

THE SOCIAL WHIRL

Edited by Miss Elizabeth R. Thomas

ELABORATE DANCING PARTY

A most brilliant dancing party was given last evening in the Pythian temple by the members of the Beta Phi Sigma fraternity far surpassing anything of its kind given in this city for some time. As this was the first event of this nature given by the "frat" which is comparatively new in this city, unusual effort had been put forth to make the affair a success and today the members of the organization are being congratulated by their friends. There were a number of visiting guests from other chapters of the fraternity.

Black and gold, the "frat colors" were used in decorating the dancing hall. The colors were brought from the four corners of the hall and fastened in the center. A large green basket filled with beautiful yellow chrysanthemums and greenery was suspended from the center. Fraternity pennants were placed in an artistic manner about the hall. At one part of the room and just over the platform a beautiful black skin with the fraternity seal had been hung. The palms and ferns were used to screen the Hicks orchestra from the view of the dancers. A tall vase filled with chrysanthemums was also placed on the platform. During the evening punch was served in the foyer. The table was appointed with smilax, crepe paper in the colors being used as a cloth for the table. At the intermission a cafe supper was served. A number of beautiful gowns were worn by the girls, this adding to the beauty of the scene. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. George H. Dilks, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Houghton, Miss Magdalena Engelbert, and Dr. Harold.

The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. Houghton. Mr. Williamson, a prominent member of the fraternity, with Miss Martha McClellan coming second. The programs were perhaps the handsomest ever used at any event of this kind given here. The cover was of limp brown leather with old gold cord and tassels. The Greek letters of the fraternity were done in silk. The music was especially good adding much to the success of the affair. The program played by this excellent orchestra was a varied one, including a number of popular airs.

The guests were Miss Viola Wickemeyer, Miss Arline Shreve, Miss Dorothy McMullen, Miss Julia Lichtenfels, Miss Lucille Turner, Miss Nellie Buell, Miss Cornelia Shaw, Miss May Gilpe, of Logansport, Miss Lucy Smyser, Miss Blanch Bayer, Miss Margarette Border, Miss Charlotte Bayer, Miss Ivy Russell, Miss Carolyn Weaver, Miss Ruth Marlatt, Miss Myra Scott, Miss Lydia Neodham, Miss Margaret Wickemeyer, Miss Genevieve Newlin, Miss Ruth Pennell, Miss Helen Neal, Miss Alma Pfafflin, Miss Meta Fafflin, Miss Helen Nicholson, Miss Pearl Guernsey, Miss Helen Jameson, Miss Maurine Converse, Miss Gladys Bailey, Miss Jeannette Van Meter and Miss Lena Luddington of Cambridge City, Miss Elaine Jones, Mrs. Roy Parks, Miss Mildred Bockhoff, Miss Mary Shockey of Winchester, Miss Marie Brown, Miss Rachael Swartz, of Anderson, Indiana, Miss Anna Bartholomew of Winchester, Miss Martha McClellan, Miss Elizabeth Thomas, Miss Hazel Thomas, Miss Vivian King, Miss Pearl Haner, Miss Esther Gard, Miss Emerald Hascoster, Miss Margaret Ferguson, Miss Nora Young, Miss Mary Morse, Miss Marie Campbell, Miss Morrow, Miss Charlotte Allison, Miss Rose Gennett, Miss Ruth Bartel, Miss Elizabeth Bailey, Miss Elsie Hawekotte, Miss Gladys Weiss, Miss Margaret Hasmeler, Miss Hazel Piper, Mr. Paul Miller, Mr. Everett Ackerman, Mr. John Longstreth, Mr. Richard Sedgwick, Mr. Raymond Jones, Mr. Charles Williamson, Mr. Carl Emerson, Mr. Fred Bayer, Mr. Stanley Lindstrom, Mr. Howard Steinkamp, Mr. Wray Draper, Mr. Willard Kaufman, Mr. Robert Crane, Mr. Ernest Lehman, Mr. Carl Young, Mr. Herbert Cotton, Mr. Chaucery Edgerton, Mr. Xenophon King, Mr. Robert Taylor, Mr. Carl Haner, Mr. Harold Myers, Mr. George Hodge, Mr. Benton Barlow, Mr. Robert Land, Mr. Earl Rau, Mr. Howard Ashley, Mr. Roy Parks, Mr. Blair Converse, Mr. Walter Murray, Mr. Huston Marlatt, Mr. Everett McConeha, Mr. Frank Wissler, Mr. Walter Davis, Mr. Carlos Haas, Mr. Clifford Plummer, Mr. Walter Craighead, Mr. Robert Griffin, Mr. Russell Price of Piqua, Ohio, Mr. Edward Stoy, Mr. Claud Munger, Mr. Harold Buell, Mr. Hawkins, Mr. Errett Halsey, Mr. Sidney Davis of Logansport, Ind., Mr. Clark Meyers, Mr. Raymond Wickemeyer, Mr. Will Kloeker, Mr. Gear

