

"FIESOLE" ADDED TO LOCAL GALLERY

Beautiful Italian Landscape Canvas is Purchased by the Association.

WAS THE SECOND CHOICE

"THE FLOWER," FIRST CHOICE OF THE ASSOCIATION MEMBERS, WAS VALUED AT MORE THAN COULD BE PAID.

"Fiesole," an old landscape painting by John Johnson, a well known artist of New York City, portraying a scene near Florence, Italy, has been selected by the Richmond Art association as the one to add to its permanent collection. The painting was exhibited at the annual exhibition this fall. It is one of the most beautiful paintings of this nature which has been exhibited in the city and won much admiration from the hundreds of visitors.

This picture and "The Flower," by John Alexander of New York City, were the ones which were the favorites of members of the association. The latter picture was the first choice of the association. However, the purchase price was more than the association felt it could afford at this time and so selected "Fiesole," which in many ways, from an artistic standpoint, is in the equal of the other tentative selection.

The exhibition by Richmond and Wayne county artists will open in the art gallery of the new high school on November 20. The display will be exceptionally large and choice and is certain to win the admiration of art lovers of the city. Prizes will be offered but these have not been decided upon.

The usual Mary T. Foulke prize will be offered for the Richmond exhibit and in addition a prize of $5 will be given by the association for the best piece of handicraft, put on exhibition by a Wayne county artist. Artists and exhibitors will bring their exhibits to the high school art gallery Saturday morning, November 26.

Practiced Too Often.

A young doctor, who had lately started practice in a country town hit upon a capital plan for advertising himself. He went to church regularly, but in the middle of the service someone came in and called him out.

This happened three times, but on the third occasion the minister got even with him. He stopped the service and said: "I see that some one is in great danger, since Dr. Bolus has been called to see him. Before Dr. Bolus leaves the building let us unite in prayer on behalf of this unfortunate patient."

Saw His Portrait.

There's a young man in one of the big furniture exhibition buildings in Chicago who since a recent experience never permits his temper to become unstrung while at the telephone.

A few days ago he could not get the number he called for as quickly as he desired.

"See here, central," he shouted, "I'll report you."

"You don't know who I am," was the calm reply.

"Well, I'll find out, and that blamed quiet too."

"I know you, though," came in a soft, sweet tone over the wire. "You're in the big office furniture building. I've seen your picture."

"You have!" exclaimed the young man delightedly, and he mentally picked himself for having been so rude to so sweet a girl. "Where did you see it? Was it in the Furniture Journal?"

"No," came the laughing reply, "on a lobster can."—National Food Magazine.

That the prosperity of the railroads is intimately associated with that of the whole country is proved by the fact that in the 13 months that followed the panic the railways suffered a loss of over $30,000,000 in gross earnings.

411 LAST MOMENTS.

They Were Gently Soothed by the Kind Hospital Orderly.

Nurses in English military hospitals are rather apt to lay too much stress on the advantages received by the patients and their duty of thankfulness, but still it is the poor soldier who suffers most from always having his causes to be grateful sung in his teeth.

Witness the following true story:

Chaplain—So poor Hopkins is dead. I should have liked to speak to him again and soothe his last moments. Why didn't you call me?

Hospital Orderly—I didn't think you ought to be disturbed for "Hopkins, sir, so I just soothed him as best I could myself.

Chaplain—Why, what did you say to him?

Orderly—"Hopkins," says I, "you're mortal bad."

"I am," says I.

"Hopkins," says I, "I don't think you can 'ope to go to 'eaven."

"Well, then, 'Hopkins," says I, "you'll go to the other place."

"I suppose so," says I.

"Hopkins," says I, "you ought to be very grateful as there's a place provided for you and that you've got somewhere to go." And I think 'eard, sir, and then 'e died.

A Beautiful Mixup.

Some years ago the first three horses in the Lincoln handicap, a famous English race, were Ob, Dean, Swift and Rosette Dawn. A press agency in London wired the result to an Australian paper as follows: "Lincoln Ob Dean Swift Rosette Dawn."

