(Palladium Special)

Indianapolis, Oct. 5.—"I expect to stand with Senator Beveridge for all that is known as progressive to the best of my ability," said Linton A. Cox to an audience standing in Fountain square on the south side Tuesday night. "I am with him especially on the child labor law," he added.

"I have been asked about Cannonism. I shall oppose Mr. Cannon's re-election to the speakership if I am elected to congress, because I do not believe he can longer serve the best interests of the people in that position. Let us get together and vote. Let us vote on Senator Beveridge's appeal to the people. And let us see that the whole vote gets to the polls."

"I think we are peculiarly fortunate in having a man of Senator Beveridge's sterling type to represent us in the senate and as a candidate for re-election," said Judge James M. Leathers, candidate for the bench of superior court room two, "a man who commands the admiration and confidence of the American people, not only because he champions high ideals of government, but because he votes for them."

"If we want a man to champion the popular cause, who served in the senate eleven years, who went in a poor man and is still a poor man, and upon whose character there is no blemish we should stand by our patriotic senator, Albert J. Beveridge," declared William D. Hendrick, the principal speaker of the evening besides Mr. Cox. "He has done what he thought for you and me. He has had the courage to stand by what he thought was right. He is the greatest insurgent in the United States senate and that is the greatest name that could be given him for honor and respect. Will Kern have the same courage to stand up and vote for the people if the democrats control it and their reactionary wing gets in power?"

Judge John L. McMaster and Judge Vincent Carter also spoke, but did not mention Senator Beveridge. Linton Cox received the unqualified endorsement of all the speakers.

BANISHED

Coffee Finally Had to Go.

The way some persons cling to coffee even after they know it is doing them harm, is a puzzle. But it is an easy matter to give it up for good when Postum—properly made—is used instead.

A girl writes: "Mother had been suffering with nervous headaches for seven weary years, but kept drinking coffee."

"One day I asked why she did not give up coffee as a cousin of mine had done who had taken to Postum. But mother was such a slave to coffee she thought it would be terrible to give it up."

"Finally, one day, she made the change to Postum, and soon her headaches disappeared. One morning while she was drinking Postum so freely and with such relish I asked for a taste."

"That started me on Postum and I now drink it more freely than I did coffee, which never comes into our house now."

"A girl friend of mine, one day, saw me drinking Postum and asked if it was coffee. I told her it was Postum and gave her some to take home, but forgot to tell her how to make it."

"The next day she said she did not see how I could drink Postum. I found she had made it like ordinary coffee. So I told her how to make it right, and gave her a cupful I made, boiling it fifteen minutes. She said she never drank any coffee that tasted as good, and now coffee is banished from both our homes."

THE GREAT GOLDEN CROWN TREATMENT FOR CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, ETC.

Irritation and inflammation of the inner linings cause disease germs to breed and thrive, producing inner fever, which in turn deranges the digestive or gastric juices, creating constipation, poor circulation, stagnant and poisonous blood, rheumatism, headache, insomnia and nervous prostration.

The absence of these digestive fluids also causes gas to form, which inflates and prevents the walls of the stomach from coming in contact with the food, resulting in indigestion. Dyspepsia, heart palpitation, chronic ulceration, etc. This Great Golden Crown's entire internal organism is a perfectly healthy, normal condition, these same troubles will disappear. It has withstood the most persistent and expensive old style doctoring for months, even years. It will give you five days under the Great Golden Crown's Treatment, and at cost not to exceed $5.00. You will refund the price if it fails.

At Local Theaters

A Big Hit at the Murray. This week finds a bill at the Murray which is a big hit with every audience. The Mozarts present "Heine, the Cobbler," an act that is very pretty and cleverly put on. The singing by Fred Mozart and the snow shoe dancing by both is well worth seeing and hearing. "Miss Cupid" is a comedy sketch that is full of situations that always provoke abundant laughter. Aubrey Rich comes in for a full share of applause. The Lucados with their heavy weight balancing have been a surprise to all the patrons of the Murray this week. With the motion pictures a full bill is presented that has all the charms and attractions of the best vaudeville.