Weyman, Mr. Magaw, Mr. Robert Parry, Mr. Irvin Coffin, Mr. Fred Rosetter, Mr. Earl Cotton, Mr. Frank Schalk, Mr. Emory Thomas, Mr. Ralph Hasemeler, Professor Waldrup, Professor Miller and Mr. Edwin Flook.

A THIMBLE PARTY.

A thimble party was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. George R. Williams and Mrs. Dudley Elmer in honor of Miss Magdalena Engelbert, a bride-elect, at the home of Mrs. Williams in East Main street. This concluded the series of companies given this week by the hostesses. The house was beautifully appointed with cut flowers, palms and other potted plants. The guests numbered fifty-six. The hours were pleasantly spent at needlework. Luncheon was served at small tables at the close of the affair. Among the guests from out of the city were Mrs. Duke of Eaton, Ohio, Mrs. Albough and Mrs. Sweeney of Kokomo, Indiana, Mrs. Charles Spiegel of Shelbyville, Indiana, and Mrs. Addison Stuart of Seattle, Washington.

VISITING HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanders and family formerly of West Newton, Indiana, but now of Denver, Colorado, are in the city to spend the week-end with Miss Lulu Moorman.

ATTENDED DANCE.

Miss Lena Luddington and Miss Jeannette Van Meter of Cambridge City, came over last evening to attend the dance given in the Pythian Temple by the members of the Beta Phi Sigma fraternity.

BANQUET AT CHURCH.

Last evening the First Christian church was the scene of a most delightful banquet given by the members of the "C. B. A." to their wives and friends and also for those who have direction of the work of the adult department of the Sunday school. This class of young men taught by Mr. P. T. McLellan has an enrollment of ninety-five. The guests at the affair last evening numbered one hundred and ten. They were received in the church parlors and at an appointed hour were invited into the dining room which had been prettily decorated for the occasion. Cut flowers, ferns and wreaths of smilax were used in appointing the long tables. The feast had been prepared by the young men themselves and was served by them in splendid style. A social time with games and short talks concluded the evening's program. The entire affair was carefully planned and well managed by the members of the class much to their credit and to the enjoyment of the entire company.

A GUEST HERE.

Miss May Gilpe of Logansport, Indiana, came down yesterday to the guest of Miss Lucy Smyser for the week-end and to attend the dance given last evening by the members of the Beta Phi Sigma fraternity.

PARTY THIS AFTERNOON.

A card party was given this afternoon at the Hotel Westcott at two-thirty o'clock by the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

VISITING HERE.

Mrs. George B. Nichols of Clyde, Ohio, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William T. Ward of Spring Grove.

BAZAAR OPENED.

A Christmas bazaar was opened yesterday afternoon at the Reid Memorial church by the members of the Ladies' Aid society. A number of beautiful articles suitable for Christmas are on display. Last evening an excellent musical program was given for the guests who called during the evening. Almost all the articles were sold last evening.

