

REASON GIVEN FOR INCREASING GIFTS

Rockefeller Expects to Do a Lasting Good in This Manner.

THE IDEA IS PRACTICAL

Medical Research Work Not Well Understood by the Average Resident.

New York, Nov. 19.—John D. Rockefeller has some very peculiar ideas of what is practical philanthropy, so peculiar, in fact, that when, recently, he increased his donations to the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research to a total of nearly $9,000,000 the announcement meant little, if anything, to the average New Yorker. It was given by him little more than passing notice. Of course, the reason it meant nothing to the average New Yorker was because the average New Yorker could not see just where he was going to get his fingers on any of those $9,000,000, and it is just there where Mr. Rockefeller's peculiar ideas of practical philanthropy come in, says a writer in the Sun.

Mr. Rockefeller does not believe in giving money where it will benefit only one person or one group of persons, no matter how deserving the person or the charity may be. There are plenty of others to do that. But there are not plenty of others, he believes, who have the foresight or the grasp of intellect necessary to give their millions only where they will benefit the human race as a whole, and by the human race as a whole. Mr. Rockefeller means not only humanity as a whole today, but all the humanity that is to follow in generations to come. That is Mr. Rockefeller's field of philanthropy and that is where he delights to shine.

It perhaps is nothing more than a natural corollary that the mind that was big enough to conceive and then to execute an industry that has covered the entire world, would, when it turned to philanthropy, be satisfied with nothing less than a field that covers the whole human race, born and unborn. He that as it may, it was because Mr. Rockefeller in nine years of careful experimenting and slop progress has become convinced that his institute for medical research can do the greatest amount of good for the human race as a whole, both of today and of the future, that he decided the last week to increase his donations to that philanthropy to nearly $9,000,000 making it the most highly endowed institute for medical research in the world.

Work Not Understood. Unfortunately, however, the average New Yorker has just about as much idea of what medical research really is as he has of the peculiar ideas underlying Mr. Rockefeller's philanthropy. What information concerning the work of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research that has filtered through the columns of the newspapers the last few years to the public at large has consisted entirely of attacks on the work of vivisection that has been carried on there. The average New Yorker, therefore, is inclined to believe that the institute merely is a place where animals are cut up alive for the pure delight of the surgeons doing the work, or worse yet, where unfortunate human beings are operated upon with no other particular end in view except to give joy to the highly specialized surgeon whose one great delight in life is in seeing what "a beautiful operation he can make of it."

ILLEGAL LOVE LED TO HORRIBLE DEATH

New Philadelphia, Ohio, Nov. 19.—Clashed in each other's arms, the bodies of James Gray, 50, and Mrs. Jack Llewellyn, 41, were found in a lodging house here today. Asphyxiation was the cause of death, the room being filled with natural gas from a small stove. The door was locked and both windows closed.

Gray was the superintendent of a mine at Klondike, Ohio, and Mrs. Llewellyn was the wife of one of his employees. The husband later identified her body. Gray was also married and leaves a widow and seven children.

According to the coroner the man and woman had been dead for about 24 hours when their bodies were discovered. They came here yesterday and engaged the room from Andrew Thompson, caretaker of the house. Thompson, becoming alarmed at not seeing them afterwards, went to their room this afternoon. He knocked, but received no answer and after smelling the gas he burst open the door.

At present the 2,500,000 population of Manhattan is increased to three million during business hours.

DEALER AND BUYER HAVE BEEN BENEFITED

Reductions on Live Stock and Dressed Meats Are Compared.

(American News Service.)

Chicago, Nov. 19.—An effort was made today to discover if possible to what extent the retailer and the consumer had been benefited by the recent sharp slump in the cost of live stock.

Live cattle reached their zenith this year in June 20, when sales of the best beefs at the stockyards were made at $8.85.

After that date the trend of values was steadily downward and sales this week were at the lowest prices of the year to date, the highest figure reached by choice 1,700 pound steers being $7.25.

As indicated above, there has been a drop of $1.60 a hundred pounds in the price of cattle since June 20. Prices to retailers show a drop of 1/2 to 3 cents a pound with the big majority of the cuts 1 1/2c lower. Retailers' prices to the consumer show a reduction of 1 and 3 cents a pound.

The drop in the price of live hogs since March 28, is $3.70 or equal to 3.7 cents a pound dressed weight. Packers' prices to retailers show a reduction of 3 1/2c a pound on loins, a drop of only 1 cent a pound on tenderloins and a decline of 1/2c a pound on spare ribs. Retailers' prices to the consumer show loin roast five cents a pound cheaper, pork chops, 3 cents a pound cheaper and spare ribs as high as at any time.

Both the retailer and consumer seem to have fared better in buying mutton than in making purchases of beef or pork, as figures indicate that, while the cost of sheep and lambs to the packer has been reduced $4.60 to $5.50 a hundred pounds the cost to the retailer has been lowered 4 1/2c to 5 1/2c a pound, while the consumers' prices have taken a tumble of 5 cents to 7 cents a pound.

BATTLE FOR GIRL CAUSES TWO DEATHS

Italians Storm Road House and Riddle It with Bullets—An Arrest.

(American News Service.)

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Two men are dead today following a fierce battle fought at Armonk, ten miles east of here between a gang of Italians who tried to storm the road house owned by Daniel Merritt and got possession of a girl who was staying there.

John McCann, a farm hand of Round Hill, Conn., and Fren Jensino were shot to death and the road house was riddled with bullets. Sheriff Henry Scherf rushed to Armonk in a racing automobile and placed one Italian under arrest. He declared that he would put bloodhounds upon the trail of the other Italians today.

