is called "The Family," and is by Robert H. Davis, a magazine writer. It has only six characters.

"The Great Name," a drama based on the ambition of a composer to make himself famous and the self-sacrifice of an old student friend, was produced

FOR NIGHT FIRING

(American News Service)

Portsmouth, Aug. 4.—A startling invention for illuminating the track of shells used in night firing has been successfully tested by the British admiralty at Fort Albert, near Yarmouth, Isle of Wight. It greatly impressed the army experts who witnessed the operations.

To the base of the shell a metal cylinder is attached by screw movement, and the act of firing the gun causes a powerful illuminant to burst into flame. It burns brightly throughout the whole of the trajectory of the missile, and is especially useful in testing the effectiveness of range at night time both over land and sea.

The device is also of value in showing the course of the shell. During ricochet it was seen to be most variable in some cases, the shell on striking the waters of the Solent, shot vertically upwards, a most surprising result, and in many instances it was deflected from right to left. The sight of a shell hurling through the air leaving a train of light was most weird.

OFF TO HUDSON BAY

(American News Service.)

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 4.—With Hudson's Bay as his objective point, Earl Grey starts from Winnipeg today on the most ambitious tour ever attempted by a governor-general of Canada. He is accompanied by a party of eight persons, among whom are several officials of the government at Ottawa. The party will travel 900 miles by canoe and portage and a still greater distance on the steamer "Earl Grey" which is to meet the party at Fort Churchill. His excellency will be the first governor general to make the Hudson Bay region.

BOY SCOUTS SQUAD RACES AT SARATOGA

Richmond Youngsters to Be Taught the Art of War at Chautauqua.

A WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT

Companies of boy scouts will be organized at the Boys' City of the Chautauqua, according to Roy Horton, who has charge of the work. The boy scout idea is a world wide movement, originated a few years ago in England. In America it is headed by Ernest Thompson-Seton, one of the best known naturalists of the age. It is for boys under eighteen years of age.

Cultivation of the natural instincts in boys is the prime object of the movement. The boy scouts are taken into the woods and brought in contact with nature. Wood craft in all its forms, scouting, signaling, trailing and how to live in the woods will be taught the boys.

When regularly organized the companies are in charge of a board of directors made up from representatives of charity organizations, city government, business, the press, fire and police departments.

Mr. Horton will have an official organization next summer if the movement is popular. Many boys will go into the companies.

There is no medicine so safe and at the same time so pleasant to take as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the positive cure for all diseases arising from stomach trouble. The price is very reasonable—35c and 75c.