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS.

Among the out of town guests invited for the dance last evening were Miss Mary Shockey, Miss Anna Bartholomew, of Winchester, Miss Eva Jackson, Miss Rachael Swartz of Anderson, Miss May Gilpe of Logansport, Miss Emma Jones of New Castle, Mr. Robert Diven, Mr. George Walte, Mr. Frank Poste of Anderson, Indiana, Mr. Frank Prendergast, Mr. John Prendergast and Mr. Robert Drago of Muncie, Indiana.

DINNER FOR GUESTS.

Mr. Robert Weichman who yesterday celebrated his birthday anniversary was honored with a dinner party last evening given at his home in South Twelfth street. Flowers and ferns were used in decorating the rooms. In the dining room pink, white and yellow chrysanthemums were used in decorating. A mound of the blossoms was placed on a mirror in the center of the table surrounded by white and green tapers. After dinner cards were the feature of the evening's amusement. The guests were Mr. Frank Kienker, Mr. Edward Weichman, Mr. Edward Newman, Mr. John Thorman, Mr. Richard Bartel, Mr. Wilbur Hasemeler, Mr. George Thomas, Mr. Howard Miller, Mr. Gustave Hoelscher, Mr. Elmer Kloppe, Mr. H. Thomas, Mr. Burkhardt, Mr. Oliver Steinkamp, Mr. Walter Moelk and Mr. Henry Rausch.

VISITING HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Stuart of Seattle, Washington, are here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hill at their home in East Main street.

MET FRIDAY.

A meeting of the Mary Hill W. C. T. U. was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Norris. After the devotional exercises a program was given. Mrs. Rogers read a paper while Mrs. Ellis gave a report of the national convention. After a song service a social hour followed. The members were given a surprise when Mr. Norris served them with a delicious luncheon which he had prepared while the members were holding their meeting.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual thank offering meeting of the Grace Methodist church will be held Sunday morning at the Grace M. E. church. Rev. Arthur Cates will preach the sermon. The public is invited to attend.

TO GREENSBORO.

Mr. Brandon Griffiths of North Tenth street left this morning for Greensboro, Indiana, where he will spend Saturday and Sunday the guest of Mr. Stoneshill Keates, formerly of this city. Mr. Keates is now principal of the Greensboro high school.

MET FRIDAY.

Mrs. Charles Kolp's Friday evening dancing class met as usual last evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. On account of the Beta dance in the Pythian Temple only a few of the young people attended the assembly, nine o'clock.

A GUEST HERE.

Miss Rachael Swartz of Anderson, Indiana, is in the city for a few days visit with friends.

GUESTS AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Mrs. George R. Williams, Mrs. Oliver Gaar, Mrs. Spiegel of Shelbyville, and Miss Edna McGuire went to Indianapolis today.

SOCIAL NUMBER NINE.

The members of social number nine met Friday afternoon with Mrs. A. G. Kofski at her home in North Fifteenth street. Thirty members were present. The afternoon was spent socially and with needlework. Late in the afternoon an elaborate luncheon was served. The next meeting will be held in the Pythian Temple in about two weeks.

MET LAST EVENING.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard T. Lemon were host and hostess for a meeting of the Tourist club last evening at their home in South Eleventh street. The program was as follows: Hong Kong by River Steamer to Canton, Mrs. H. R. Robinson. Pot Pourri, Mark Twain.

PARTY AT MURRAY.

Last evening Mrs. Elwood McGuire gave a party at the Murray in honor of Mrs. Spiegel of Shelbyville, Indiana. The guests were Mrs. B. B. Johnson, Mrs. Albough of Kokomo, Mrs. Oliver Gaar, Mrs. Sweeney of Kokomo, Mrs. Richard Study, Mrs. W. O. Crawford, Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. Will Campbell. After the vaudeville performance the guests went to the McGuire home in East Main street where the remainder of the evening was spent in playing bridge. A lunch was served.