Girl From Rector's.

The Esmeraldi Sisters, whose sensational dance in "The Girl From Rector's" was the talk of New York, never travel in each other's company; never sleep together; never dine at the same table, and never ride in the same coach. When they go to the theater each day they take three different routes and when they return to their hotel at night each selects a thoroughfare for herself.

The sisters have been doing their well known dance together for five years and during all that time they declare they have never spent more than two hours in each other's company on a single occasion. It is not superstition that keeps the young women apart, but simply fear that an accident might happen some day. They have become famous in their act and have agreed among themselves that it would be unfortunate for them to miss a performance. So under their daily procedure even if one, or two of the sisters, for that matter, should meet with some accident there will still be a member of the trio to go through the performance. "The Girl From Rector's" will be seen at the Gennett theater Monday night.

Have you even seen a play where the success of one act depends on the success of another? "Sport" the large St. Bernard which accompanies Ferdinand Grahame wherever he goes furnishes one of the strongest human interest factors to the play "Ostler Joe." This play will be played for the first time in Richmond tonight and will be repeated tomorrow afternoon and night. Fathos of the sort that creeps into one's heart and draws forth all the compassion and sympathy that is due honest efforts mingles through the lines. Before one act has been complete one feels that "Ostler Joe" is the biggest hearted, fairest and most honest fellow that ever lived. One can scarcely realize that with a personality as plain and simple as his, he should have an enemy. And "Ostler Joe" regardless of the trials that beset him does not depart from his crude but honest standard of conduct. The sleek, soft talking man comes into the life of Annie, Joe's wife, steals away her affection, causing her to abandon her little boy and Joe. Years after she creeps back to Joe's simple home and is met with open arms, there to die.

In one act of the play the glamor, excitement and false joy of London's gay world is pictured and Miss Deane playing "Annie" wears one of the latest models of the hobble skirt. Ferdinand Grahame, as "Joe" lends all the subtle strength and pathos to the part which it demands. Gennett box open at 10 a. m.

MONTICELLO AND WABASH CHEERED POPULAR SENATOR

ocratic party nobody is a regular. Notwithstanding the democratic state platform and Governor Marshall's speech upon the subject, the democratic candidate for the legislature from White and Jasper counties has openly repudiated the democratic position upon the liquor issue and has openly pledged the voters of these two dry counties that he will never vote for the repeal or amendment of the county local option law. This candidate is William Guthrie, an attorney of Monticello, and he is fully aware that his only chance of getting any votes is his open insurgency against his party and its leaders. Nor does the insurrection stop there. Peterson, the democratic candidate for congress, is an attorney for the United States Steel corporation at Gary and he has not made his position satisfactory to those voters of both parties who insist that such trusts have entirely too much influence in political affairs. Surely he is not in harmony with the professions of the democratic platform and the utterances of John W. Kern or Governor Marshall regarding the tariff for revenue doctrine or the regulation of trusts.

Peterson May Resign.

It is now rumored that he will shortly resign his position as attorney for the Steel trust but the people say the sincerity of such an action will be questioned because of its coming so late. With this trouble within their own ranks the chances of the democrats to carry the joint representative of White and Jasper counties is practically nil. John G. Brown, the present republican member, is a candidate for re-election and his majority before, in a year the tide was all against the republicans, was 300. It is conceded he will have a larger majority this year. Crumpacker has never in recent years carried White county. Last year although one of two republican congressmen to be elected in Indiana, he lost White county, the only county in his district he failed to carry. This year owing to various reasons he will carry White county. First is the lack of factional fighting within his own party over his postoffice appointments. Second is the attitude of his opponent upon the national issues. This second reason must be accompanied by the third, which is a change in Crumpacker's attitude upon these same issues. This change is toward progressive politics. It has been brought about by his recognition of the sentiment of his district which is much the same as that shown Tuesday at Monticello. Although he won the nomination for another term and had his course in the last session of congress indorsed it is known by him better than by any one else that a great deal of this was due to political maneuvering and the people of his own party within his own district are progressives. Had there been any doubt of it, it would have been removed by the ovation given Senator Beveridge Tuesday at Monticello. The term ovation is over worked in campaign years but in this instance it is literally the proper word to use.