Six Italians, employed on the Catskill aqueduct, approached the road house early this morning. They aroused the occupants and the leader demanded the young woman who was stopping there come outside.

Merritt told the men to go away. The Italians began to batter the door with sticks and stones, breaking it off its hinges. As they entered someone inside the house started firing. The battle centered in the barroom. Volley after volley was fired, smashing mirrors and glassware. The walls looked like a sieve. John Merritt, son of the proprietor, was armed with a double-barrel shot-gun. He pumped shot after shot into the room.

The Italian who was killed had fled from the house and was shot dead in the roadway outside.

During the shooting the girl was taken from the house through a rear door and no trace of her has been found.

TO YOUNG PEOPLE REV. MAHY SPEAKS

"How to Have Faith in God" Was the Subject of His Sermon, Friday.

(American News Service.)

Program for the Week.

7:30 p. m. daily, except Saturday, services at East Main Street Friends' church.

Saturday, 8 p. m., open air meeting down town, in which seventy-five will take part. Workers will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:45.

Sunday, at 3:30 p. m., meeting for men and boys at the Gennett theater. Evangelist Mahy to speak on "Keep Thyself Pure."

Sunday morning, 9 to 10, special decision services in the Sunday schools of all churches participating in the union effort.

Sunday evening, at 7:30, supplemental service at the Fifth Street M. E. church.

"How to Have Faith in God" was the subject for another excellent sermon delivered to an audience of large size last night at the East Main Street Friends' church, by Evangelist Mahy. It was a topic that he desired especially to impress upon the young people and a number of them were in attendance in response to the special invitation that was given them. Faith to the mind of Mr. Mahy, is an essential thing but at the same time it is a simple thing but for all that, one of the hardest things to act on. One of his arguments to offset the claims of those who say they cannot believe, is that Christ would not have given a command that could not be carried out and he did give the command to "Have Faith in God." The New Testament is especially significant in its references to faith, as approximately there are 250 such references. "Some of us," said the evangelist, "want God to partly save us and then we want to finish the job. Just as long as we do this we fail, for it requires complete surrender and faith."

He Gave Examples.

The speaker gave many striking examples of faith and showed its reasonableness. Faith results, he said, in purifying the heart, in comforting the heart, in justification, in living, standing and walking, access to God becoming the children of God and Christ working in the heart.

Thorough Bible study was urged as an aid to faith and Mr. Mahy declared it would change the life of the individual. As an example he said that it is popularly supposed there are only ten commandments, but that in the New Testament there are eighty commandments by Christ, defining all our relations with God and with man.

An after service followed the sermon. The opening prayer last evening was given by the Rev. Levi T. Pennington and the scripture lesson was read by the Rev. Mr. McNary.

It is hoped to make the open air meeting tonight one of special interest and benefit and it is hoped that at least seventy-five volunteer workers will be at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:45 o'clock to aid in conducting the meetings. It is believed a personal invitation to lead a better life can in this way be brought to many men who cannot be reached otherwise.

LAW HELD INVALID

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 19.—Circuit Judge DeBruin held the case of the Indiana railroad commission against the Louisville & Nashville railroad, that the law of 1909 compelling all locomotives to be properly equipped with an automatic bell ringing device, is void, because of the uncertainty of what "proper equipment" means, the law not defining it.

Counsel for the railroad said that the decision will govern future action by railroads in the state until the case is fought out before the supreme court by the state.

Boy Raving Maniac from Incessant Smoking.

(American News Service.)

New York, Nov. 19.—His mind unbalanced by incessant smoking of cigars, twenty-two year old Peter Lawler, was removed from his Brooklyn home today to the Kings county hospital, a raving maniac. Before being taken into custody, Lawler had attacked his father, James and his brother and was subdued after a fierce struggle.

Lawler has been smoking cigars since he was eleven years old and for the past three years had smoked on an average of 100 cigars a day. According to his father he was never without a cigar in his mouth, even getting up during the night to smoke.

EPILEPTIC PLACE TO HAVE CHAMPION

Newcastle, Ind., Nov. 19.—George W. Williams of Knightstown, who will represent Henry county in the next legislature, will put forth special efforts in behalf of the Indiana village for epileptics, north of this city. Mr. Williams believes the epileptic village is one of the state's most worthy and necessary institutions. He made a visit to the institution yesterday and thoroughly inspected the village and ascertained its needs in order that he might intelligently push legislation in its behalf.

REMAINS A MYSTERY

Best Detectives Cannot Ferret Out the Affair.

(American News Service.)

New York, Nov. 19.—The trunk murder mystery was as deep as ever today, despite the fact that the best detectives of the city had been detailed on the case for more than 36 hours. Unless William Lewis, the missing waiter, is found, the case will be another of New York's unsolved mysteries.

A strange feature was brought out today when the police again searched the cellar at the home of James Meagher, where the victim was found, came upon another trunk almost an exact counterpart of the one in which the body was placed except that it contained no zinc lining or box. In spite of exhaustive inquiries nobody in the house could be found who would admit ownership of this trunk.

The detectives are devoting considerable time in an effort to find Miss Margaret Winton, a chambermaid, who is said to have been acquainted with Lewis. The woman, who would now be about 38 years old, formerly worked, it is said in the Croisic apartments at Twenty-sixth street and Madison square. She left there several years ago, however, and nothing has been heard of her since.