PLAN TO BAR PAPERS FROM REFORMATORY

Jeffersonville, Ind., Dec. 3.—Three years ago it was decided by the management of the Indiana reformatory that the inmates should not see the metropolitan newspapers because of the harmful influence of "sensational" stories they might contain. At that time W. H. Whitaker, then general superintendent, started a daily edition of the Reflector, the weekly newspaper which had been published at the institution for many years. The Reflector was circulated among the inmates, each receiving a copy, while the weekly paper was used for circulation over the state. Major David C. Peyton now has under consideration the question of barring all outside newspapers, except those of a religious nature or those not devoted to general news, because of the accounts of murder, escapes, etc., which they contain.

FOOD INSPECTOR CLOSES FRAT ROOMS

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 3.—An investigation by the state board of health of the dining rooms for students in fraternity and sorority houses of the college towns of Indiana, resulted in the closing of five such dining rooms in this city.

Two deaths had been caused by an epidemic of typhoid fever among the students of Depauw university and a number of the 17 fraternity or sorority dining rooms had been pronounced unsanitary. The dining rooms of Florence hall and the ladies' dormitory at Depauw were permitted to continue.

John Owens, state food inspector, made the investigation. From this city he will go to Crawfordsville to inspect the fraternity dining rooms of Washah college and the Crawfordsville restaurants.

Christian Endeavor--Home Missions

BY REV. S. H. DOYLE.

People who must a Christian be different from others?—II Cor. vi. 14-18. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

There is no need scarcely to argue the question that there should be a difference between a Christian and others who are not Christians. One is ruled supremely by the will of God and possesses the mind and spirit of Christ. The other does not possess these characteristics, and hence there is a wide separation between them. The very essence of Christianity is separation and consequently difference from the other people of the world. One becomes a Christian by being called of God to separate himself from "the world, the flesh and the devil," which are for the most part the associations of non-Christians. Being called of God to separation, the Christian has implanted within him a new principle of life, which widely separates him from others. Therefore in his thoughts, his beliefs, his words and deeds the Christian must be different from others.

The difference is not one of form. It does not consist in wearing different costumes or dress. The Puritan garb never made a Christian. The most wicked and sinful of men could have easily possessed and worn one of them. The Christian has no reason to dress differently from any other people. In fact, such methods of manifesting their difference from others often smacks too much of a possible insincerity. The Christian needs no outward garb or badge to convince others that he is different from them. If his words and life do not do this no weight will be given to his claim by that with which he may clothe himself. This principle should also apply to the Christian ministers. Why should they by clerical dress be distinguished from others, except upon occasions when they are performing purely ministerial duties? Do judges wear their robes upon the street and in public places that they may say, "I am a judge?" In so doing they would make a laughingstock of themselves. Imagine a refined and cultured man in these days of buttons and badges wearing a badge with the inscription "I am a gentleman" upon it. It would at once stamp him as a snob. Culture and refinement do not need to be advertised. They manifest themselves in action. So should the Christianity of the Christian minister. If it does not so manifest itself, he may as well be a man of straw.

The tendency today is to lessen the manifestation of the real difference between Christians and others. In ordinary conversation can any one tell which is the Christian? In places of dubious amusement is the separation complete? It should be by the absence of all Christians. In business dealings can the Christian always be identified? Doubtful in the majority of cases. There are those who claim that they can tell a Christian by the glory shining from his face. What folly! The children of the world in appearance are not different from the children of God. Is there any difference in drawing the line in matrimony? Do believers only marry believers? Do they even think of this question when considering the subject? If so it is not proved by marriage itself. Many Christians marry unbelievers.

The line of separation and of difference should be more sharply drawn. There is no fellowship between righteousness and unrighteousness, between Christ and Belial, the temple of God (the Holy Spirit within our hearts) and idols. "Wherefore (let us) come out from among them and be separate," as the Lord Himself hath said.