The subeditor who was in charge had never heard of the Lincoln handicap and for some time puzzled vainly over this mysterious message.

Finally he came to the conclusion that "Ob" must stand for "Obit." The Latin word used for expressing a death notice. He accordingly turned out the following paragraph, which duly appeared in print: "We deeply regret to announce the death at Lincoln of the celebrated Dean Swift, the author of that favorite hymn 'The Rosette Hues of Early Dawn.'"

The Pudding Cure.

A simple sort of chap while on a visit to an old friend in Yorkshire caught a severe chill and was confined to bed. His hostess thought to give her sick visitor a treat during his convalescence.

The chauffeurs are still for a closed shop and there were no indications to day that their troubles would be settled any sooner than those of the expressmen.

NO SETTLEMENT IN EXPRESS STRIKE

Efforts at Arbitration Are Thwarted by the Jersey City Union.

CHAUFFEURS STILL OUT

MAYOR GAYNOR THREATENS TO PUT POLICE ON WAGONS AND TO FORCE A SETTLEMENT IN THIS MANNER.

BULLETIN.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 12.—After a revolver battle the police arrested four strike breakers employed by the Adams Express company, and charged them with stealing silk, fur and other articles valued at approximately $50,000. Secretary Forster, of International Brotherhood Teamsters, notified Mayor Gaynor today that if police guards were put back on the express wagons, a general strike, involving a hundred thousand men including the street car men would be called.

The New York express men's strike rests in the hands of the drivers and helpers of Jersey City. The men across the river are still holding out for the closed shop. Charles W. Forester, secretary of the Teamsters' Union, said some of the older men employed by the companies in New York had gone to work but that they would quit again as soon as it became known that the Jersey City workers were not to make any concessions.

In other words, according to the union men, the strike situation stands practically where it did yesterday or the day before. This despite the fact that Mayor Gaynor has threatened to put policemen on the wagons of the companies.

The chauffeurs are still for a closed shop and there were no indications to day that their troubles would be settled any sooner than those of the expressmen.

DISCUSS WHITE SLAVERY

BOSTON MAKES GAIN

(American News Service)

Baltimore, Nov. 12.—Drinking of booze and smoking of cigarettes by the American women are not on an increase, according to Lillian N. Stevens, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who delivered the opening address on "American Womanhood" at the annual convention today. Mrs. Stevens never saw a cigaret in a woman's mouth, except in Mexico. The so called "white slave traffic" was vigorously dealt with by the speaker.

Out of Danger.

It was the morning of the Yale-Harvard game at Cambridge, and two New Haven collegians were wandering through the Harvard yard, looking at the university buildings. Down a walk toward them came a youth of serious aspect, but palpably an undergraduate.

"I beg your pardon," said the Yale man, who is a bit of a wag, to the stranger, "can you tell me where I can find the Harvard university?"

"I'm very sorry," said the serious one, with never a smile. "They've locked it up. You see, there are so many Yale men in town."

A Dainty Cow.

The old fabrication that Scotsmen "like wif' feedfuch" is all nonsense. Some of the newspapers published north of the Tweed are so brimming over with fun that it actually overflows into the advertisement pages, where one would scarcely hope to find it. To back up this assertion we quote the following ad., which appeared in the Scotsman the other day:

"Woman (active) to wash, dress and milk cow; also assist housework. No. 9514. Scotsman, Glasgow."

There's cleanliness for you. We suppose the cows are mangy after they are washed and dressed and their teeth carefully polished up with tooth-brushes.—London Answers.

Hard Luck.

A good example of the kind of story Mark Twain used to like to weave into his after dinner speeches was the tale of the drinker who unwillingly put in an application for membership in a temperance society, sailed the next day on a three years' voyage, on which he kept his pledge in spite of longing and temptation, and returned to resign only to find that his name had been blackballed originally.

In the Foothills of Mount Tacana, a Guatemalan volcano, there is an almost inexhaustable supply of sulphur in huge blocks, which is taken out from time to time by Indians, but has not yet been exploited.

The famous Hoosac tunnel will be elected trifled.