Two Thousand Attend.

Two thousand people, largely farmers, gathered to hear Senator Beveridge, who began speaking at one o'clock in order to make connections and get to his Wabash meeting. The old time politicians who still think along the old lines were exceedingly anxious that Beveridge offend no one by going too strong upon insurgency and particularly in defense of his attitude against the tariff. They pictured the direful results that might follow because the people would not like it. Yet no where has Beveridge delivered a more forcible speech in defense of his record. He drove through the tariff with a two horse team and was cheered to the echo. He said "economic excesses and abuses as exemplified in the tariff became a moral issue and must be so considered" and the crowd yelled, "that's the stuff." He said he had witnessed the big interests down at Washington dominating legislation by controlling both old parties and that it was time for the people to emulate the example of these interests put aside party lines and vote for themselves and the crowd yelled "that's right." He said this was a campaign of popular government and justice against greed and the control by the few, and appealed for help and a vote of confidence in his fight and the audience applauded and shouted that he would set them from White county. After the meeting the same politicians who had counseled straddling before the meeting went about smiling and commenting upon the success of the meeting and said they had never dreamed of such enthusiasm being possible in this campaign. After the meeting he was made the subject of a football rush by the crowd to congratulate him and assure him personally that he was making the kind of a fight they wanted.

Students Play Hokey.

The high school all played "hokey" and perched themselves upon the roof of a new telephone building facing the speaker's stand and then followed the senator to the depot and asked him to write a blanket excuse to the principal so they could go back. This he did, coupling it with some words of admonition and as his train pulled out to the noise of three cheers and a tiger for Beveridge, in which men were seen to join. "After all" said the senator upon leaving, "this is better than the first reception I got in Monticello, twenty-four years ago, when Captain Ward and I had to break into the court house because there was no other place to hold my meeting and the democrats had locked it up and gone away taking the keys with them. Times change."

The legislative situation in Wabash county is much the same as in White. The senator is a republican hold-over and there is only one representative to elect. The democratic candidate is Marcellus Hubbard. He started out bravely enough upon his tack but the scenes have shifted. The people have been talking to him. He is now promising quietly that he will not vote for a repeal of the county local option law in order to stem the tide which has apparently set in for his opponent, Thomas F. Berry, a school teacher. It is claimed that while Wabash county went dry before by 800 that the city is turning to the wet because of the prevalence of blind ligers and the depreciation of city property. Be that as it may the sentiment against repealing the option law has not diminished and the candidate for the legislature who would run upon a promise to vote for its repeal could not be elected in Wabash county this year. Above all else there is the determination to return Beveridge and so great is this determination that all else is dwarfed in the fight between the legislative candidates. Many men who are wet and will vote wet in the next option election in December this year are more interested in the fight now going on at the nation's capitol than they are in any other one thing. They figure they can keep the option law upon the books and vote Wabash wet much more safely to their interests than to try to get the law repealed by electing a democratic legislature and defeating Beveridge.

The Liquor Question.

So the liquor question is not cutting a heavy figure in the legislative fight. The man who wants it can get a drink under present conditions and so he is desirous right now of getting some relief from the unjust conditions he feels exist in national affairs. It was this kind of a man many times multiplied who cheered Finley P. Mount, at Wabash, when he advocated the re-election of Beveridge by electing a republican legislature; cheered him when he paid tribute to Theodore Roosevelt; kept silent when he paid tribute to Taft and arose and gave Beveridge tremendous applause when he appeared upon the platform, and liberally punctuated his speech with applause. The Wabash meeting was held in the Eagles theater and the building was packed and nearly 500 were turned away. Finley P. Mount preceded Senator Beveridge in a thirty minute talk and then Judge A. H. Plummer introduced Beveridge.

ELECTION IS TODAY

(American News Service.)

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 5.—The state election in Georgia today was for governor and other state officials, superior court judges and solicitors and county officers. Little interest is manifested, as the success of the full democratic ticket, headed by Hoke Smith for governor, is assured.