BIBLE READINGS.
Ex. xx. 1-7, 8-11, 12; Prov. x. 1-7, 22, 23; Ps. i. Matt. v. 33-37; Rom. xii. 1, 2, 17-20; Eph. iv. 1-3; v. 1-9; Phil. ii. 1-8; Eph. iv. 20-32; I Pet. i. 15; Rev. ii. 10.

Loyalty Its Keynote.

The Christian Endeavor society stands for loyalty to the church and its services as no other organization in the church does. So strenuously does it believe in this that it has put this matter of church attendance into the heart of its pledge. It insists on the idea as one of its cardinal principles and issues booklets and articles on the subject and in every way strives to promote it.

But it cannot be expected that one organization of the church will do what the whole church is bound to do or that one organization will counteract all the other influences of the church and community that make against even churchgoing.

I have noticed that pastors who blame their young people for not going to church often say very little about the delinquencies of the older church members in this respect. Why do they not berate the older church members who do not go, or the members of the Sunday school who stay at home in the evening, or the members of the ladies' missionary society, or the Brotherhood?

But it will be said, "These organizations do not require their members to be faithful to the church services." Then to much the worse for them, for no organization has any right in a church that does not promote loyalty to the church and its services. In any event, the purpose and methods of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor in the future, as in the past, will always be to promote thoroughgoing loyalty to the church and all its services.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

For the Children

Some Famous Feline Navigators of the Air.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Many interesting stories have been told of the adventures of cats on land and sea, but none is more remarkable than that of the pussy which went to sea in Walter Wellman's big balloon. Above is a picture of this famous cat. She is held in the arms of Melvin Vaniman, engineer of the airship. Pussy was picked up in the streets of Atlantic City by Jack Irwin, the wireless operator of the airship, who thought she would be a fine mascot. While pussy was in the air she lost her appetite, but on the third day aloft she recovered. For safety she was placed in an air compartment of the lifeboat attached to the balloon, and there she was found when the boat was taken aboard the steamship Trent, which rescued Wellman and his men. Another pussy that made a notable flight was Patsy, the kitten that accompanied Molant on his trip in an aeroplane across the English channel from Paris to London.

The Game of Magic Ladder.
Standing in a ring, the children begin counting, as follows:

The leader says, "One I see," the next player says, "Two I see," and so on in turn till the number seven is reached. The seventh player, instead of pronouncing the magic number by saying, "Seven I see," says, "I go up one round," and starts to run round the circle on the outside. The next player continues, "Eight I see," the next, "Nine I see," and so on up to the next multiple of seven. The first runner tries to get around to his place before "fourteen" is reached. If not successful the runner is out of the counting part of the game and, though remaining in the circle, must turn and stand facing outside.

When "fourteen" is reached, this being twice seven, the player, instead of saying, "fourteen I see," says, "I go up two rounds," and starts to run around the circle before "twenty-one," the signal for "going up three rounds," is reached.

Each player, having a multiple of seven, speaks accordingly and runs once around the circle, but those who should be runners sometimes fail to quickly recognize the fact, in which case they must turn around and forfeit their count for the rest of the game. The game thus goes on till only one, the winner, is left facing in toward the center.

Relay Race.

The children stand in two or more lines at one end of the ground. The first of each line, carrying a flag or handkerchief, races to the opposite end of the ground, touches the fence with the flag and runs back, handing the flag to No. 2 and passing to the rear of the line. No. 2 starts immediately and upon returning hands the flag to No. 3. After all have run the line whose last man returns first wins the race. Those at the head of the line, whose turn it is to run next, must stand with the toe on the line, but not beyond it. They cannot advance to meet the returning racer. Each line should have a captain to see that the rules are observed, and an umpire should decide points that are questioned.

Conundrums.

Why is an orange like a church steeple? Because we have peels from both.

What kind of a cat lives in a library? A catalogue.

What sea would a seasick person like to be on? Adriatic (a dry article).

What grows the less dried the longer it works? An auto wheel.

When has wit a father? When a pun becomes apparent (a parent).

Why should an architect make a good actor? Because he is excellent at drawing houses.

The Oldest Colners Known.

Did you know colers were in use as early as 800 years B. C.? It is a fact that a pure silver coin bearing a perfect Aramean inscription of Panammu Bar Rubur, king of Schamol, who reigned at that time, was recently found by a German collector during his explorations in northern Syria. Up to this time the Lydians were regarded as the inventors of money, but this new find showed that the Arameans who lived two centuries before, were the oldest colners.

Verse 31—Is it, or not, usual for a company, or a cause, to be scattered when the leader is taken away? Give some examples.

Did the writer in Zec. xiii:7, from which Jesus quotes, have Jesus in mind at the time he wrote, and does Jesus mean to imply that he did? Give your reasons.

Why is not the flock to be blamed for scattering when the wolf is upon them, and the shepherd has been smitten?

Verses 32-35—Why would it have been better, or worse, for Peter, or the cause of God, if in view of subsequent events, he had not made this strong declaration of loyalty to Jesus?

Regardless of what the future may develop, ought we, in the present, with unshaken confidence, to make an eternal covenant of loyalty to God, with full expectation of keeping it? Give your reasons.

In the obtaining of technical, or intellectual knowledge, mistakes are absolutely unavoidable, why therefore does not the same rule obtain in acquiring moral courage, knowledge, or conduct?

Which man is more likely to be true to God, and why, one who is confident from his warm love to God that he will be faithful to him in the future, or the one who is timid and fearful that he will be unfaithful?

Verses 69-70—By what law, moral, spiritual, or psychological, did this truly earnest Peter deny the Christ that a few hours, at most, before he said he would die for?

Was Peter's denial moral cowardice, or policy, a suddenly formed plan of campaign to defeat the enemy?

If Peter's denial was not a real denial from his heart, what moral blame would you attach to it?

Verses 71—When a lie has been told whether "white," or "black," what are the chances that more lies will be necessary to back it up?

Describe the nature of each of Peter's three lies, and show how they illustrate that those who start at wrongdoing, invariably get "worse and worse."

When a man has to curse and swear to back up his statement, is it, or not, prima facie evidence that he is lying?

Verses 75—What is the value of warning, or good advice, when we know it will be disregarded?

What is the moral difference between the sin of Judas and that of Peter?

What evils, or good results, have followed from Peter's sin? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Is the world and the church, better or worse because of Peter's denying Jesus?

PERSONIFY CUPID IN FORM OF JUDGE

Chicago's Heart Sorrows Will Be Heard by Experts on the Subject.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—It has been created this new tribunal, where will be ironed out with legal process those differences that part sweethearts, disrupt families and leave children to poverty, delinquency or the lack of their parents' protection. Judges of the Municipal court met, voted in favor of the proposition and appointed Judge Charles N. Goodnow, Edwin Dicker and Joseph Z. Uhlir to draft rules under which the "breach" court will be operated.

Chance for Laura Jean Libbey.

But who will preside over this court? Chief Justice Olson, upon whom will devolve the assignment, declared himself puzzled. He promised to announce his selection when he found the "right man"—one who must know intuitively the difference between a heart throb and an acute attack of gastritis; who has Laura Jean Libbey's perspicacity in differentiating heart ailments; whom every tear will not melt, and who will not forget the faucet of justice while turning on his quality of mercy.

As every judge of the municipal bench is of the masculine variety, there was suggested the need of a feminine coadjutor, instinctively wise to the underlying reasoning of those members of her own sex who might be brought to the bar of justice, either as complainant or victim. If there is another Laura Jean Libbey in this world of ours, she may present her claims to Judge Olson. If not, perhaps that expert on heart throbs will be asked into consultation.

"New York city has such a court, so why not Chicago?"

That was the question that decided the conferees in favor of the idea.
